EVANS TO PARTICIPATE IN FESTIVITIES

HOPES TO ATTEND FUNCTIONS IN HONOR OF FLEET

Early Visit from Warships Is Expected—Many Days to Be Passed in Ports of California from the south did not even ripple the mirror-like waves of the bay. On the side the harbor... the natives were gathered in greatest numbers to welcome the fleet.

Governor Welcomes Fleet

Governor Sangreze, surrounded by gaily uniformed members of his staff, gaily uniformed members of the vessels from the most pretentious dwelling of the village.

It was not until the very anchorage grounds had been reached that the speed cones gradually descending showed a slackening of headway. Then signal flags were broken out from the Connecticut and with the precision of a company of soldiers at drill the vessels of each of the four divisions began a quick maneuver which brought them four abreast.

"Anchor in present formation!" came the command from the flagship. The beat of propellers, which could be plainly heard across the still, and the whir of the dropping anchor chains awoke the echoes of the hills with raucous noises. Passing through the three miles of deep water to anchor at 7:55 o'clock. Five minutes later the saluting cannon of the converted cruiser Buffalo, which was waiting with supplies and mail, boomed with the first of thirteen guns.

Saluting is not allowed until 8 o'clock under navy regulations, and that accounted for the seeming delay in speaking honor to Admiral Evans's flag. Besides the Buffalo the only other ships to greet the fleet were the big tug Fortuna, sent down from the Mare Island navy yard to assist in target practice, to tow the target range and three grimy coilers which had brought their heavy burden of coal all the way from Norfolk.

Scarcely had the fleet come to anchor when the little steam launches or running boats had been dropped into the water from the deck of the flagship, rushing about with shrill whistles screaming, carrying messages and reports to the flagships. Half an hour later all of the busy little craft were gathered about the flagship, and side ladders of the Buffalo asking for mail from home. In a way, it was like a mail time at a village post office.

Officers who viewed it for the first time today declared it to be the greatest of naval bases, and expressed the wish that it belonged to the United States instead of the republic of Mexico. It devolved upon Rear Admiral Thomas, commanding the second squadron of the fleet, to come ashore outside waiting for the commander in chief to the Mexican authorities, and this he did within the first hour after anchoring. His charge put out from the flagship, Minnesota and in it beside himself were the members of his personal staff.

Governor Sangreze received the Americans most graciously. He told them he came to Magdalena as the personal representative of President Diaz to bid the American fleet welcome. Admiral Thomas thanked him with cordiality and told him how much the American people appreciated the courtesy of the Mexican government in allowing the navy the use of one of its most magnificent harbors.

Visits Battleships The conversation was carried on through an interpreter. During the afternoon Governor Sangreze returned Admiral Thomas' call and was entertained on board the Minnesota. They were drunk to Presidents Roosevelt and Diaz and the wish was expressed that the cordial relations existing between the two great republics of North America might always remain as cordial as now.

Governor Sangreze was shown all over the flagship and had the working of the great turret rifles explained to him in detail. He was much interested in all that he saw and expressed great admiration for the ship. As he went over the side on his return to the shore the saluting cannon of the Minnesota fired seventeen shots in his honor.

The personnel of the fleet, according to the reports of all of the officers, is in the highest state of efficiency. Training of the gun crews and the men assigned to the various other divisions of the different ships has been persistent from the very start of the cruise.

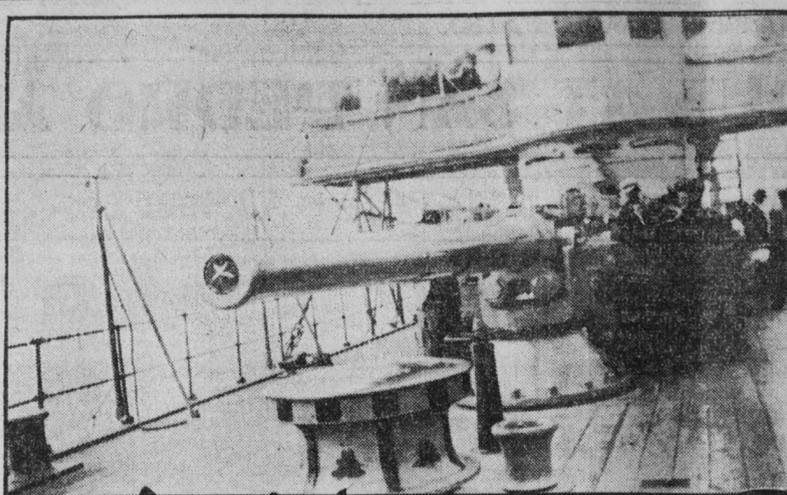

Thirteen thousand miles of steaming and three months of continuous work have brought the fleet to a point of efficiency which the arrival here fully two days ahead of scheduled time only in part illustrates.

"I don't care to express my personal opinion of the progress of the fleet," said Admiral Evans today in an interview with the Associated Press. "You may say anything you want to, but I have no opinion about the cruise. It is unnecessary. The facts speak for themselves. The only thing to bring to the attention of the public is that the Atlantic fleet to Magdalena bay for target practice. We are here. If anybody doubts it, let him come and see."

Thomas Never in Command

The admiral was sitting on the afterbridge of his flagship surveying the other vessels of the fleet at anchor with evident pride. A little lighter in weight, perhaps, but no other indication of his recent illness was apparent.

Forecastle Six-Inch Gun of the Albany

THIS GUN DID NOT SHARE IN THE MARKSMANSHIP AT MAGDALENA, BUT HAS RENDERED GREAT SERVICE

ent. Not for a minute had he been required to relinquish full command of the movements of the vessels on their way to the Pacific. In this connection Rear Admiral Thomas today authorized the following statement to be made in his behalf:

"There was absolutely no truth in the story that Admiral Evans had transferred command to me. Never has it even been contemplated. There has not been a day that Admiral Evans has not had full grasp of the duties of the supreme command. It has been my great pleasure to represent him socially from time to time, but it is unjust to him and to me to print that he transferred command to me. Please deny it absolutely."

Speaking of his illness, Admiral Evans said: "I was sorry not to be able to go ashore at the South American ports and enjoy the hospitalities of those countries. I was anxious to do it, but this unfortunate illness prevented. Admiral Thomas, however, attended to the social duties with much credit to himself and to the country. No one could have done it better. But I am improving now and shall be able to leave the ship soon. I have been prevented from going ashore and having a good time with the boys, but when we get to California I am going to do it."

When he was to go twice as much for California as we have done for anybody else. We shall all be glad to get back to the United States."

Evans Goes to Range

Admiral Evans said he probably would go to the range with the target practice. Admiral Thomas in speaking of the cruise said: "I have the opinion of the whole fleet when I say that this has been one of the most, if not the most, remarkable and successful naval cruises in the history of the world. It eclipses by far anything ever before undertaken by the American navy, and the beneficial results are greater than ever before were accomplished. When we left Hampton roads, we were ready for battle the minute we reached Magdalena bay. It is a most magnificent demonstration of the engineering force and the firing of the boilers. There has been the greatest competition among the crews, and this has done much for the increase in efficiency. I am looking forward also to some wonderful results at target practice."

"Our visits to the ports of South America will result in much good. They cemented the various countries in closer bonds of friendship with the United States and will rebound to mutual advantage commercially as well as politically."

"We were treated with the greatest consideration, courtesy and, I may say, enthusiasm wherever we went. Kentucky and Vermont were on the target range soon after the fleet had come to anchor setting out targets and perfecting arrangements for immediate fire. Target practice may be concluded in three weeks, and the fleet should leave here some time between April 8 and 10, probably nearer the latter date. There will be no battle practice, contrary to expectations, as these drills always are reserved until the fall."

POPULISTS MAY NOMINATE LA FOLLETTE FOR PRESIDENT

By Associated Press. EMPORIA, Kas., March 16.—E. S. Waterbury of Emporia, Populist national committeeman from Kansas and delegate to his party's national convention at St. Louis, is quoted as saying in the course of an interview today that Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin would be nominated on the first ballot for president by the populists.

PROMISE DIVISION AT FOUR HARBORS

SECRETARY METCALF FAVORS SUCH DISTRIBUTION

Decision Is Regarded as Final, and Long Beach, Redondo and Santa Monica Bay Are Happy

The telegrams that were sent from the beach towns, the fleet committee, chamber of commerce, M. and M. and others, Saturday, in a fusillade to procure a division of the fleet when it gets to its official destination—San Pedro harbor—bore fruit yesterday in replies to each of the signers of Saturday's telegrams.

FORTIFICATIONS BILL CUT; HOPED TO PLACATE JAPAN

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 16.—The fortifications bill, carrying $4,821,871 instead of $38,432,946 asked for by the war department, was reported today to the house committee on appropriations by Chairman Smith of the subcommittee. The subcommittee felt, aside from other conditions, to recommend an appropriation of $38,000,000 at this time would be an action which might very reasonably be construed by Japan as a declaration that the United States was preparing for war. The amount recommended is larger than any which has been annually appropriated since the Spanish-American war. The cutting down of the department's estimates by $30,233,334 means, among other things, that the committee has recommended that the construction of Manila harbor by the construction and fortification of an artificial island, and nothing is carried for Subig bay.

WARSHIPS ANCHOR AT SAN PEDRO

(Continued from Page One) beach, the four cruisers made a picturesque appearance and invited visits from the thousands of people who had gathered to see the fleet. The crews were uniformly courteous in showing the visitors about the ships and explaining the manner of working the five and six-inch guns, which are the most important part of the fighting equipment. The visiting hours aboard the warships have not been officially announced by Admiral Sebree, but the usual time is from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock each afternoon, including Sundays.

CRUISERS TO BE HELD IN RESERVE AT PUGET SOUND

FRESH FRUITS TO BE SENT TO THE JACKIES AT MAGDALENA BAY

California Growers' Union Will Determine Quantity to Be Shipped as Gift of Southern California

The first message from John B. Elliott, secretary of the fleet reception committee, who went to Magdalena bay for the Associated Press on the South Dakota three weeks ago, was received by Mayor Harper yesterday. It was a telegram by wireless from Mr. Elliott which proposed something that, passed in rapid fire from the mayor to Frank Wiggins, secretary of the chamber of commerce and by him to the California Fruit Growers' exchange, will provide a greeting from Southern California to the great fleet at Magdalena bay.

Mr. Elliott's telegram follows: "It would be a great thing if the chamber of commerce sent down here a large consignment of fresh fruit complimentary to officers and men of the fleet. The Buffalo will be at San Diego Monday and Tuesday and transport anything free of that sort. It would be immensely appreciated and the proper thing to do, make this as a suggestion. Just writing you regards fleet reception today."

That it is the proper thing to do was the instant decision of the mayor and Mr. Wiggins, and the officials of the Fruit Growers' union were informed. They took it up with equal alacrity and a meeting of the directors of the union will determine just what will be sent. As the Buffalo is to sail today from San Diego on its return to Magdalena, the dispatch of the fruits will be by another boat.

Not less than a carload of the fresh fruits for which the southern climate is famous and for which the men of the fleet are in anxious anticipation is considered.

The Albany will be one of the most interesting of the group, as it carries with it the prize gun crew, which had a record of twenty-five hits in twenty-five shots, all in twenty-eight minutes. This crew is, of course, proud of its work, and members of it are patient in showing how the big guns were handled.

Shore leave will be granted to about half the men each day, so that the presence of jackies on the streets will become familiar and prepare the public for the thousands of men who will have the liberty of the city when the great fleet arrives.

WHIRLWIND WORK IS BRINGING MONEY

COMMITTEES ON STREETS BEING GENEROUSLY TREATED

Several Hundred Dollars Gained Yesterday as Starter for Cyclone Work to Follow—Be a Boomer

The whirlwind campaign for fleet funds began yesterday according to schedule. The subcommittees started early and with determination and reports from them late in the afternoon were very comforting to Chairman Woolwine of the finance committee. In this campaign little will be left undone and the committees are not prepared to be refused. Their argument is based on the patriotic hospitality the city should show and the indirect benefit that such a visit to Los Angeles will bring. It is a plea to keep Los Angeles at the head of the procession. "Be a boomer with a boom and boom the boom with your money" is the slogan.

Several hundred dollars was raised yesterday. As the exact amounts were not reported the aggregate could not be stated definitely, but the committees found generous responses to their request. It is hoped that at today's meeting of the executive committee at the Merchants and Manufacturers' rooms that an adequate idea of the progress of the campaign will be made known.

Chairman Woolwine received a contribution from C. J. Rittenhouse, a Spanish-American, formerly of Los Angeles, but now living in Tucson, Ariz. Mr. Rittenhouse enclosed $1 and wished the occasion success, although he cannot be here.

"That is the right spirit," said Mr. Woolwine. "It is possible for hundreds of others to follow that example." Mayor Harper got a letter from George Cook, of San Bernardino yesterday which made him smile. It didn't look like a letter with money, but it contained a check from Mr. Cook for $25 to "keep the good work going." The mayor turned the check over to Treasurer Woolwine. The mayor's secretary, Harry Kennedy, is prepared to receive any contributions that may be made to the fleet.

The city council yesterday afternoon voted an additional $300 to the fleet entertainment committee, having found an unexpended balance available for the purpose. Councilman Healy wanted the council to save $100 for the old soldiers, but the majority vote placed the cash in the Evans fund, and it will be turned over to the chairmen of the reception committees.

SPEECH FROM ADMIRAL MAY BE FEATURE OF BANQUET

The news that Admiral Evans is recovering physically so that his shore visits may be depended on has been received as milk and honey by the committee on the entertainment of officers and men, of which Gen. Adna Chaffee is chairman. He will be in Los Angeles on the 17th and his physical condition will permit him, to come ashore "with the boys," as he puts it in his interview with the Associated Press. It is expected that he will fill for his best and that a speech from him at the banquet will be probable. Free from the torture of the rheumatism that has often, as a result of his wounds in the Civil War, "Fighting Bob" is a thirteen-inch gun in the oratorical class. His speeches are terse and to the point and their delivery is said to be inspiring.

MRS. EVANS MAY MEET 'BOB' HERE

(Continued from Page One) due to his periods of excruciating agony." Word from Mrs. Evans as to her final decision is anxiously awaited by Col. Neville. He is certain she will come, just as soon as word is received that she is coming the committee will arrange to receive her with gracious ceremony such as would treat her arrival with dignity.
