

ANGEL CAPTAIN SERAPHS HAVE BAD DAY AND SEATTLE WINS

Errors in Two Innings Result in Many Tallies for the Swish Band—Score 7 to 2

Angels, 2; Seattle, 7

Since the days when Charley Kelly incurred the displeasure of Los Angeles...

Although Dillon suffered more than was coming to him through a misunderstanding of the crowd...

Whatever criticism may be dealt Dillon, no one doubts his intention...

In the eighth inning Burns was started to start the bench and then return when Nagle walked toward the box...

Burns took exception to Dillon's order when he called for Brashear to take a ball which descended directly over the pitcher's box...

Perhaps it was well that a little extra excitement was added, as the Angels behaved very badly and helped Seattle lengthen the run column.

"Rube" Vickers was out for Russ Hall and proved very stinky when singles were needed.

"Rube" was told he wouldn't do it toward the end they applauded him. Thus the fickleness of baseball.

Rube was very much to the good with men on bases, and though he allowed four men to walk, struck out seven.

Van Buren, center fielder of the Swishes, must be accredited a sensational and artistic bit of work in the robbery by freezing Bernard's Texan leaguer back of second.

Along with the Swish runners leaped around the bases.

An awful crowd witnessed the game yesterday and remained in wash lack O'Brien give his customary vaudeville performance.

AMERICAN CHICAGO A TERRIFIC DEMONSTRATION ACCORDED

President Murphy of Losing Club Gives Praise to Comiskey's Men and Says That Best Team Won—Nationals Are Not Forgotten. Receive a Great Ovation

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Chicago club of the American baseball league is the champion of the world. By winning today's game, 8 to 3, against the local club of the National league the Americans earned the right to fly the world's championship pennant, as well as the pennant of the American league, to ride to the grounds next season in carriages and to have "World's Champions" lettered on the blankets worn by their horses.

Today's game was the sixth of the series and the fourth victory for the Americans.

When the last National batsman had gone out and the stunning fact that the new champions had been created burned its impression through the minds of excited thousands, a crowd surged around the box where sat Charles W. Murphy, president of the losing club.

He smiled gamely at requests for a speech, and said: "The best team won. They won because they played better ball. Too much praise cannot be given to President Comiskey and Captain Jones and the team which, by unprecedented pluck, climbed in midseason from seventh place to the top of their own league, and then topped off that great accomplishment by winning the world's championship from the team that made a runaway race in the National league contest. I call for three cheers for President Comiskey and his team."

After cheer followed the speech, but they were lost to the hearing of the crowd, which was busily cheering other things—the individual players, the players collectively, and thumping said players on the back with such enthusiasm that every one of them had to fight a way out to the waiting grounds.

The cheerers for the losers were not lacking. They had lost the greatest distinction which baseball offers to its votaries, but the still a great team, and the crowd which followed their carriage through the streets did not spare their throats in saying so.

The crowd seemed loath to leave the grounds when the game was over. Thousands poured out of the bleachers and circus seats on to the field, while those in the stands stood up and watched the spectacle. The yell and screechings of noise-making devices which had been rendering the air all day during the game apparently to the limit were redoubled. It was pandemonium.

The players tried to cling together for mutual protection, but it was useless. A few moments sufficed to make each one the center of a densely packed half-crazed throng out of which he had to fight his way.

The wives of such Americans as were married were waiting for their spouses in the carriages to carry them away safely from the hero worshipping mob. A crowd of small boys tore the wire from a ticket window after the game was over and got into the field merely to stand on the historic ground and share in the excitement.

The victory was a fairly earned one, which is shown not only by the fact that the Americans won four out of six games, incidentally making a record, but by the fact that they played the game with a sly and play the seventh, but by the hits and runs the Americans, all told, made 22 runs, compared with 18 by the Nationals. They made thirty-nine hits, compared with thirty-seven for the Nationals. The Nationals made but five errors, compared with fourteen by the Americans. The latter also made the greater number of extra base hits, but the ground rules made nearly all of them good for only two bases.

Among the expert critics of baseball it is generally admitted that to the American pitchers most of the credit is due. This despite the fact that the American pitchers have but twenty-three strike outs to credit, against thirty-five for the Nationals. The Americans gave nineteen bases on balls, as against eighteen by the Nationals. Notwithstanding this the American pitchers were effective when hits meant nothing, and when they were not.

These men, all consistent hitters, were all but helpless during most of the series. On the other hand the Americans, popularly called the "hitless wonders," batted more strongly than their opponents, who during the season had done the heaviest batting in the National league.

In stealing bases the Nationals had a shade over the Americans. Catcher Sullivan and center fielder Burns were both formidable to base runners, but of the total of thirteen bases stolen the Nationals got eight.

Over 19,000 paid admissions had been registered at the gate at noon, the ball was tossed to every part of the diamond while Swish runners leaped around the bases.

An awful crowd witnessed the game yesterday and remained in wash lack O'Brien give his customary vaudeville performance.

PORTING Gossip Comment

Roy Hill is practicing with the Seals. The great southpaw is coming around nicely and will be able to get back in the game in a couple of days.

Parks Wilson has signed a player who bears up under the name of John Quincy Adams Andrew Sig Fair. One more name would have broken the line-type.

Big Joe Nealon, who made good with Pittsburg this season and who was a popular idol with the fans of the east, is to play with Danny Shay's Stockton team. He is a man earned much after the fashion of Silk O'Loughlin, and if he has the nerve of that gentleman he will make his mark in his chosen misfortune.

President Bert is congratulated in making such a good umpire as is this fellow Derrick. He seems to be the goods. He has a voice that would do justice to an Italian bass singer and gets around the field in excellent fashion. He is a man earned much after the fashion of Silk O'Loughlin, and if he has the nerve of that gentleman he will make his mark in his chosen misfortune.

The Seals have signed two new catchers, comely lads, both of them. One is Brown, who caught around Mariposa, and the other is Reihl, who played around the sand pyramids of Oakland. The boys are water lookers and should be of much assistance to the regular club backstops, who are now overburdened with the arduous task of catching.

Said the resident of Chicago to the visitor: "What impresses you most concerning our city?"

Said the visitor: "I don't care to talk baseball. I've come on serious business."

Though Matty Baldwin beat Chester Goodwin all the way in their fifteen-round bout at Boston last week, Referee Fishery called it a draw. In the opinion of many of the spectators this was one of the worst decisions that has ever been given in the east, and he has handed out many.

Fancier Weir of Manhattan has been bought in England the bloodhound Ripple Hector. The dog has been highly successful on the English bench, adding many laurels to the collection of his late owner, Handley Spicer.

At the first exhibition of the moving pictures in Chicago of the battlefield at Goldfield between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson, so great a crowd flooded into the New York theater that many had to be turned away. The pictures were remarkably clear and showed every punch distinctly. The crowd became very enthusiastic as the fight was rolled off and on, and repeated.

On account of the many assertions by Nolan that he had been robbed of the fight, particular attention was paid to the pictures of the last round. There was some difference of opinion as to whether the fight which ended the fight was foul. Terry McGregor, who was on hand, said that it was a very doubtful foul at best, and that even if it had been a foul it looked quite unimportant.

BASEBALL ON THE SQUARE

Had White Sox Thrown Yesterday's Game Big League Clubs Could Have Cleaned Up Over $20,000 More

The wise acres, of which there were a goodly number, are wondering today why the Chicago National and American league clubs let slip an opportunity of adding at least $20,000 to their gate receipts.

Had the White Sox thrown yesterday's game, which could have been done easily, would a record breaking crowd would surely have assembled for the deciding diamond battle. Over $20,000 was taken in yesterday and a larger amount would surely have been forthcoming had another game been in order. That baseball is conducted along lines of highest sportsmanship was thoroughly demonstrated in the outcome of the post season series which closed yesterday. Absolutely no grounds exist for claiming that other than pure love of the sport animated Chicago's great exhibitions.

So far as baseball is concerned it was perhaps better that the White Sox won yesterday's game, as from many quarters would have come an immediate "I told you so" chorus.

As President Murphy of the Cubs said after the last man went out: "The best team won."

With such men at the head of baseball the grand old game will surely continue as the American national pastime. Here's a hand to Sox and Cubs. Both could not win, but what a gallant struggle resulted when the mighty nines clashed.

The White Sox's race throughout the league season was an unimpaired one and that they should end a glorious season by defeating Chances' Cubs forms one of the most remarkable records in the annals of baseball.
