

WINS MAD RACE FOR WOMAN'S LIFE UNDER SHERIFF REACHES TRAIN IN TIME D. P. TERRY'S TRIP DELAYED

Wife of Prisoner Accused of Defrauding an Arkansas Bank Could Not Survive Shock of Husband's Departure

With his horse lashed to a gallop as he drove through the crowded section of the downtown district, Under Sheriff Yonkin yesterday made a dash to the Arcade depot on a peculiar errand of mercy. It was just eight minutes before train time when a writ of habeas corpus was sworn out by Dr. Dinsmore in Judge Smith's department of the superior court for the detention of D. P. Terry, accused of being a bank defaulter, who was in the custody of Sheriff Williams of Howard county, Ark., waiting at the Arcade depot for the east-bound train to pull out.

The habeas corpus was issued in the name of humanity, and while Judge Smith read it court officers were hurrying to the sheriff's office for help. "As I understand it," said Judge Smith, "the wife of this man Terry is at death's door and will probably die if the man is not detained here."

"Exactly," answered Dr. Dinsmore, and as the judge nodded his approval the papers were tossed to the bailiff, who hastened toward the county jail.

Record Drive to Depot

As the bailiff dashed into the sheriff's office Under Sheriff Yonkin met him. The explanation required but a moment and hardly had the deputy finished before Deputy Sheriff H. M. Wilson appeared, driving Yonkin's fine black horse hitched to a light runabout. Without even waiting to put on his coat Yonkin made a run for the vehicle and Wilson started the horse on a run. Down Temple to Main street went the flying horse, with Wilson leaning over the dashboard, urging the racer to greater speed. On to Fifth street and into the level stretch to the station went the sheriff's horse. Right and left, pedestrians scattered as the vehicle whirled to the platform before the depot and eastern tourists were treated to a spectacle of Southern California agility as Yonkin tumbled out of the runabout and pushed himself inside the train yard gates just as the conductor was closing them.

The next moment the eastern sheriff, his deputy and Terry, with the handcuffs still attached to his wrists, appeared on the platform of the train and the party returned to the county jail, where Terry was sent back to his cell.

Terry Wanted in Arkansas

According to the allegations from Nashville, Ark., Terry was president of the Howard County bank two years ago and was charged with having taken deposits when he knew the bank was insolvent and of having finally decamped with $18,000 of the depositors' money. Sheriff White arrested the man thirty minutes after having received information about him last Thursday and the officers from the east made immediate arrangements for the return trip.

Mrs. Terry was operated upon two days before her husband's arrest and when the arrest was made she was not expected to live. Up to train time all pleas for delay in the trip were refused, and the return was about to be made when Dr. Dinsmore, knowing the woman would not live if her husband left for the east, swore out the writ of habeas corpus as a last resort.

Terry will not be sent back for several weeks, or until his wife is able to accompany him to his trial.

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED FOR USING BAD LANGUAGE

Patrick Morris Relieved of His Star and Uniform Pending Inquiry

Patrolman Patrick Morris was suspended from the police force at 12:30 o'clock this morning by Sergt. Dixon for using abusive language to a superior officer and entering the police station in an intoxicated condition. Complaint was made early in the evening by Dr. Davis, one of the "Quaker doctors" at Sixth street and Ceres avenue, that the patrolman on that beat was intoxicated.

When the watch reported off duty at midnight Morris was detained for a few moments by Patrol Sergt. Harris, who spoke to the patrolman in reference to the complaint made earlier in the evening. Morris did not appear to be under the influence of liquor and was ordered to report to the captain of police this morning at 9 o'clock.

After leaving the police station he returned and attacked Sergt. Harris in vehement terms. Harris made no reply to the patrolman's attack but the language used by Morris became so abusive that Desk Sergt. Dixon, commanding officer of the station at that time, took the matter in hand and ordered that the patrolman deliver his star at the window at once.

Morris hesitated for a moment and the desk sergeant repeated his demand as he stepped toward him. The star was delivered without further trouble and Morris was ordered to take off his uniform and leave the station house.

Morris has been on the police force about five years.

GAME WARDEN HAS TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE

LOSES HORSE IN QUICKSAND

W. D. Dewey, Searching for Sheep Hunters, Stumbles on Rich Ledge, and Is Picked Up Delirious With Thirst

Special to The Herald.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 24.—W. D. Dewey, deputy state fish and game warden, arrived here this afternoon from the desert, where he was sent by the state commission to arrest persons accused of shooting wild sheep in the northeastern section of the county. He had a narrow escape in the quicksands of the Colorado river, in which he lost his horse and provisions, but saved several ounces of gold which he had picked from a ledge on which he stumbled while in pursuit of illegal sheep hunters.

There is no open season for sheep, which are thriving in the little frequented regions northeast of the San Bernardino range, and Dewey was not long in getting on the track of the two men who had left evidences in their abandoned camps that they were slaughtering the protected animals. Next morning he discovered that a large slab of rock which they had used for a seat was literally alive with chunks of gold.

He was not long in locating the ledge, which he declares will run into phenomenally high values. Contenting himself with picking out several ounces of gold which studded the ledge, he renewed his pursuit of the alleged hunters, and reaching the Colorado attempted to ford the stream. His horse stepped into a quicksand, and despite Dewey's efforts was soon out of sight, together with all his provisions and water canteen. He himself reached shore in an exhausted condition.

Dewey was found by Indians two days later, blistered by the scorching sun and delirious from hunger and thirst. They guided him to Needles, where he was treated until yesterday, when he started for this city.

The location of the rich ledge he will not divulge for fear excited prospectors should flock to the region and perish. He will return to the desert soon to thoroughly investigate his rich discovery.

Dewey was surprised at the large number of sheep which he could see through his field glass, but they are too adroit to let hunters easily approach them. Many hundreds roam there isolated regions, drinking the brackish water which man cannot drink, and they will scent hunters for miles.

GOV. CARTER TO RETAIN OFFICE

HAS AN INTERVIEW WITH THE PRESIDENT IS SUPPORTED BY ROOSEVELT

Decides to Withdraw His Resignation as Governor of Hawaii—Discusses Situation in the Islands

By Associated Press.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 24.—A consideration of Hawaiian affairs occupied President Roosevelt's attention for several hours today. He had as a guest for luncheon and during the greater part of the afternoon George R. Carter, governor of Hawaii. Governor Carter came to Oyster Bay determined to resign his official position to escape the annoyance to which he had been subjected since he succeeded Sanford B. Dole as governor. The president not only declined to accept his resignation, but told him to go back to Honolulu and he should have the full support and sympathy of the national administration.

Governor Carter was in a much happier frame of mind after his interview with the president than he had been before. He will take a much needed vacation before returning to Hawaii, probably in this country for several weeks. When he returns to Honolulu it will be to resume his official duties with new confidence and vigor.

"I advised President Roosevelt," said Governor Carter after his conference, "to accept my resignation, but he declined to take my advice. On the contrary, he advised me to withdraw my resignation, and I decided to take his advice. This is the whole story in a nutshell."

Since he was appointed to succeed Governor Dole, who was named as one of the United States district judges of Hawaii, Governor Carter has encountered difficulty, particularly with officials in the islands. His administration has not been harmonious, evidently through no fault of his. The trouble culminated two or three months ago in the sending by Governor Carter of his resignation to the president. The president declined to accept it because he had great confidence in the governor's ability to administer Hawaiian affairs as he would have them administered. Finally the governor decided to come to the United States to talk over the situation with the president. He arrived here at 12:20 o'clock today and was driven directly to Sagamore Hill.

"I felt," said he, "that the best way to restore harmony in Hawaii was for me to resign the governorship. The president does not think so. We went over the situation fully, and I have accepted his advice and will continue as governor."

"Who is the principal disturbing element in Hawaii?" he was asked.

"George R. Carter," he replied promptly, with a laugh.

"Is the trouble local or is it due to the national government in this country?"

"Oh, it is purely local," the governor replied. "You know we have home rule in the islands. Our political divisions are about the same as they are in this country. We have two political parties, the Republican and the Democratic. The former is the party which stands for the development of the islands, which established the republic and which favored annexation. The race question has been eliminated practically from our politics. That is a distinct advance. Then, too, we have advanced in other respects. A law passed at the recent session of the legislature provides that the United States flag shall fly from every school house, while school is in session. That law could not have been enacted three or four years ago."

Governor Carter scarcely hopes for an early restoration of harmony in Hawaii. He says, however, that he will return to the islands determined to continue his fight for what he believes to be the best for them and for the people generally. President Roosevelt assured him of his own cordial sympathy and of the support of his administration. He indicated after Governor Carter's talk with him that he not only could not permit Governor Carter to resign in the circumstances, but that he proposed to stand squarely back of him in the work he was doing.

NEGRESS LIKED QUARTERS IN THE POLICE STATION

Although Three Policemen Escorted Her to Jail She Wanted to Remain

It required a pair of handcuffs and three policemen to take Maggie Neltherland, a 300-pound negress, to the police station Sunday afternoon and to lodge her in the city jail on a charge of intoxication, and it required two policemen and a great amount of persuasion to dislodge her from the woman's ward yesterday after her fine had been paid by a friend.

The prisoner was fined $3 and in default of payment was put to work in the woman's ward. When told late yesterday afternoon that her fine had been paid she refused to leave the police station and declared that she would help with the washing which is to be done today. The matron told her trouble to the desk sergeant and two policemen were sent to dislodge the unruly prisoner. After a conversation of fifteen minutes the woman descended the stairs and marched out of the jail with a very dignified and injured air.

DISASTER WILL BE INVESTIGATED

STATEMENT ISSUED BY SECRETARY BONAPARTE

BERESFORD WIRES SYMPATHY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Secretary Bonaparte, in a statement issued today, said the public may rest assured that the Bennington disaster will be thoroughly investigated and that whatever action the results of the investigation may show to be proper will be taken by the department promptly and effectively.

Secretary Bonaparte showed the deep interest he has taken in the Bennington disaster by immediately taking up the subject on his return today. He held an extended conference with Assistant Secretary Darling and found that Mr. Darling had done everything possible to alleviate the sufferings of the wounded and for the proper care of the dead, as well as to lay the foundation for an investigation of the explosion. When advised that Rear Admiral Goodrich had been ordered to San Diego the secretary asked as to the number of officers that would be available upon the admiral's arrival from which a proper investigating body could be convened. The secretary was assured that with the officers on the ground and those who will come with the flagship Chicago and the supply ship Iris there will be ample material for a board or for a court of inquiry. The secretary expects a most thorough investigation.

When Admiral Goodrich reaches San Diego all facts developed pending his arrival will be reported to him and it is expected that the board of investigation which Captain Drake ordered to determine the extent of the damage to the hull and engines also will report the results of its investigation to the admiral. Admiral Goodrich then can determine the steps to be taken, but it was made manifest today that Mr. Bonaparte expects the inquiry to be exhaustive and such as will develop every possible fact. It was suggested at the department today that some of the steam engineering records of the Bennington may have been destroyed when the ship was blown up. The quarterly report, covering the period from March 30 to June 30, had not been received at the bureau of steam engineering up to the hour of closing today. It is probable, it is stated, that the mailing of the report may have been delayed and that it was aboard ship at the time of the explosion.

The department today telegraphed to Captain Drake for a list of survivors. This was done because of the numerous inquiries that have come from relatives of the sailors who have not been reported among the dead or injured. The department has directed that a report be sent to the department daily from San Diego.

Admiral Dewey today received from Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, commanding the British Mediterranean fleet now stationed at Gibraltar, the following message of condolence:

"Admirals, captains, officers and ships companies of British Mediterranean fleet send warm sympathy with United States navy and nation in terrible calamity to Bennington."

"CHARLES BERESFORD."

Admiral Dewey's reply follows:

"Vice Admiral Beresford, Gibraltar: Deeply grateful to you and admirals, captains, officers and men of your fleet for sympathy over loss of life in Bennington disaster."

"GEORGE DEWEY."

The following expression came to Assistant Secretary Darling from Bennington, Vt., the town after which the ill-fated ship was named:

"In behalf of the citizens of Bennington, I tender you heartfelt sympathy and sorrow for the suffering and death caused by the grievous disaster to the good ship Bennington, named after this old historic town, manned by heroic souls whose fortitude and bravery has just been shown."

"We have always regarded this gallant ship with more than ordinary interest and this terrible misfortune calls forth deep expressions of sorrow, condolence and sympathy."

A. J. COOPER.

"President of Bennington village."

Mr. Darling's reply follows:

"In behalf of the sufferers and the friends of those who died in the terrible accident to the United States gunboat Bennington I wish through you to thank the people of the town after which the vessel was named for their expression of sympathy."

"Coming from you as the representative of my fellow townsmen the message was especially touching to me."

The navy department has been unable to communicate with the relatives of Walter Grant, one of the sailors of the Bennington who perished. The department records show the nearest of kin to be Gilbert F. Grant, 683 Sedgwick street, Chicago, but at that address Mr. Grant was reported to be living at Olive Springs, Cal.

The real name of Maxim Goriky, the Russian author, is Alexei Mamimovitch Pjostkov. He is now about 37 years of age and he won his first pronounced literary success with a short story published twelve years ago.

ANGELINOS VISIT PORTLAND FAIR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WEEK COMMENCES OVER 14,000 BADGES TAKEN

Representatives of Pasadena, Riverside, San Diego and Other Cities in Orange Belt Arrive by Special Train

Special to The Herald. PORTLAND, Ore., July 24.—Southern California week at the exposition began with the arrival of the chamber of commerce special train from Los Angeles at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, carrying more than 150 enthusiastic citizens of that city and Pasadena, Riverside, San Diego and other cities in the orange belt. Commissioner Frank Wiggins met the party at the station. The train was five hours late because of a slight wreck on the track near Mount Shasta. The Californians were escorted to the American inn, which will be their headquarters during their stay.

Many other parties from Southern California are expected during the week, and it has been decided by the California commissioners to make Los Angeles day next Saturday the occasion of a general round-up of the visitors from that part of the state.

The Riverside band is with the party that arrived today, and a reception will be tendered in honor of the musicians tomorrow afternoon at the Californians building. Major Chauncey P. McFarland of Riverside will be present to participate in the function.

Commissioner Wiggins states that he expects to have several thousand Californians present at the reception next Saturday afternoon, on which occasion Los Angeles and her sister cities will be jointly honored.

More than 14,000 badges have been distributed to actual residents of California since the exposition opened, a record exceeding that at St. Louis in the corresponding period.

The visitors from Southern California will spend two or three days in seeing the exposition, and will then make side trips up and down the Columbia river.

Many of them will also visit Seattle and Tacoma.
