THE LEONARDTS ARE CHESTY
Issue Challenge to Any Amateur Team in their Class in South

The C. Leonardts baseball team wants a game for Sunday and are out with a challenge to any amateur team of the south.

They are anxious to try conclusions with the Christophers of Los Angeles and are willing to play on any grounds and for anything that an accepting team may suggest.

Since their reorganization in the early part of October the Leonardts have not suffered defeat, and are looking about for more scrums to add to the ones which already hang at their belt.

Their strongest game was against the Santa Barbaras, which aggregation they defeated by a score of 5 to 1 some weeks back. Only one error marred the fielding performance of the local nine, and as they were pitted against what is regarded as one of the fastest, if not the best, amateur team in Southern California, the showing places the team among the topnotchers in the amateur class.

When the Leonardts appear with the material which will adorn the line-up within a few days, it will require considerable hustling to do much against them.

Phil Knell, the old-time National leaguer, is holding down centerfield and Manager Tupper has several other strong stickers and fielders on the list from which he is choosing. Eddie Moore, known throughout Southern California for his splendid base work, professional and amateur, is at third base. Dodge of the Iowa State league is on his way to Los Angeles and is slated for left field.

Johnny Goodwin, who is covering the short field, is regarded as a come by who who have been watching his work and claim that the boy has the makings of a big leaguer.

The remainder of the team are well known to southern fans and are rated among the fastest amateurs who have played in the south. The line-up of the team as it stands ready to meet any of the local aggregations is: Catcher, Fred Wilding; pitchers, J. Simmons and B. Whaling; first base, J. Guccio; third base, E. Moore; shortstop, Goodwin; left field, Dodge; centerfield, Knell; right field, Tupper.

Acceptance of the challenge for next Sunday may be addressed to W. T. Tupper, 503 West First street.

That several organized gangs of postal robbers are operating in and about the county of Los Angeles is the firm conviction of the federal authorities and the local police. Within the last few months no less than six post-offices have been robbed of money and stamps. The stations that have suffered losses are: Perris, Colegrove, Long Beach, Santa Monica, San Pedro and Monrovia.

The robbers are not amateurs, according to the police, but criminals well versed in the art of safe-cracking. Through their continued efforts they have become exceedingly bold. They are supplied with the latest models in safe-cracking kits and in a period of fifteen minutes can successfully break

THOROUGHBREDS COMING
Several Hundred Eastern Horses and Turfmen Are on Road or Will Be Before Another Week

Horses and horsemen are turning toward Ascot park in great numbers and within the next two weeks the park will take on a different appearance.

Several hundred are either now at the tracks or on the road to Los Angeles and the prospects for the best meeting in the history of the local track are better than at any other time.

Thoroughbreds from the east, west, north and south will be here, and stables of some of the most noted horsemen of the metropolitan tracks will be among those quartered at Manager James Woodlawn Brooks' winter track.

Frank Reagan is expected to arrive with twenty horses from New York. McGrathiana Prince and Oarsman are included in Reagan's bunch and others belonging to J. L. Holland will come with him. Holland will not come until the latter part of the month.

The Holland string at Ascot this winter will include such good performers as Line of Life, Memories, Confessor, Bribery, Bauble, Masterson, Diablo, Gold, Hester W. and many others.

Roxie Angarola, who has charge of horses for Jim Sullivan, Senator Pat McCarren and other New York politicians, will leave Jamaica tonight for Ascot. A six car special will bring many other good performers from the east. These are all expected in Monday.

On the same special will come James McLaughlin and his string, which includes Oxford and Pasadena, both of which performed well here last season.

Immediately after the close of the Aqueduct meeting, which opens today for a two weeks' run, a special of eleven cars will leave for Ascot and it is expected that John W. Gates, the millionaire Wall street plunger, will send his string of good ones on this special. C. E. Durnell will be in charge of Gates' string.

Evanston Policeman Will Not Have to Stand Trial for Using Gun

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The Evanston policeman who stopped an automobile by shooting its tire will not have to stand trial in the police court. Police Arthur Johnson, held to the grand jury in bonds of $5000, Justice Cochran on July 23 was notified last night that no bill will be returned against him.

M. H. Cartwright of Chicago, who was speeding through Evanston, caused Johnson's arrest on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and Justice Cochran criticised the policeman for the shooting.

The grand jury decided Johnson's offense was not sufficient to warrant an indictment.

VARSIITY DEFEATS S. J. A.
U. S. C. Campus is Scene of Numerous Touchdowns and Fast Football

Varsity, 60; S. J. A., 0.

There was a game on the U. S. C. campus yesterday, but not the great contest for which the seniors and Juniors of the university had been preparing during the past four weeks. An awesome looking crowd they were—the upper class men—when they appeared for the fray, and among the warriors strode men who had long since departed from the scenes of college life and in whose bones remained a remnant of that former strength which they would have gladly hurled against the tyrannical reminders of less happy days.

But it was not to be, for when they of the pedagogical instincts beheld the battle array there was a hasty derobing of gridiron togery and for a while it looked as though the expectant crowd on the bleachers would be forced to forego the pleasure of witnessing the all-powerful upper class team in action.

Coach Holmes came to the rescue, however, and within a few minutes the "varsity" squad gave the doughy classmen a chance to fade away. They were game to the core, and although Holmes instructed his men to be careful, the score of 60 to 0 was piled up, with the faculty team gloating from the top-most windows of the main building.

Caesar Cohen, he of the sylphlike build and fast footwork, attracted general attention by the easy grace with which he glided in and out through the mazy swirl of the college line. Caughey as an oel, he eluded the speediest of Holmes' prides and in one instance fell through the center for a good three feet. The effort was a brave one, but it probably cost the "diggers" the day as the vallant guard succumbed, and amid the raucous of the throng was carried off by the flag.

Another rush and D. Caley, who long ago considered himself a football player, rolled on his shoulder and spent the remainder of the four hours watching with Cohen from the side lines.

To enumerate the runs for touchdowns would be a difficult proposition, but the "varsity" men distinguished themselves one and all, considering the odds they were sent against.

Tully Knowles was dislodged from his place of vantage in the skylights and refereed the game to the entire satisfaction of all concerned, especially in view of the fact that the closeness of the play called for a keen eye and quick judgment.

They were game to the core, and although Holmes instructed his men to be careful, the score of 60 to 0 was piled up, with the faculty team gloating from the top-most windows of the main building.

Caesar Cohen, he of the sylphlike build and fast footwork, attracted general attention by the easy grace with which he glided in and out through the mazy swirl of the college line. Caughey as an oel, he eluded the speediest of Holmes' prides and in one instance fell through the center for a good three feet. The effort was a brave one, but it probably cost the "diggers" the day as the vallant guard succumbed, and amid the raucous of the throng was carried off by the flag.

Another rush and D. Caley, who long ago considered himself a football player, rolled on his shoulder and spent the remainder of the four hours watching with Cohen from the side lines.

To enumerate the runs for touchdowns would be a difficult proposition, but the "varsity" men distinguished themselves one and all, considering the odds they were sent against.

Tully Knowles was dislodged from his place of vantage in the skylights and refereed the game to the entire satisfaction of all concerned, especially in view of the fact that the closeness of the play called for a keen eye and quick judgment.

VARSIITY DEFEATS S. J. A.
U. S. C. Campus is Scene of Numerous Touchdowns and Fast Football

Varsity, 60; S. J. A., 0.

There was a game on the U. S. C. campus yesterday, but not the great contest for which the seniors and Juniors of the university had been preparing during the past four weeks. An awesome looking crowd they were—the upper class men—when they appeared for the fray, and among the warriors strode men who had long since departed from the scenes of college life and in whose bones remained a remnant of that former strength which they would have gladly hurled against the tyrannical reminders of less happy days.

But it was not to be, for when they of the pedagogical instincts beheld the battle array there was a hasty derobing of gridiron togery and for a while it looked as though the expectant crowd on the bleachers would be forced to forego the pleasure of witnessing the all-powerful upper class team in action.

Coach Holmes came to the rescue, however, and within a few minutes the "varsity" squad gave the doughy classmen a chance to fade away. They were game to the core, and although Holmes instructed his men to be careful, the score of 60 to 0 was piled up, with the faculty team gloating from the top-most windows of the main building.

POMONA TO PLAY U. S. C.
Agreements Signed for Game at Fiesta Park December 9, the First in Three Years

Special to The Herald.

CLAREMONT, Nov. 1.—Final arrangements were completed for a football game between Pomona and U. S. C. when Manager Fuller of Pomona signed an agreement two days ago with Coach Holmes of U. S. C. The game will be played December 9 at Fiesta park, Los Angeles.

The cessation of relations between the two schools for the past three years has been a great disappointment. Rivalry has always been keen, and a match game will prove
