

FITZ EXPLAINS LOW PUNCHES

CLAIMS TEN FOULS STRUCK ON EACH SIDE

LOW BLOWS UNINTENTIONAL

Manager Reid Will Post $1000 Forfeit in San Francisco for Fitzgerald to Meet Hanlon Again—"No Fake," He Says

Willie Fitzgerald feels that he was rather shabbily used in Tuesday night's fight. He admits that he fouled Hanlon but claims that it was not intentional and that Hanlon did not suffer any evil consequences from the low blows.

"Say, when two guys are trying to murder each other and fighting rough and tumble like me and Hanlon was a-doin' last night, why the punches are liable to land most any place, and I guess they did. I hit Eddie below the belt all right. The referee said so and I haven't got any kick coming on him. But I didn't know I was a-doin' it and didn't do it on purpose. I guess we both expected that we would get some low ones, for we were both protected and ready for 'em. I felt some low ones comin' my way during the last few rounds but I didn't holler none. They didn't hurt any."

Eddie Fouled in Fifth "But, say, did you see Eddie foul me in the fifth? He landed on my jaw after the gong rang and if that isn't as much of a foul as any I handed him I don't know Queensbury rules. But I wouldn't holler none. I could have claimed a foul right then but I didn't want the fight on a foul. I was after a knockout, and I sure would have put him to sleep in about the tenth. I didn't even get up a sweat in these seven rounds. I was taking it nice and easy and holding it off for about the tenth. Then, say, I would have waded in just about right. Eddie was getting tired and couldn't have stood up more than three rounds more. I knew that this was his weak point. Look at his record and you will see that in all his fights where he has gone a long route he has simply fallen from exhaustion, and I was a-holdin' off for this, see?"

SAN FRANCISCO SHUT OUT BY PORTLAND Bert Jones Allows Visitors Only One Hit and Strikes Out Nine Men

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 6.—Bert Jones pitched a splendid game this afternoon, allowing San Francisco only one hit, walking only one man and sending nine of them to the bench by the strike out route. Hildebrand was the only visitor to connect safely with Jones' delivery, while on the other hand, Portland touched Whalen for a total of 10 hits, which netted three runs. Whalen received excellent support after the first inning.

decision before he got it," said Jeffries. "I saw three fouls struck in that last round, the first one before Eddie rushed Fitz to the ropes and the other two when he got him there."

Preliminary Not Satisfactory While the feeling of dissatisfaction with the main fight last night is rampant there is considerable kicking about the first preliminary between Kid Solomon and Terry Davis. These two little scrappers fought at 125 pounds and for ten rounds put up an interesting contest. While both were bloody before the end of the second round there was but little punishment on either side and the match was close.

NOLAN REFUSES TO GIVE GROUND

STILL OPPOSES JEFFRIES AS REFEREE

ENUMERATES HIS OBJECTIONS

Declares Nelson Will Not Appear in the Ring if Jim Officiates—Coffroth Says Fight Will Come Off

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—"I have never objected to Jeffries on the score of dishonesty, but on account of the change in the betting I thought that there might be collusion between Jeffries and the Britts."

Such was the statement made tonight by Billy Nolan, manager of Battling Nelson. Nolan prefaced his remarks with the statement that he was firm in his refusal to allow Nelson to go in the ring next Saturday if the heavyweight champion is to be the referee and added that Nelson never made the statement attributed to him that any referee except Billy Roche would be agreeable to him.

Nolan said: "I was perfectly satisfied to have Jeffries act as referee after the coin had been tossed between him and George Siler, but changed my mind with events that followed. When Jeffries was decided upon it was agreed between Britt, the club and myself that the referee was to be in this city five days prior to the fight. When Jeffries did not arrive here according to the program, but instead sent a telegram to the club demanding $2000 for his services, I considered that we were entitled to another man, particularly as the betting had dropped after Jeffries was named. Then when Britt's brother sent a telegram to Jeffries signing Billy Delaney's name to it and Britt opened the answer to Delaney accepting $1000, it strengthened my belief that there was something wrong. Britt's brother denied that he had sent such a telegram, but I offered to waive my objection to Jeffries if Britt could prove that he did not communicate with the referee. He could not prove his denial."

Nolan said that Nelson would be prepared to enter the ring Saturday on time, but would not appear in the arena if Jeffries were the umpire. Club Manager Coffroth tonight stated that at 2 o'clock Saturday Britt and Nelson would be in the ring.

So the situation stands and no one is prepared to say what the outcome will be, especially as no further conferences between the disputing parties have been arranged.

Wanted the Price Cut "Yes, sir," said the jeweler, "this is the largest and purest diamond stud we have. It's worth $750."

"I'll take it," said Nurtich, "if you cut the price on it."

"No, sir, that's positively the lowest."

"Aw, you don't know what I mean. I want you to carve the price on the stone so people kin see it."—Philadelphia Press.

BASKETBALL PAYS FAIR EXPENSES

INDIANS GO TO PORTLAND ON PROCEEDS

THEY PLAY EXHIBITION GAMES

Representatives of Seven Tribes of Aborigines Defeat Teams of White-Skinned Girls by Overwhelming Scores

Special to The Herald. PORTLAND, Sept. 6.—Visitors at the Lewis and Clark exposition were given an opportunity to study first hand the results of Uncle Sam's new educational policy with regard to the red man, a few days ago, when a band of Indian girls walked through the turnstiles and proceeded to see the fair.

The Indian girls came to the fair without any assistance from Uncle Sam. They earned the money with which to come by giving entertainments. The girls in the party compose a basketball team, and their fame is landwide from the fact that they won the cup at St. Louis a year ago.

"We are from the Shaw Indian school in Montana," explained F. C. Campbell, superintendent of the school and manager of the party. "We have about 350 Indian boys and girls at the Shaw school, and these girls here are the pick of the feminine part of the school. The nine girls in the party represent seven tribes. Not all of them are full-blooded Indians, but most of them are."

Played Way to Fair The little band, with their superintendent and his wife and four teachers, proceeded to the exposition in a leisurely way, playing at various small towns en route. Their first performance after leaving the school was given at Shelby Junction, a small town in Montana, where almost the whole population turned out to bid them welcome. Then they gave their performance at the Blackfoot Indian reservation in Montana, making other stops for performances at Kallispel and Whitesfish.

In their entertainments the Indian girls show a versatility that is remarkable. For the first number they resolve themselves into a mandolin club; following this with a presentation of the famine scene from Hiawatha, in which they appear in all the gorgeousness of their native costumes, and then with a pantomime entitled "The Star-Spangled Banner."

And then, as if this were not sufficient, the erstwhile dramatic and vaudeville organization gets down to real business in its own particular line—the playing of scientific basketball. The only trouble with the basketball game which the girls play, so say the newspapers in the town in which they appear, is that it is altogether too one-sided a performance. In every instance in which the Indian players have met white girl teams the latter have gone down to ignominious and big-scored defeat.
