

POULTRY SHOW OPENS WITH FINEST EXHIBIT OF BIRDS IN THE WEST MANY SEE RARE BREEDS OF FOWL Hundreds of Beautiful Specimens Shown and Ribbons Are Awarded Winners by Judges After Careful Inspections—Bird That Won Honors at World's Fair Shown Here

BY W. R. MANION MORE than 3500 people visited the nineteenth annual show of the Los Angeles Poultry Association at 415 South Hill street, which opened at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The large crowd jammed the building all day, and Ohs and Ahs were the principal words heard from the spectators as each magnificent bird was inspected. Children crowded their elders for a chance to peer closer at the Wyandottes, Mediterranean, Orpingtons, bantams and pigeons alike. Turkeys, pheasants, ducks and geese came in for their share of notice also, and the obliging exhibitors, or owners, officers of the association and attendants were kept busy throughout the day explaining the difference between a homer pigeon that does not get homesick and an Orpington hen that is not an orphan.

Arthur J. Little, breeder of White Plymouth Rocks exclusively, besides his fowls donated for the exhibit a portion of his outside aviary at Monrovia, containing a large number of tropical and domestic birds. Mr. Little is naturally a lover of birds and animals, and for more than three years was deputy officer of Monrovia district for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. A common idea is that quail and doves cannot be domesticated, but that it is erroneous was proved last night when Little entered the cage to replenish food and water. A dove and a quail sat on each shoulder, pecking at his ears and showing their affection for him in numerous bird ways. Mr. Little holds a permit from the game warden to keep in captivity doves and quail, and he does this merely for experimental purposes. After the hunting season is over he sets his surplus birds to dumb animals and a protector of song birds. One of the most interested spectators yesterday was John Manders of 716 Stewart street. Master Manders, 12 years old, was not an exhibitor this year, although he carried off the cup for homer pigeons last year. It was with eager ears and envious eyes the girls edged nearer to him as he explained the markings of his birds. Manders said when he took his vacation at the beach this summer his birds became so wild he was unable to capture them in fit condition to show.

Has Many Prizes Mrs. C. D. Hubbard of San Fernando had, besides a fine display of Peking ducks and mammoth bronze turkeys, each of which took first prize, the largest exhibit of white Wyandottes ever made on the Pacific coast by one exhibitor. When asked about the fine cuts and many other birds she won at this show, Mrs. Hubbard said: "I have been exhibiting fowls for eight years and have won many trophies of various values. All of them, large or small, are dear to my heart. Not that I am vain, but I am proud of them for the sake of my pets. Yes, they are all pets, every one of them, and really I believe they take more pride in the ribbons and prizes than I do myself. "I came to Los Angeles and this is my fourth exhibit here. I have at my ranch forty breeding pens for white Wyandottes exclusively. I do not keep birds that lay under 14 eggs a year. This accounts for the high standard of my stock. "According to eminent judges, the quality of Sebrights was as good as ever shown in America. Among the prize winners here are old champions at such shows as Madison Square garden, Boston and Chicago. "In silver Sebrights are birds fit to exhibit in any show in the world, bar none. Sebrights are the only birds where the male and female are bred and marked exactly the same. The bird was originated by Sir John Sebright in England over 100 years ago. The best bird was made by R. A. Rowan in silvers and M. A. Dillingham in goldens.

Exhibits New Breed The buff orpington ducks which won first prize for Dr. W. Jarvis Barlowe of Sierra Madre are a new breed and have never been exhibited before. There was also made the first exhibit of Rouen ducks ever seen in this city, although the Rouen is the oldest breed of ducks, dating back over fifty years or as long as there has been a standard to go by. W. W. Watson won first on drake and duck. Mrs. C. L. Hogue of San Gabriel won first on young drakes and young ducks. There never has been in the history of exhibits in this city a fine class showing of single comb black Minorcas as in this show, and the same is true also of the buff Wyandottes. Last year the class of Partridges and Wyandottes was a small one. This show demonstrated the demand for them by an entrance of more than double the number of any of the former shows. Ross & Tate of Altadena have a fine pen of ten Black Orpington pullets, which won for them the first prize for that class.

Unbeaten Bird Show Governor Francis, M. D. Dillingham's buff Wyandotte cock, had heard all about it, and was strutting and fussing in his pen, flanked on each side by his sons, daughters, sisters, cousins and aunts, all of whom felt a little blue. Governor Francis won first prize at the World's fair in St. Louis, when Mr. Dillingham bought him, and he has never been beaten since. The first prize pullet of the Buff Cockerel class is a magnificent bird owned by C. F. Jones. R. A. Rowan was at the show with some of his fine birds. Listen to this: Golden Polish, all awards; to R. A. Rowan; Silver Polish, ditto; Polish Bearded Golden, same thing; White Faced Black Spanish, once more; Black Hamburgs, same again; besides various ribbons all over the house. An error was made in the awarding of the Tribune cup, it being won by Arthur J. Little, instead of Mrs. C. D. Hubbard of San Fernando, as was first thought. Other cups awarded yesterday are: The John D. Mercer cup, offered for the best Cornish fowl (donor barred); to the T. H. Broadhead company. The Minneapolis Cornish Indian cup, for the best female Cornish fowl; to the T. H. Broadhead company. Special Ribbons Awarded The Pacific Cornish Fowl club cup, for the best exhibition pen of Cornish fowls; to the T. H. Broadhead company. The special prize ribbons for each and every class of Orpingtons, to Ross & Tate of Altadena. The C. C. C. Tatum cup for the best cockerel, hen and pullet in White Rock class; to A. J. Little of Monrovia. The W. W. Browning loving cup, offered to the exhibitor making the largest display of the greatest number of varieties; to J. A. Rowan. Four handsome silk ribbons, one each for the best White Wyandotte cock, hen, cockerel or pullet shown by a member of the exhibitors, to White Wyandotte club, were all awarded to Mrs. C. D. Hubbard of San Fernando. In the pigeon department, the final award on the silver cup for the best display was made last night, going to Wilbur E. Foster of Fillmore, Cal., on a third of thirty-one first prizes out of thirty-one entries.

NEVER SO MANY FANCY PIGEONS HERE AS NOW The pigeon industry in Southern California is in a prosperous condition. There never was a time when there were as many high class fancy pigeons here as there are at present. A great many eastern fanciers are coming to Los Angeles to reside and are to bring birds with them that are true specimens, coming up almost to the ideal. To foster and promote this industry a few fanciers organized the Southwestern Pigeon club four years ago. This club is now giving its fourth annual exhibit with better birds cooped than heretofore. Thursday evening, December 5, a meeting of the club was held and the following officers were elected: J. A. Cox, president; Will Schock, vice president; W. H. Elliot, secretary; E. E. Bradshaw, treasurer, and Wilbur E. Foster, superintendent of exhibitions. At this meeting fourteen new members were taken in, swelling the list to twenty-six. Tuesday evening, December 10, another meeting will be held, at which the date for the next annual exhibition will be set. It is the intention of the club to hold monthly meetings, at which birds will be cooped, judged and discussed. At these meetings all owners of fancy pigeons are invited to be present, whether members of the club or not. At the exhibition now going on the birds are all classified in regular order, each variety being lined up, coop to coop. Visitors Praise Show Many eastern fanciers who have visited the show here remarked it was the best organized show they had visited west of the Mississippi river. Of the Parlor Tumbler class, little yellow Lorine, who made a sensational roll at Oakland a year ago, is present, in better form than ever. She was put through a performance to the amusement of the crowd every hour, rolling from forty to ninety feet. A rare specimen of pigeon never before seen on the Pacific coast is the Russian trumpeter. This is a large bird with a heavy cap over the beak, almost hiding the eye, with a heavy crest coming up over the back of the head. On their feet and legs is a growth of feathers that appear almost to be another pair of wings. Will Schock, who recently moved to Los Angeles from Chicago, has without a doubt the finest exhibit of fan-tails ever seen on the Pacific coast. These birds came here with honors from such shows as Madison square, Boston, and Chicago. E. J. Walts of this city has a good display of Dragons, winning the silver cup with his yellow cock.

POULTRY SHOW DEVELOPS THE BARD OF FILLMORE From Fillmore comes a man who breeds pigeons which are considered something superior in their line, but he writes poetry by the yard that is, his friends at the show believe, little short of inspirational. He grinds it off by the yard, and most of it is witty, and it all has points. The following story of the disqualified fancier was written in The Herald office by the bard of Fillmore while he waited for his fellow breeders to convince an other fellow that a certain line of birds was the best ever: A Disqualified Fancier Jasper Johnson was a man who, on the Sabbath day, would dress himself in broadcloth and go to church to pray. There he would up and testify with a sanctimonious air. And shout hoshannas loudly when the preacher led in prayer. But take it of a weekday, he was a different man; to cheat his fellow fanciers seemed to be his only plan. If an order came for a pair of birds, followed with the cash, he'd slip away a pair of cocks or else a pair of trash. He was tricky in the show room; in all his dealings there he'd pluck his birds and doctor them in methods most unfair. The fellows all disliked him and wished he'd stay away; they never called him Jasper, but old Hypocency. Put pigeons will come home to roost, is an old saw that is wise, and tricky, too, has yet to win a satisfactory prize. And Jasper Johnson found this out. Fair dealings pay the best; A Sunday Christian, a weekday sneak, finds no perfect rest. At last old Jasper passed away; his deeds went on before; Faint Peter looked his record up and read to him this score: Your life on earth was not sincere; your religion just a shell; So we'll give you heaven Sundays, of a weekday give you hell. —W. E. Foster.

Masked Mob Terrorizes Entire Town 'NIGHT RIDERS' BURN TOBACCO WAREHOUSES $200,000 WORTH OF PROPERTY IS DESTROYED Residents of Hopkinsville, Ky., Are Powerless to Oppose Raiders. Many Buildings Are Burned By Associated Press. HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 7.—Five hundred "night riders," masked and heavily armed, marched into Hopkinsville early today and destroyed property valued at more than $200,000, while the citizens in terror of their lives feared to open their windows. The police, fire department, telephone and telegraph offices and even the railroad stations were in possession of the wild mob, shooting right and left. The flames from burning buildings meanwhile lighted up the city and the surrounding country until it seemed the whole town was ablaze. Two men, one of them Lindsay Mitchell, a tobacco buyer, were injured, being severely beaten. The other was shot in the back while trying to move his team from the path of flames. The raid of the "night riders" caught the city unawares, as for some time the depredations resulting in the tobacco war had been of a minor nature and it was generally thought that in the "dark district" at least the worst was over. The property destroyed was as follows: W. H. Tandy, independent warehouse, building owned by John C. Latham. E. M. Fairbridge, association warehouse. Tandy & Fairleigh warehouse. In addition, the entire glass front of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, Mayor Mechem's paper, which has condemned the raids of the "night riders," was destroyed, the windows in the front of the Commercial Banking and Savings company, the First National bank and the Bank of Hopkinsville were punctured with bullet holes. A number of other business houses and residences bear the marks of the "night riders' bullets and it is considered remarkable that no one was killed. The insurance is believed to be about $60,000. At the intercession of citizens who were being rided on street corners the invaders allowed the fire department to leave their building to save property adjoining the burning buildings. The girls in the telephone office were forced by fifteen men to leave their stations until the mob was ready to leave town. The governor has ordered the militia to the district. As soon as the night riders left town a posse of about fifteen, headed by Major Bassett of the local militia and

Deputy Sheriff Cravens entered bugles and followed the trail. As soon as the posse could get away enough they opened fire on the fleeing mob and the pursued returned the fire. It is believed none of the night riders was hit. Members of the posse escaped injury. They were soon outdistanced by the mounted men.

ROOSEVELT'S REFUSAL TO SEEK THIRD TERM NOT AUTHORIZATIVE Pointed Out at Washington That President Has Not Made Formal Announcement as to His Intentions By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Although several interviews have been published with recent White House callers to the effect that the president has declared anew that he will decline another nomination, it is said the president has made no such declaration. It is pointed out that should he contemplate such a statement he would not embody it in a casual conversation with a caller, to be repeated or withheld as the caller should elect, but would make it direct, and this he has not done. Boys Held on Suspicion Clarence Holst, aged 19 years and William Klaus and Juan Crio, aged 15 years, were arrested last night by Detectives Hosiek and Zeigler and placed in jail on suspicion. The boys were wearing clothing which had been stolen from a house at 434 Hartford street. Wears False Mustache; Arrested O. T. Griffin was arrested by Patrolman Droege Meyer and placed in jail on a misdemeanor charge. Griffin was walking along the street with a false mustache and beard on his face.
