

SMS SOUTH WAS ALWAYS IN LEAD COMMISSIONER WIGGINS BACK FROM FAIR

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Returns From Portland Exposition With Flattering Report of Results Obtained

"Southern California was at all times in the lead at the Portland fair, and the exhibits of this section of the state were the chief attractions," said Frank Wiggins, secretary of the chamber of commerce and deputy commissioner of the California exhibit at Portland.

Mr. Wiggins returned yesterday from Portland, where he remained during the entire time the exposition was in progress. He said when he entered the chamber of commerce: "For the money which was spent by Southern California in providing exhibits for the Portland fair the return will be greater than from any previous exposition."

California Building Popular "The California exhibits were all placed collectively so that a casual observer could see just what the resources of the state were in regard to each article exhibited. For instance, walnuts from every section were placed together and any one interested in walnuts could tell at a glance where walnuts would grow in California."

During the eighteen weeks that the fair was in progress twenty public receptions were held, each attended by from one to seven thousand people in the California building, at which every effort was made to make every one attending enjoy himself and a spirit of good fellowship was in evidence all the time.

Every county in the state had a lecturer in the building who would give daily lectures telling of the advantages of the section which they represented. Los Angeles county had the reputation of having the best lecturer of all and it is certainly true that the lecturer, Miss Ledy Galpin, who was the most attended. Miss Galpin was brought up in Los Angeles county and knew her subject from A to Z. Her lectures were given with stereoscopic views and were highly successful.

South Gets Most Awards "The state of California was more evenly represented in regard to exhibits than at any former exposition. Usually the northern counties reaped all the benefits and Southern California got nothing to speak of. The state as a whole received 267 gold medals, 149 silver and 80 bronze medals and 20 honorable mentions. The number of prizes won by the southern half of the state received the greater part.

The commission returns to the state an exhibit intact which can be used at any subsequent exposition. It is a complete forestry exhibit and the material would cost at least $15,000 to replace. There is also a mineral collection and an exhibit of fruits in glass. Maps, charts and an educational exhibit can also be used again and the entire lot is stored in Sutter's Fort, Sacramento.

Two carloads of exhibits will be placed in the chamber of commerce of this city pending their return to the exhibitors.

Branch Exhibit a Success "The commission which had charge of the California exhibit was G. C. Pardee, J. A. Filcher and myself, with G. A. Dennison as secretary. The other members of the commission are installed in the Palace hotel at San Francisco and are finishing up any business that has not been concluded.

"After the exhibits were installed in the California building it was found that there was much material for which there was no room. So the commission established an auxiliary exhibit at Shasta Springs, about half way between San Francisco and Portland. It was immensely successful and last month over five thousand tourists were entertained at the rooms of the exhibit.

Printed matter was distributed in vast quantities and it was read, too, for it was given out to tourists who had a day's ride on either side of Shasta and anything at all to read was seized with great eagerness."

Mrs. Wiggins returned from the fair with her husband. She was one of the reception committee which received visitors to the building. Commissioners and Mrs. Wiggins will go at once to their home at Ocean Park, where they will rest for the next few days.

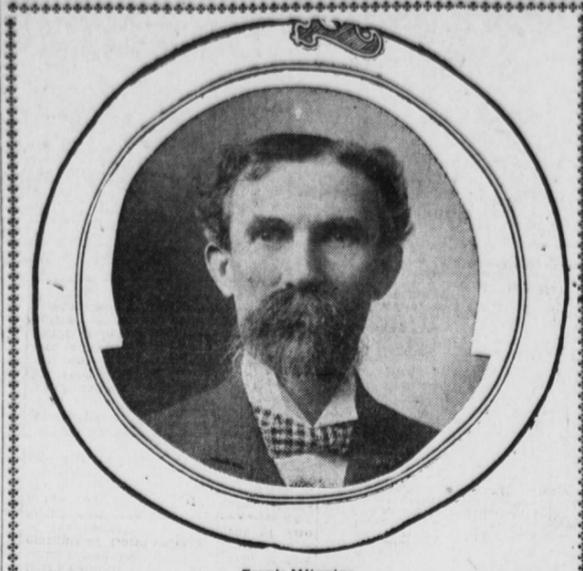

TELLS BY THEIR SLEEP

"I can tell by my little ones' sleep when a cold is coming on," said a mother when speaking of the advance symptoms of colds in children. "They toss about, are restless, their breathing is heavy and there are symptoms of night sweats. The next morning I start with Scott's Emulsion. The chances are that in a day or two they are all over it. Their rest is again peaceful and the breathing normal."

Here's a suggestion for all mothers. Scott's Emulsion always has been almost magical in its action when used as the ounce of prevention. Nothing seems to overcome child weakness quite so effectively and quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

STANDS ON TRACK AWAITING DEATH

F. L. PATTEE KILLED BY A MONROVIA CAR

Linotype Operator Terribly Mangled by Wheels—Motorman Unable to Stop Coach in Time to Save Life.

Standing with his face toward a speeding Monrovia car at Rosehill station on the Monrovia line, a man supposed to be F. L. Pattee, a linotype operator, calmly awaited death last evening shortly after 9 o'clock. Despite all efforts the motorman could not stop the car in time to save the man. He was horrified to find that Pattee would not move from the track.

The car bore the man to the ground, mangled his body. Within a short distance the car was brought to a full stop, and at once an investigation was made. Pattee was found to be dead and the coroner was notified. Witnesses to the accident say that they saw Pattee walk deliberately on the track and stand in the path of the fast approaching car. He seemed to be perfectly composed and did not move from the time he took his stand until he was struck.

Pattee had been employed for the past two weeks in the composing room of The Herald. He left yesterday, saying he was going to Arizona. Fellow members of the typographical union are unable to give any reason why he should have sought death. Pattee was about 47 years old. He had no relatives living in California.

BRITISH CABINET WILL NOT RESIGN IN A BODY

MEETING ATTENDED BY ALL BUT SALISBURY

It is Decided to Dissolve the Parliament and Leave Matter of New Ministry to Electorate—Marquis of Londonderry Not Out

By Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 24.—Today's cabinet council which, although not originally summoned for that purpose, had to decide the question of the resignation or temporary prolongation of the retention of office by the Balfour ministry, was attended by all the members with the exception of the marquis of Salisbury, president of the board of trade. Only a few scores of the public gathered in the vicinity of Downing street to witness the assembling of the ministers and there was no demonstration. It was regarded as a foregone conclusion that the cabinet was going out, and the only public interest was in the manner of its going out, whether the premier and his colleagues would take precipitate action or decide to remain in office for a little while longer to wind up the business actually in hand. Mr. Balfour's hand, it is understood, was somewhat forced by the resignation of the marquis of Londonderry, the president of the council and president of the board of education, which was tendered a few days ago. The question immediately arose whether the collective resignation of the ministry would not be preferable to its gradual disintegration.

The session of the cabinet broke up soon after 2 o'clock in the afternoon after a couple of hours' deliberation. It is understood that the proposal for the collective resignation of the cabinet was rejected and that the ministers arrived at the decision that it would be better to dissolve parliament and appeal to the electors. Should this course be followed it would be due largely to the well grounded belief that the Liberals would decline to form a cabinet before a general election places them in the possession of an adequate parliamentary majority to carry out the Liberal program.

As the marquis of Londonderry was present at the cabinet council it is evident that Mr. Balfour did not accept his tendered resignation, and the lord president of the council will probably withdraw it when informed that the cabinet would not again meet parliament with the idea of transacting further business. The ministers have not yet given intimation of the actual date of the dissolution and appeal to the electors. All doubt as to whether or not the marquis of Londonderry had consented to remain in the cabinet was dispelled later by a statement from the minister himself to the effect that he had not resigned. It is officially intimated that no statement regarding the dissolution of the cabinet will be issued by the ministers, but the fact that Mr. Balfour will leave London tonight until Monday and the additional fact that he is not going to Sandringham to see the king is taken as confirmation of the understanding that the premier and his colleagues have decided against precipitate resignation.

THROOP ROOTERS AT BONFIRE Troop supporters held a rousing bonfire and "rooters" meeting tonight in preparation for the championship football game tomorrow, when Troop meets the doughty team from Los Angeles high at tournament park. Troop recently offered a prize for new football yells, and a number of these were practiced tonight around the roaring fire. Speeches were made and the belief expressed that Troop stands more than a good chance to win the game. A number of shifts are likely in the local line, while the line-up of the visitors cannot be learned. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.
