Reminded by Blue Beads

Mrs. Galvin did not realize what she had done until she unpacked her trunk. She found the blue beads, and the grief which she felt at separation from her child overcame her and since then she has done little but sit and brood over what has passed.

at Franklin street and at Fourth and Market streets.

With knowledge that the strike breakers were approaching another crowd gathered at the factories and here for a time a serious conflict impended.

Boats crowded with people who had spent the day on the opposite bay shore discharged their passengers into the already crowded street and confusion prevailed.

A score of men who claimed ability to identify guards who had used their weapons were admitted. Acting under the instructions of their lieutenants the policemen began searching the men for recently discharged weapons.

They were placed in a patrol wagon, which by strategy obtained a lead of half a block before its departure was noticed with cries of "Lynch them!"

The demands for vengeance were heightened by the rumor that half a dozen strike sympathizers had been killed by the shots fired by the guards.

When the search for weapons began many of the strike breakers discarded their weapons, which were later discovered by the police hidden under benches in discarded umbrellas and behind pillars, which gave evidence of having been discharged within the hour.

Among those who were wounded were Ed Rosenthal, shot in the thigh; John Glass, aged 14, shot in the head by a brick; William Feine, shot in the foot; John Walker, struck in the face by wadding from a blank cartridge.

Among the men taken from the ranks of the strike breakers and guards by the police are Morris C. Blaker, Michael J. McDonald, Fred G. Shorter, James Lucas, Thomas Hardy, Harry Adelson, Frank Sharkey, Henry Miller, Thomas Williams, Samuel Saches, Walter J. Jones and J. S. Stewart.

Ten of the twelve arrested were armed when taken into custody.

MOB ATTACKS NON-UNION CREW

By Associated Press.

Two cars partially demolished and guards forced to retreat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—The question of the enforcement of the open shop rule was presented to the Carmel's union by the United Railroads this afternoon in a manner that provoked a street disturbance.

An electric car was run out of the Fillmore street car barn with a non-union crew and four armed guards. When the car reached the street a mob of "scab" was raised, and a crowd swarmed aboard, broke off the trolley arm and demolished the windows.

The crew and guards left the car when the crowd took possession. A second car in charge of a non-union crew was then taken out of the barn with the object of bringing back the disabled car.

After it had taken the wrecked car in tow it was also attacked and both finally run into a brick pile in a damaged condition.

OUTBREAK AT SIEDLICE IS INDESCRIBABLE

Hundreds Meet Death and Thousands Are Horribly Butchered—Bomb Throwing Results in Fatalities at Warsaw

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—The correspondent at Warsaw of the Vossische Zeitung says in a dispatch that the outbreak at Siedlice apparently was prepared beforehand. Bands of strangers, ostensibly soldiers on furlough, took a most active part with the soldiery.

At one stage of the fighting the Jews succeeded in driving the soldiers back. The victims are counted by the hundreds. Many houses in Siedlice are burning and nobody is trying to put out the fires.

A great many arrests were made today, but there are few Jews among the prisoners.

According to the Warsaw correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger the authorities had four pieces of artillery in operation on the streets from 8 until 10 o'clock this morning.

Twelve rounds were fired and four houses from which shots had been fired at the soldiers yesterday were completely destroyed.

In addition to the 150 Jewish shows a number of Polish stores were plundered.

The correspondent estimates the number of Jews killed as 100 and says many more were wounded. Only a few Christians have been permitted to leave the town. This attack on the Jewish population, the correspondent concludes, is an act of revenge.

Revolts Follows Girl's Death

By Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 10.—There was a revolt today in the city of St. Petersburg in the wake of the death of Mlle. Semenova, a girl of 22, a young and enthusiastic Social Democrat who was shot and killed by a soldier when she showed her contempt for the military cell overlooking the court yard.

Prisoners expelled the warders, barricaded the prison and laid the corpse of Mlle. Semenova on an impromptu bier in the cell, refusing to deliver it to the authorities and swearing they would die rather than allow the corpse to be buried.

WARSAW, Sept. 10.—Artillery was used in Siedlice this morning. Buildings on Plena, Warsaw and Aleina streets have been destroyed.

According to reports received here two hundred men were killed and 300 were wounded during the pogrom. A telegram received here from Siedlice this morning said the rioting and shooting there continue.

The revolutionists are firing their rifles from windows and the troops reply with volleys. The Jewish infantry regiment took the principal part in the massacre. Some passengers on a through train were hit by stray shots on Sunday. The loot offered for sale by the soldiers consists principally of jewelry and clothing.

OWL CAR PATRONS REACH HOME EARLY

As a result of The Herald's persistent agitation for the inauguration of an owl car service in Los Angeles, the first cars of the new schedule left the appointed places between the hours of one and two o'clock this morning and many who otherwise would have been obliged to remain in the city reached home at a comparatively early hour.

A number of women were among the occupants of the cars, and in their conversation expressed eloquent appreciation of the new order of things, being free in their words of praise for The Herald's success in gaining such an accommodation for Los Angeles night workers.

Men have said that the owl cars would be used only by drunks and carousers, but the crowds that patronized the service this morning demonstrated that business men and clerks are in the majority of those benefited.

Within a week it is expected the late service will be largely patronized.

PRISONER'S WIFE THREATENS SUIT

Denver Officials Prepared to Push Murder Charge Against the Husband Upon Arrival in Colorado

By Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 10.—The preliminary examination of Steve Adams on the murder charge preferred by the Colorado authorities after his release on Saturday under a writ of habeas corpus was postponed today until next Wednesday.

Neither Sheriff Sutherland of Wallace, Idaho, nor the Colorado sheriff who is en route to take Adams into his custody arrived here today as expected. The wife of Adams, who has been held in the women's ward at the state penitentiary since March, though no charge has been made against her, now threatens to bring suit for damages.

She charges that her mail has been opened by the warden without warrant of law.

Detective McFarland of Denver, who has taken a leading part in the securing of evidence against the men charged with the murder of former Governor Steunenburg, arrived here today.

He declined to discuss the move to take Adams out of the jurisdiction of the Idaho authorities and would not state what efforts would be made to hold Adams here as a witness against Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone.

Cars Land on Sides

By Associated Press.

Again the trick of fate probably saved the lives of many, for the cars, instead of turning turtle, landed on their sides.

Then from that mass of twisted iron and splintered timbers, came the shrieks of the imprisoned and injured. Thrown from their seats without a moment's warning and hurled into space only to go tumbling about while the cars shot to the beach below.

Passengers, an experience they never remember to their dying day. As the coaches fell women and children were thrown the entire length of the car several times, striking their heads against the doors and ceiling and breaking limbs on the sharp edges of the seats, but the women, hysterical and driven to madness, suffered torture before the rescuers arrived.

Sixty-five were taken from the mass of twisted iron and splintered timbers, and the rest were taken to the hospital.

Relief Train Arrives

By Associated Press.

As the first relief train arrived at the sea cliff, the wreck was a sight to behold. The monster engine rested on its side in the ditch, while the baggage and express cars were piled on top of it. In the sand thirty feet below, over the edge of the cliff, a mass of wreckage marked the spot where the passenger coaches had taken their headlong tumble and about fifty feet away, stretched out on the sand, were the injured and maimed victims of the catastrophe.

Upon their arrival here they were met with a condition almost as bad as that of the wreck. When the train bearing the injured arrived in Los Angeles last night the victims were spirited away. No one was allowed on the coaches. WATER PIERCE OIL COMPANY COMPULLED TO APPEAR IN COURT

After Taking the Stand Witness Reluctantly Describes Relations Between the Standard and Waters-Pierce Companies

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the executive board of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, was arrested today on an attachment issued and served several weeks ago to compel his attendance as a witness in a civil suit.

Mr. Pierce's attorney had guaranteed his presence today at the hearing of the oil company's suit against the Standard Oil company.

Mr. Pierce described the forming of the Waters-Pierce Oil company and stated that up to the time of the first liquidation in 1900 the business of the company had flourished.

"About that time," said Mr. Pierce, "an inexperienced agent of the company in Texas entered into an agreement with the Standard Oil company which resulted in our being ousted from that state."

"I took the affair up with the Texas authorities and was frankly informed that no Missouri company controlled by the Standard Oil company or doing business according to its methods would be tolerated in that state."

"After the reorganization in 1900, until the spring of 1904, the Standard Oil company made no attempt to interfere with my control or management of the Waters-Pierce oil company."

"At that time the Standard Oil company transferred the 2745 shares of stock held in my name to M. M. Van Buren and began in many ways to dictate the policy of the Waters-Pierce company. I protested vigorously against this interference."

Scores Injured in Bad Wreck

score are under the careful watch of physicians and surgeons with a fighting chance to win out in their fight with death. The others are nursing their wounds and threatening all manner of lawsuits against the Southern Pacific railroad company, which they accuse of carelessness and negligence.

The Sea Cliff stretch of track richly deserves the nickname of "Dead Man's Leap." It stretches several miles along the sea wall north of Ventura and frequently has been reported as dangerous by railroad experts from all parts of the country.

But there the track has been kept while the heavy weight of the north and south has daily been shipped over it because of the fact that it would cost a few dollars to switch the track to a place of safety.

Within the past few years there have been three ugly wrecks at the same spot, and yesterday's catastrophe adds another to the list.

Officials Non-Communicative

The railroad officials state that they know nothing of how the wreck occurred, but they never know anything to the detriment of their own interests.

According to the statements of passengers, the great mogul, going at a frightful rate of speed to make up time lost on a slow ground, ran into a broken rail on the sea cliff. If the track had been in proper shape and the train going at anything like the proper rate of speed there would have been no accident.

For the emergency brake would have had time to stop the train and the train could have easily been brought under control, but as it was the monster leaped forward along the track, the great driving wheels hitting the spread rail and leaping into the air.

The engine 500 feet, slipping the bolts until by a mercurial turn of fate the steel monster was swung to its side, dragging the express and baggage cars with it and holding them safe above the top of the wreck.

But the rest of the wreck was frightful to behold. The smoking car and the two chair cars well filled with passengers, many of whom were women and children, leaped the rails at the lurch of the engine and with no obstruction plunged over the edge of the cliff, thirty feet to the beach below.

Describes Wreck "We were on our way to Los Angeles from Spokane and we intended making our home here. Naturally we were taking a good deal about Los Angeles on the way down, and yesterday morning we were eating a late breakfast and discussing our arrival."

When the train dashed into the Sea Cliff stretch it was going at a terrific rate of speed. The coaches were swinging and the wheels rasped along the rails and there not a score of feet from the track was the edge of the cliff.

Suddenly the train seemed to strike a snag and the wheels buzzed frightfully. It was all over before anyone knew what had happened. The train seemed to heave, and it made me seasick. Then came a violent lurch and everyone in the car was hurled about, many striking against the roof. Some were thrown through the windows. I fell from one side of the car to the other and passengers were tossed about and stunned. When I came to my senses I was being lifted from the wreckage.

Following is a description by William Curran, who was on his way to Los Angeles to teach school here: "It was all over before anyone had time to realize. The train seemed to heave and then shot over the cliff. I believe the cars all remained coupled. Passengers were tossed against the roof of the car and piled in heaps in the corner and jumbled about. The relief trains did not get there till late in the day."

Scores of people with clothing torn and bleeding walked up and down trying to ease pain, others lay on the ground, unable to stand on their feet or sit up, and some lay as if dead. The road had been badly torn up for several hundred yards by the
