

PLANS READY FOR BENEFIT

PRESS HUMORISTS WILL CONVENE MONUMENT WILL BE ERECTED FOR BILL NYE

Funny Men from All Over the Country

Send Suggestions for Permanent Memorial for Laramie Man

The coming convention of the American Press Humorists' association, which will be held in Los Angeles in September, will be practically one big boost of the Bill Nye monument fund.

Dozens of side trips will keep the jokesters amply entertained and repaid for their journeys to the Pacific coast, but the Nye memorial.

The plan to erect a monument to Bill Nye at Laramie, Wyo., where a great deal of his best work was produced, has met with the hearty co-operation of all classes of humorists and lovers of funny literature in the country.

Subscriptions are coming in daily to swell the fund, and convention week will include a monster benefit entertainment at which some of the best known humorists in the United States will participate.

Nobody seems to have a conception of a serious prosaic monument of the veteran laugh producer. Suggestions are already coming in to the effect that the public know that they wish to immortalize.

One Chicago artist has suggested Nye astride his famous "kleptomaniac" government mule, "Boomerang."

Another Chicago artist has suggested Nye in the role of peacemaker, with a big six-shooter stuck in a conspicuous place and labeled "argument settler." All of the designs received show the humorist as bald-headed. It is thought the public know that they wish to immortalize.

Sell Tickets This Week

For the benefit entertainment tickets will be put on sale at the local music store this week. The Auditorium theater has been donated for the afternoon of September 20, and the most shining lights of American humor will perform their stunts.

Robert J. Burdette will head the program and will probably introduce the other speakers. High on the list will come Melville D. Langdon, known to fame as Eli Perkins, Charles Battell Loomis, the humorist lecturer and magazine writer; will also take part.

Thomas Austin Daly, president of the association; Edmund Vance Cook, Strickland W. Gillilan; the "Pinnigan and Flannigan" poet; Will do stunts; Judd M. Lewis, Wilbur D. Nesbitt, E. E. Kiser, Henry Edward Warner, Sam Davis, Edward W. Miller, and Bide Dudley will complete the program.

In addition to this the association will issue a book partly for the monument fund and partly to pay the expenses of entertaining the boys, a book which promises to be new among publications.

Every one of the 113 members of the association will contribute to the fund. The picture and autograph of the writer will accompany each.

The members who knew Nye and old Laramie will contribute a series of anecdotes and reminiscences, none of which have ever before been published. Hitherto unpublished pictures of the Laramie writer will illustrate this section.

Prominent Men Coming

Many of the most prominent members of the association have already declared their intention of coming to Los Angeles for the convention. Mark Twain, the dean of humorists, will not, however, be one of them.

In responding to an invitation of Frank Seagriff, the secretary and treasurer, to attend, Mr. Twain wrote: "I have resolved never to make another land voyage that can be avoided, either honorably or otherwise."

James Whitcomb Riley, an old friend of Nye's, although heartily in favor of the monument scheme, will not be able to attend. A telegram received from him is as follows: "Complex work and ill health deny my presence, but am with your righteous endeavor in spirit and perfect faith in its success."

The city of Laramie has already made a contribution to the fund, as have the Wyoming Press association, William Jennings Bryan and other prominent men of the country.

Association Membership

Membership to the association is restricted to press humorists who edit a paper, or who are humorous artists and writers. The 113 members of the association represent over 1000 newspapers of the United States.

The association was organized at Baltimore five years ago. At all its yearly conventions it has received extraordinary attentions from the cities in which the meetings were held, and the program as already outlined for its stay in Los Angeles will not fall behind the efforts of past years.

All over Southern California the municipalities will provide special entertainment for the humorists on stated days. Trips will be taken to Comstock and Goldfield, where entertainment has been promised. Individuals in these two places will provide for free transportation to their respective towns.

OFFICERS BUY WHISKY

Find Irrigation for Dry Throats at Soda Fountain

C. Coffey, who conducts a soda fountain and fruit store at 50 East Fifth street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by plain clothes men from the police station on a charge of violating the liquor ordinance.

The officers say that they went into Coffey's place and complained that they were "dry."

"All right, boys," they say Coffey answered, and he produced three drinks of whisky. The police do not state whether or not they drank the whisky, but they paid for it. When the transaction was finished their hands were produced and Coffey took a ride to the police station. When searched $31.65 was found upon his person.

He was put in the tanks in default of bail and was still there at a late hour last night.

For some time the plain clothes men at the central station have been observing "blind pigs" and have watched their movements to catch the offenders. A negro woman was arrested last Monday for running a "speak easy" on Alameda street, and was fined $100. Many others are said by the police to be under surveillance and more arrests will follow at any time in the near future.

WELCOME PASTOR HOME

Big-Congregation Gathers to Hear Rev. A. C. Smither on "Love"

Rev. A. C. Smither, the popular pastor of the First Christian church, who has just returned from a tour of Europe and the Holy Land, preached at his church yesterday morning on "Love" to a large congregation; that turned out to welcome him.

Rev. Mr. Smither has, with one exception, served one pastorate longer than any other clergyman in Los Angeles and has won hundreds of friends by his untiring work in behalf of his own church and the Christian denomination generally throughout Southern California.

Commencing next Sunday Rev. Mr. Smither will give a short talk each Sunday evening on his travels and the places of interest as a prelude to his regular evening sermon. Rev. Mr. Smither pursued this plan following his first trip to Europe, which proved very interesting.

Best Definition

Rev. Mr. Smither said in part: "The Holy Scriptures say that God is love. This is Revelation's best definition of the Supreme Being. In this statement is set forth the essential element of the divine character."

"God's love to man" is expressed in man's creation. The gift of being, of the power to think, to plan, to do, is the greatest heritage of man. This is all from God and expresses his love for the creature of his hand.

"His marvelous provision for the need of his creatures amply bears witness to his love for man. For every wing he has provided air, for every fin he has made water, for every need and instinct of the human race he has made provision and satisfaction."

"The highest token of his love is that set forth in the gift of his Son to the world. This was at great cost to himself, and bears infinite witness to his love for the race."

"The church of Christ rests upon God's love to man. It was projected by God's unfailing pity and love for humanity. All Christian service is actuated by this motive. In no other way can the sacrifices of the God fearing men of the world be accounted for."

"The supreme purpose of Christ's coming into the world was to bear witness to man of this love and to beget in man a love for God and for his fellow men in return. It is the gift of offspring, bearing in our bosom his image. We are brethren in the flesh of him who came with this flaming message for mortals. We are brethren each to the other because of these revelations of God and ought therefore to beget with affection for each other."

"The followers of Christ ought to possess in their souls this matchless love each for the other, and ought to recognize each other as the children of a common Father, and that they possess common interests and attachments. Growing out of this recognition there should be a protection of each other's interests in every possible way. They ought to provoke one another to good works in everything that pertains to spiritual life and virtuous activity. Such relations would bind the followers of Christ into one great bond and cement their lives into one supreme fellowship."

"God's blessings would abundantly rest upon such loving relations. The following of Christ would thus come into the sweetest religious experiences. Life would possess an added attraction."

"Joy would be unconfined. This feeling would largely permeate others and minister to the well being of his fellow men. Such service and character would present an uncontrovertible argument for the religion of Jesus Christ; would commend it to the world as nothing else could."

POLICE ARE AFTER COFFEE SWINDLER

Repeated reports of petty swindling by a bogus tea and coffee solicitor who has been operating in the southwest part of the city have led the police to seek his arrest.

The man is said to represent himself as an employe of the Raymond Tea and Coffee company, 292 West Seventh street. He goes to residences, shows samples of goods and takes an order, but requires a small deposit before going away. When the deposit is given he disappears and the tea and coffee paid for is not delivered.

The solicitor is described as "medium build with brown mustache and drives a dark bay horse hitched to an ordinary solicitor's buggy."

DRAGGED TWENTY FEET BY TROLLEY

Isaac Lyon was slightly injured yesterday morning while riding his wheel on West Adams street.

He was holding on to a West Adams street car of the Los Angeles railway while the car was in motion when his wheel slipped, throwing him to the ground.

His foot was caught in the pedal and he was dragged over twenty feet. He was cut and bruised in various parts of the body, but after treatment at the receiving hospital was able to be removed to his home at 821 West Thirty-fifth street.

PIGEONS CARRY LOVERS' MESSAGES OVER RIVER

Special to The Herald. PORT JERVIS, July 13.—Doves appear on valentines and other mislives of love, but real live pigeons played a part in the love affairs of Miss Fred Titsworth and Frederick Smith, who live on opposite sides of the Delaware river, between Long Eddy and Callicoon. The Titsworths live on the Pennsylvania side in Wayne county and the Smiths on the New York side in Sullivan county. Both families kept pigeons on their places.

Young Smith exchanged birds with Miss Titsworth and when he wanted to send a love message to her he tied it to one of her pigeons and released it. Miss Titsworth did the same with Smith's pigeons. A short time ago the Rev. John Roberts visited the Titsworths. Smith sent a pigeon to Miss Titsworth popping the question while the dove was there. She returned a reply that said "Yes."

The wedding took place on a boat in the middle of the river on the line of the two states.

ABUSED CHILD NOT YET WHOLLY OUT OF DANGER

LITTLE MARCIA RAINES LIES ON BED OF PAIN

Child Said to Have Been Beaten by Her Parents Still Causes Anxiety for Her Recovery

Lying in the Children's hospital, weak and pale from her long illness, but bearing her sufferings patiently, Marcia Raines, the little 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Raines, who was recently taken from that couple by officers of the Humane society, is being carefully watched by physicians for fear some complication may set in and cause her death.

The child was taken from its parents by Officer Reynolds June 29. At that time she was suffering from a number of bruises which the Humane officers claim were the result of beatings she had received at the hands of her parents.

For several days it was feared the child would die. Physicians watched her constantly. At last they were able to express the hope that she would soon begin to mend.

Mr. and Mrs. Raines lived at the Catalina hotel. On June 28 a nurse employed by them reported to the police that the couple were abusing the child and asked that an officer be sent to investigate.

The case was turned over to the Humane society and officers, after an investigation, applied for a warrant for the arrest of the young couple on grounds of cruelty.

It was claimed by the officer that Mr. and Mrs. Raines were accustomed to attend midnight lunches, where they imbibed freely. After their return to their room, he said, the couple frequently indulged in fights, and if the child annoyed them they did not hesitate to beat her.

Mr. and Mrs. Raines were called to the police station, where they are said to have admitted striking the child. However, they agreed not to drink any more and to treat her kindly if allowed to go. Under these circumstances it was decided not to issue the warrants against them, but the Humane society insisted that the child be placed in the Children's hospital.

A few days later Mrs. Raines is said to have left her husband and to have gone to live with her mother at 47 West Washington street.

Mr. Raines is a well known real estate dealer in Los Angeles.

TEACHERS HEAR BANDS RECALL THE SCENES WHEN BASTILLE FELL

Delegates to N. E. A. Convention Have Happy Day Before Them

The last lingering care of the N. E. A. convention is over, so far as the teachers are concerned.

Accordingly the week, or at least that part of it which comes before Thursday, will be devoted to amusement and sight-seeing, without a single conflicting duty.

Yesterday Eastlake park was thronged with teachers who attended the band concert. At Westlake almost as large a crowd was present.

Today Venice will strive to outdo herself and every other municipality along the coast in entertaining the N. E. A. guests. The day will be begun by a select program in the big auditorium, at which many of the ablest men and women attending the convention will take part.

All the attractions will be free to wearers of the blue and pink membership badges. There will be rides on the miniature railroad, the gondolas and boats. Bathing suits will be free. An ample amount of sea air will be on tap; and there will be dancing at the pavilion.

A special rate of 40 cents will be made and a ten-minute car service will be established.

Tomorrow the program is overcrowded. The city of Pasadena will entertain the pedagogues. The Indian crafts exhibition will be free to the members.

The big orange grove at Pasquillo will be thrown wide open; and the attractions at Chutes park—among which several special ones are included—will cost them nothing.

Wednesday will be Whittier day and Thursday Marovavia day, after which the official entertainment will be over.

NON-PROTESTANTS CALLED CONSERVATIVE

In reference to the meeting to protest against reduction in the franchise assessments to be held at his office, 433 Stimson block, at 7:30 tonight, Robert G. Loucks said:

"The citizen who does not protest against the reduction of franchise assessments is more conservative than President Roosevelt, for he is trying to accomplish the same end nationally that we here in Los Angeles are striving for locally."

"If the corporations are not made to bear their just portion of the public burden their unpaid share will be saddled on the shoulders of the individual taxpayer."

"Kindly understand," he continued, "I am not the author of this movement, but have merely tendered the use of my office on the request of several of my friends."

All interested persons are requested to be on hand early, as the meeting, at which 300 or 400 have signified their intention of attending, will march in a body to the court house to make verbal protest.

The steamer Bonita, Capt. Nicholson, departed today for San Francisco via way ports.

Arouse Martial Memories

Along patriotic lines Jacquard Auclair delivered an address to the flag, M. H. Ruellan to the republic, President of the Day Leon Curtet spoke eloquently, M. A. de Rostaing led in the "Marsellaise" singing, Madame Lillian Scanlon sang the "Star Spangled Banner," a sketch was given by A. Blanchard and J. B. Mignolle, and Miss G. Lourdou and F. Migliore gave monologues and Miss Marie Mazzy a parody.

By way of contrast an apotheosis was shown with Miss Hortense Sava as France, Miss Bertha Eyrard as Columbia, Miss A. Cazaux as Lorraine, Miss L. Grimaud as Alsace and Miss A. Forgues as a cantiniere, all typifying the women of liberty. Filling out the stage picture were Misses M. Blanchard, P. Save, J. Mandurat, A. Cazaux, Z. Grimaud, M. Martin, E. and B. Escallier, J. Darfeuille, J. Amestoy, A. Brocq, J. Puisseleg, A. Fleur, C. and M. Forgy, E. H. L. Leitch, Mazy, Edlie Fortier, E. Masselin, Z. Sentous, G. Gaillard and M. Auclair.

Fetching indeed was the floral scene enacted by eight charming misses arrayed in all the colors nature lavishes on flowers. Miss Estelle Boies represented the peasant maiden who plucked them, and surrounding her were Miss J. Clavere as bluebell, Miss A. Grimaud as marguerite, Miss A. Monlon as coquelicot, Miss Marie Forgues as sunflower, Miss Mederise Beaudry as lily, Miss Bertha Ripaud as pansy and Miss J. Fleur as poinsettia. In pretty fashion they each declaimed the virtues of the flower and formed pretty evolutions.

Dramatic Features

A sketch with a mother-in-law and a military law as the scheme of satire furnished a contrast. Miss Louise Blondeau, a talented Hollywood woman, as the mother-in-law, Miss M. Crot as the young wife and Miss Ella Gardner as the domestic furnished the feminine interest. M. Ruellan, F. Cohen and A. de Rostaing took care of the male roles. The plot has to do with a mother-in-law who, believing that duty kept her in her married daughter's home, drives the latter away by her obstinacy. The son-in-law unearths an old law under the Code Napoleon by which the soldier can be called on to restore to him the wife who had fled. By mistake he writes his mother-in-law's name in the warrant instead of his wife's, embarrassing the gendarmes, who bring in the wrong prisoner. Fortunately for them the irate mother-in-law slaps a soldier's face, which in itself constitutes a cause of arrest, thus leading to a compromise, a final clearing of the situation and a happy finale.

A battle scene, in which M. E. Cailland and M. A. Blanchard formed the principals with military groupings and bugle and drum accompaniment, aroused much enthusiasm.

Well known residents who took part in the celebration were French Consul M. Durand, Leon Curtet, Leon Curtet, Louis Sentous, sr., L. J. Christopher, Paul de Longpre, Emanuel Eyrard, Edouard Naud, Pierre Puisseleg, Jules Viole, Adrien Davoust, Jean Castera, Emile Barlay, Francois Puisseleg, Louis Sentous, jr., Maurice Portier, Fred Ripaud, as Harocretene, F. Noguez, F. Clavere, E. Fleur, Tadeo J. Mollé, P. Cazaux, E. and A. Sarraill, H. and E. Cottave, P. Auclair and M. Lourdou.

WOMAN REFUSES TO PROSECUTE HUSBAND

Mrs. Maggie Valentine of 548 Wall street went to the city receiving hospital yesterday afternoon and asked that a wound over her left eye be attended to.

Dr. Goodrich attended her. A long gash was cut in her forehead and she stated to the police surgeon that her husband had come home drunk and had struck and knocked her down.

The police made an effort to get her to prosecute the man, but she refused to make any complaint, saying that this was the first time during their married life of eight years that he had mistreated her.

SEARCH FOR POLICE CHIEF

OFFICIAL IS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

THOUGHT TO BE IN HIDING IN LOS ANGELES

Former Head of Washington Department is Accused of Making Away with $4000 Left in His Care

James Arthur Kemp, former chief of police of Washington, is thought to be in hiding in Los Angeles and members of the local department are on the watch for him.

Kemp is wanted on a charge of felony embezzlement. A reward of $100 has been offered for his arrest. It is claimed the former police chief embezzled nearly $4000 which had been placed under his charge.

Kemp disappeared from Washington July 3 and since that time representatives of private detective agencies and police departments in all sections of the country have been looking for him. It was learned that Kemp purchased a ticket for Los Angeles several days before he disappeared and it was known he had often expressed a wish to visit Southern California. Taking these things into consideration the police believe the man came directly to Los Angeles and is now living here under an assumed name.

In addition to holding the position of chief of the department Kemp also acted in this position all the property taken from prisoners passed through his hands as well as a great deal of stolen goods. It is said the first suspicion that all was not right with Kemp's accounts was aroused some time ago when it was found that he was playing the races heavily. Detectives began a quiet investigation, but before they gained any definite information Kemp left the city.

Kemp is said to be an expert stenographer and telegraph operator, and it is thought he may endeavor to obtain a position in one of these lines.

The former officer is described as being 46 years of age; 5 feet 7 inches in height; weight 150 pounds; stocky build; sallow complexion; light brown hair; thin on top and back of head; blue eyes; light brown mustache. He is very polite and an affable talker.

When last seen Kemp wore a dark suit, single breasted coat; stiff brim straw hat. He is a quick walker and is very nervous.

Kemp is said to be a frequenter of gambling houses and, it is thought, may be found around some sporting center.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at St. Vincent's church, the interment to be in Calvary cemetery.
