

THE CITY

Strangers are invited to visit the exhibit of California products at the Chamber of Commerce building...

The Herald will pay $10 in cash to anyone furnishing evidence that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person caught stealing copies of The Herald from the premises of our patrons.

Dr. Meredith Speaks
"The Advent of Christ in the Light of Science" was the topic of Rev. Dr. R. R. Meredith, a Congregational minister of Pasadena, in an address before the Methodist ministers yesterday morning.

Prominent Angeleno Dies
Death has called William C. Fish, well known in Los Angeles and San Diego. Mr. Fish resided at 1207 West Twenty-ninth street and the funeral services were held yesterday morning.

Charged With Robbing Guests
Marie Vidal, a domestic employed at the Rand rooming house on North Main street, was arrested last evening on a charge of taking money from letters belonging to guests of the house.

Old Resident Passes Away
William A. Field, aged 72, who had been a resident of Los Angeles twenty years, passed away at his home, 112 West Thirty-first street, Sunday night.

Dies in Tremors
Homer Kelsey, aged 45, who was picked up on South Main street yesterday afternoon suffering from a severe case of delirium tremens died last evening.

Search for Incendiary
The work of a would-be incendiary was discovered when Charles Roth, proprietor of the Wild bakery at 429 East Ninth street, returned yesterday from a trip to the mountains and found the floor of the bakery saturated with coal oil and several candles which had evidently been lighted stuck about upon the floor.

Fire in Henne Building
A fire which might have done much damage to the business section of Los Angeles if it had not been discovered, was originated in the Henne building last evening by a telephone fuse burning out and setting fire to the box in which the fuses were contained.

No Bail for Chinese
Joe Bong, a Chinese, was arrested last evening by Patrolmen Ingram and Pendegast and charged with selling lottery tickets. According to the arresting officers, the Chinese has been selling tickets on the streets in the Chinatown district for several months, but it was not until yesterday that evidence sufficient to convict could be obtained.

SEEKES TO SHIELD WOMEN COMPANIONS
SAYS HERALD ACCOUNT IS ONLY CORRECT ONE
Friends of Allen Ellington Pick Up Shredded Fragments of Decentralized Buzz Wagon—Automobilist Acknowledges Ownership

Allen Ellington, whose automobile was wrecked in a street car collision at Eighth and Flower streets Saturday night, yesterday claimed the machine that stood on this corner all day Sunday and secured all the detachable parts that had been removed.

ORPHEUM HAS ONE WOMAN WHO PLAYS SIX CHARACTERS
The Orpheum this week has one of the best bills of the season—an exceptionally good one that sets a new standard even for that house.

BRYAN TO TAKE PART IN NEBRASKA CAMPAIGN
By Associated Press. LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 10.—W. J. Lincoln gave out a statement today announcing that as soon as he returned from his southern trip he would enter the campaign in Nebraska and several other states.

EMPEROR WILLIAM VIEWS MANEUVERS
By Associated Press. BERLIN, Sept. 10.—The German war game culminated today in a collision between the cavalry and artillery divisions of the reds and blues and in which 10,000 lances and 200 quick-firing machine guns took part.

THE JUDGE AND THE JURY TO BE WITHDRAWN SATURDAY
Special to The Herald. NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—"The Judge and the Jury," the Oliver Morosco-Harry D. Cottrell play which ran so well in Los Angeles, doesn't measure up to the New York standard, and will

THE NOBLESSE IS A CERTAIN WINNER

POLLS AT HOTCHKISS CLOSE AND HE HAS MAJORITY
His Election by Unanimous Popular Vote Never in Doubt—Novel and Clever Playlet at Orpheum.

"The Nominee," which the Hotchkiss is offering this week, is as much a travesty on the mother-in-law as it is on politics. It is the same old "Nominee" with Goodwin's part played by an admirable substitute.

Apparently it does not take swastika pins to remove theater hoodlums. A good playlet and a good company with good presentations is the real swastika in Los Angeles.

Yet, having entered on a career that does not follow the narrow matrimonial path too closely, Medford finds that two or three of his friends must share in his downfall, and they share it all right—to help out the play.

Cutting a pretty plot short, for reviewing purposes, Medford induces his private secretary to represent him as a candidate for congress in a mill town district while he goes on to New York, and all the time Medford's family thinks he is stumping and campaigning, whereas he is rather near the Rialto.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

When the secret of the scheming is out Medford and his wife make up, peace is made and Medford consents to one of the conspirators marrying his wife's sister only on condition that he shares the mamma-in-law too.

George B. Howard is the man who steps into Goodwin's shoes, and he does not rattle around in them, either. Howard has the devil-may-care ways that are needed, has the recklessness of a man who believes his wife trusts him beyond the shadow of suspicion, and exhibits the inbred refinement of the husband who puts up with domination from his wife.

NEW PLAYERS IN AN OLD PLAY "KNIGHTHOOD" AT THE BELASCO

CHARLES BALSAR LEWIS A. STONE

Interest in the Belasco theater's re-production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," done so often and so well at this playhouse, centers largely this week in the debut in Los Angeles of three new members of this excellent company—Betty Jonson, who plays Lady Jane in place of Virginia Brissac, Lewis A. Stone, who has the old Galbreath role of Brandon, and Charles Balsar, who essays Buckingham, in lieu of Dempster.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

In the role of the imperious, wilful but most lovable Mary Tudor, Miss Gardner has one of the hardest parts yet given her. Not because she does not fully rise to it; she does. But because she has to play a part that is so full of contradictions, and she has to play it so well.

Miss Gardner is a delightful little body, bright, capable, pretty and fetching. The role of Lady Jane doesn't afford her the greatest of opportunities; one must wait till she has a larger part to write critically for her. But as a foil for the imperious Mary Tudor, and even in the one real chance she has in her small scenes with Caskoden, she is quite winning, and much may be predicted of her.

Very largely, the same applies to Mr. Balsar. Buckingham gives him small chance, but what openings he has, he takes. Barring a slight nervousness, to be expected, he gives dignity and standing even to the villain.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

Mr. Stone, as Brandon, is wholly satisfactory. He makes this hero an older man than did his predecessor, but he clothes him with a dignity, a fervor as a lover, a quiet resourcefulness, that raise the role to a high point. He has a resonant voice, a fine stage presence and a figure well adapted to romantic parts. In all respects, he fills one's conceptions, and the prospects of a lengthy stay—if this be a criterion of his work—are anticipated with much delight.

The 5th Store Broadway Cor. Fifth St. Today Is the Second Day of the "Skidoo" Sale. The second big day in this "Skidoo" sale will be a record-breaker for a Tuesday. Today is also our regular "Underprice Tuesday" and there'll certainly be "Something Doing" again...

Lively "Skidooing" Here - SECOND FLOOR - $7.50 Skirts $5.00 $3.50 Skirts $1.00. Women's walking skirts of Panama, Scotch tweeds, Sicilians and broad cloth; new plaids, mixtures, plain blue, gray and black; plaited front, side and back; trimmed in folds.

A Bad Break. When it occurs in your water supply pipes or those that do the draining is cause for a quick call on a plumber who knows his business and attends to it promptly and thoroughly. Our record proves that we are the right men to call in when there's anything wrong with your plumbing.

What Kind of Beer Are You Getting? If it's none of our business—say so. If you're not satisfied say that and try the Maier & Zobein brand. Use one case of it and you'll keep on drinking it for a dozen years or more.

Hotels and Beach Resorts. Spend Your Vacation at Santa Catalina Island. Three boats Saturdays, one Sundays, and two other days. See R. R. time cards.

Venice of America Land Co. Stop at the Great Venice Hot and Cold Salt Baths. Venice, Cal.

FOR SALE. Buy a Lot Near HUNTINGTON'S. New car barns on the Eagle Rock line. E. O. ALBYNE & CO., San Fernando and Pepper, 21259—Phone—East 922.

Society

Celebrates Birthday Anniversary. In honor of her 18th birthday Miss Dot Harrington of 817 West Twenty-eighth street gave a musicale last evening.

Fischer's "Beggar Prince". Last night two big audiences were set screaming at the antics of the comedians in "The Beggar Prince," Fred L. Griffiths' latest production at Fischer's theater.

Musical and Card Party. With Mrs. E. T. Parke and Mrs. F. A. Wilder as hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Henry R. Coate and Mrs. Edward Binz, the members of the Southgate Card club gave a card party last evening in New Southgate hall.

Miss Coulter to Be Honored. Mrs. A. B. McCutcheon of 213 North Soto street has sent out invitations for a luncheon to be given next Thursday at the Hotel Alexandria in honor of Miss Frances Coulter, whose engagement to Dr. McReynolds of Philadelphia was recently announced.

To Entertain Catalina Club. Mrs. E. L. Hopper of 41 West Thirty-third street will entertain the members of the Catalina club at the first meeting of the season Tuesday, September 13.

University Graduates to Lunch. The members of the University of Southern California club will hold their annual luncheon today at noon at the Bristol. Arrangements are being made for several hundred guests.

Is Home From Visit. Mrs. W. T. Barnett of 1343 South Flower street is at home again after spending some time in Omaha, Neb., with her niece, Mrs. Hugo Brandies.

Return From Lake Tahoe. Dr. D. W. Edelman and nephew, Leo W. Barnett of 1333 South Flower street, have returned from their trip to Lake Tahoe.

Club to Give Dance. The members of the Xopsia Dancing club are arranging to give a dancing party at Kramer's Friday evening, September 21.

Will Give Musicales. Miss Rhoda Park of 234 West Twenty-ninth street will give a musicale at the Woman's club house next Thursday evening.

Leonidas Club. The members of the Leonidas club will give a dancing party at Kramer's Friday evening, September 23.

Bryans Are at Tahoe. Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bryan and Minnie Bryan of 41 Westmoreland place are at Tahoe tavern.

Neuers Return Home. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Neuer of 843

TWO CASES FINE OLD WINE. Freight Paid to Any Point in the United States for Only $9. C. F. A. LAST 129-131 N. MAIN ST. Los Angeles.

Los Angeles Limited. Safely over the bridge passes the lighted 69-hour flyer running daily. Solid to Chicago via Salt Lake Route, Union Pacific and North-Western Lines.

Cafe Bristol. Is the most popular place for noonday lunch. Entire basement H. W. Helman building, corner Fourth and Spring streets.