

WHEEL WILL FLY AT ASCOT TODAY
CARD COMBINES QUALITY AND QUANTITY
Probable That Those Picking Winners Will Be Ample Compensated, as Few Stand Out Prominently

The probabilities are that the track will be a sea of mud this afternoon and the stop-larks will have an inning. The card combines both quality and quantity in most of the events and those lucky enough to pick the winners will be amply compensated, as none stand out prominently, and unless the blue pencil reduces the fields the favorite in each race should be at fair odds.

Joyner has been knocking at the door ever since he started here and may earn brackets in the first event. He is not particularly fond of the going, but outclasses this lot and will take a lot of beating. Parvo likes the going, has a lot of early speed and may get so far in front that they will never catch him. Roman Boy likes the going and will run a good race. Mohr should go well and has an excellent chance.

Jersey Lady, the Oaks winner, with only a feather on her back, figures a shade the best in the second race, but will have no cinch. Silver Stocking has been working well and showed class by running well up with such good ones as Don Domo, Pantouffe and Von Tromp. Lacene always performs well in the heavy going and should finish close up. Darna should run a good race, but she is a bad breaker and is unreliable as a betting proposition. Salmrida is the star danger here, as she won her last race in such easy style that there is no telling how good she may be.

The third race is a scramble for 2-year-olds, so select fast breakers at the barrier, as they have an advantage in a short race that is difficult to overcome. Luke's Thrush will have Preston up and should win. Glanz breaks well and has speed. Should be a bang-up second. Billowy will have Boland in the saddle and should get some part of the money. Ed Davis and Dally have good chances to beat the top one with an even break.

The feature event of the day will be the fourth race. Chimney Sweep, with a feather on his back, should be a hard horse to beat in this going, as he has led Sir Edward, and may do so again. Kercheval and Toupee should fight it out for third money, as Cello cannot lift his feet in the going.

An ordinary lot of maidens will face the starter in the fifth race and racing luck will have to be considered in such a large field. Big Store is a quick breaker at the barrier and he may lead all the way. Elota likes the going and will give the top one a stiff argument for first honors. Fish Mail improves with each race, likes the track and will be a dangerous factor at the end. Sinaloa II should go well and may upset calculations by winning.

Buna will be a good one to let alone, as the official ax will probably fly if they win with him this afternoon, following his poor showing the other day. Fonestia and Ramo are the best of those entered in the sixth race and they may finish in the order named. If anything splits them the most likely one will be Mountebank, as his last race was too bad to be true.

ANGELS AND SAINTS UNABLE TO PLAY
An exceedingly moist diamond at Chutes park yesterday precluded all possibility of the Angel-St. Mary's game which would doubtless have resulted in a clever exhibition of Seraphic speed.

Captain Dillon of the Angels and Captain Feeny of the Saints felt certain Saturday night that nothing but sunshine would greet such a combination on the Sabbath day.

Several of the college men left yesterday morning for the evening, while the remainder caught the evening train. Should weather conditions permit, the St. Mary's boys will line against the Angels at Bakersfield.

OWNERS PREPARE TO GET AWAY
BENNINGS SEASON WILL OPEN TODAY
Many Local Stables Are Being Sent East—Prologued Winter Interferes with Training

Ascot owners are already preparing to pack up and get away. Many of the local stables are now being sent east, where the season opens at Benning today. Aqueduct will be running by April 15 and metropolitan racegoers are eagerly anticipating another joyous round with the ponies and books.

That the Washington course is no longer regarded as a second or third rate track is shown by the class of horses entered in the feature event of the opening day, the Spring Benning handicap.

Sixty blue-blooded racers have been nominated to start in the stake and on the list are seen the names of such noted performers as Salvidere, Dandelion, Tangle, Okenite, Orphan Lad, Cederstrome, Tickle and Rose of Dawn.

Some of these are in all probability merely complimentary entries, yet it is merely honored in this way. In fact few of the real top notchers are ready and the field will probably be small.

That the Benning meeting will be a great success there can be no doubt, for racing has a stronger hold on the eastern public than ever before. Hundreds of New Yorkers will see at least part of the meeting, for Washington is but five hours away, and the attraction will be too strong to keep away the real enthusiasts with the time and money to spare.

But for the system of perambulating bookmakers in vogue at Washington the attendance from Gotham would probably be a great deal bigger. New Yorkers do not relish the search for the layers after each race, and there is always the chance of being victimized by fake layers.

TRUCK TRAILERS GROW ANXIOUS WALKING NOT EASY ACROSS THE ROCKIES
Wise Soldier of Fortune Banks with George Rose and Travels in Style After a Disastrous Season

"It would be the fun right now watching the trailers and down-and-outers at the winter tracks making the live ones for the get east chase," said a turfman who, contrary to his usual custom, sidestepped winter racing when the regular eastern season closed last fall.

"This is the time, with the pattering out of the winter gales, when the hustled ones at the tropic tracks are as busy as park cops on a summer night.

"Some old way or another they've got to make the scurry back this way on the railroad vans, and the real help ones don't wait till the last week of the winter meetings to do their boning.

"There are occasional foxy ones among those who swarm to the winter tracks at the windup of the eastern racing season—fellows who've been Keshaulouche and who can't see any reason why they should hand themselves another wallop of the same kind if there's any way of preventing it.

"I saw one of this kind get over with a profound play upon his artery in San Francisco for the winter meeting there three years ago.

"He'd been obliged to beat his way back east the year before, being ditched at such untoward dumps as Mojave, Barstow, and so on, and it ranked within him to remember how many times the bell cord had been yanked on him that time.

"He had the goings on when he reached San Francisco three years ago, but he wasn't licking the paint of any rainbows. He knew that what had happened to him before was just as likely as not to happen to him again.

"So, as soon as he reached the hotel in San Francisco he dug up George Rose, the bookmaker, staying at the same hotel, and handed George a large unsealed manila envelope containing things.

"George," said he to the layer, "take a peek into that package and see what's in it."

SEALS WIN FROM BAKERSFIELD NINE
By Associated Press.
BAKERSFIELD, Cal., March 24.—The San Francisco baseball team, in training here since March 2, played a great game with Bakersfield today, winning by a score of 9 to 2.

The crack battery, Joy and Street, and their support was poor.

Frederick F. M. Ish and Manager Danny Long and several San Francisco newspaper men arrived early this morning on one of the belated trains and will stay until Friday, when the San Francisco team goes north.

STANFORD-U. S. C. MEET NOT OFF
OAKLAND HIGH ATHLETES TO COME SOUTH
Winners of Stanford Interscholastic Contests Will Participate in Local Cinder Events Next Saturday

Coach Harvey Holmes of the University of Southern California expressed himself as much surprised yesterday morning regarding the publication of a story to the effect that the Stanford-U. S. C. track meet would not be held next Saturday as scheduled.

Holmes immediately wired Manager D. D. Sales of the Cardinal squad, asking if foundation had been given for the story at Stanford. Sales responded to the effect that he intended bringing fifteen men to Los Angeles Saturday, unless advised that U. S. C. had balked. The university coach said last night: "There is absolutely nothing to the story so far as we are concerned and Sales' telegram evidences that Stanford has not thought of withdrawing."

The intercollegiate meet will be held at 10 a. m. preceding the interscholastic meet, which is to occur in the afternoon.

Added interest is effected with the news that Oakland high school, winner of Saturday's meet at Stanford, will come south for competition. Word was received last night that the crack northern high school squad would be on deck to win, if possible, further cinder laurels.

Coach Holmes has set today as final time for filing entries and schools wishing to compete should comply with regulations before this evening.

To the team winning championship honors will be awarded a banner emblematic of victory.

A cup is to be given to the men capturing the greatest number of points, while a banner will fly away with the victorious relay team.

The contest is open to high school, preparatory school and private school students who have a passing grade in fifteen hours. It is also required that registration from the beginning of the second half year be shown. Athletes having contested on college teams will be barred from competition.

ALHAMBRA MEET POSTPONED
The track meet between teams representing the freshmen and sophomore classes of the Alhambra high school, which was to have been held Saturday, has been postponed indefinitely.

SOUTHERN TRACK WORLD SURPRISED
DEFEAT OF U. S. C. BY POMONA UNEXPECTED
Los Angeles High School Students Are Jubilant Regarding Victory of Team in Relay Race at Stanford

Two distinct surprises relative to Southern California track life occurred in the meets held at Pomona and Stanford Saturday. University of Southern California students sustained a shock when their Claremont opponents won the Intercollegiate event on alumni field.

Los Angeles high school supporters are rejoicing over the fact that their relay team not only won from northern opponents, but also downed the hitherto invincible Harvard military unit.

Pomona's victory is especially significant in that three local records were broken and one tied. Furthermore, the new marks were set about speed and distance events. With the slow track it was scarcely expected that fast time would be made and the performances of Spurgeon, Himrod and Johnson are to be regarded as all the more creditable.

HUESTON RETAINS POOL CHAMPIONSHIP
NEW YORK, March 24.—Thomas Hueston of St. Louis retains his title as the world's continuous champion pool player as the result of the final night's play with Jerome Keough of Buffalo.

Hueston last night made 193 to 134 for Keough. This makes the final score: Hueston, 600; Keough, 487. Hueston's best breaks last night were 46 and 37, and he made two scratches. Keough's high break was 32, and he also made two scratches.
