PRaise WORK OF FRANCIS MURPHY

BUSINESS MEN TELL PERSONAL EXPERIENCES

Temperance Meeting in Blanchard Hall is Big Success—Many Embrace Opportunity to Sign the Pledge

Francis Murphy last night told of the great blessing that sorrow is to the world at the regular Sunday night temperance meeting in Blanchard hall.

Mr. Murphy said that people are given pain in order that they may know what it is and be prepared to sorrow and sympathize with others who are afflicted with trouble.

Attorney Frank Pratt was in charge of the meeting and gave a short talk, telling of the great good that Francis Murphy had done for him.

Mr. Pratt said that as a young man he had attained success in a worldly way and had pleaded before juries for the lives of others, had pleaded on the platform for people to vote in a way that would better themselves, but that he was unable to plead with God for help for himself until he was shown the way by Francis Murphy.

Mr. Pratt spoke about the opportunities of young men. He said that he did not agree with the philosopher who said that opportunity knocks but once at the door, for he believed that it is always knocking at the door of young Americans if they but live the right kind of life.

Judge Galbraith said he has known Mr. Murphy for a quarter of a century in Puttsburg and that he always felt that he could not praise him enough for the good he has done.

"He has saved an army of men," said Mr. Galbraith. "He has labored with love in his heart and his efforts have been successful."

Others told of the way in which they had signed the pledge and how their lives have been changed ever since. After the services were over those who desired to sign the pledge were given the opportunity.

Mr. Murphy announced that a benefit concert will be given by the artists of the city for Charles Hendricks, a talented musician who sang last night and was escorted several times, who has become blind, but can have his sight restored if he has the money with which to pay for the operation.

SAN FRANCISCO IS MEETING PLACE

Golden Gate City Assures Ample Accommodations for State Democratic Committee and is Centrally Located

Hon. Timothy Spellacy, chairman of the state Democratic central committee, in an interview last night at the Holbeck hotel, stated that a wrong impression regarding the meeting place of the state Democratic central committee was prevalent among the Democrats of Los Angeles.

"I wish it to be understood," said Mr. Spellacy, "that the meeting place of the state central committee has been changed from Sacramento to San Francisco."

"Owing to an urgent appeal on the part of the San Franciscans and assurances from them that ample accommodations would be had there I yielded to their petitions."

"Furthermore, when the question of geography is considered it is apparent that San Francisco is equally as centrally located as Sacramento. So no difficulties should arise over that."

MILITARY DRAMA STILL THRILLS

BURBANK COMPANY AROUSES PATRIOTISM

Revival of "The Girl I Left Behind Me" Meets With Favor of the Two Sunday Audiences

After the splendid efforts of the Burbank stock company to make a success of "Mizpah" last week, that military melodrama, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," seems to be a step down the ladder.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me" did not fail to arouse the patriotism of the people who saw it last night, just as it did in the days when it was presented for the first time.

William Desmond as Lieutenant Hawesworth is not nearly as imposing as he was in the role of the handsome king in "Mizpah," but then he leads "the Twelfth" to victory just at the right moment, so it does not matter at all about looks.

The work of William Morris as stage director was far superior to his acting as Major Bureleigh. Harry Mestayer's performance last night was the most finished and forceful of the piece.

Elsie Esmond again contributed another fascinating little picture to the play in the role of "Wilber's Ann." Miss Esmond is the most clever ingenue who has been seen at the Burbank for more than two years—not since Miss Esmond was there before, in fact.

John W. Burton portrays the part of General, in command of the military department, and Harry Grazier is the villain. Fay Bainter is the Indian girl and the role is an entirely new one for the little maid.

FROHMAN REVIVES "JANE"; SO DOES BELASCO COMPANY

The most successful farce comedies of five or six years ago are once more coming into their own, if one may take the demand for such sterling laugh-makers as "Jane," "Charles's Aunt" and "What Happened to Jones" as any criterion of the tastes of the theatergoers of today.

The New York "Charles's Aunt" was revived five months ago and it has kept the large Manhattan theater filled to overflowing every night since the opening.

Now comes word from Charles Frohman's office that "Jane," unquestionably one of the funniest farces that was ever played in this country is also to have a big revival at the hands of a special company Mr. Frohman intends to organize.

The Belasco theater stock company had planned to play "Jane" as the second anniversary of the opening of the local playhouse the first week in September, but a request from the Frohman office for the manuscript and an early local presentation made it imperative to call from the San Francisco Alcazar forces that charming and always delightful comedienne, Juliet Crosby, for the production of the uproariously funny farce tonight at the Belasco.

As soon as the performance of "Jane" is over this evening the bundle of manuscript, parts, music and costume plates will be expressed to Mr. Frohman in care of the Duke of York's theater, London, and if "Jane" arrives in the British metropolis on scheduled time the great farce will be played there three weeks from tonight.

PLAY AT GRAND IS REPLETE WITH HEART THROBS

Each week the melodramas at the Grand become more lurid and the audiences accordingly like them better. This week "Lost in a Big City" is the bill.

At the end of the second act an impressive fire scene is shown. The flames shoot up through the den of one of the villains with tremendous effect. There is a scheme on foot to ruin Sidney Heaton and as usual Fryse Mackay and Lilly Grayson and the original "Mr. and Mrs. Ruiner," Frank Frayne is not an ideal comedy Yiddish type.

Harrison King acted as the savior and if it had not been for his labors the loss in population would have been great. Lulu Warrenton has another of the "now, darling," mother is going away on a long journey," parts, and dies in the second act. It was plain that she was not long for this world, for her make-up was such as to cause her to resemble a corpse in the morgue.

Paul Harvey was acceptable as Sidney Heaton, who marries two wives because his father wants him to. Miss Snell is the heiress wife, according to the program. Myrtle Selwyn as the little Yiddish girl was good and her duet with Frayne were enjoyable. Muriel Fuller as the blind child was as pathetic as was required. Pathos, plenty of stabbing and shooting, and a spectacular scene are the component parts of "Lost in a Big City."

In Bessie Tannehill's Role Maud Williams will "go on" at the Hotchkiss tonight in Bessie Tannehill's role in "I O U." Miss Tannehill has been playing Ann in the Kolb, Dill and Dillon production, but will go north with the Olympia Opera company to Portland. Miss Williams is a great soprano stage favorite.

Miss Williams is best known as the prince in "King Dodo."

BOY LEAPS THROUGH WINDOW

Jumps Off One Vestibule Through Another From Opposite Direction, but is Not Killed

ALLEN TOWN, Pa., June 3.—Paul the 15-year-old son of W. H. Wiesser, last night leaped from the rear projection of a trolley car just in time to crash clear through the glass vestibule of a car coming in the opposite direction on the track alongside.

Besides being all cut up on his face, he received severe internal injuries.

RESCUES A BOY FROM THE WATER

MAN IS PUSHED OR FALLS OFF WHARF INTO DEPTHS

Launch Owner Allen Grabs Charles E. Morgan as He Sinks in the Ocean. Good Samaritan Happens Along

Charles E. Morgan of Los Angeles nearly lost his life in San Pedro yesterday.

But for the quickness of A. C. Allen and his launch Morgan would have been drowned in the harbor.

Morgan was sauntering along the wharf when he fell off or was pushed from the piling.

The man sank into the water with a cry, no one being near at the time but Mr. Allen, who was steaming near-by in his launch.

Speeding toward the sinking man, Allen grabbed him by the collar and brought Morgan ashore.

Mr. Allen is an official of the ferry company and received many congratulations for his work.

Clerks in the nearest pharmacy applied first aid measures till physicians arrived and Morgan was resuscitated.

Some one stated that Morgan was a refugee, whereupon Bart Mackley at once ordered a new suit of clothes and outfit for the man.

Morgan's Los Angeles address is said to be 1243 Wright street.

MOTHER RISKS LIFE FOR SON

Both Are Injured, but Escape Instant Death Through Rare Luck—Accident Happens on Hill Street

Mrs. Mercedes Dougherty and her 4-year-old son, injured in a street car accident on Hill street Saturday night, were said to be out of danger yesterday by the attending physician.

The injured are at the home of Prof. Rafael M. Gallegos, 1211 South Hill street, in care of a surgeon.

While attempting to cross Hill street early in the evening a Play del Rey car struck mother and son near Pico and Hill streets. They were carried to the home of Professor Gallegos, whom Mrs. Dougherty was visiting.

It was said that the boy ran ahead of his mother and was on the street car tracks just as a beach car came along at high speed.

Mrs. Dougherty sprang forward to save her son, but was also knocked down by the car.

Mrs. Dougherty is stopping with Professor Gallegos, her brother, and he was immediately notified of the accident and made arrangements to have his sister and her son taken to his house.

At first it was thought that the woman was fatally injured, but her surgeon yesterday reported that she would recover.

RAGGED TRAMP IS A COLLEGE MAN

WANDER LUST DOMINATES HIS CAREER

While Working as a Brakeman on Southern Pacific Detective Once Aided Graduate of Harvard University

In the detective department of the Los Angeles police force there are but few men who have not spent several years working at some trade or earning their living by some other kind of work. Among them are several who have been railroad men and, when the burglars on other "crooks" are good, they occasionally gather and "swamp" stories. They have become master hands at it because they grew accustomed to telling experiences when riding in the caboose as it bumped over the rails on dark and dreary nights.

One of them, who was formerly a brakeman, told the following story last night while waiting at the office:

"I was braking on the Southern Pacific before I became a member of the force. That was in 1900. It was one night when we pulled into Saugus. About two miles the other side of the town I noticed a light in an empty box car and climbed down to see what was going on.

"There was a ragged tramp. Ordinarily I would have made him get off the train at the next station, but something about his face and the way he kept his hair combed and his hands washed attracted me to talk with him.

"I told the story of his life after I had questioned him for a while and the good language he used and the look in his eyes made me believe him.

"He said that his parents had been comfortably rich people in Boston and, being a graduate of Harvard, they died and being of an easy turn of mind he had read it until he could almost say it backwards. I carried him to Santa Barbara and bought him a warm meal and felt well repaid by the time he had taken up which would otherwise dragged heavy on my hands.

"Queer chaps, some of these tramps," he added by way of conclusion.

Owing to the state of business the Talk-o-Phone department of the Southern California Music company will be open Wednesday and Saturday nights for the accommodation of Herald subscribers.

June Undermuslin Sale

Greater, broader, better, completer; ahead of all its predecessors is this June sale of ours. Extremes meet; every worthy style is here from the least expensive to the most elaborate, but the bulk of the sale is on the medium priced garments—accurately dimensioned, comfortably fitting, splendidly made of materials that provide style as well as service and very moderately priced.

Now you can't carry goods "in your eye." Even our most expert buyers always select by comparison. We want you to compare; to be painstaking and exacting; to spend your money to best advantage. Prove this sale of ours by careful examination—see if it isn't the real diamond among paste imitations.

Of course we've full and plenty of everything described heretofore; a few skirt prices today must stand for the scale of reductions along all lines:

- Skirts: $1.35 for $1.75 skirts, 1.75 for $2 skirts, 2.00 for $2.50 skirts, 2.50 for $3 skirts, 2.75 for $3.25 skirts, 3.25 for $4 skirts, 3.75 for $4.25 skirts, 4.00 for $5 skirts, 5.00 for $6 skirts. Drawers: 25c for 35c drawers, 50c for 75c drawers, 75c for $1 drawers, $1.15 for $1.50 drawers, 1.75 for $2.25 drawers, 2.50 for $3 drawers, 3.00 for $4 drawers, 6.00 for $7.50 drawers.

Handkerchiefs For Graduating Gifts. There's no prettier, more thoughtful or lasting remembrance to send east than a really good handkerchief of fine linen. The timely reduction of a sample line here makes their buying easy: $2 handkerchiefs, now $1.50; $1.75 and $1.50 handkerchiefs, now $1; $1.25 and $1 handkerchiefs, now 75c. Certain lines of stock for which we regularly get 75c we shall sell for 50c this week.

"Peter Pan" Shirts For Skating and Outing Wear. The makers never turned out a shirt for athletic wear that had anything like the popularity among women that the "Peter Pan" has. No wonder; it's the exemplification of comfort—made with wide soft turn-down collar and elbow sleeves, in a variety of fine shirt materials, both cotton and silk; prices $2 to $8.50.

Curtain Bargains. As a demonstration of our price-making, value-giving ability in this rapidly growing rug and curtain section we ask your attention to the following items: $2.50 Irish point curtains, in white and Arabian, $1.75 a pair. $1.25 fancy cross-stripe madras curtains (all colors), 95c a pair. 50c ruffled swiss curtains, 35c a pair. 9x12 granite art squares in many designs, $4. 35c floor oilcloth for 25c a square yard.
