UNION AVENUE SCHOOL HAS A FLAG DAY

The pupils of the Union Avenue school gave a concert yesterday afternoon to celebrate the donations of silk flags by the students of the different classes for their rooms. At 1 o'clock the parents of the children flocked to the school in large numbers. The halls of the building were prettily decorated and ample preparation had been made to seat the visitors. For the last week or so the young people had prepared a program for the occasion, which was rendered in a creditable manner. Among the prominent numbers was the grand march, in which all the pupils paraded from their classes to the scene of assembly, each class being led by a pupil carrying one of the new large silk flags. The march was made to the music of the school's orchestra. The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Kells and Miss MacCurdy, is an organization of which few other grammar schools in the city can boast, and the music played by the pupils showed talents of which the parents seemed proud. The following pupils played in the orchestra: Alice McLaughlin, Harry Schmitz, Clarence Dunaway, Maggie Coteland, Wilbert Druendike, Gertrude Killick, Bessie Magness and Juno Holmes. Dr. Moore gave a patriotic address on the subject of "The Making of Our Flag," which was very appropriate for the occasion. The program was as follows: Grand march, school. Song, "America," school. Music, "The Brown Princess," (Ferland), school orchestra. Song, "Spring Song," (Mendelssohn), Eighth grade. Soldier game, kindergarten. Declaration, "The National Flag," Harold Maxon. Song, "Pussy Willow," First grade. Song, "A Song of Iron," Boys' Second Grade. Instrumental music, "Pilgrims' Chorus," Tannhauser (Wagner), quartet. Song, "Out on the Deep," Seventh grade male double quartet. Flags presented, a member from each grade. Solo and chorus, "The Star Spangled Banner," Eighth grade double quartet. Music, "March from Carmen," school orchestra. Address, "The Message of Our Flag," Dr. E. C. Moore, superintendent of the city schools. Song, "My Own United States," Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth grades.
