

WILHELMINA AND HUSBAND QUARREL

MORE TROUBLE REPORTED IN ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

REASON IS KEPT SECRET

First Dissension Between the Queen and Her Consort, Who is a German Officer, Occurred Within Year of Wedding

Special Cable to The Herald. THE HAGUE, July 22.—Reports are rife to the effect that Queen Wilhelmina has had another quarrel with her husband, who was a German army officer. After the first quarrel, which took place within a year of her wedding, interested persons made special efforts to effect peace in the royal household. The cause of the new report of trouble is not revealed.

M. LEON ACHARD HAD PASSION FOR NOTES

Pocketbook Tells Many Tales, Especially How Stage Shoes Pinched

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—M. Leon Achard, for a long time famous as a tenor in "La Dame Blanche," and for ten years engaged at the Opera Comique, has just died, aged seventy-four. He was a son of the celebrated comedian of the Palais Royale and the Gymnase. During his ten years' career he had met success in "Haydee," "Fra Diavolo," "La Part du Diable," "Zampa," "Fre aux Cleres" and other operas. He went to Italy after the war and later returned to the Paris opera, where he sang in "Les Huguenots," "L'Africaine" and "La Favorita."

Achard had a passion for making notes. He kept a pocket notebook, in which he daily recorded his impressions and incidents connected with his professional life. For instance, on one of the pages he wrote: "Audience kindly disposed. Encore first act. My shoes too tight."

FRANCE'S EXPENSE FOR ENTERTAINMENT HEAVY

Parliament Asked to Provide $125,000 to Pay for Reception to Alfonso

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—This bill for international civilities, past and to come, has just been presented to the French parliament.

"Reception to the shah of Persia and prince of Bulgaria, $8000. "Reception to the American and English naval officers (Paul Jones), $30,000. "Journey of the president of the republic to Spain, $80,000. "Reception to the king of Spain, $125,000. "Mission to Berlin for the marriage of the crown prince, $8000. "Mission to Fez, $26,000. "Congress and conference at Berns, $6000."

This is exclusive of the expenditure of the municipality of Paris, which in many instances equals that of the central government.

DOCTOR DIES FROM BLOOD POISONING

Well Known Greek Physician in Paris, Dr. Clado, Pricked His Finger at Operation

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—Dr. Clado, a Greek physician, long resident in Paris, and a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, is dead as a victim of duty. He returned late at night from Chantilly about ten days ago, where he had accompanied the crown prince of Greece on an automobile trip and went to a hospital and performed an operation on a poor workman because he conscientiously refused to postpone the operation till the next day.

During the operation he slightly pricked his finger. Blood poisoning developed a few days ago and in spite of the best medical attention the case proved fatal.

HOLDS ANTI-CANCER SERUM INADEQUATE

Surgical Committee, After Investigation of Six Months, Sees No Benefit From Doyen Remedy

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—The committee appointed six months ago to investigate the effects of Dr. Doyen's anti-cancer serum has just made its report to the French Surgical society. The report concludes as follows: "Nothing in what your committee has examined justifies the statement that the treatment invented by Dr. Doyen may bring about any amelioration in the condition of patients suffering from cancer."

Patients were treated by Dr. Doyen under the committee's supervision and in no case was the least improvement observed.

CARLSBAD ENJOYS A SUMMER BOOM

MANY NEW BUILDINGS ARE PLANNED

NUMEROUS VISITORS ARRIVING

Superb Structures to Replace the Old. Fashioned Edifices of the Resort Where Americans Gather

Special Cable to The Herald. CARLSBAD, July 22.—The season is progressing with giant strides toward its zenith and crowds of people are arriving who add to the international character of the picture presented by the streets of Carlsbad.

Next year Carlsbad will from an architectural point of view undergo a great improvement. It is intended to pull down all the small houses from the Markbrunnen to the Muhlbrunnen on the left side and to prolong the colonnade from the one spring to the other. It is further proposed to connect this colonnade with the Sprudel by an arcade. The scheme is certainly a magnificent one.

In addition a splendid bathing house will be constructed in the Franz Josef park, which will diminish the crowd in the Kaiserbad. In the latter bath the subscription tickets are sold weeks in advance and it requires an extraordinary amount of diplomacy to secure a ticket.

For some days past magnificent summer weather has prevailed and visitors take most of their meals in the open air. There is quite a colony of handsome American women here, who chiefly take breakfast in Hotel Savoy.

In the last day or two there have been noticed there Mr. and Mrs. Bache, the latter wearing a white muslin blouse, linen skirt and a pink hat, while Mrs. Livingston (whose graceful manners and handsome face have a strong likeness to Signora Duse) looked perfectly lovely in a white lace blouse, a light blue linen skirt and a pale blue sailor hat, trimmed with mauve ribbon and pink roses. She always wears lovely pearls. Mrs. Robinson was in white.

Mrs. Griffon the other night wore a remarkably pretty white lace dress, with silver bretelles. This is, by the way, one of the newest things. Bretelles are very much worn with linen dresses. They are mostly made out of the same material as the dress.

POLICE SET TRAPS FOR AUTOS ON HIGHWAYS

Many Captures Made on Splendid Main Road to Fontainebleau for Speed Excess

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—Police traps for automobilists are now in operation on Sundays in various parts of France.

At Villeneuve and St. George's, near Paris, the speed limit has been fixed at twelve kilometers (seven and one-half miles) an hour, but speed not exceeding twenty is tolerated. Beyond this limit automobilists are held up much in the same manner as at St. Germain last year. As Villeneuve lies on the splendid main road to Fontainebleau police captures are many.

A trap also exists on the road from Milan to Como, and drivers are treated in a very high handed fashion by the local authorities.

MAJESTIES AT SUTHERLAND BALL

KING PLAYS BRIDGE WITH THE DUCHESS OF ROXBURGH

MANY GORGEOUS DRESSES

Mrs. Vanderbilt and Her Daughter Gladys Are Among the Guests. Fashionable Women Present

Special Cable to The Herald. LONDON, July 22.—The Duchess of Sutherland's ball at Stafford house was quite the event of the week. The king and queen were present and all the fashionable women there wore their most splendid dresses and most gorgeous jewels. The men present did not all know that their majesties were going to attend, so only a few appeared in knee breeches. The king played bridge most of the evening with the duchess of Roxburgh.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was one of the guests. She was accompanied by her daughter, Gladys. Mrs. Vanderbilt wore her magnificent black pearls, which were much admired.

The duchess of Marlborough looked very handsome in blue satin, with huge diamonds in her coronet and all her pearls.

Mrs. Benjamin Guinness also wore magnificent jewels.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Automobiling. Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter, by the way, have been automobiling a great deal about London in a twenty-eight horse power Panhard, which Mrs. Vanderbilt recently purchased in Paris. They were among the guests the other day at a big luncheon at the ambassador's at Dorchester house.

Some other guests of Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid were Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Lady Algegon Gordon-Lennox. Mrs. Vanderbilt sailed Wednesday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Colonel Oliver Payne has arrived at Claridge's from his yacht, the Aphrodite, in which he crossed over from America. The vessel came up the Thames to London. Colonel Payne was met at Claridge's by his nephews and nieces, Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. Almeric Paget, who have since left for Paris.

Mrs. R. H. Townsend and Miss Matilde Townsend of Washington have arrived at the Carlton from America. Miss Townsend, who has been ill, is much improved.

Mrs. William Post has returned to Claridge's from Dieppe, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Van Alen.

Mrs. Foxhall Keene, accompanied by her niece, Miss Lowther, arrived at Claridge's the other day from Paris. Miss Lowther is sailing on the Baltic. Anthony J. Drexler has left for Carlsbad.

Lord and Lady Cheylesmore gave a large dinner recently to meet Prince and Princess Christian and their daughter, Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. Among the guests were Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Ronalds.

After the dinner there was a most interesting performance by Mme. Jeanne Grasler and Miss Parkine Young, the American prima donna of Covent Garden, who delighted the audience.

Mrs. Arthur Paget has so far improved that she is visited by all her friends morning and afternoon.

The king paid her a visit the other day, I hear. Her drawing room is full of flowers that have been sent by her many friends.

Mrs. Paget intends stopping on in Belgrave square until the middle of end of next month.

Forty "Personally Conducted" Visitors From the Middle West—Many Parties Headed for Aix-les-Bains

Special Cable to The Herald. LONDON, July 22.—While London seemed full of Americans last week, it was not to be compared to its condition this week.

So far as transatlantic visitors were concerned the Strand looked like a cross between Fulton street, Brooklyn and the main street of Keokuk, Iowa. Piccadilly might have been a section of Broadway at Christmas time and Bond street took on an air that made it resemble West Twenty-third street or the west side of Broadway at Herald square.

The tops of the omnibuses have been filled with Americans and they have monopolized the National gallery, the Royal academy and almost every sight in London that is worth seeing.

Red Baedekers have been more in evidence than the afternoon newspaper, and in consequence the crowds on the sidewalks seem to be moving along at a considerably faster gait than is their wont.

Among the invaders have been a host of forty "personally conducted" women much advertised by one of the papers here as "American beauties," though some of the party with modesty or candor denied the impeachment. They have all been stopping at one of the big hotels and are said to hail from the middle west of America.

Aix-les-Bains a Mecca. Automobiles continue to come and go.

Many of those who are not sailing seem to be heading in the direction of Aix-les-Bains, in spite of a protest of "Pro Bono Publico" that the visits of automobilists are the undoing of that place.

The larger proportion of regular travelers are making for Carlsbad.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Grant and family of New York have left on a Panhard automobile for Trouville and Dieppe. They will later go to Paris, where Mr. Grant will take delivery of his new forty-horse power Mercedes, and then travel in it to Aix.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chisholm have left in a forty-horse power automobile for Trouville and Dieppe. They will later go to Paris and thence to Carlsbad.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Redmond of New York, who went to Kiel on Mr. Redmond's yacht, the Ailsa, returned from an automobile trip in Germany and France and sailed on the Baltic.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Elliott, Miss Grace Moore and J. W. Baird of Philadelphia have returned to Carlton from an automobile trip to the north of England.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Grant of New York has arrived at the Carlton from the country by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Jordan and family and E. N. Hamlin of Boston have returned to the Carlton after an automobile trip in Gloucestershire.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Farnham of New York have left for an automobile tour through England.

Mrs. N. E. Nearing, Miss Richie, Miss N. Reynolds and Miss R. Ketchum have left in an automobile for Scotland.

Mrs. Norman L. Munro and Henry Munro of New York have left for Paris in a Leon-Bolle automobile.

Baltic Passengers. Mrs. George Von L. Meyer, wife of the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, sailed on the Baltic with her son and daughter.

Other passengers were: Arthur Kemp and the Misses Kemp, Mrs. Herman C. Schwab, Mrs. J. R. Bostwick, Miss Zogbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgough Whitehouse, J. Townsend, Mrs. Mower, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craven, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hathaway, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Blaise.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Butler and family of New York left for Malmo, where they intend to remain until the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Duval and Clive Duval of New York have left for Paris on their way to Switzerland.

Some departures for Paris are: Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Luce, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Amory G. Hodges of New York; R. Sturges, Stephen Clark, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Loney, Samuel Cupples, Mrs. W. H. Scudder, W. A. Nash, A. Kipkman, Mrs. Livingston Sampson and Mrs. H. M. Francis of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ker Osborne of New York have left for a tour of England.

HERPICIDE'S MISSION. It Takes Away the Dread of Birth. Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable signs of age—thin hair and grayness—approaching. But science has discovered that those conditions are no longer "unmistakable" evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even very young people may suffer hair loss, while those fortunate enough to escape the ravages of the scalp germ, retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings by using the genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. LORD BROOKE IS AFTER HEIRESS

HEIR TO WARWICK EARLDOM NEEDS THE MONEY

HE IS A DESIRABLE MATCH

Young Man of Good Repute, He is Not a Mere Idler and is Far Above the Average Fortune Hunter

Special Cable to The Herald. LONDON, July 22.—Young Lord Brooke, heir to the earldom of Warwick and the fine old castle and its 10,000 odd acres, is hard up. The interest in that statement for American readers lies in the fact that the prospective peer's impeccability spells opportunity for the American heiress.

Lord Brooke has been trying to raise money in the city and his experience there has convinced him that unless he weds a rich girl the financial outlook for him is a dismal one.

An American girl with a few millions at her disposal might do a great deal worse than marry the Warwick heir. In fact, most of the American heiresses who in recent years have married titles have done a great deal worse—at least, as regards the sample of husband that went along with the hereditary dignities.

Lord Brooke has good looks, lots of brains, and an abundance of pluck and energy. He will never be content to play the role of a mere titled idler. He went out to the front during the South African war and remained until the fighting was over. Something over a year ago he joined Kuropatkin's army in Manchuria as war correspondent and did excellent service there. When he returned a little while ago he was summoned to Buckingham palace to tell the king all about it.

Inherits His Mother's Ability. The earl of Warwick counts only as Lady Warwick's husband, and it is from his mother that Lord Brooke inherits the qualities which may some day confer distinction on the title that is coming to him. Lady Warwick's beauty alone would have made her famous, but it constitutes the least part of her claim to distinction. She has been a poor jaw guardian and mayors of Warwick; she has run a millinery shop in Bond street, founded a home for crippled children, started an agricultural college for women, written the life of Joseph Arch, and has now turned Socialist.

She has never tried to make money for herself out of her enterprises. Her funds are nearly all philanthropic and have cost her much money. There are half a dozen good reasons why an American heiress would be regarded as a wholesome addition to the family. Lady Warwick, from all accounts, would make an admirable mother-in-law.

Lady Bateman's Servant Troubles. Lady Bateman, formerly the rich New York widow Mrs. Knapp, has had a hard time of it since she started to housekeeping over here, in trying to solve the servant problem to her satisfaction, but at last has got things running fairly smoothly. When she took the house she now occupies in Bruton street, Mayfair, she expressed a wish to the outgoing tenant that the servants should be retained for her use. But soon after her ladyship moved in she discovered that the English servants did not come up to her exacting American requirements, and in twenty-four hours she had cleared them all out. The discharged servants laughed at the predicament in which they thought they had left their mistress.

But Lady Bateman is a woman of resource. She looked up the house and went to Claridge's hotel. She then communicated with a fashionable registry office for servants, stipulating that none but American or French applicants for a situation should be sent to her. By 6 o'clock that evening the house in Bruton street was equipped with the most desirable household staff. Some were French and some American, but it turned out there was no entente cordiale between them. There soon arose a rebellion in the kitchen and her ladyship to show her impartiality bounced the lot the next afternoon. She then sent over to New York for a complete staff of servants.

American to Entertain King Edward. Lady Naylor-Leyland, the fair American chateleine of Hyde Park house, has done little entertaining this season, but some time this month she will give a royal dinner party—one of the small ones in which the king delights, where the guests do not exceed twenty and are selected by himself. The gold plate at Hyde Park house is famous and when displayed amid a lavish profusion of orchids, which are Lady Naylor-Leyland's favorite flowers for table decorations, the effect is dazzling.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Loney, erstwhile of New York, have not been favorably impressed by the diversions and excitements of the London season. Although they had rented a fine London residence for three months they have cleared out, forfeited a portion of the rent paid and returned to their quiet retreat at Willoughby hall, near Rugby, taking with them all the servants, motor cars and horses.

Pink Shirt Fad Started by King. His majesty the king, whose sartorial wit still reminds us of the days when monarchs could make sumptuary laws, has set a new fashion which has added a desirable touch of color to the rather drab and somber life of London town.

Special Cable to The Herald. LONDON, July 22.—For the first time since the creation of the Paris university a Japanese has successfully passed the examination there for the degree of doctor of letters. He is H. Nagaoka, an attache of the Japanese legation here, and already holds the degree of LL.D. from the University of Kioto.

At Ascot he wore a pink shirt, with buttonhole flower to match, and now pink shirts have become the rage, and haberdashers are calling down blessings on his head. The exquisites, who pride themselves on yielding complete and prompt obedience to fashion founded on such light authority, insist likewise on wearing a flower that matches the shirt.

JAPANESE OBTAINS A PARIS DEGREE

Nagaoka, Attache at the Legation, Made a Doctor of Letters for Brilliant Thesis

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—For the first time since the creation of the Paris university a Japanese has successfully passed the examination there for the degree of doctor of letters. He is H. Nagaoka, an attache of the Japanese legation here, and already holds the degree of LL.D. from the University of Kioto.

Nagaoka presented a brilliant thesis on the relations between Europe and Japan in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and was awarded honorable mention.

LONDON HEAT BAD AS TROPICS

AFRICAN TRAVELER SAYS IT IS AWFUL

HUMID NEW YORK OUTDONE

Americans Who Have Escaped Hot Wave in Manhattan Find They Have Not Improved Their Position

Special Cable to The Herald. LONDON, July 22.—For once in a while New Yorkers ever here at the present time cannot find any consolation in escaping the great heat which is now, according to cables received here, being experienced on your side, for London is as bad, if not worse. The reason here is that the heat is much more moist, and, therefore, more oppressive. It has been a blazing, or rather a stewing, week, spreading lethargy and depression among all classes.

The street vendors whose usual stock in trade is boot laces or rubber bands for umbrellas are driving a great trade in Japanese paper fans.

Fruit has gone up in price, so great is the demand for it, and, to add to the trouble, in many restaurants the ice has given out quite early in the evening.

Cases of heat stroke have been numerous, policemen being among the sufferers.

Strangely enough, they have not yet been served out with white sun helmets for the present summer.

As showing how unusual this heat has been for London, a traveler over many continents, giving his impressions yesterday, said: "I have traveled in the north, south, east and west in Central Africa and have experienced the extremes of African heat with all its attendant unpleasantness, but never have I been so affected by tropical heat as I have been by the heat in London this week."

"It has sapped my energy, mental and physical, and made me feel that it is impossible to live here. The heat produces on me effects which I dare say it does on a thousand others. My eyes are weary, the backs of my legs ache, and there is an unpleasant heaviness through my head which does not quite reach the point of headache."

"This is the worst heat I have ever experienced. I much prefer the tropics."

This is what Americans also feel. They would much rather experience the worst heat of New York than this most, energy sapping heat from which we are suffering here just now.

PARISIANS "SOAK" JEWELRY

Many Who Visit Resorts in Summer Pawn Jewelry and Plate

Special Cable to The Herald. PARIS, July 22.—The authorities report that the exodus of Parisians to the mountain and seaside resorts has been marked this year by a greater number of pledges than ever. It has become quite the recognized thing before leaving Paris for those who do not care to pay for a strong box at the bank to deposit their jewelry, plate and other valuables. As pawn-broking establishments are a government department they are perfectly safe. The difficulty in the past has been that the loans demanded by these people were small, and consequently the interest charged was small. In order to cope with this an order now has been given that the minimum loan shall be one-third of the value of the article, but notwithstanding this the number of pledges is continually increasing.

DRINKS WITH STRANGER. ANGELINO AWAKES AT SEA

Is Shanghaied and Robbed and Jumps Overboard at Night, Escaping to Shore

Ten days ago Victor A. Brown of 1110 El Molino street left for San Pedro with $100 in his pockets. He met two seafaring men and a drinker followed. When Brown awoke he was aboard a rickety craft and all of his money was gone. For eight days Brown worked like a galley slave and then the Golden Gate loomed in view. Taking advantage of darkness Brown jumped overboard, swam to shore and wrote home for money.
