Horribles and Terribles Baste the Spheroid in Lively Fashion, but Official Score is Not Ready For Announcement

Councilman Houghton as a mining maiden of uncertain years, Al Levy as a ballet dancer with a consuming desire to show off the fine points of his rather insecure and risque costume while the ladies held their breath, were just a few of the good things that rewarded those who hied to Chutes park yesterday afternoon.

The long delayed Flood benefit baseball game was finally a reality and while there will probably be some small minded cynics who will express a surmounting doubt of there being a baseball game at all, it is here set down for posterity that all such rumors are the fruit of horrid calumny. There was a baseball game. Said game was replete with home runs and three baggers and double plays were really so common that the official scorer—if there was one—worked over union hours spiking them down.

The two crews of ball basters were dubbed the "Terribles" and the "Horribles," and when Chief Hammel and Sheriff White agree that the Terribles were not the Horribles and that the Horribles were not entitled to the diamond honors of the Horribles, everything will be adjusted nicely and the score made known to awaiting world.

Jim Jeffries captained the Terrible squad, and Eddie Hanlon, the laddie who recently caused acute distress to Young Corbett, directed the strategy of the Horrible contingent of ball basters. Sheriff White umpired balls and strikes and Chief Hammel told how it happened on the bases. (It was a horrible and terrible game to witness).

Following the exhibition game, Tommy Jacobs and Kid Lamer, local amateur scrappers, engaged in a four round argument with the mitts, and Eddie Danaher took on George Blake for a three round scrap.

Eddie Hanlon mixed it four rounds with Frank McConnell, and then came the event of the day.

James J. Jeffries, ex-champ of the heavyweight division, was billed to go three rounds with his brother, Jack, and he "went" as billed.

The two engaged in three spirited rounds, with Jeff showing remarkable quickness for a big man, and his relative likewise showing an unbrotherly desire to get a telling rap.

Just $1782.20 was taken in at the box office yesterday, an amount which more than met the hopes and expectations of the promoters of the benefit game. The bleachers and grandstand were filled to their utmost capacity, which combined with the ideal weather, made the benefit show a success in every way.

EXPERT SWIMMERS TO CONTEST AT PORTLAND FAIR

By Associated Press. PORTLAND, July 16.—Some of the best swimmers in the United States, most of them entering under the colors of California clubs, will compete in the Lewis and Clark swimming and diving contests, which are to be held during the present week.

Scott Leary and F. Galley, two well-known swimmers who took part in the contests at St. Louis last year, are entered by the Olympic club of San Francisco.

In the diving championship the contest will be restricted to a plunge for distance. In this event the contestants are John W. Blaze of Los Angeles and Sidney Cavill of the Olympic club.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT OPENS AT PORTLAND TODAY

By Associated Press. PORTLAND, July 16.—Prominent tennis players from all parts of the northwest will contest in the Lewis and Clark tennis championship which begins tomorrow. Besides the Portland players entered there will be representatives from Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., and from Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma, Wash.

RECHSTEINER'S INJURIES BELIEVED TO BE FATAL

WAS TREATED BY CHIROPRACTIC DOCTOR

Paralytic Is Now at County Hospital Where, After an Examination into His Condition, Physicians Say His Recovery is Impossible

Jacob Rechsteiner, the paralytic who was sent to the county hospital several days ago by a local chiropractic doctor, will die according to the statement made by his attending physician yesterday afternoon.

It is alleged by Rechsteiner that his paralysis was caused by the treatment received at the hands of the chiropractic doctor, and his condition became so serious that the local medical societies took up his case last week and ordered the doctor to see that his patient, whom he sent to the county hospital, received proper medical treatment from an established and recognized practitioner or criminal proceedings would be begun against him.

Physicians Indignant

Several members of the Los Angeles medical board have called at the county hospital to examine into the condition of Rechsteiner and all express their indignation at the treatment to which the sick man has been subjected. He has been examined by a number of prominent local physicians and each says that he has no possible change of recovery, but will not say that his illness has been caused directly by the blow which Rechsteiner alleges was dealt him by the chiropractic doctor.

Rechsteiner was partially paralyzed in a fall several months ago and at that time was attended by Police Surgeon Quint. After several weeks' treatment he had sufficiently recovered to be able to go about his business with only a slight reminder of his injury.

Not being satisfied with his condition at that time he says he went to a chiropractic doctor, who told him that he would guarantee him a complete cure. After taking several treatments from this doctor he was told that a vertebrae was out of place. To remedy this he says the doctor strung him up in a harness and dealt him a severe blow on the back, which resulted in immediate paralysis.

After being paralyzed by this blow he says the doctor came to see him twice and then advised him to go to the county hospital, where he has since been under the care of the county physicians.

TROUT OF WIDE FAME YIELDS TO THE HOOK

Special to The Herald. ALTOONA, Pa., July 16.—Samuel H. Hare, a lawyer of this city, has bagged the biggest brook trout ever taken from the waters of this section. At Royer, Blair county, after a desperate struggle lasting an hour, he succeeded in landing, with the assistance of a companion, a fish measuring twenty-four inches and weighing five pounds. Wonderful stories of the prowess of this fish have been told for several years. It has been hooked often, but invariably has snapped the line and disappeared.

It was known among fishermen by the name of "Jumbo," and "Jumbo" was accused of decimating the waters of smaller inhabitants. Several times application was made to the fish commissioner to take it illegally but he refused consent.

ANGELS CAPTURE DOUBLE HEADER

TOZER AND BAUM PITCH WINNING BALL

OAKLANDS SHUT OUT IN FIRST

Iberg Touched for Nine Hits While Baum Holds Van's Men Safely. Cravath Fined for Disputing Decision

Special to The Herald. SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Double headers seem to be the real medicine for the Los Angeles ball team as the Angels celebrated their departure from San Francisco today by taking their fifth consecutive double victory. There was nothing much to the morning game beyond the fact that the Oaks could not find Baum and were shut out, while Iberg was hit for nine safe ones, netting three runs.

The afternoon game was an up hill affair for the Angels and was not won until Oscar Graham started in a balloon ascension in the ninth and Kruger cinched things by letting Bernard's drive get away, three southrons coming over the pan. Brashear was handed a bouquet on his first trip to the plate and responded by flying out to Van Halten but did better later, getting two singles and a double, driving in three of the seven runs.

Cravath was called out for cutting first and talked back to Perrine who plastered him with a $5 fine. The Oak-the score in the eighth on Flood's hit and Graham's balk and Brashear's hit. The game was clinched in the ninth on Spies' double, Tozer's free pass, Bernard's long drive past Kruger, Bernard coming in on Flood's out to deep center. The score:

SEALS TAKE BOTH FROM SIWASHES

Win Morning Contest in Twelfth Inning—Whalen Pitches no Hit Game

By Associated Press. SEATTLE, July 16.—San Francisco took both games today. The first contest was a pitchers' battle between Henley and Fitzpatrick and went for twelve innings, when a pass to Waldron, a sacrifice by Wheeler, an infield out and a poor throw by Hall gave the visitors the winning run. The second game, which only ran seven innings, was won in the first, errors by the locals giving San Francisco two runs. Whalen shut out the locals without either run or hit. Hall also pitched good ball. Scores:

BOBBY KEEFE WINS ANOTHER FOR TIGERS

Portland Artists Unable to Connect with Slants Effectively

By Associated Press. PORTLAND, July 16.—Portland was unable to connect with Keefe's delivery except at rare intervals in the game today with Tacoma. French pitched a good game but the locals suffered the handicap of three men laid up for repairs. Attendance 5000. Score:

"DOLLY" GRAY OUTPITCHED BY STATE LEAGUE TWIRLER

By Associated Press. STOCKTON, July 16.—In a pitchers' battle between Ferguson and "Dolly" Gray today the former had the better of the argument, not allowing Fresno a single hit. Gray pitched good ball in all but the fifth inning, when three hits, coupled with errors, netted four runs for the home team. Score:

Table with columns: Team, Score. Fresno 0, Stockton 5.

NEBRASKA FARMER TALKS THE SITUATION AND DECIDES ON NO. 27

Special to The Herald. OMAHA, Neb., July 16.—Orrin Scott, a farmer living near Sioux City, inserted in an Omaha paper a few days ago an advertisement for a wife, and requested those who might respond to the advertisement to meet him at the Murray, one of the fashionable hotels of the city.

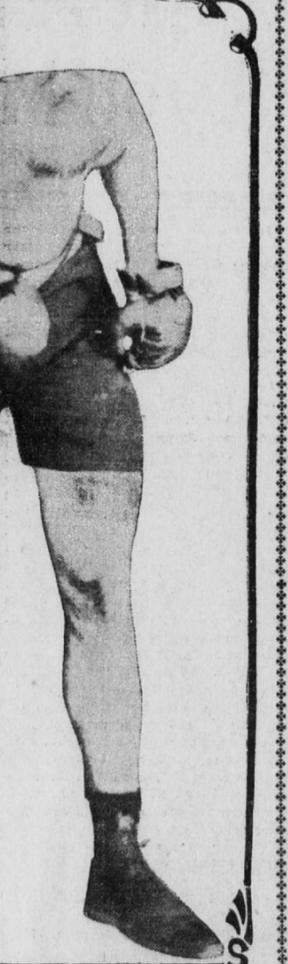

For several days women have been calling by the dozen at the hotel. Mr. Scott met all in the hotel parlors and discussed frankly with them the question of their eligibility.

There were among them young women, and middle-aged women and old women; women of all sorts and conditions. Finally, Mr. Scott decided to marry the twenty-seventh caller, a young woman, Miss Annie Oleson, who is very pretty, and they took a train to Sioux City, where they were married.

Mr. Scott is a middle-aged man, and is well-to-do. He is a widower, and has grown-up children.

What's the Use? Tom—May I sit beside you? Peggy—You'll crush my sleeve. Tom—Indeed, I won't. Peggy—What's the use, then? Princeton Tiger.

Why He Was Angry Customer—What made the old guy so sore? Boy—He's nutty, I guess. He wanted two dog biscuits, and I only asked him if he'd take 'em here or have them wrapped up.—Cornell Widow.

landers opened the scoring in the first, Van Halten getting a walk and coming around on Franck's hit and a sacrifice. Two arrived in the second on Byrnes' double and Graham's single and Van Halten's drive. Van came in on a walk, a hit and a sacrifice in the fifth, which ended things for the Com-muters. The Angels got one in the second on Ross' drive and Cravath's double. Two more in the sixth on two bases on balls and Brashear's double and finally tied

DESpondent MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

SHOOTS HIMSELF THROUGH THE HEAD

CAUSED BY FAMILY TROUBLES

Charles Huntington of St. Louis Falls to Effect Reconciliation With His Wife and Ends His Existence

Despondent because of his failure to effect a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had been separated for two years, Charles Huntington committed suicide at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in a room at the Ogarta rooming house, 625 1/2 South Spring street, shooting himself through the temple.

Huntington and several friends spent the evening and a part of the night in the room, which is said to be occupied by a woman known as Nora Leslie. Ragtime music, furnished by a negro orchestra, and refreshments bought by Huntington were features of the evening's entertainment and no one in the party had the slightest intimation of Huntington's intentions until a second before he fired the fatal shot in their presence, as they were departing for their homes.

J. W. Judd of 1164 East Twenty-third street, proprietor of the Ascot saloon, was one of the witnesses of the deed. Among the others in the party were J. R. Meldrum, bartender at the Lankershim, Mrs. Seeley, Nora Leslie and a man named Richman, a bartender at the Ascot saloon. According to the story told by one of the party Judd placed his revolver in one of the bureau drawers early in the evening and when they arose to go asked Meldrum to open the drawer and give him his revolver. Meldrum did as he was bid, but as he passed the revolver to Judd, Huntington took it and, standing before the mirror, said: "Here goes," and pulled the trigger. The bullet passed through his head and lodged in the wall beyond.

Several weeks ago Huntington came to Los Angeles from St. Louis to effect a reconciliation with his wife, who is living at the present time with her father, a Mr. Muslemann, at Long Beach. After he had been in the city a few days he became acquainted with William Appel at the Lankershim, where he was staying at the time, and a few days later created a sensation in police circles by swearing out a warrant for Appel, charging him with holding him up and stealing a diamond worth $200. Appel disappeared and did not show up again until yesterday morning when he, in company with his brother, Attorney H. H. Appel, visited the rooming house where Huntington had killed himself.

Soon after the hold-up affair Huntington moved to the rooming house. To Mrs. O. M. Griffith, the landlady, and Nora Leslie, he told his troubles. He said that he was going to see his wife, but he returned despondent and said that he had seen her and talked to her and her parent, but could not persuade her to return to him.

It was in one of his despondent fits that followed the first visit to his wife's parent's home in Long Beach that he told Mrs. Griffith that he was going to kill himself. He said that his wife had left him in St. Louis two years ago and that he had used every means to regain her affection and since she refused to return to him he wanted to die. Several times afterward Huntington met his wife but in the meantime he met Nora Leslie and it is said by one of the roomers at the house that Huntington gave her his wife's address and asked her to tell his wife of his death.
