

TRAIN WRECKED; TWO MEN HURT

SANTA FE ENGINE LEAVES THE RAILS AT PASADENA

PLUNGES INTO A DITCH

Engineer George Luce and Fireman Robert Bilderain Injured—Passengers Have Narrow Escape

Santa Fe local train, No. 41, from San Bernardino, loaded with passengers, jumped the track at Union street, Pasadena, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, injuring two men and piling both engine and tender in the ditch.

When Engineer George Luce saw that the train could not be brought to a stop before the engine would reach the ditch he threw over the reverse lever and attempted to jump, but was caught between the engine cab and the tender in such a way that his left foot was crushed.

During the half hour that the men worked before he could be removed Luce coolly directed operations, but fainted when the pressure on his foot was removed. Dr. Rowland was summoned and before the injured man was entirely released found it necessary to administer stimulants to prevent his entire collapse.

Robert Bilderain, the fireman of the ill-fated engine was the only other person injured. As he jumped from the cab the engine struck a telegraph pole. Bilderain was thrown high in the air and falling upon the firebox was severely burned and bruised. He pluckily aided in the work of releasing Luce and refused to be taken to the hospital.

As soon as the accident was reported at headquarters a special train of engine and caboose, which was at Pasadena, was given the right of way and brought Luce to Los Angeles for surgical treatment and it is thought that his foot can be saved.

The wreck was caused by the fact that one of the Santa Fe's great motorgs had preceded the wrecked train over the track, which in this particular place is in need of repair and spread the rails so that when the smaller engine struck rubbish left on the track by street graders there was no chance for it to regain the rails.

JOCKEY PROMISES SOME STARTLING DISCLOSURES

SAYS OUTSIDERS INTERFERED IN LOVE AFFAIR

Exhibits Letters From Girl He Is Accused of Attempting to Murder to Prove Existence of Reciprocal Affection on Her Part

Lawyers having in charge the defense of William J. Narvaez, the jockey arrested Tuesday on the charge of having attempted to kill Miss Louise Mugnemi at her home, 326 East Twelfth street, are prepared to produce some startling testimony when the accused is placed on trial September 7.

Narvaez says certain persons have come between him and his sweetheart and that his case is but another illustration of love gone astray. Dozens of letters filled with the most endearing terms which Narvaez exhibits, purporting that they have come from the Mugnemi girl would seem to bear out his assertion.

Among his possessions he has numerous photographs of the beautiful young Italian girl, ranging from a time when she was eight years old up to the present day.

Miss Mugnemi's love affairs have ended in another instance in her appearance in court. At the opening of the year she entrusted some of her rings and other jewelry to one, George Murphy, alias George Wall, who promptly hid himself to a pawnbroker and then just as quickly disappeared. His capture and trial brought Miss Mugnemi before the public.

MOTHERS AND CHILDREN SPEND DAY AT SEASIDE

The second outing given this season by the Salvation Army to mothers and children was held yesterday at Long Beach. About 500 attended. The hosts had prepared everything for their guests' enjoyment, with individual lunches and treats. The Long Beach bath house donated the use of the plunge and bathing suits. Special cars carried the party over the Salt Lake road. The next outing given by the army will be for aged people.

WOMEN FIGHT AGAINST ILLEGAL LIQUOR SALES

A mass meeting will be held at the First Congregational church this evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Motherhood of Los Angeles, which is endorsed by the Woman's club, the County W. C. T. U., the State Federation W. C. T. U. and the home and foreign missionary societies of the city. The meeting will protest against the illegal selling of liquor in restaurants and cafes and in allowing it to be sold to women. Prominent ministers and public men will speak.

The Grand Yessour, once the most famous restaurant in Paris, closed its doors a few days ago after an unbroken existence of 136 years.

MERE DAMPNESS PREVAILED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

DECEIVES "OLDEST CITIZEN"

Startling Weather Phenomenon Occasions Much Comment and Weather Doctor Hastens to Deny Records Are Shattered

"Midsummer fiction" is the way in which Forecaster Franklin dismisses conversation relative to the reported rain of Wednesday night. He says there was no rain because his absolutely reliable instruments failed to record any perceptible precipitation, although he is willing to acknowledge that the fog was slightly more dense than on previous occasions this summer.

Probably a snowfall would have occasioned but little more comment than the "dampness" which prevailed. To the astonished native, the globules of "wetness" descended in torrents, but in fact it amounted only to a dense fog, which played affectionately around the thinly clad forms of the pedestrians during the night and created the impression that a midwinter rain was in progress. The "oldest inhabitant" scratched his head and gave up in disgust all attempts at recalling similar peace disturbers in weatherdom in the present generation.

Indications revive the hope that weather records are not to be shattered further this season. Doctor Franklin says that he is convinced that clear skies and rising temperatures will prevail with increasing steadiness during the remainder of the summer months.

He relapses, however, with a sufficiency to predict a prevalence of clouds and fogs this morning, changing to "clear and warmer" in the afternoon. Picnicking need not be disturbed by the Wednesday night phenomenon, as it is not on the schedule for this or any other night in the near future.

MANY INSPECT THE NEW BLANCHARD ART BUILDING

Several Hundred Attend Reception in Remodeled and Enlarged Halls

F. W. Blanchard entertained several hundred Angelenos Wednesday night at a reception in the enlarged and remodeled art building which was thrown open for the inspection of the public.

This building has been extended to Hill street and now contains 180 studios and art rooms and five large halls. On the first floor is the rehearsal hall with a seating capacity of 200 persons and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 900 persons. On the fourth floor is the large art gallery. The second floor is devoted to the conservatory of music, recently organized by leading teachers of Los Angeles, fully equipped as a large school of music. Twenty-five teachers are employed and every department of music is represented.

OUTBREAK OCCURS IN NEIGHBORHOOD FEUD

Trouble Between C. E. Donniton and J. Stewart of Buena Vista Street May Reach Courts

Another outbreak in a neighborhood feud occurred yesterday and as a result C. E. Donniton of 1251 Buena Vista street issued a complaint against J. Stewart of 1229 Buena Vista street charging him with disturbing the peace. Donniton alleges that Stewart insulted his wife and other women staying at his home and will ask the court today to put the Stewarts under bond. For the past three years the quarrel between Mrs. Janet Stewart and the members of her household, and the neighbors has been in progress. For a time events in the quarrel happened in rapid succession but of late the fight has been smoldering. For some time large signs on which sentences condemning her neighbors are printed, have decorated the Stewart yard.

WEST FIRST TO SEE LONDON'S NEW PLAY

Belasco, Mayer & Price Secure Rights and Will Present Piece on Coast

Belasco, Mayer and Price, the managers of the Alcazar theater, San Francisco, the Belasco theater, Los Angeles and many other theatrical enterprises, announce that they have secured the rights to Jack London's first play and will produce it at their western theaters before it is sent east for its New York run. It will be given its initial presentation at the Alcazar in San Francisco in September and will immediately be brought to Los Angeles for production at the Belasco theater.

London has called his drama "The Great Interrogation" and the scene of the story is laid in Dawson City, Alaska, a land which he has already made famous in fiction. The story of "The Great Interrogation" concerns a white man who falls in love with an Indian girl and those who have read it are enthusiastic over this author's venture into the theatrical world.

Jack London was assisted in the writing of the drama by Miss Ada Lee Bascom, who has written several plays, and her familiarity with the technique of the stage makes the collaboration a happy one. The leading role will be taken at the Alcazar by White Whittlesey and at the Belasco theater by Joseph Galbraith.

NO PROSECUTION IN STEWART-WESSNER CASE

NOT TO BE PROSECUTED FOR SHOOTING ENEMY

M. N. Wessner Probably Will Not Be Put on Trial for His Attack on Thomas H. Stewart in Wessner's Office in June

According to a report from the district attorney's office yesterday, there will be no prosecution in the case of the shooting of Thomas H. Stewart, a carpenter, by M. N. Wessner, a contractor, in the office of the latter on June 24.

Recently, because of the action of the carpenter's union in trying to secure a prosecution of the case, it was rumored that the district attorney would take action, but the signed statements of Stewart and of Mackaye, who was with him at the time of the shooting, asserting they have no desire to prosecute and have dropped the case, entirely removes all possibility of further trouble.

NEGRO BEAT HIS WIFE WITH A BARREL STAVE

Alexander Parks Accused of Cruelty by His Ducky Spouse—Woman Gets Divorce

The chivalrous "Alexander" of the popular song, who, when his wife told him she loved him only and did not want his money, returned to her and lived happily ever after, was not the Alexander who was made defendant in an action for divorce brought yesterday by Mrs. Leacie Parks, a negroess.

Alexander Parks was the defendant, and cruelty was the charge against him. After hearing the evidence Judge Bordwell ordered the decree of separation.

"That man, he come home ebber night drunk," testified the woman yesterday. "He treat me all right at first, but when I make mistakes he done got 'fresh.' One time he asked me to patch the seat of his pants and I done it for him. He come home ebber night drunk and because one side was patched right and there was a 'I' wrong spot on 'other side, he coteched up a barrel stave and walloped me some."

"Afteh that he done beat me some moah with the business end of a trunk strap and the buckle shoah hurt some."

THINKS HERCULES IS SHAMMING

PRISONER'S LAST HOPE FADES AWAY

IS TO BE SENTENCED TODAY

Judge Smith Denies Application for Examination as to Mental Condition and Repeats Lawyer for His Action

In a last effort to save Amos Hercules from serving a life sentence in San Quentin prison Attorney J. R. Wilder yesterday swore out a second application for an insanity inquiry, and was again defeated.

His action was preceded by a similar one several days ago, directly after Hercules was found guilty of the murder of Timothy Segre, but Judge Wilder denied the application.

When Wilder appeared in Judge Smith's department of the superior court yesterday afternoon and, with Attorney Creed, told the story of his client's insanity, Judge Smith became indignant and would not permit the request to be put on record.

"As I understand this you ask for a warrant charging Amos Hercules with insanity?" queried the judge, and Wilder assented.

"I happen to know, Mr. Wilder, that a motion of this kind was up before Judge Wilbur yesterday. Judge Wilbur was the proper judge before whom to bring the case and he refused to grant the warrant. Therefore, it is trifling with the time of the court to attempt to secure any such action here."

"I have watched this case for some time and I can tell you that I believe Hercules is shamming and have believed so all along. I believed he was shamming when he was sent to the asylum. I believed he was shamming when he was at the asylum and I believe he is shamming now."

"This court is all one and is simple in divisions and for you to suppose that the decision given yesterday will be revoked by another judge today is ridiculous. You may enter an objection to the denial of the filing of the application but that is all you may file."

Hercules will be sentenced today and taken north Monday.

ASKS FOR MAN FROM HELL IN NEW JERSEY

"Have you a man here by the name of Joy who comes from Hell, New Jersey?" asked a man with a double chin and a rotund figure, as he leaned over the desk of the Hollenbeck last night and looked at the clerk. "Hell, no, there is no one here from that place," replied the clerk after he had consumed five minutes looking over the register, "but we've got a man by the name of Joy from Paterson." "Well, he is the man I am after. The two places are synonymous. Send up and get him. I want to buy him a drink," came the reply, and Mr. Joy from Paterson received a thirst quencher.

CONDEMNED MAN IS PROSTRATED

SCHNAIDEKI'S NERVE FAILS HIM

IS BORDERING ON HYSTERIA

Man Who Killed Mrs. Cecilia Salmon Can Neither Eat Nor Sleep, and Constantly Beggars for Arsenic

Crouching in his cell and in a state of mind bordering on hysteria Joseph Schnaideki awaits the arrival of the hour when he is to be taken north to execute the murder of Mrs. Cecilia Salmon upon the gallows.

His nerve has completely deserted him and instead of the air of bravado which characterized his demeanor during the trial he is now a cowering wretch, filled with the fear of his approaching death and haunted with the certain fate which awaits him. He begs piteously for the guards to remain near to him and can neither sleep nor eat. Fellow prisoners say that he has not slept since the verdict of the jury was brought in.

Yesterday when Bailiff Herrington entered his cell Schnaideki was shaking as if in mortal fear of some great bodily harm and his facial muscles were twitching nervously, showing the prisoner to be in a terrible mental strain. He begged to be given arsenic to quiet his nerves, but the guards refused, remembering the tragedy of Merkel's death by his own hand after he had murdered his wife and her friend several years ago.

Precautions are being taken to prevent Schnaideki inflicting any injury upon himself or cheating the gallows by suicide. His cell is under a close inspection at all times and nothing is allowed to be passed to him without having been examined by the guards.

He will receive the death sentence next week and will be immediately taken to San Quentin to remain until the date of execution.

URNS HOME INTO FORT AND DEFIES OFFICERS

Italian Successfully Resists Arrest After Raising Disturbance With His Wife

Barricaded in his home, and armed with a revolver, Domenico Zurlo, 825 Parker drive, defied the police and resisted arrest last night after having severely beaten his wife.

Neighbors say that Zurlo went home about 7 o'clock last night and began quarreling with his wife. This disturbance continued for nearly an hour, during which time numerous terrifying shrieks were given by Mrs. Zurlo, then a pistol shot was fired and all was quiet.

M. D. Wood, 221 Parker drive, heard the shot and summoned the police. Detectives Talamantes, Leon and Craig were sent to the scene of the disturbance, but as they approached the house Zurlo bolted the windows and doors. When the officers demanded admittance they received no response. After repeated demands to open the door Zurlo and his wife appeared at the window and refused to obey the order. Being assured by the woman that she was uninjured the officers left the house and made no further effort to arrest Zurlo.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.
