

KELLY AND BURNS FIGHT TO DRAW

BATTLE GOES THE LIMIT OF TWENTY ROUNDS

BOTH MEN FINISH STRONG

Middleweights Agreed That If Both Were on Their Feet at End of Mill No Decision Would Be Rendered

A draw at the end of twenty rounds of heavy fighting. Hugo Kelly of Chicago is still technically the middleweight champion of the world, but the followers of the same who watched Hugo go through twenty rounds of fast milling to a draw with Tommy Burns last night will not be inclined to regard his claim seriously in the future. The battle was pulled off in the new pavilion of the Pacific club and about 4000 admirers of the ancient art of counter and swing were on hand to attest to the fact that the "game" has still a strong following in Los Angeles.

When Kelly and Burns entered the ring Referee Eytan announced that owing to a "disagreement in weight" the two men had agreed to a draw if they were both on their feet at the end of the twentieth round. When the men weighed in yesterday afternoon Burns was at the required notch of 155 but Kelly was overweight, and while this would hardly seem an excuse for the two scrappers agreeing to a draw Eytan was instructed by the club management also before he entered the ring last night to decide the scrap a draw if it went the limit.

Burns More Scientific
As far as clean hitting and scientific work was concerned the general opinion was that Burns had a shade the best of the fight, Tommy being better liked because of his aggressive work throughout, his ability to secure an even break in the fighting and clearly outpointing the Italian boy in the long range work.

Neither Burns or Kelly had any decided advantage in any of the rounds, but taken as a whole Burns showed to better advantage in landing damaging wallops, was eager to carry the fight to the Italian and while Kelly was always there to meet him, Tommy's clean cut work earned him the decision if a decision was to be rendered, even if the draw question had not been decided an even break would have satisfied the majority at the ringside.

Burns' foot work was a revelation to those who figured him a trifle slow on his pins, and he danced in and away from many of Kelly's vicious swings and jabs and bewildered the Italian with his speedy action. Kelly showed himself to be a trifle slower than expected and did not show anything that might be interpreted as championship timber except willingness to go in and hammer away and the assimilation of punishment handed out by Burns.

Burns Works Jabs
The fight was rather tame up to the tenth round, with an occasional rally by both men going into heavy exchanges and taking a chance to land a lucky punch. In the tenth Burns worked a succession of jabs on Kelly's sore nose, which had been damaged in the earlier rounds and the Italian boy was bleeding profusely when he went to his corner at the end of the half. Burns' most effective blow was a right and left uppercut, which he worked continually in the clinches, jarring Kelly severely. Hugo seemed weak in protecting himself in the fighting and Burns took much of the ginger out of him with a succession of short arm uppercuts in the earlier rounds.

Kelly played for a lucky punch and evidently thought that he could wear Burns down by the latter part of the fight, discounting Tommy's superior ring generalship and science until he was ready to pull over the haymaking right. But Hugo never got a chance to rap Burns into oblivion. Tommy was always there holding Kelly back with right and left jabs and when it came to infighting the Chicago scrapper didn't have things all his own way.

When questioned as to his opinion of the mill after it was all over Referee Eytan declared that he thought Burns had slightly the better of the fight, but hardly enough upon which to give him the battle on points if a decision had not been thrown out of the calculations.

When it was all over Tommy Burns made no mention of the disagreement over the "weight question" as announced by the referee, but declared that he (Burns) didn't want a "hair line decision" and Kelly had also agreed that they would play for a knockout or nothing. Tommy, however, thought he had the fight a mile and didn't hesitate to express himself to that effect despite his acceptance of the "on your feet at the end of the twentieth" clause which relieved the referee of the usual prerogative of picking the winner.

Decision Well Received
The decision was well received by the house and there were few kicks over the rather curious and unique agreement entered into between the managers of the pugs. Kelly was about satisfied with a draw, Hugo evidently reaching the sensible conclusion that a "hair line decision" would not have been for him anyway. Kelly's left eye was closed and his face badly puffed at the end of the twentieth, while Burns showed little if any marks of the fierce milling.

Tommy Jacobs succumbed before Terry Davis of Salt Lake in his fight in the curtain raiser. Tommy started off to force the fighting, but Davis upset him with a couple of body jolts before he had been out of his corner thirty seconds and a left swing to the jaw dropped Tommy to the mat but the bell saved him. Jacobs tried a desperate rally in the second, but Davis bored right in. Jacobs stepped into a right upper cut and the perim referee, Jack Jeffries, called off the fatal ten.

The second preliminary, a catch weight affair between Warren Zurbrick and Dick Sullivan, lasted seven rounds. Sullivan was outweighed by his rugged opponent, and while he showed well for the first four he began to weaken in the fifth and in the sixth was on his heels. In the seventh Zurbrick went right to him and in a desperate mix Zurbrick brought over a left to the jaw and Sullivan took the count.

Kelly was the first to enter the ring, followed by Jack Root, Jim Hickey, Aurelio Herrera and Bill Sullivan. Burns followed a few seconds later. Jack Root examined Burns' bandages in behalf of Kelly and found that Tommy banded with quite a bit of plaster of paris. Root objected and after considerable delay Burns agreed to get along without the plaster. Burns was seconded by Warren Zurbrick, Prof. Lewis and McDonald. The first gong clanged at 9:54.

Following is the fight by rounds:

BAUM'S SLANTS SHUT OUT OAKS

NORTHERNERS GET BUT FOUR SAFE BINGLES

IBERG EASY FOR THE SERAPHS

"Ham" Touched Up for Ten Hits, and Five Natives Romp Over the Pan—the Game in Detail

Los Angeles, 5; Oakland, 0.

The surpassing potency of "Bones" Baum's slants, combined with a sprinkling of ten safe wallops that the Seraphic host trapped off the artistic productions of "Ham" Iberg spelled defeat and another shutout for the Athenian braves.

After the third inning the game resolved itself into an indefinable something which seemed to hesitate between a cricket match and an exhibition of the national game. The northern gentlemen lost heart when three of the natives had trotted over the pan and the game was a common canter for the Seraphs during the remainder of the session.

Until the fourth inning Baum pitched no hit ball, but Kruger broke the deadlock by walloping the sphere over second for a clean single and Graham also found a place on the bags. Dunleavy's single in the opening of the seventh and Kelly's safe rap in the following period, coupled with Kruger's and Graham's safe wallops in the fifth was all that the northerners could interpret for material results, while the Seraphs were merely spiking the final patch.

First for Angels
In the introductory inning the first Angel amble arrived in the middle of a family row between the Greeks. Bernard was given a life on Buck Francks' error, but Flood popped up to Dunleavy, who made a nifty basket of the sphere, and Bernard was also obliterated off the first angle.

Smith dropped a double in left and grabbed third, while Dillon was being handed transportation. Dillon cut loose for the second station and Matt Stanley slammed the ball to Francks and before the Spalding could be herded back to the rubber Smith had crossed.

In the second Ross was hit and Cravath passed a single to the amidship garden. Bobby Eager then came along with a pass to left and Ross found a place in the run column.

Bernard jammed a short one to Iberg and on that worthy's fumble Cravath put a dent in the rubber. Another arrived for the locals in the fifth. Smith rapped along an easy one and should have been forced through the rail at the first cushion, but Dunleavy let the ball dribble about the diamond, while Judson continued along to third and came over on Brashear's single. The fifth and last arrived for the Seraphs in the eighth. Cravath opened with a single. Eager did likewise and went to second with Cravath to the last pillow on Iberg's error. Baum then laid down a neat sacrifice of class and Cravath completed the walk around.
