

GOOD NEWS FOR MAYNIE GIRLS

BELASCO'S NEW LEADING MAN ARRIVES
Will R. Walling Will Spend Week Visiting Places of Interest Then Begin Year's Stock Engagement

The Hasco theatre stock company will introduce a new leading man, Will R. Walling, to his patrons next week after next. Mr. Walling came to Los Angeles yesterday and the interim between his arrival and initial appearance at the Belasco stage will be devoted to inspecting the city in which he confidently expects to make his home for at least the next twelve months.

Walling has had considerable stage experience, and with the exception of one season has always occupied the position of leading man. He was introduced to the footlights with Blanche Walsh, whose leading man he was six years ago. After engagements with Juliet Marlowe in "Bonnie Prince Charlie," and Henrietta Crossman in "Miss Nell," Walling went to the Columbia theater, Brooklyn, to play the leading roles. After two years in the city of Bridges, Walling went to Boston where he played the principal roles in the famous Castle Square stock company. He visited San Francisco a year ago and was persuaded by Frederick Belasco to appear with Juliet Crosby in Colgate Baker's Japanese play, "The Heart of a Geisha," which was made known at the local Belasco last summer with Galbraith and Miss Crosby in the chief parts. The Belasco leading man later played a limited engagement with the Alcazar company in San Francisco and as the leading man of the Belasco theatre stock company in Portland, for seven months.

The management of the Belasco theatre will introduce Mr. Walling to the local theatergoing public Monday night, June 11, in "Soldiers of Fortune," Richard Harding Davis' stirring play of adventure and South American revolution. Walling will play the part of Robert Clay, the young American engineer who does pretty much as he will in the little dinky South American republic, from constructing railroads and running mines to putting down a typical South American republic revolution.

PUPILS WILL BE GOVERNORS

NEW DISCIPLINE PREVAILS IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Principal Hazen Will Today Try Experiment of Letting Pupils Elect a Board Which Will Regulate Details of School Life

A school in which the children are the governing power and in which a board of governors composed of the pupils of the school metes out punishment to the refractory, is the latest thing in school experiments.

At the First street school, located at East First and Savannah streets, the children of the Seventh and Eighth grades will today elect a governing board which will hold office for ten weeks.

This board will be composed of five children, three boys and two girls, and will have absolute authority over the children in the seventh and eighth grades.

Each of those grades will have a governing board which will be independent of each other.

The idea is that of Miss Lillian D. Hazen, principal of the First street school.

The board of governors will appoint a chairman who will in turn appoint a board of health, the duty of which will be to see that no rubbish is left in the school house or yard and to regulate the personal cleanliness of pupils so that no little boy will be allowed to come to school with a smudged face or soiled hands.

There will also be a fire board which will see that no paper or matches are left lying about where they might cause fire.

The idea of the scheme as explained by Miss Hazen is to give the children an insight into what self government really means.

PATROLMAN SHANNON HAS EXCELLENT RECORD

OFFICER WHO SEEKS RETIREMENT IS HIGHLY PRAISED
Chief of Police Auble Gives Man Credit With Being Good, Faithful Worker—Was Injured in Fight With Bruiser

Michael Shannon, a veteran of the police department who tendered his resignation to the police commission Tuesday night and asked to be retired on half pay, has an enviable record, according to other patrolmen.

Chief of Police Auble remarked yesterday: "Shannon was on the force before I was appointed. He has been a hard worker and has a fine, clean record."

Patrolman Shannon is now 60 years of age and is partially incapacitated for active duty because of a terrific struggle with a prize fighter named "Jimmy" Welch several years ago.

Welch was making a disturbance in a Main street saloon and Shannon rushed in to arrest him.

Shannon succeeded in capturing the man, but never fully recovered from the injuries he received.

Several months ago the patrolman arrested "Kid" Ely, the notorious diamond nipper.

Ely attempted to steal a diamond stud from J. O. Coleman of Long Beach, who was waiting in line for his mail at the postoffice.

Ely made a frantic effort to get away, but little Shannon held to him like a bull dog until help arrived.

The officer's request to be retired on half pay was strongly urged by Chief Auble and was accompanied by affidavits of reputable men who have known of the good work performed by Patrolman Shannon.

WILL R. WALLING

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

Ellen Beach Yaw to Sing

Ellen Beach Yaw, the coloratura soprano, Southern California's own night-ingale, will sing at the Mason tomorrow evening and be welcomed home in right royal fashion by her friends and admirers. Miss Yaw will present in a serious study when she bid farewell to Los Angeles two seasons ago, Ellen Beach Yaw today is a most finished artist, a singer so thoroughly trained in coloratura that she sings the most florid music written with perfect ease. Contrary to the prediction of certain authorities on voice culture, the development of Miss Yaw's middle and lower register was not secured through the sacrifice of her upper notes. Miss Yaw will present in tomorrow evening's program a series of selections which she has not used heretofore when appearing in this city, only giving by request the "mad scene" from "Lucia," which won her the united applause of the entire membership of the Mascagni orchestra, who assisted her at her debut in Rome. Assisting Miss Yaw is Senior Ricardo Ruiz, violinist, whose work is already well known to the music lovers of this city. The accompanists are Miss Mary O'Donoghue and Mrs. T. Newman. Remembering the artist who has been her friend since her childhood days, and who assisted in the first benefit given for the Newsboys' home, Miss Yaw has selected William Mead to play the flute obligato in the selection from "Lucia." This is the only concert to be given by Miss Yaw in this city. The reserved seat sale is now on at Birken's music store and the program numbers are as follows:

PART I.
Aria "Re Pastore," (Mozart); violin obligato, Senior Ruiz, Miss Yaw. Air de la Reine "Les Huguenots," (Meyerbeer), Miss Yaw. Air de Louise, (Charpentier), Miss Yaw. (a) Legende, (Wieniawski); (b) Perpetuum Mobile, (Ries); Senior Ruiz. (a) Marquise, (Massenet); (b) Villanelle, (Dell'Acqua); (c) Etclat de rire, (Auber), Miss Yaw.

PART II.
Mad scene "Lucia," (Donizetti), flute obligato, Mr. Mead, Miss Yaw. (a) "When the Birds go North Again," (Charles Willby); (b) "Love's Echo," (Ernest Newton); Miss Yaw. Rondo Capriccioso, (Saint Saens), Senior Ruiz. Some familiar old songs, Miss Yaw. "Thou Brilliant Bird," (David), flute obligato, Mr. Mead, Miss Yaw.

"The Two Gentlemen of Verona"
For the first time in Los Angeles, the devotees of Shakespearean comedy are to be entertained with the production of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona." During the New York season of the Ben Greet company of English players, the greatest hit made was that of Miss Constance Crawley's portrayal of Julia in this comedy. Her reading of this role is a model of poetic declamation. Her facial expression subdued, but ever eloquent, and the air of spiritual-ity, which irradiates her acting as indefinable as it is pervasive. The manner in which "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" is given by the Crawley company is a truthful, simple demonstration of a pure and lofty histrionic method, entirely different from the showy, complex expedients used by the wordiness of "leading women" and "stars." The performance will be presented in the Elizabethan manner. For settings, handsome tapestries will be employed. Special rates will be given to students, teachers and clubs. The cast is as follows: Duke of Milan, father to Silvia, Mr. Thompson; Valentine and Proteus, the two gentlemen, William Osborne and Arthur Maude; Antonio, father to Proteus, Mr. Davies; Thurlo, a foolish rival to Valentine, Alfred Wilkes; Speed, a clownish servant to Valentine, Gavin Young; Launce, the like to Proteus, Garnet Holme; host, where Julia lodges, Mr. Wilson; Lucetta, waiting woman to Julia, Miss Maude Turner; Silvia, beloved of Valentine, Mrs. Burton, and Julia, beloved of Proteus, Miss Constance Crawley.

"Fiddle-Dee-Dee"

Harry James, who has charge of the rehearsals of the Fiddle-Dee-Dee company at the Mason, announces that the company is ready to go on with the opening production of the summer burlesque season, which opens Monday night at the Mason theater. Stage Manager Lask has finished his work with the principals of the cast and is now brushing up with some of the local hits and topical songs.

"If you see a girl on the street with an unusually fine figure and a pretty face you will know she is a member of the new chorus at the Mason," said Len Behymer the other day. "I never saw such a beautiful bunch of girls."

Whether or not Mr. Behymer has been seeing with the eyeglasses of a press agent, we cannot tell until tomorrow night, but let us live in hope. A chorus of pretty girls will be welcome in Los Angeles.

A decidedly new touch is the draping of full sleeves back on the bodice at their top, so that they seem to be a part of the corsage drapery rather than sleeves.

Scotch effects in ribbons are very good, especially when used upon the little sailors which have created such a furore here.

INSPECTORS TAKE BLAKE TO BOSTON

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN DID NOT SAY FAREWELL

Officers Take Precautions With Prisoner Though He Declares His Willingness to Go Back to Back Bay

Looking worn and anxious, Thomas A. Blake, charged with the larceny of $10,000 worth of securities from the firm of Hornblower & Weeks of Boston, left the city jail yesterday afternoon in charge of inspectors Morrissey and Medford of Boston to begin his journey east.

Blake has lost flesh since his arrest and imprisonment, May 15. He shook hands with one of the jailers and remarked that he was glad to return to Boston.

His fair companion, with whom he fled from Boston, was not at the police station yesterday afternoon but, it is presumed, was waiting for him at the Arcade station.

Ever since the notoriety occasioned by her visits to Blake two weeks ago, the mysterious young woman, said to be a Mrs. May Richards of Boston, has kept away from the station.

Woman Avoids Inspectors
It was intimated that for reasons of her own she did not desire to meet the Boston inspectors, but of course had a perfect right to leave the city on the same train with Blake.

But few knew of the departure of the alleged absconder.
Inspector Morrissey hustled him around the Hill street side of the jail and whisked him away in a closed carriage. Blake was perfectly willing to accompany the inspectors back to Boston, every care was taken to insure his safe arrival and the officers will be on watch night and day until they have the prisoner safe in jail.

Blake was to have married Miss Besic Towle of Melrose April 30, but on the day set for his wedding he disappeared. At the same time a beautiful young widow living in the fashionable Back bay district, also disappeared.

Employers Make Discovery
An investigation by Blake's employers, Hornblower & Weeks, mining brokers on State street, brought to light the alleged larceny of $10,000 worth of negotiable securities.
An indictment charging grand larceny was returned a little later by a Massachusetts grand jury and a general order was sent broadcast to arrest Blake on sight.

Through clever work on the part of Detective Captain Flammer and Detective McCann, Blake was located at a Long Beach boarding house, in the company of a bewitching young woman who passed as "Mrs. May Richards."

Blake partially confessed his wrong doing, according to the local police, and through the good offices of his friend a portion of the securities were recovered from a Los Angeles broker who purchased them in good faith.

SAD NEWS FROM THE NORTH

Relatives of the Late B. J. Cooke Perished in San Francisco Earthquake

A sad sequel to the San Francisco disaster was the finding of the charred bodies of David Cooke and Andrew Coleman, brother and brother-in-law of the late B. J. Cooke of Los Angeles.

The bodies were found at 114 Third street, near the Palace hotel, where the men had gone to secure their valuables which had been placed in the safe. When found the safe had been looted.

Mrs. Dora Bartelme and three children, daughter and grandchildren of Mr. Cooke, escaped with a few clothes and are now staying with their cousin, Mrs. M. G. Gonzalez at 636 Sunset boulevard.

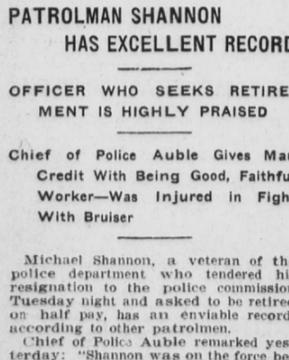

Until yesterday hope had been entertained that the two men would be found among the refugees.

A sad feature of the case is that Mrs. Bartelme's husband had recently died.

MR. REUBEN EMERY

Mr. Emery, who is nearly eighty-five years old, is as active as a boy, and takes pleasure in performing the most difficult and fatiguing work on his farm at Caro, Mich. Mrs. Emery, who is seventy-nine years of age, finds Duffy's invaluable as a tonic stimulant and strength builder, and cheerfully testifies to the great benefit she has derived from its regular and judicious use. This comely old couple have raised a family of thirteen children, all of them healthy and sturdy.

The following letter from Mr. Emery is expressive of his deep appreciation: "I am now nearly eighty-five years old, having been born in Staffordshire, England, August, 1821. I have been a very moderate drinker of intoxicants for the past sixty-four years, but Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in all that time. I have had a doctor only twice in my life, and have always been able to, and even at present, do all work necessary on my farm at Caro, Tuscola Co., Mich."

"My wife, Mrs. Sarah Emery, has also been benefited by the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. She is now seventy-nine years old, when Mrs. Emery was run down, our family doctor, Clark, of Caro, Mich., recommended Duffy's and after taking it for a short time she was restored to perfect health. We both highly recommend the use of Duffy's Whiskey for every one, young and old, on account of its wonderful rejuvenating and strength-building qualities, and will cheerfully answer all letters of inquiry. We are at present staying with our daughter, Mrs. Kresin, but will return to our own farm at Caro, Mich., in the spring." REUBEN EMERY, 730 Chestnut St., Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 7, 1906.
