

NEED TROOPS IN THE PHILIPPINES

GEN. WOOD OPPOSES ANY IDEA OF REDUCTION

Artillery and Cavalry Should Be Added—Favors Weeding Out Too Old Officers—Saving in Khaki Cloth

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—An argument against the reduction in a number of troops in the Philippines is made by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding that division, in his annual report.

The total garrison on June 30 last numbered 20,943 men.

Gen. Wood suggests adding some artillery to the present garrison and sending to the Philippines one squadron of each of the cavalry regiments in the United States.

Gen. Wood says there was a large number of officers in the service who entered during the war with Spain and afterward, and who are not of a type desired in the time of peace.

Also there are many field officers too old for their positions. A man past 50 years of age, in a subordinate position, he says, will not be very efficiently an important position involving responsibility in his remaining years of service.

Deserving colonels having less than five years to serve should be promoted and retired, for the policy of making general officers of men with only a year or two of active service ahead of them would take the initiative and energy out of the best army ever created, says Gen. Wood, and he also urges that not only should this government have a system of elimination but at least percentage, say two in five, of all promotions should be by selection.

Gen. Wood recommends that hereafter English khaki be purchased and made up into clothing for troops in the Philippines instead of using the khaki clothing made in the United States, thereby effecting a large saving. He says the English khaki is of lighter weight, more permanent color, more durable and better suited for tropical wear.

Gen. Wood, while commending the present administration of the quartermaster's department, severely criticizes the past administration, saying that great embarrassment and much delay in construction resulted from the confusion which existed as to barracks and quarters' fund accounts for which there was no excuse, whatever. He favors the hiring of army supplies by private steamship lines.

MEXICAN SHOT BY ACCIDENT

Pawnbroker Places Cartridge in Revolver for Testing, and the Gun is Discharged in Some Unknown Manner

Jesus Chavez, a young Mexican living near Long Beach avenue and Twentieth street, was yesterday afternoon accidentally shot in Gold's pawnshop, 108 North Main street, the bullet piercing the fleshy part of the left thigh.

The wound was caused by the accidental discharge of a revolver which Joseph Rosenbloom, a clerk at the pawnshop, was examining. The gun had been taken to the shop by Deputy Constable W. E. Buchanan for the purpose of exchanging it for another.

Finding it unloaded the clerk placed a cartridge in the chamber to test its mechanism and in some manner the trigger was released. Chavez was standing in front of the counter and was shot.

He was taken to the receiving hospital, where the bullet was removed.

ONE ANNEXERS ARE WORRIERS

PLAN TO EXTEND CITY LIMITS STARTS QUESTIONS

Petition to Bring Colegrove District and Griffith Park Into Boundaries Has Not Been Acted Upon

With the proposed annexation of the long strip of land from Los Angeles to the sea, others who have been seeking annexation to Los Angeles are wondering where they come in. This is particularly true of the promoters of the plan to annex Griffith park and a portion of the Colegrove district.

Although a petition, containing a sufficient number of signatures to make it mandatory on the council to call a special election for the Colegrove district, has been pending before the council for several months no action has yet been taken and there is no indication of any being taken very soon.

The petitioners for the annexation of the Colegrove district, however, are safe in their certain knowledge that their petition is on file and that at any time they can invoke the machinery whereby a special election can be called. A halt was brought to these proceedings, at the request of the consolidation committee, which at the time the petition was filed expected that the consolidation of city and county governments would come speedily.

Consolidation Far Off The plan to annex the strip sixteen miles long by half a mile wide in order to bring the city boundaries closer to the sea, and a sufficient number of Los Angeles voters see fit to extend the boundaries to take in the territory, they will come in.

It is said that the harbor committee of the chamber of commerce has called on the promoters of the plan to annex Colegrove and Griffith park to wait until the issue of annexing the territory to San Pedro has been settled before demanding a special election to which they are entitled. The harbor committee does not want any annexation scheme considered before that of reaching to San Pedro, as it is feared any other proposition might have the effect of jeopardizing the support plan.

As the general election is but a few weeks off it is probable that the Colegrove problem will not be brought up before that time.

Can Demand Election

But it makes no difference how much the water department may complain, there is nothing for it but for the council to call a special election for the annexation of the Colegrove territory whenever the petitioners desire it done and if a sufficient number of Los Angeles voters see fit to extend the boundaries to take in the territory, they will come in.

GIRLS' PRANK HAS A SORRY ENDING

This is the tale of two girls who masqueraded as burglars and of two other girls who were frightened by their friends' prank. Louise Klages and Miss Kirkpatrick and the two young men had made their exit, Miss Kirkpatrick went to the bathroom to see if the window was securely fastened, as her parents were gone, and two girls did not like to take any chances with bold burglars.

Miss Kirkpatrick attempted to open the door to the bathroom and to her dismay found it locked. Like a flash the thought struck her that burglars were in that bathroom. Across the street she went to call for the police, while her girl friend kept watch to see that the marauders did not escape.

At this time a clerk returned to the house she saw two forms cloaked in women's attire leave the bathroom window of the home and hurry down the walk. Quickly she called to her friend in the house and the two started running after the burglars.

Then the police and two officers and the two young women chased the burglars down the street to a vacant lot at Twenty-third and Ellendale streets.

At this time the women's dress which they were wearing when they supposed the pursuit was abandoned when they ventured out and started for their homes near Twenty-fourth and Magnolia streets.

As they started to leave the lot, however, they were captured by the police officers and in a second moment Miss Kirkpatrick and her friend came upon the scene. Great was the dismay of Miss Kirkpatrick to find that the supposed burglars were her own friends.

BUGGY AND CAR COLLIDE IN FOG

OCCUPANTS OF CARRIAGE ARE INJURED

Thrown Twenty-five Feet, One Sustains Broken Leg and Ribs and the Other Serious Bruises

Running at full speed through a fog so dense as to render it impossible for the motorman to discern objects fifteen feet in advance, a Los Angeles-Pacific car of the main Santa Monica line struck a buggy in which were James H. Whitworth, a rancher, and Edward Lloyd of Inglewood, one-half mile east of the power house at the junction of the Santa Monica and Redondo lines at 7 o'clock last night.

The buggy was utterly demolished and the occupants were hurled twenty-five feet. Whitworth sustained serious bruises upon his body and his right leg was broken. Two ribs in the middle section on the right side were also broken. Lloyd was less seriously hurt than his companion, although his injuries were severe and painful.

The men had spent the afternoon at Redondo and were returning to Whitworth's ranch on West Pico street, half a mile outside the city limits of Los Angeles.

Fog Very Dense

Lloyd, who is employed by Whitworth as a teamster, said he had been driving when the accident occurred. He said last evening that the fog was so dense that they could hardly keep the road.

The fog upon which they were in said to be a well traveled highway, but the car which ran them down, according to the men, gave no signal of approach. The number of the car which struck the buggy did not appear as the motorman after the accident did not stop or slacken speed.

According to the men, however, it was an outboard car of the Santa Monica line. They left the horse which they were driving to make its way home as best it could and took the next car to the city where they were treated at the receiving hospital. Both men remained at the hospital all last night, their injuries making it practically impossible for them to be removed. The Los Angeles Pacific company was asked in regard to the accident, but the officials of whom the inquiry was made asserted that there had been no report of any collision.

Vejar attempted to board the car at the end of the line, and according to his statement last night the conductor had failed to raise the cross bar on the right side of the car, which prevented Vejar from seeing the bar, and as he leaped upon the steps he struck his shoulder violently against it.
