SOCIETIES AT CLUB HOUSE

WEEK OPENS WITH BEAUTIFUL AFFAIR

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson and Miss Miles Entertain Many Guests.

Elaborate Decorations Are in Japanese Style

The Woman's club house was the scene of a beautifully appointed dancing party last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Frank King Wilson and Miss Miles of 1209 G. street entertained a large company of guests.

In the auditorium, where the company danced to the strains of the music of Arend's orchestra, the entire room was canopied with festoons of Japanese paper, Japanese lanterns shading electric lights, hanging baskets of ferns and small Japanese umbrellas.

A large Japanese umbrella occupied the center and from this the smaller umbrellas and fern baskets, which were dropped from the ceiling in rows, the festoons of paper were gracefully looped. Japanese banners representing scenes of Japanese life formed a frieze around the walls and above this were festoons of smilax.

The reception hall was beautiful with fruit blossoms and ferns. The blossoms, which were arranged in bamboo vases, almost hid the walls and bamboo in large Japanese jars still further added to the general effect. The hall was canopied with asparagus plumosus and balls of sprengrli depended from the ceiling beams.

Members of the receiving party, who included Misses J. Ross Clark, Wiloughby Rodman, S. S. Salisbury, Shelby H. Tolhurst, W. C. Patterson, H. H. Kerckhoff, Henry Carlton Lee, Harry Rex Callendar, Arthur J. Waters, Henderson Hayward, W. C. Hutchinson, J. T. Fitzgerald, William M. Lewis, Charles T. Whitney, Joseph H. Call, Bert Harmon Merchant, Misses Grace Rowley, Hazel Patterson, Helen Salisbury and Elizabeth Drake, were stationed in the middle parlor, where the same pink arrangement prevailed.

The broad mantel was banked with pink fruit blossoms against a mass of bamboo and it was in front of this charming background that the handsomely gowned assistants stood.

Yellow and green was the color scheme in the other parlors, where quantities of yellow acacia was combined with ferns and bamboo. The doorways of these rooms were framed in smilax and the same greenery was festooned over the walls, while lights were shaded in yellow and pink Japanese lanterns.

Late in the evening supper was served above stairs, where the rooms were canopied with fish net, into the meshes of which smilax had been woven. Japanese wall baskets of pink stocks decided the color tone and the centerpiece for each of the small tables was of the same delicately colored blossom combined with white iris.

Society matrons and maids were present in becoming gowns, and there was a corresponding number of husbands and young bachelors to represent the smart set.

USES LAD IN LOTTERY GAME

Police Interfere With Chinese Parent in the Interest of Little Boy

Patrolmen Willetts and McGraw arrested Wong Fong at 426 Nigger alley last evening on the charge of assisting in conducting a lottery. Fong is but 14 years old and is the tool of his father, according to the officers.

For the past few months the officers have been informed that the lad has been utilized to carry the lottery tickets from his father's house to the big drawing each night. The lad is a good boy, says the police, and attends the Los Angeles public school on Alameda street.

The officers made the arrest only to save the boy from worse difficulties. Steps will be taken in the near future to hinder the parent from using his son in this manner.

DAUGHTER'S ACT PROMPTS SUICIDE

FATHER OF YOUNG GIRL TAKES LAUDANUM

George Klotz Swallows Poison When Told He Lacks the Nerve to Carry Out the Threat

Taunted to carry out the threat to end his life, George Klotz, an employe of the Los Angeles street department, swallowed two ounces of laudanum at his home, 1454 North Main street, yesterday afternoon at 6:10 o'clock.

The sequel of the attempt at suicide is that Miss Georgia, the 15-year-old daughter of Klotz, declared she would marry Bernard Smith.

When Klotz returned home from his labors yesterday afternoon he found his daughter was not at home. She returned shortly and the discussion of Smith began. Klotz threatened to kill himself.

"Why don't you," sneered the daughter. "I don't believe you have the nerve to kill yourself. Why it's all a four-flush on your part," she continued. With that she left the room, she says, and did not return for some minutes. While she was engaged at work in the yard at the rear of her home a vague fear overcame the girl.

As Georgia rushed to her father's chamber a low moaning caught her ear. Once within the door she saw before her the limp form of her father, and out of the pallid features stared reproachfully the glassy eyes. In one hand was clutched an ounce bottle that had contained laudanum and a similar phial was on the floor near the bed.

For a moment the girl was almost frantic, the remorse of a loving daughter filled her heart. The next instant she realized the full extent of her father's peril.

Madly she rushed into the street screaming for help. Patrolman Dan Long was not far away and ran to the girl. In broken phrases she told the officer the story. An ambulance was called, in which Klotz was removed to the receiving hospital.

Police Surgeons Quint and Bonynge attended the man within a short time had relieved his system of the poison.

In broken sentences Klotz told his story. He said that he had remonstrated with his daughter for the past six months against "keeping company" with Smith. He said he had threatened to be thrown into bad company and get to drinking.

Once before, the old man said, he had prepared to take his life with a knife, but had been dissuaded. Recently, however, the family relations had become more and more strained. When his daughter declared her intention of marrying Smith the firm resolve to suicide overcame him.

Klotz is a widower and has cared for his two children for the past few years. He has been in rather feeble health. It was the fear that his older daughter, Georgia, would marry a man unworthy of her that prompted him to the action, according to his statement.

Klotz' condition is serious. He was closely watched by the doctors last evening, but they were unable to tell what the result of the poison would be. He gave his age as 54 years.

JUDGE SEVERES GALLING TIES

Couple Married in Los Angeles Three Years Ago Separated by Court

Mrs. Eva Butler was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Frank M. Butler yesterday by Judge Trask in department four of the superior court. The grounds alleged were cruelty and non-support.

The couple married in Los Angeles about three years ago and immediately thereafter started to quarrel. Both had been divorced before and according to their allegations neither came up with the score cards. Mr. Butler stated yesterday that she would rather live with no man at all than with a man who constantly "cussed" her, and Judge Trask severed the ties.

AGED MAN GOES TO HOSPITAL

P. Smith, a negro who claims to be 100 years old, was taken to the receiving hospital last evening suffering from rheumatism, after lying in a ditch at Baxter street and Echo Park road to seven hours.

Smith, who lost his left leg in the Civil War, is very feeble. He has been in the local hospital several times before, but always after treatment for several days he apparently recovered.

It was found upon searching the old man that he had money in his possession. When asked why he did not take an electric car for the city the negro responded that he was keeping the money to furnish himself with food.

THOUSANDS OF TOURISTS ARRIVE

STATION MASTERS LOOK FOR RECORD CROWDS

Charles J. Bloom of New York Employs All Known Adjectives in Describing Southern California

Los Angeles yesterday extended a welcome to more than 2000 tourists, most of whom came from the middle west and places near Chicago. This was the first number to come from these places on the excursion rates which went into effect on the 15th of the month.

The throng of people was not large enough to crowd the different depots, except immediately after the arrival of trains. The station masters, when asked as to whether they were kept busy directing the people, answered that their work was now comparatively easy, but shook their heads when they thought of the crowds that are to come and said:

"Just wait a few days and we won't know hardly where we are. Then we will have to answer so many questions that crowds of tourists will probably haunt us in our dreams."

The baggage men were not idle yesterday and handled many pieces of baggage. At all of the baggage rooms trunks were piled in great heaps.

Two Trunks Have Stories

At the Santa Fe depot two little trunks had stories of their own to tell. One was a neat little steamer trunk, encased in leather and almost covered with labels, showing that its owner had been almost around the world.

The other piece of baggage was only a little wooden chest, such as was used by our grandfathers. Probably it had done service for several generations, but did not look the worse for wear because its sides were of sturdy oak. Recently it had been lowered from the garret and given a fresh coat of modest dark paint. It had not heavy leather straps to protect it from the baggage smasher, but was wound round with a piece of rope, similar to a clothesline, to protect its lock.

Every train yesterday had its share to unload at Los Angeles to swell the large crowd of people who have been here all winter, many of whom will stay until after the fiesta next May. Several of the trains had so many passengers that they had to be divided into two sections.

Tourists on Every Train

Today the trains that will arrive will bring even more than did the trains yesterday, and it is expected that by the end of the week more than 5000 tourists will arrive in Los Angeles each day.

Unlike former years, most of the people who are coming will stay for three or four months instead of one or two, and many of them are coming to make their homes here for an indefinite length of time.

That Southern California is the most delightful spot on earth during the winter months is a fact that has been known in the east for several years, but the easterners are just waking up to the fact that Los Angeles and her sister cities have just as many charms during the summer as in the winter.

To impress upon the residents of far-away Maine that Los Angeles is not so hot a place in the summer that life is almost unbearable, but on the contrary is more pleasant than many of the northern states, has taken a long time. In speaking of Los Angeles and vicinity a few days ago, Charles J. Bloom, a retired New York financier who has spent several winters and summers here, said:

"This little spot appeals to me as being God's chosen spot on earth. I have traveled around the world, been in
