One more day; then the voting. Look at the picture; it doesn't lie.

Whew! But didn't Bell hand McKinley a lemon!

Now Judge McKinley wishes he hadn't went.

And still it is Hearst and Herrin, Ruef and Gillett.

The double-crossing of McKinley was worth all it cost.

Tomorrow California will proceed to hand Gillett a lemon.

Yes, Judge McKinley was at that "social function," too.

Just keep your eyes on that picture and you can't go wrong.

Gillett with his hand on Ruef's shoulder makes California infamous.

Arrange to take a day off tomorrow. Vote early; then work for Bell.

Who put Abe Ruef on the Republican committee? Judge McKinley.

Judge McKinley seems to be the Burchard of the Gillett campaign.

Will Gillett deny his water front bargain with Abe Ruef? He will not! He can't.

They can't convict the camera of lying. The photograph stands unchallenged.

There'll be more red fire burned after tomorrow—by the Democrats again, too.

Keep out of the circle. Put X after every name you desire to vote. That's the safe way.

Ex-Governor Gage can sympathize with Judge McKinley. He, too, spoke out in meeting.

Ruef, Hearst, Herrin and the Southern Pacific support Gillett. Bell glories in their opposition.

Ruef and the Southern Pacific own Gillett; Hearst and anarchy own Langdon; you own Bell.

"Have you ever asked Abe Ruef to resign? No," says McKinley. Ergo, Ruef works for Gillett.

Lest we forget! Gillett's hand rests on Abe Ruef's shoulder, as his success depends on Ruef's work.

Will you choose Ruef's man Gillett, Hearst's man Langdon, or your own free and untrammelled man, Bell?

Who named Abe Ruef? McKinley. Who for? Gillett. What for? Gillett's own personal campaign committee.

Will the Democrats of New York kindly heed Tim Spillacy's advice, as the Democrats of California are doing?

If Ruef wasn't to support Gillett, why was Ruef put on the Gillett committee? Ruef doesn't do politics for fun.

Langdon's "demonstration," amid the din for Bell, was as a penny whistle amidst the roar of a Gettysburg battle.

Ruef, in naming Gillett, came through with the goods. How could Gillett help doing his part—pardoning Ruef—if elected?

Gillett wears the Southern Pacific-Ruef collar; Langdon wears the Hearst-anarchy brand, but Bell stands forth free of all.

Put X after every name for which you wish to vote. Keep out of the circles. That insures your vote being unquestioned.

Gillett got his nomination by the grace of Abe Ruef. Will you let Abe Ruef get a pardon by the grace of Gillett? Hardly!

No one denies the water front deal between Ruef and Gillett. No one denies the social function photograph. They can't be challenged.

The ballot would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer and make a Chinese puzzle look as simple as a straight line. But if you put an X after each name and no X in the circle, you are safe.

Do you want Ruef for governor in fact? Then elect Gillett. Do you want Hearst for governor? Then elect Langdon. Do you want your own governor? Then you must vote for Bell.

GILLETT AND HIS CHUM

There are familiar proverbs to the effect that "A man is known by the company he keeps" and also that "He who touches pitch shall be defiled."

The San Francisco Chronicle, in speaking of Abe Ruef's career prior to the Santa Cruz convention, where he "delivered" the votes necessary to nominate Gillett, says: "But a few days ago he strode among his official minions like a king and the multitude made way for him as he passed; today he dare not show his face to an outraged community unprotected by a guard."

Ruef not only "strode like a king," but occupied the place of honor at the banquet table in Santa Cruz where the Republican machine ticket was drafted. It is Ruef, not Gillett, who appears in the king-like sitting posture, while the lesser lights of the combine respectfully stand. And it is Candidate Gillett who has the distinguished honor of placing his hand familiarly and fondly on the shoulder of the mighty Ruef.

Could Candidate Gillett touch such pitch as Abe Ruef without being defiled? Could he consort with such a character as Ruef is painted by the Chronicle without being amenable to the inference that he was in congenial company and that he must be judged accordingly? With the famous photograph mentally before it the Chronicle says further of the man who furnished the needful votes for Gillett's nomination:

"Already is he receiving a foretaste of the just retribution for his crimes, which will be still incomplete when he emerges from the felon's cell whose doors stand open to receive him."

No flow of buncombe oratory, no output of editorial spasms can mislead voters to the belief that the intimacy between Ruef and Gillett is anything but what it appears to be as testified by the camera, and no beating of tomtoms and gongs will draw the attention of voters from that picture.

Furthermore, no discerning voter can fail to see that the favor tendered to Gillett at Santa Cruz will call for reciprocity in the event of Gillett's election and of Ruef's getting "what is coming to him" in the criminal courts.

EVERY MAN MUST VOTE

The most priceless possession of the American citizen today is the right to vote. Yet how often does he fail to exercise it.

The inherent and basic motive of the war of the revolution was the denial of this right. The American colonies demanded the right of representation. To be represented they must choose men to do so. The selection could only be made by vote. England's refusal led to American freedom.

But, while this right to vote was not only a privilege but a duty in the earlier days of the republic, it has gradually become of less and less value to the very men who should be most anxious to exercise it and who would suffer most from its loss. The ignorant, the corrupt, the lower classes, all vote; line up at the polls on every occasion and cast their ballots. To them the duty may not be sacred, but it never occurs to them not to vote.

But the wealthy, the leisure class, and especially the business men—they are the negligent ones. It seems such a little thing, their one vote apiece; it cannot change the result; it will not be missed; it carries no inherent right; the time can't be spared. "What's the use?" This sort of man puts his duty aside and salves his conscience with excuses.

And on him rests the burden of bad government today. If he did vote, he could hold the balance of power; he could insure this time the election of the best men nominated, and compel the choice of still better ones on all sides next time. Once the real, solid men of the community turn out and cast their ballots as honestly as they conduct their business affairs, it is good by to bosses, machine rule and corruption.

Besides, a man owes it to himself, his country and his God to vote. The ballot is not so much a right as it is a duty. In the wisdom of the ages, every individual man has been intrusted with the responsibility of governing himself and of helping to govern his city, state and country. This is a sacred trust and duty, as much so as is anything in his life. If he fails to vote, by just so much does he fail in his responsibilities toward himself, his land and his God.

The Herald urges every duly registered voter, therefore, to turn out and cast his ballot tomorrow. The law of the land requires it; the law of God orders it. No matter whom you may favor for office, it is required of you that you cast your own ballot for your own choice, and he is not worthy of American citizenship who falls so to do.

Labor stands by Bell because it knows he will give labor a square deal—no more and no less. Labor repudiates Gillett because he has already betrayed it. Labor laughs at Hearst's puppet, Langdon, and asks him if he, like Hearst, will employ Chinese because they work for a pittance.

Don't forget that Ben Ward is opposed only by the corporations and by the Twilight Snooze, which the corporations own, body and breeches. That's the reason why Ben Ward should be elected.

The Republican papers may try to flimflam, but you get the real facts from that picture. The camera can't lie. Ruef, with Gillett leaning on his shoulder.

It's a choice between Hearst and anarchy, Ruef and the Southern Pacific, or your own selves with Bell. Vote for yourselves.

Is Abe Ruef on the Republican committee? "Yes," says Judge McKinley.

RED-LETTER MONTH

A record breaker in values represented by Los Angeles building permits for a single month is the compliment paid to October by the official figures. And the month just ended overlaps the corresponding month a year ago in that respect by more than half a million dollars.

October, 1906, passes into the history of Los Angeles development as a red-letter month, with a total of $1,859,267 representing buildings projected.

In the building report for October, however, we have a striking indication of the temporary effect upon home improvements resulting from the recent extraordinary advances in cost of building materials. The number of home structures for which permits were secured last month falls considerably below the figure for October of last year.

But for the partial lull in home building consequent upon increased cost the record for last month would have been phenomenal in the number of permits issued as well as in the values they represent. The lull will necessarily be only temporary, however, for reasons easily explained.

In the first place, the same cause which has led to a breaking of records in the projection of costly business structures will eventually lead to corresponding activity in home building. Scarcity of supply in residence houses already has reached a stage that will lead to large expansion in buildings of that class, regardless of high prices for materials.

Real estate dealers declare that they have never known a period in the city's history when it was so difficult as it is at the present time to supply the demand for rentable residences. The supply of salable houses also is approaching exhaustion and prices are advancing in proportion to the cost of building.

A direct incentive to the cost of building is foreseen by persons well acquainted with present conditions. That is the prospect of a material drop in lumber prices in the near future. An extraordinary eastern demand for lumber is the main cause assigned in the trade for the great advance in prices on this coast, and it is said that the eastward train will cease with the coming of cold weather, when building in the east is greatly retarded.

Architects and contractors report that preparations for future building in the business districts indicate still further increase in volume. That outlook assures corresponding increase in the volume of building for residence purposes.

The president devotes the whole power of his office, his cabinet, his rhetoric and his strength to Hughes in New York, but when it comes to Gillett, he "can't mix in a state fight."

The Southern Pacific works 365 days in every year to do the people. Isn't it incumbent upon the people to give one day, tomorrow, to putting the Southern Pacific back where it belongs?

"The Only Way" to secure your own governor is to choose Bell. Hearst owns Langdon, and Gillett is syndicated out between Ruef and the Southern Pacific.

Ruef nominated Gillett; Gillett promised Ruef the San Francisco water front. Ruef agrees to elect Gillett; Gillett will pardon Ruef. There you are.

The election of Langdon would mean the installation of Abe Ruef as prosecuting attorney of San Francisco. No danger; Langdon won't be elected.

Don't forget that Dr. Lamb is not on the Democratic ticket, but a Republican. Eldridge is—by a flimflam trick. Vote for Lamb and decency.

Really, the questioning of Judge McKinley is almost as damning as is that banquet picture in which he and Abe Ruef figure with Gillett.

That's what McKinley gets for butting into a Democratic meeting. He belongs back with the rest of the Ruef-Southern Pacific gang.

A bargain is a bargain. Ruef named Gillett; Gillett, if elected, must turn over the San Francisco water front to Ruef. That's the deal.

MR. BELL ON LABOR On Saturday night, September 20, Hon. Theodore A. Bell, Democratic nominee for governor, addressed the union labor organizations of this city, who had given him a great reception.

"I have always believed that the chief executive of the state should not and cannot be the representative of any special class. "So for that reason I will not say if I am elected I will be the special representative of labor, for if I did I would not believe me, and if I did I would be unworthy to hold that office. "I have taken this nomination from the labor party as a great compliment to me. I have not been an agitator or demagogue with them. I have simply told them my views of labor conditions and what I mean to do. "What have I exacted no pledge from me. They have simply asked me to give labor a square deal. I would have done that even had they not asked me. For had I felt otherwise toward labor, or any other class, I would have felt unworthy to accept the nomination."

"How's your boy getting along at the military academy?" "He's working too hard, I guess. The commandant writes me that he soldiers all the time."—Chicago Tribune.

VICTORY ASSURED ON ELECTION EVE

ALL AGREE THAT BELL WILL WIN

Democratic Standard Bearer Goes Back to Napa to Vote and Will Stay There to Hear the Returns

(Continued from Page One.) mailed to every voter by the Republican county central committee, with a copy of a check of the Pacific Purse company, etc.) are for the same purpose, are paid for with corporate coin—coin of the same machine that ran the Venice convention, viz.: S. P. R. R. and allied corporations. Don't be fooled, Mr. Taxpayer. I submit, if these statements are true, why did they wait till the eve of the election. They are lies. It will cost you money if you allow these paid advertisements of the corporations to influence you.

Just know that they are after the assessments; that they may make some other assessments and add on you for part of their taxes, as in former days.

We ask you to examine this sample of Ben E. Ward's assessments. This sample of assessments is not a little of it is represented by the new growth, but they don't want a man that has his eye on the new, or any other growth, when it comes to their properties:

Pacific Electric $ 423,845 $5,571.275 Los Angeles Ry. 1,116,725 4,085,580 Los Angeles Pacific... 427,865 3,574,395 Southern Pacific 231,255 4,478,987 Sunset Telephone Co. 315,508 2,204,776 Home Telephone Co. 159,655 1,849,580 L. A. Gas & Elec. Co. 710,870 3,924,025 Water & Sewerage 84,502 350,215 Edison Electric Co. 207,060 2,952,185

The assessment of Ascot Park is as follows: Land owned by Los Angeles Land company, $46,320; Improvements owned by Jockey club, $160,000; total $206,320.

This represents but a few of the interests that are spending money like water, flooding the country with printed matter defaming Ben E. Ward. You don't like him, do you?

You may not know it, but he is your friend. He is the friend of the taxpayers all over the county, and should be elected. Your vote will add to his majority. Vote for him and thereby give this rotten machine the real rebuke they are justly entitled to. Make the dirty campaign they are putting up of mud and filth.

The election of Ben E. Ward will not only insure a fair and equal assessment, but it will start the wheels toward putting this rotten S. P. R. railway push out of business. Don't forget the figures as above.

I will donate $500 to any charity to be named by three civic bodies in this city if I can't prove EVERY CHANGE made against me to be untrue or misrepresentation of the facts contained in these vile statements, circulars, cards and advertisements gotten up by a bunch of cheap politicians. Respectfully, BEN E. WARD.

A Few Ben Ward Don't's DON'T fail to vote. DON'T fail to vote early in the morning. DON'T fail to see that your neighbor votes. DON'T forget "Every knock is a boot" (the machine) are going to try and make Ben Ward's election unanimous by sending some more dope through the mails.

DON'T lose the chance to puncture the tire of the "machine" and put them out of business. It's time Boss Parker and his bunch were brought to heel. DON'T use the circle. Pick your men and vote for them. You can't invalidate your ballot by voting more than once for a candidate. It counts only if you mark his name twice or more.

DON'T use a pencil. DON'T scratch or erase the cross. Once on let it stay. DON'T hurry. Take your time. Yours truly, BEN E. WARD.

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN REGARDING METHOD OF MARKING BALLOTS (EDITOR HERALD): In view of the fact that names of numerous candidates for county offices appear on more than one ticket and the likelihood of hundreds of voters stamping the same name more than once, I think that too great publicity cannot be given to certain provisions of the law which I include in order that election boards will know that such ballots must be counted. Yours truly, F. R. WILLIS.

Subdivisions 4 and 5 of section 1211 of the Policy (the machine) is unauthorized by the act shall be held to invalidate such ballot, unless it shall appear that such mark was placed thereon by the voter for the purpose of identifying such ballot.

"If the name of the same person is printed more than once on a ballot as a candidate for the same office, the placing of a cross opposite such name in more than one of the different places where it is printed must not be regarded as putting a distinguishing mark on the ballot, and must be counted only as one vote for such person."

Another Suggestion (EDITOR HERALD): I desire to direct attention to what seems to me to be a very misleading instruction to voters appearing at the head of sample ballots sent out, which reads as follows: "To vote a split ticket, that is, one for candidates of different parties, stamp a cross (x) in the voting circle at the head of your party ticket and a cross (x) after each candidate not on your party ticket for whom you desire to vote," etc. Section 1205 Political Code, governing the marking of ballots by the voter, provides that a cross (x) in the party voting circle in the following language: "... such stamp shall be deemed to be a vote for such candidate named on such party or independent ticket." Hence if a Republican who desires to vote a split ticket follows this instruction by stamping in the party circle and then, desiring to vote for the assessor on the Democratic ticket, puts a cross (x) opposite the name of the Democratic nominee for that office, his vote as to assessor would be lost for duplication, because a candidate for assessor is named on the Republican ticket. It is one when the party ticket does not contain the names of candidates for all offices for which a party may vote that the voter can stamp the party circle and then as to such offices for which candidates have not been named on his party ticket he

A remarkable campaign is drawing to a close, under the leadership of the peerless and brilliant standard bearer of the Democratic party, Theodore A. Bell, our candidate for governor. The revolt of the independent citizens against the continuation of boss rule, aided by a strong and united party, cause us to predict the election of the entire Democratic state and county ticket. Not in years has the party had such bright prospects for success, and nothing but overconfidence will lose the day for us.

We appeal to all loyal, patriotic Democrats to vote early, and then assist the party workers at the polls. If you have a carriage, automobile or other conveyance, send it to your precinct, as we need all the help we can get.

We have victory within our grasp. A full vote and an honest count will insure success.

The polls open in all precincts of the county at 6 a. m. and close at 5 p. m. Upon every election board the Democratic and Republican parties must have equal representation; therefore, at the opening of the polls it is the duty of the electors present to demand the seating of the number of members of the election board to which we are entitled (four), even if the others claim, by appointment, such right.

The members of the law committee and the executive officers of this committee will be at the headquarters, 342 South Broadway, the entire day, and until the ballots are counted and returns made to the county clerk. (Tel. Main 6390; Home 7496.)

We advise all voters to avoid stamping in the party circles, but to place the cross after the name of each candidate desired to be voted for.

ANTHONY SCHWAMM, Chairman Democratic County Central Committee.

CONTENDING FORCES AGREE Wilmington Dock Company Will Be Permitted to Continue Proposed Dredging Special to The Herald. LONG BEACH, Nov. 4.—A conference was held in Los Angeles Saturday between directors of the Wilmington Dock company of this city and representatives of the Bannings' interests, at which it is said the differences of the two were settled amicably so far as the proposed improvements are concerned which the dock company contemplates making at Wilmington.

These improvements will include the dredging of a channel from Wilmington to Mormon islands. The Bannings had objected to the proposed dredging and Capt. Amos Fries, chief of the corps of United States engineers, called a public hearing. This was continued for thirty days, but with no evident prospect of dredging would have to be postponed for that length of time. As a result of the agreements the dock company will put a dredger at work immediately and the channel will be completed and docks built with all possible haste. Those interested hope to see the work completed within forty days.

CIGAR MAN NOT PROSECUTED Detective Who Caused His Arrest on a Liquor Selling Charge Fails to Appear Special to The Herald. LONG BEACH, Nov. 4.—Because the detective who caused his arrest failed to appear in court Saturday, the complaint against L. L. Brown, the West First street cigar dealer, charging him with the illegal sale of liquor, was dismissed by Judge J. J. Hart, city recorder.

The name signed to the complaint was that of "Detective Cochrane." Some doubt was expressed as to his identity. The city officers say that unless the complaining witnesses appear as the other cases are called for trill the arresting officers may find themselves made defendants in suits for criminal libel.

The case against Capt. X. H. Hollar of the San Diego is set for next Monday morning. Wesley Holmes is to plead next Wednesday morning.

BANNER WEEK IN LOT SALES The H. H. McCord company, which owns the Original townsite of Searchlight, Nev., reports that the past week was the banner one in the matter of lots sold since the tract was placed on the market. Over sixty lots were transferred to Los Angeles investors for something over $14,000. An entire block of thirty residence lots was taken by B. F. Crews and H. Kirchenschlager of Monrovia for $3500. A party of Monrovia composed of Mr. Crews, J. A. Crandall, H. M. Best and M. J. Eshbarger left for Searchlight last night, where they expect to make extensive investments.

The camp is now in the midst of a veritable real estate boom, which has resulted from the aggressive Los Angeles campaign of the H. H. McCord company. Prices of business lots on Hobson street have advanced from $100 to $2500 and residence lots have gone up from $10 to $200 in a year.

BELL SALUTES WEE DEMOCRAT

MADE ITS FATHER AND MOTHER PROUD INDEED

Woman in Pink Rushes to Carriage to Shake Hands with Next Governor.

Two Pretty Incidents in Saturday's Parade

There is a proud mother and father in Los Angeles today and it is because of the special consideration their baby got from a man who is in the public eye.

Passing on Broadway near the Broadway department store in Saturday night's notable political parade Theodore A. Bell of Napa, candidate on the Democratic ticket for governor, saw a father holding a baby aloft from the curbstone during the procession, saw the infant arms and feet wiggle and a doting mother looking supremely happy by its side.

Though cheers were ringing out, the band was playing and there was hardly time to get details from his carriage Mr. Bell arose in his seat, waved his hand at the baby, raised his hat to the mother and gave the little one all the recognition that could be bestowed regardless of whose baby it was.

"The father was Ed O'Hara of 2008 Leoti street. The baby was Guy O'Hara. Scores of lookers on saw the graceful act and cheered all the more while some bystanders predicted positively that the O'Hara baby would some day make a name for itself.

At the next block south on Broadway while thousands were lined up on the sidewalk cheering a dresy man and a woman in pink silk stepped quickly from the curb, advanced to the carriage of honor and extended hands to Mr. Bell, who had seen the couple and arose to greet the pair. The four white horses were stopped while a few brief greetings were exchanged.

The mother was Ed J. Smith of Redondo with Mrs. Smith. "I helped Mr. Bell on his first campaign for congress," said Mr. Smith to an inquirer, "and I wanted to wish him success for the governorship."

PASTOR CELEBRATES FIFTH ANNIVERSARY Women of Congregation of Westlake Presbyterian Church Decorate the Edifice in Floral Designs, One Bearing Text of Presiding Preacher

The fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. W. D. Landis was observed with appropriate services yesterday morning at the Westlake Presbyterian church. Decorations had been provided by the women of the congregation, including a motto, "Hitherto Hath the Lord Helped," in large letters over the pulpit, which was taken as a text by Rev. I. Selig, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Clearwater, Cal., who has known the church from its organization and been acquainted with all of the four pastors who have served this church.

In part Rev. Mr. Selig said: "The help of God bringing deliverance is the theme brought to our notice and specially emphasized in the text. The victory in the conflicts thus far is also a pledge of complete and final victory. The object of the memorial service set up by Samuel in connection with the text was to keep in thankful remembrance the help which had been received. This stone was called Ebenezer, or stone of help.

"Every year has his grateful Ebenezer, thankful memorials of help from God. There is not a day in his life but calls for some such memorial of the divine help received in the hour of need. It is the duty of the church, in the same by the dedication of the infant child of your pastor and wife in the ordinance of baptism, and now to speak a few words appropriate to the occasion. The memorial is an elevation in spirit that enables us to take a broad view of our surroundings. So such an occasion furnishes a fitting opportunity of scanning the past and peering hopefully into the future, and has blessed youth in church in the pastors whom he has sent to lead and guide you.

"The sainted Cowan, who organized the church eleven years ago last July now rests from his labors and his works do follow him. "Brothers Johnson and Tanner, neither of them with you very long, were with you long enough to sow good seed and make good impressions for the cause of Christ in this community. And for the past five years you have had the faithful efforts of your present pastor.

"The very best the pastor and his wife have had of prayer and effort of their heart and life they have given to this church. With you they have labored and prayed and hoped. And with you they are eagerly looking toward the future, in faith believing that greater things are in store for this church. God will bless and save in the new church, which you hope to have in the near future. The same have in the near future, in faith believing that greater things are in store for this church. God will bless and save in the new church, which you hope to have in the near future. The same have in the near future, in faith believing that greater things are in store for this church. God will bless and save in the new church, which you hope to have in the near future.

"The pastor then gave some facts about the growth of the church. Five years ago there were only fifty-nine members, since then there have been added fifty-nine on profession of their faith in Christ and 170 on letter of recommendation from other churches, making 288 who have been members during the past five years, but removals and deaths have made the present roll to be 201, only eighteen of whom were here five years ago.

In the evening the choir gave a grand praise service under the direction of Mrs. Ignatius Brown, the efficient and beloved chorister.
