TELEPHONE OFFICIAL FACES COURT SECOND TIME

DEFENSE'S PLEA FOR DELAY IS REFUSED

Judge Lawlor Decides Point in Favor of Prosecution and Orders Case to Begin at Once

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—The second trial of Louis Glass, vice president of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph company, accused of the bribery of supervisors, was begun this morning before Superior Judge Lawlor.

Dilatory tactics were adopted by the defense and arguments on various legal points consumed the forenoon session. When an adjournment to 3 o'clock was taken no progress had been made.

Henry came to court with a bandaged hand. Inquiry disclosed that while his injury is somewhat serious, it was self-inflicted. While shaving with a razor it fell, cutting the base of the thumb to the bone.

Louis Glass has not changed in physical appearance during the interim. He may be a trifle thinner than at the beginning of the first trial, but he still retains his health. He reached court a few minutes after his attorneys and took his accustomed seat.

The prosecution was represented by Assistant District Attorneys Heney and O'Garra and Attorney Cobb. Attorney Coogan, on behalf of the defense, objected to the change made by the prosecution in the indictment to be tried.

In the first trial Glass was accused of bribing former Supervisor Boxton. In the indictment to be tried he is accused of bribing former Supervisor Lonergan.

Judge Lawlor ruled that the prosecution was within its rights and then Coogan asked to withdraw the demurrer and the plea of not guilty for the purpose of making a motion to set aside the indictment. When Glass was arraigned on the first nine indictments Coogan contented himself with witnessing only a demurrer, with no other preliminary motions. Since the United Railroads, gas company and Parkside magnates have attacked the validity of the grand jury he wants the benefit of their discoveries for his client.

Complains of Prosecution Referring to the choice made by the prosecution, he complained that he had not had sufficient notice and that they should not be allowed to jump from one indictment to another, as caprice might suggest.

"Shortly after the arraignment," he said, "the prosecution agreed to decide which one of these indictments would be disposed of first. About seven or eight weeks afterward we were informed that an election had been made. That was number 676. The others were to remain as they had been, no other designation having been made. We are prepared to go ahead with number 676 this morning, and we ask that the people be held to their original choice and not force us to trial on number 675."

In support of his motion Mr. Coogan filed an affidavit alleging the same grounds of invalidity as have been presented to the supreme court. A recess of one hour was granted to allow Assistant District Attorney Heney to file a counter affidavit. This when presented averred that the whole purpose of the defense in the effort to substitute the motion to set aside was to gain time in which to put witnesses outside of the jurisdiction of the trial court.

At the conclusion of the argument Judge Lawlor denied Mr. Coogan's motion and ordered the trial of Glass to be begun at 3 o'clock.

The roll of jurors was called and witnesses were instructed to hold themselves within the order of the court and appear next Wednesday and Thursday.

Youth Fearlessly Attacks Animal and Saves Life of Prostrate Victim—Escapes Rushes by Inches

Special to The Herald. SANTA MONICA, Aug. 12.—Tossed, gored and trampled by an angry bull, Thomas McKnee last night escaped death only through the fearlessness of Ivy Bray, who, armed with but a club, drove the frenzied animal from its victim.

McKnee, though warned that the beast was in a dangerous mood, insisted upon entering the corral in which it was confined. As he advanced in the enclosure the bull, snorting and with lowered head, dashed at him.

McKnee, realizing too late his danger, turned, but before he had gone a dozen paces the animal overtook him and tossed him yards. Almost before he struck the ground it was upon him again, boring with its horns and stamping the prostrate man.

Again and again was McKnee tossed, Bray, who is the son of the animal's owner, H. C. Bray, ran to his aid, picking up as he went a stick. As he approached, the bull turned its attention to him, charging. Bray eluded the attack, and as he wheeled, beheld the animal. Surprised, the beast paused for a moment, preparing to return to the fight.

In the meantime McKnee, half conscious and bleeding, had crawled from the danger zone. Bray again stepped to one side as the bull rushed past within a few inches of him, and then ran from the corral. McKnee's injuries are not serious, although painful.

ASSOCIATED PRESS MEN REFUSE TO GRANT TIME

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Associated Press operators at Chicago, New York and other leased wire points in the west and south struck today, the operators at Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Detroit and Cleveland, however, remaining at their posts. The strike is said to be against the wishes of General Secretary Russell of the Telegraphers' union, who in common with a majority of the operators desired twenty-four hours extension of time to discuss the situation, as Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, had expressed his willingness to meet his men promptly in an endeavor to arrive at an understanding.

By a narrow majority, however, the operators of the Texas circuit refused anything short of an authoritative reply to their demands. As the matter is one which must go before the board of directors Mr. Stone was unable to grant this and the Texas men walked out. Other circuits followed.

At 11 o'clock a comprehensive news report was being handed between New York and as far west as Denver with prospects steadily improving.

LOCKJAW FOLLOWS THE STING OF A BEE

TROUBLE DIAGNOSED AS A CASE OF DIPHTHERIA

Doctors in Philadelphia Hospital Are Puzzled by the Death of a Four-Year-Old Boy

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Lockjaw resulting from the sting of a bee has ended the life of Ralph Foy, 4 years old, in the Municipal hospital. The child had been under treatment for diphtheria. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Foy, who live in Kerper street, Lawndale.

Ralph ran to his mother about a week ago crying and said a bee had "bit" him on the back of the neck. Mrs. Foy applied liniment and thought no more about it. Ralph's neck was very stiff the next morning, and a physician advised that the boy be taken to the Frankford hospital. There the lgd was said to be suffering from diphtheria and he was sent to the Municipal hospital.

Diphtheria remedies had no beneficial effect in his case, and last Friday little Ralph went into convulsions and his jaws became locked. The convulsions continued until death came.

It is said to be a most extraordinary case and the doctors are loath to believe the sting of a bee could actually produce tetanus. They say Ralph must have rubbed dirt into the wound, but the explanation does not satisfy them, for a bee sting does not make an open wound such as is supposed necessary for the culture of tetanus germs.

SIX MILLIONS NOT TO DISTURB EVEN TENOR OF HIS WAY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 12.—"I see no reason why I should stop work at my watchmaker's case, or wear a bigger sized hat, just because a lot of money has come to me."

This was the declaration of Charles L. Van Wert, the Colorado Springs watchmaker who has come into possession of an estate valued at $6,000,000 left him by his father, James L. Van Wert.

Van Wert did not know of his father until a few months before his death, being brought up by a divorced mother in the belief that his father was dead.

An automobile, maybe, but no $1000 dinners or vulgar displays in the world of fashion. The real life is about the way the Van Wertes feel now that they are in the millionaire class. Society will know little of this modest couple, who declare that their mode of life will be little different from what it has been.

SEARCHERS FIND JEWELS IN THE LONG BEACH SANDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Diamonds, other precious stones and clothing worth many thousands of dollars have been recovered by a large force of police and deputy sheriffs in the sand dunes near the ruins of the Long Beach hotel.

Nearly all the jewelry and much of the valuable clothing had been hidden in the sand by looters. All were turned over to Judge Archibald W. Wallace, who, with a deputy sheriff of Nassau county, has been guarding the ruins of the burned hotel.

THE "PEEKABOO" IS NOT FOR CHURCH

SHORT SLEEVES ALSO UNDER THE BAN

Roman Catholic Clergy Takes Stand Against What is Termed Immodesty in Dress of Fashionable Women

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12.—The edict recently issued by the archbishop of Toronto placing a ban on the "peekaboo" waist and short sleeves of the women parishioners of the Roman Catholic church has been received and will be adhered to in the two Kansas Cities.

Henceforth, regardless of the weather, the woman with bared arms who enters a Roman Catholic house of worship can expect at least a word of criticism from the officiating priest. It has been decreed that short sleeves are entirely out of place at a sacred service.

Movement May Be General While the edict issued by the Toronto archbishop is not mandatory on all of the Roman Catholic churches in this country, his attitude is appreciated by many of the Catholic clergy and the "boycott" may become general.

Father Anthony Kuhls, pastor of St. Mary's church, Kansas City, Kas., says: "The short sleeve is proper in its place, but that place is in the kitchen and at the wash tub at home. The modest housewife will even roll down the sleeves of her waist when within her own home at a knock at the door."

Approved by Bishop Bishop Thomas Lillis of the diocese of Leavenworth was asked as to his opinion of the edict.

He replied that he had not read the letter but that he does not question the good judgment of the edict. Of woman's attire, its uses and abuses, he said he was ignorant.

"I don't doubt," said the bishop, "that the Roman Catholic women understand what is properly worn in a church during divine service. But I have never thought of the subject until it was called up by the archbishop's letter. I believe the suggestion is a good one and that it will stand."

"Much of my success in life," said the millionaire, "was due to the advice of my friends. Is it possible?" exclaimed the skeptical person.

"Yes," replied the man of millions, "I always listened to it—but never followed it."—Chicago News.
