

VETERINARIAN AT OUTS WITH CHIEF

FIRE COMMISSION STANDS BY WALTER LIPS

City Council, However, Refuses to Pay
Bills of Outside Veterinarian and Morrison Will Keep His Job

The tangled web of Sixth ward politics has arrayed the fire commissioners and chief and the city veterinarian against each other.

Yesterday morning's session of the board was one of the spiciest ever, much of the time being given up to attacks on Dr. W. E. D. Morrison by Commissioners Schwamm and Koff and Fire Chief Lips. In Mayor Harrison's absence, because of Col. Hamilton's death, Commissioner Schwamm presided.

No stenographer was present to get the exact words that passed across the big black table, but all day distorted versions of what really had been said traveled around the city hall.

Last night Mr. Schwamm and Dr. Morrison had a telephone chat on the subject concerning which neither party will talk, but around telephone headquarters it is said that sparks fairly flew back and forth over the wires.

The trouble began when Chief Walter Lips, objecting to Dr. Morrison, called in another veterinarian to prescribe for department horses. Then two members of the council supply committee refused to approve the requisitions for his pay.

Politics and Personalities

"Oh, it's a case of politics and personalities," said Commissioner Schwamm after the meeting. "The chief and Morrison can't agree. We cannot do anything, though, as the council forced his reappointment, and with some of our horses sick we must have someone in attendance whose bills will be paid by the auditor."

"I don't think the veterinarian gets over $25 a month in fees from the city, but he apparently wants that $25 badly enough to fight for it."

"Dr. Morrison gave orders to Off & Vaughn not to refill his prescriptions. His explanation to me was that he did not want doses repeated for horses where their sickness might seem to the men to require such treatment, and yet be due to an entirely different cause. The chief wanted those prescriptions refilled on order."

"As a commission, we simply had to do as the council dictated. We held back as long as we could."

Dr. Morrison said last night that he preferred not to enter into a controversy, but admitted that he had forbidden the drug company to refill prescriptions and that no other reputable doctor allows it.

Regarding charges that he favored Off & Vaughn as against other firms he said:

"The city advertises for bids for drugs and the firm that is lowest gets all the orders. That is all there is to it."

MINING CHAMBER BANQUET TONIGHT

Notable Gathering of Business Men and Mine Operators—Will Be Held at Levy's Cafe—List of Speakers

It is estimated that at least 150 of the members of the chamber of mines will attend the banquet at 6 o'clock this evening at Levy's cafe. It promises to be an exceedingly interesting meeting of the chamber, inasmuch as many important questions affecting the commercial relations between Los Angeles and the mining districts, such as the one of freight rates, will be brought up.

Although the chamber of mines already has a membership of 350, it is very evident that the business men of Los Angeles are only just beginning to realize the tremendous importance of the chamber's work, and the great power for good which the chamber will exert in the commercial affairs of this city.

Considerable enthusiasm is being manifested by the mining companies themselves in the plan of campaign which has been inaugurated by the chamber in the direction of making official investigations of the different mines, the effect of which, it is stated, will be to place the bona fide propositions in a class by themselves, and to leave the frauds and the "fakers" out in the cold.

Among the speakers at tonight's meeting, at which Gen. John R. Mathews will preside, the following prominent mining, commercial and railroad men will deliver short addresses:

Hon. A. C. Harper, mayor; Hon. W. A. Harris, Hon. F. G. Tyrrell, W. D. Stevens, president of the chamber of commerce; J. O. Koepfl, president of the Municipal League; Gilbert S. Wright, chairman of the business men's excursion to Nevada; F. A. Wann, traffic manager San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake railroad; W. R. Abberger, traffic manager Tonopah & Tidewater railroad; Douglas White, Las Vegas & Tonopah railroad; Rol King, second vice president of the chamber of mines.

This being Flag day, it is hinted that apt allusions to the occasion may be made by some of the speakers.

FORTY CALLED BUT ONLY SIX CHOSEN

Despite the fact that forty men were examined only six of them were found competent to act as jurors in the trial of A. B. Russell, proprietor of the restaurant at 250 South Broadway, charged with selling impure and unhealthy food to his customers, in Police Justice Rose's court yesterday.

Russell was arrested charged with selling food unfit to eat. Nathan Schweigel was the complaining witness. It is claimed by Schweigel, who is an inspector for the health department, that he was seduced with "come-backs," or food which had previously been served to other patrons.

Attorney Hayes, who represents Russell, claims the complaint is faulty and that he will win on technical grounds, if not on questions of fact. Attorney Ford is in charge of the prosecution.

When it was found that a jury could not be secured the case was continued until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Crying that his enemies were following him with the intention of taking his life, L. B. Joslin, formerly a physician, but now said to be a victim of the drug habit, applied to the police yesterday for protection. He was sent to the receiving hospital, where he is now being watched by attendants. Joslin will be sent to the county hospital today.

According to acquaintances of the man, Joslin was formerly a well known physician of Los Angeles. He was married and lived with his wife on West Twentieth street. Several years ago he is alleged to have begun using drugs and years of hard labor fell away from him. Soon afterward his wife died and since that time Joslin has roamed about without a home.

YOUNG MEDICOS GET SHEEPSKINS

Twenty-seven Graduates from All Parts of United States Finish Course at University of Southern California

Sixteen cities in the United States contributed their young men and women to the class which graduated last night from the college of medicine of the University of Southern California. With the vociferous applause of hundreds of friends, the graduates marched to the platform to receive their degrees, conferred by Rev. E. A. Healy, A. M., D. D., president of the board of trustees.

Musical selections, both classical and patriotic, were interspersed in the program, among the numbers being "Traumerel," and the sextette from "Lucia."

Hon. N. P. Conroy delivered the address of the evening, taking for his subject "The Vision Splendid." Judge Conroy paid an eloquent tribute to the physician's calling.

He said, "The physician!—the baby is sick; send for the physician. Mother has worked and worried beyond her limits of endurance, and she is delirious with fever—send for the physician. Birth is opening the bars of dawn, or death is about to seal the gates of night; send for the physician. The machinery of industry or of transportation has broken down, and maimed, crushed bodies are gasping for life; send physicians. A thousand of our boys are going to war; send with them some physicians. A hundred thousand sons of freedom are on yonder battlefield; send hundreds of physicians. Ignorance, vice and greed have endangered a city's health; send with them some physicians. A committee of physicians. The state is in danger of a plague, approaching on invisible wings from a foreign land; set up a quarantine and guard our borders with the aid of skilled physicians. Present knowledge is not adequate to cope with the ravages of some dread disease; equip your laboratories, seek out the keenest minds in the profession and commission them to find out the deep secrets of nature."

No Laboratory Medicine

"There are many medicines which cannot be conducted in the laboratory. One of these is the medicine of optimism, a happy spirit and a cheery mind."

"The fountain of youth is not a myth. It has been found. It is not a fountain of water, but a fountain of wisdom springing up in the student and washing away the dark stains of disease. You students graduate from this school to enter the school of experience, a school from which no one graduates."

Dr. Wm. D. Babcock, dean of the college of medicine, announced that thirteen of the graduates had accepted hospital appointments, and half a dozen others had declined like honors. Among the hospitals which had tendered positions to this year's graduating class were San Francisco, Washington and Arizona institutions.

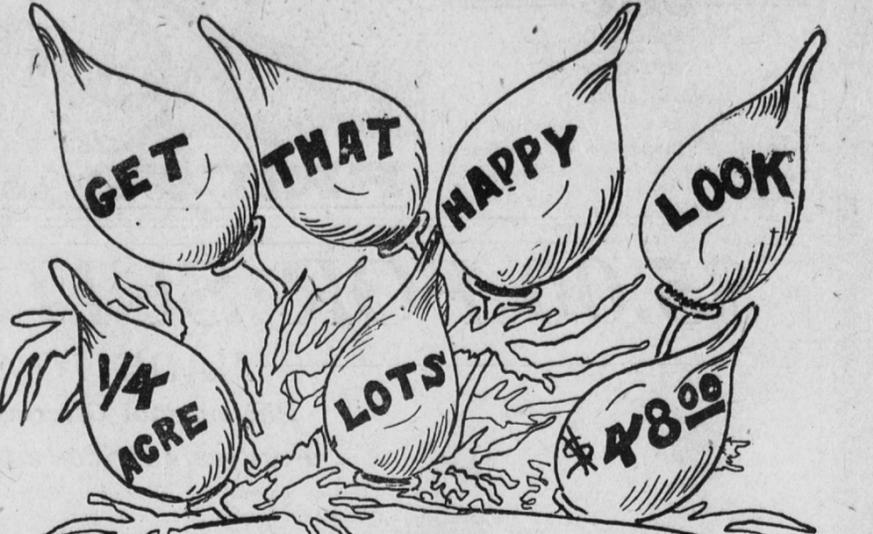

Dr. Archibald R. Brown was awarded the prize of $100 for the best record in scholarship throughout the entire four years' course. Dr. Fred Schroeder was awarded honorable mention, and Dr. Edmund D. Ward very honorable mention. Dr. Ward has been in the college but one year, and was not eligible to the prize; but his record was of such a very high grade that special mention was made of it. The purse of $50, awarded to the sophomore highest in scholarship, was given A. Stanley Grayton. Harvey G. Thorp and A. J. Scott were awarded honorable mention.
