BANDED JAPANESE DISCUSS RIGHTS

California Association, Through Its Twenty-three Delegates, Will Send Protests to Washington

The third day's session of the Japanese Association of America was held yesterday, when the twenty-three delegates charged with the duty of framing a protest on behalf of all Japanese against adverse condition in California met.

committee has five members, of which the guiding spirit is President K. Abiko of the association. Goruke Ikeda is secretary. Both these Japanese are from San Francisco.

Discuss Alien Act
 The principal topic which has brought the Japanese together is not the school question, but a bill before the California legislature preventing all foreigners from holding property here. This the Japanese regard as a slap at them. They are of Japanese hold property here, but Peter Suski, owner of a photographic studio at First and Main, said last night that his countrymen were under the impression that this law would apply to those already holding property; in other words that it was retroactive. When told it could apply only to future investments and concerned all nations as well as the Japanese, he said that explanation might be a new phase on the situation.

"We are only talking matters over so far," said Suski, "and it may be next week before we will have made up our minds what to recommend."
 The organization feels keenly the proposed anti-alien property statute. As leading Japanese expressed it, there are hundreds of Japanese in California who have practically renounced the mikado, have their families and relatives here and wish to spend their remaining days in America. These seek investments here and want their capital protected. They claim that if the bill advances they will communicate with the Japanese consul in San Francisco and the Japanese ambassador in Washington.

Talk of War is Bosh
 All talk of war between Japan and America is laughed at by the Japanese who are in session at this conference.
 K. Miyazaki, a Presbyterian minister who is the delegate from Watsonville, said last night:
 "There may be some foolish people who talk about war, but we can laugh at them. We Japanese in America would seek anything but war. Our interests are here and we have our homes and our families here. We want to preach the gospel to our people and that is what we are doing."
 "I believe that any question which may arise between the Japanese and the American people will be settled peacefully. That is the only way it should be settled."

LEARN GEOGRAPHY THROUGH LECTURE

Naturalist and Scientist Makes Interesting Talk on Alaska Under Auspices of Young Men's Christian Association

The stereopticon lecture on Alaska by Henry Lee, the great hunter and naturalist, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. last night in Blanchard hall was interesting and instructive to the large audience, notwithstanding the poor focus on the canvas much of the time.
 Mr. Lee prefaced his lecture by stating that as a general rule people did not enter the heart of the vast country of Alaska, but only gathered their information from the exterior portions or the easiest approaches, using their imagination, which was detrimental to actual facts. He explained that it required much perseverance, hardship and study to accomplish the desired effects of the beautiful day and night scenes that prevailed among the mountains, canyons and waters of that rugged and grand country.

In a clear, distinct but not heavy voice Mr. Lee explains his subjects in a very candid and effecting manner, entirely devoid of personal aggrandizement and yet with a characteristic familiarity with his subject.
 A map was first thrown on the canvas showing the general outline of Alaska. From this the scenes were changed to mountains, canyons and waters, and then to beautiful floral views, which were followed by scenes of animal life. Very impressive scenes were those of the prospectors in the different stages of their journey from their cheery farewell at the start up to the disconsolate group forming a council discussing the advisability of a return.
 Mr. Lee spoke of the Alaskan waters and the wanton killing of seals, throwing on the canvas the picture of the governor's mansion and scenes in Sitka, showing the capital of Alaska, the beautiful villages in the coast region of the country and the city of Juneau and hunting scenes. All these were briefly explained in a conversational style.

 The lecture was a good lesson in physical, political and commercial geography. It showed to those interested the geology, zoology and botany, speaking of the country as a great field for the naturalist as well as for the hunter, fishermen, miner and commercial speculator.
 In his lecture Mr. Lee stated that in the summer time the people were obliged to wear double suits of clothes to protect themselves from the ravages of the mosquitoes.
 Among the trophies thrown on the canvas was the largest caribou ever shot, according to scientific authorities, which was killed on the Koonal peninsula in 1888. Indians had hunted it for four seasons, but their rifles were not of sufficient range to bring it down. Mr. Lee's second shot brought it down at a distance of 350 yards. It showed fifty-six points on its antlers. Forty-six points on the antlers is usually regarded as a specimen of maximum development.

MAN AND WOMAN HURT BY MOVING STREET CAR

Mr. and Mrs. L. Thiele, who live at 965 West Fourth street, were taken to the receiving hospital at the First street station with injuries received by being thrown from an Emdendale car at Third and Figueroa streets, 10 o'clock Friday night.
 From the story told at the police station it appears that Thiele asked the conductor, whose number is 884, to stop at the Fourth street crossing. The car carried them on to Third street and came almost to a standstill. As they were about to step to the street the car started forward suddenly and they were both thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. Thiele received a two-inch laceration of the scalp and her husband a three-inch laceration and a concussion on the back of the head.
 Mr. Thiele is a hotel proprietor and resides permanently in Toronto, Canada.

DISAPPEARANCE IS UNSOLVED MYSTERY

Relatives Fear Some Harm Has Be-fallen Young Man Who Last Monday

Disappearing from Linda Vista and writing to his relatives at that place, enclosing a postoffice key, after he had been absent four days, Arthur Yockum, secretary and treasurer of the Linda Vista Improvement association, is the object of a search instituted by his grandparents, who believe he is either the victim of an alluring swindle or mentally unbalanced.
 Monday he left home without a word of explanation or information as to his destination. Having been erratic in the past, little was thought of the matter till three days had elapsed and no word had been received from him. Then the local police were notified and they kept the matter a secret till it leaked out today.
 The search was continued without obtaining the least clue as to his whereabouts. He seemed to have suddenly dropped from the earth and a tragedy of the hills was feared. The relatives were on the point of instituting a thorough search of the canyons, piercing the mountain range near Linda Vista, with the fearful hope of finding his remains.

The search was cut short by the arrival of a letter postmarked Los Angeles and containing a brief note that the writer had inclosed a key to the family postoffice box and though no name was signed to the note, it was the key the young man carried away with him on his sudden departure.
 The relatives are still in the dark as to his whereabouts and the mysterious letter increases their anxiety.
 The young man was 22 years of age and the grandson of A. C. Yockum, president of the Linda Vista Improve-

MESSENGER BOY IS HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

John Saager, a boy employed as a messenger by P. C. Barnes, who conducts a parcel delivery service at 429 1/2 Street, was arrested by Officers Home and Chapman last night on a charge of embezzlement preferred by his employer.
 From the information given to the police who made the arrest Saager was given a package to deliver on which there was a collect charge of $1.50. When he did not return with the wheel and the money a warrant was sworn out for his arrest. He was sent to the detention home.

SANDBAGGERS SECURE $51 FROM THEIR VICTIM

F. E. White, who lives at 3065 La Franco street, was going home last night at 7 o'clock, when two men approached him at Euclid avenue and La Franco street. Without warning he was hit on the head and knocked to the ground. After robbing their victim of $51 they made off toward the city.
 White could furnish the police with no other clue than that they were both short and heavy set. The robbery was not reported to the police until several hours after it happened.

CARPENTER STRUCK BY SPEEDING AUTO

L. Kirch, a carpenter, aged 24, living at 115 Maple avenue, was struck by an automobile at Pico and Main streets yesterday. He received an injury to his left hand and arm. After being treated at the receiving hospital he was discharged. The auto did not stop and the owner of the machine will be arrested if found.

Wealthy Man Bequeathes Large Sum to Be Used in Purchasing Playthings for Children in Charitable Institutions

By Associated Press.
 PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 1.—In the will of George B. Nutt, who died recently, a bequest is made that his entire estate, estimated at $31,000, is to be spent for toys and gifts for the poor children of Allegheny county at the death of his wife.
 By the will Mr. Nutt provided for his wife's interest during life, and stated that at her death the estate be held in trust for the purchase of playthings for poor children, especially for those in charitable institutions.

PICO AND GRAND AVENUE STREET CARS COLLIDE

Some excitement was caused by a rear end collision at Fourth and Broadway about 5 o'clock last night. Pico Heights car No. 301, north bound, was standing on the south side of the crossing unloading passengers when the Grand avenue car approached. The motorman applied the brake, but it refused to work. But for the slowness of the moving car caused by the traffic between Fourth and Fifth streets a serious accident would have been inevitable. Except for a severe shaking which some of the passengers received and a broken fender, there was no damage done.
