EXPLOSION'S DEAD RAISED TO FIVE

JANITOR SUCCUMBS TO HIS INJURIES

Orpheum Actors in Disaster and Tell Graphic Stories of their Experiences—Are Slightly Injured

It was given out at the offices of the coroner and the chief of police yesterday that every possible effort will be made to fix the blame for the Rawson block horror, in which five persons lost their lives, another death being recorded yesterday and thirty-eight were injured. The statements of restaurant employes that the gas company was given repeated warnings of the leak will be investigated. The interval between now and Friday, the date set for the inquest, will be employed in gathering every bit of testimony which can have any bearing on the case. The following is the list of the dead up to date:

Crawford, Anna E., waitress, 842 East Thirty-fifth street; killed instantly in explosion.
Puentes, J. M. C., tailor, 452 Amelia street; died in emergency hospital Wednesday night.

Mains, John W., retired ranchman, 330 1/2 Spring street, died at Clara Barton hospital.
Meyers, Lavonne, waitress, killed by falling timbers in explosion.
Stephens, Ferdinand, janitor, 110 West Second street; died at county hospital yesterday noon.

ORPHEUM ACTORS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH IN EXPLOSION

Alfred Keley, an actor at the Orpheum theater, tells a graphic story of his experience in the explosion that wrecked Cressaty's restaurant on Second street Wednesday.
Mr. Keley, with his acting partner, Miss Maud Lee, was eating in the restaurant at the time of the explosion. Both were slightly injured by flying debris. Mr. Keley was struck in the back by a falling timber and suffers from other bruises which cause him considerable pain.
Miss Lee suffers from severe bruises on her limbs and body, and was slightly cut on her face and arms.

Mr. Keley says:
"I had just taken a second spoonful of soup when the shock came. The soup flew up into my face and the bowl struck me on the forehead. Then the floor, table and I rose all together and hit the ceiling."
"When I came down I thought I must certainly be in the basement. The trip up was instantaneous, but it seemed to me that I must have fallen at least two stories."

Found Woman Under Debris
"I fell clear of all the debris and at once looked around for Miss Lee. I could not see her. Then she put out her hand from under a heap of tables, chairs and debris and called for me to help her. There was nothing heavy above her and I had no difficulty in releasing her."

"When we felt the shock my thoughts went back to our experience in San Francisco two weeks ago when we felt a distinct shock of earthquake. Then the sound of the explosion told me that this was not an earthquake."
"Following the sound of the explosion there was a period of absolute stillness, or so it seemed, then came the crash of timbers followed by the moans and shrieks of the injured."
"A timber struck me in the back as I stooped to release Miss Lee. As I lifted her another fell between us, cutting a button off my coat."
"The air was full of all kinds of flying debris. Every exposed portion of my skin is scratched and bruised. Miss Lee has a severe cut on her left arm and is bruised about the shoulders."

Waitress Was Killed
"The waitress who was bringing us our dinner at the moment of the explosion is among the dead."
"I saw one woman who had escaped in safety turn back to assist a friend. As she did so a falling timber struck her on the head and I believe killed her."
"I am inclined to think that almost all injuries were sustained from falling timbers after the explosion."
"Of course it was all over in two minutes, but it seemed hours before we got out into the street away from that awful pall of dust, which only lifted to show us some new horror."
"What did I think? Well, it is droll now to recall, but it was a serious thought then. When I found myself under a heap of tables, chairs and rubbish, and as I thought, in the basement, I said to myself 'I shall be dead when they dig me out of here, and here I am 2000 miles from home."

Both Mr. Keley and Miss Lee were anxious to avoid the inconvenience of attending an inquest, and their adventure the Orpheum attaches until last night when they were interviewed by a Herald reporter.

Others May Die
The aftermath of the explosion at local hospitals yesterday brought but one addition to the death roll, but it is still feared that several more names may be added before the end of the week. May Anderson, 216 1/2 East Fifth street, is the most dangerously injured. An operation was necessary to save her life at the Pacific hospital yesterday and it is thought that it will be necessary to amputate one of her limbs today. Ferdinand Stevens, a janitor living at 110 West Second street, died at noon at the county hospital.

Harvey A. Holderman, a meter man in the employ of the Los Angeles Gas company, was not expected to recover yesterday morning, but later in the day his condition improved and late last night it was given out at the Clara Barton hospital, where he was taken, that he probably will recover. His right leg was amputated in the morning, and he was not expected to survive the weakness which followed the operation.

Charles Blumenthal, another employe of the gas company, also is among the painfully injured. He was investigating the leak at the time of the explosion and received the full force of the blast. He was dangerously injured internally and his right leg was broken and lacerated.

Amputation Postponed
An operation may be performed on Miss Emma Hagerty of Hollywood, who was taken to the emergency hospital with both legs broken below the knee. Preparations were made for amputation yesterday, but it was feared she would be unable to live through the operation. Miss agerty's father, C. C. Hagerty, also was a severely cut and bruised and is at the Good Samaritan hospital. His legs were crushed and an operation also may be necessary in his case.

Henry Warren, 794 East Fifteenth street, while not thought to have been dangerously injured, showed symptoms of internal injuries late in the evening, which left him in a serious condition. He had several hemorrhages and it is thought that his lungs are injured.

At the California hospital an operation was performed on E. S. Williams, a miner, whose legs and body were frightfully lacerated and burned. His right foot was amputated. F. H. Merrill of Pomona, also at the California hospital, showed great improvement during the day and is expected to recover. Both ankles were broken.

Scores of friends of the victims of the explosion visited the hospitals during the day and the efficient handling of the injured, both in taking them to the hospitals and in the care of them afterward, was the cause of much favorable comment.

At all of the homes over the city where the victims were taken after their condition were given. Most of those who were taken to their homes are less seriously injured than those taken to the hospitals, and it is not feared in any of the cases that death will follow.

MISFIT SHOES CAUSE TROUBLE TO SHOES

Harry Buckowsky, a Russian, was seriously injured with J. Miky, a Japanese, when the Russian's shop at 203 Spring street yesterday afternoon.

According to Miky, who was and is being held on suspicion, Miky sold him a pair of shoes which did not fit. Miky demanded the return of the money and Buckowsky threw the money on the floor. Miky is said to have returned and picked up a heavy file with which he struck Buckowsky on the head, inflicting a severe gash. Buckowsky was taken to the receiving hospital.
