BOTH CAMPS START WORK

GANS AND BURNS READY FOR TRAINING

"Bubbles" Robinson on Hand to Act as Baltimore Man's Punching Bag—Tommy Burns Due Soon

Gans and Burns will do their first public stunts this afternoon before a large audience of fans who are planning to go out to the training camps to see the fighters in action.

Everything was serene out at the Gans camp at Arcadia yesterday afternoon. Gans was not doing any work, but just taking things easy and resting.

Gans had little to say yesterday. "I am resting up from my trip today and will begin work tomorrow," declared the champion.

Sparring Light Willie Keefe, Gans' trainer, said that the program for today's work would consist in light sparring with "Bubbles" and himself, after which Gans will punch a few minutes with the swinging sandbag.

Burns is taking things a little more strenuously than Gans. He plans to have a sparring contest with Abdul the Turk and Kid Berry each day, besides some road work, systematic exercise and a punching bag.

Gans studies the fighting game while he is training and studies his opponent when he is fighting. Many believe that he studies it while he is resting between times.

Burns is stronger than Gans and is a harder fighter and readier mixer. Those who have watched him rise in the prize fight game say he is not nearly so heady as Gans.

Plans to Slug Just what tactics he will pursue in his coming fight with Gans is not known, but he has indicated that he would start after Gans from the stroke of the gong and keep right after him till one of them is put out.

This may be only boasting. Jimmy has no end of grit and this is backed up by a world of confidence. But the tactics he will pursue in his fight with Gans will be determined by Tommy Burns when the latter arrives and sizes up the situation.

Jimmy reports he is feeling all right now and has entirely recovered from his recent indisposition. He thinks there will be no difficulty in his making the weight stipulated.

HOW VETERAN PILOTTED HIS FIRST TWO WINNERS

Ed Geer, Reinsman, Tells of Experiences Which Prompted Him to Take Up Work of Professional Trainer

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14.—No doubt the most popular figure on the trotting turf today is the veteran reinsman Ed Geer. His sturdy personality, his long and honorable connection with the light harness horse sport and his brilliant career makes him extremely popular with the crowd.

During his thirty-three years of active turf life there has not been a single occasion when the slightest breath of suspicion has been manifested in any way in connection with Geer, and it has been this trait of always trying to win that has earned for him his popularity and the thorough confidence he enjoys.

Geer was born on a farm near Lebanon, Tenn., January 25, 1874, and from boyhood took an ardent interest in horses. His success in breaking colts and getting along with nervous, high-strung horses, when his teens, earned for him quite a local reputation.

In 1891 a neighboring clergyman, who usually owned a good horse or two, purchased a number of young animals of Morgan breed, engaging young Geer to handle them for him.

The following week Little Dave and again won. Although Geer has driven hundreds of brilliant races since that time and notwithstanding that scores of champions have been made and trained by him, it is plainly evident to this day that no race affords him more genuine pleasure than any of the great triumphs which have marked his long and successful career.
