WIDENING FOURTH STREET AN EXPENSIVE PROCESS

Buildings Must Be Demolished and Twenty-foot Strip Condemned to Aid Municipal Progress

In the process of straightening and widening Fourth street from Alameda to Hewitt streets, which will soon be started, a brick saloon building must be demolished. The saloon stands at Third and Alameda streets, and to obliterate the landmark will cost $65,000. Fourth street from the river to Hewitt street formerly bore the name of Short street. The original Fourth street diverged from Short and Hewitt streets diagonally to Alameda and Hewitt.

Condemnation proceedings will be started to obtain a twenty-foot strip alongside this sixty-foot thoroughfare so that it will be eighty feet wide its entire length. It will also be necessary to shorten the Santa Fe tracks by twenty feet on the north side to allow of widening.

KENTUCKY SOCIETY WILL MAKE SECOND ATTEMPT

Three Hundred Will Go to Redondo Today to Visit the Battleship Named from State of Their Birth

Undaunted by their failure to get aboard the battleship Kentucky Wednesday the Kentucky society will make another effort today, when the entire society, 300 strong, will again go to Redondo with the intention of visiting the battleship. Wednesday the sea was so heavy that no launches or small craft dared brave the elements and although a few of the most intrepid members of the party made the effort they were unable to reach the ship. In this effort J. Marian Brooks fell overboard and was nearly drowned. All Kentuckians and their friends are invited to be at the corner of Second and Broadway this morning at 10 o'clock to take the Redondo car.

PASTOR OBJECTS TO IRISH HITS

FATHER O'REILLY MAKES A PUBLIC REPROOF

SAYS THAT DRAMA GIVEN IS MISREPRESENTATION

Asserts That "The Breakers," Staged by the Y. M. I., is Misleading Regarding the Sons of the Emerald Isle

Stating that the Irish were not set forth in the proper light in "The Breakers," a drama given by the Young Men's Institute of St. Patrick's parish last Tuesday night, Rev. P. J. O'Reilly, the pastor, made an address following the play in which he denounced in no uncertain terms the idea of ridiculing the Irish, saying that he himself was born in the Emerald Isle and did not considering the race that had furnished the saint after whom their parish was named. The Y. M. I. had labored some time on the drama, giving it last Tuesday night in order to raise funds to pay for the Y. M. I. window in the new St. Patrick's church. The institute was formed some three years ago in a sound footing in the last year. Instead of words of reproach they had looked for commendation from their pastor, and were greatly shocked at the impression it had given him as he stated plainly at the end of the evening. W. B. Clark, who has been president of the institute and choir master since the organization of the parish, mailed his resignation to Father O'Reilly last Wednesday, the day following the drama and its unlooked for ending.

Had Confidence in Y. M. I.

Father O'Reilly said that he had had confidence in the judgment of the young men and had not attended the rehearsals, relying on that judgment. The young men say that three-fourths of those taking part were of Irish blood and that they could see nothing wrong in it.

Father O'Reilly stated last night that there was nothing personal in his reproach, but that he considered it his duty to publicly state that he did not approve of the drama given by a society in his parish. The Irish dialect was particularly displeasing to Father O'Reilly, who returned a few weeks ago from a European trip, during which he spent some time in Ireland.

Father O'Reilly says that he does not look for any disunion following his public reproach, but the members of the Y. M. I. are feeling it very sorely and at their meeting next Tuesday evening some spirited discussions are looked forward to. Father O'Reilly stated last night that he considered that he had taken the right stand and would that he would do it over again should he be placed in the same position.

SHOWS BOARD A WAY TO HELP SOCIETY

A decision was yesterday rendered by the district attorney's office in regard to the petition of the Boys' and Girls' Aid society of South Pasadena, which organization asked the board of supervisors to give it assistance in refitting its hospital. The opinion states that under the law the $400 asked for cannot be appropriated, and suggests that the board can find a way out of the difficulty by caring for inmates of the society's home as county charges and paying the management for this expense.

PER DIEM PAYROLLS WORRY OFFICIALS

MEANS ENTIRE CHANGE OF DEPARTMENT POLICY

Councilmen Desiring to Insure Wages for Laborers on Holidays Find Obstacles in the Way

The plan of some members of the city council to put all laborers in the street, park and other departments on the monthly payroll rather than on a per diem basis is meeting with opposition among the men themselves. Councilman Bernard Healy suggested the change on the theory that when holidays intervene it will insure pay for these laborers, who now lose wages when not working.

Inspector of Public Work D. K. Edwards says the ordinance would be all right in some respects, but it was flexible, but conditions are such that the seasons of the year have much to do with expenditures.

Mr. Edwards, to whom the proposed ordinance was referred yesterday, "I have looked over the ordinance and regard most of the changes made as a reasonable compensation, but the ordinance contemplates an entire change in the policy of handling many of the men, the wisdom of which I very much question. It would not perhaps increase the expenditures of the department where men are employed all the year round, but there are difficulties arising out of handling monthly men in this department.

"For instance, street do and sweepers. It is necessary to put some of these to work on important up town locations Sundays and holidays. Some sprinkling wagons also must be run on Sundays and holidays. It will not be just to monthly men on the same basis to ask some of them to work on Sundays and holidays and others not. "It is not practicable to change places with some men in these positions, as their unfamiliarity with localities renders them unable to give good service. A man accustomed to sprinkling outlying gravel streets with the ordinary sprinklers would be very awkward and put to great disadvantage and perhaps endangered in attempting to give service in uptown sprinkling with wagons equipped differently."

LOS ANGELES AIDS IN WAR ON FLIES

STABLE REFUSE MUST BE KEPT COVERED

Legislation Like New York's Planned, Requiring Frequent Removal of Filth and Destruction of Breeding Spots

Health Officer L. M. Powers is heartily in favor of the campaign against house flies started in New York city. He says, however, that fly paper and other stable refuse must be removed frequently or kept in covered receptacles to check the spread of flies.

It is probable that an ordinance will be introduced in the Los Angeles city council requiring that manure must be hauled away daily and that covered receptacles must be provided to contain it. This tends to prevent the winged pests from harboring there. "The eggs of the flies are deposited in manure heaps as a rule," said Dr. Powers, "and the heat generated by decaying matter hatches them. In a decaying matter flies breed rapidly, but the manure piles are probably the greatest breeding factors.

"Flies, like rats, scatter contagion and pollution in many ways. They live on all kinds of offal and putrid matter, decaying vegetables, cesspools and garbage cans, then alight in milk and food vessels or plates, if they get around a clean, playing it out now and then, slipping, and the rope quickly loosened itself from its holding place. The sailor grabbed for it, despite the slip and strain, but missed it. Some of the women became hysterical, and the people on the warship and on shore looking on expected to see the smaller craft capsize. In a few minutes, however, another rope had been thrown to the drifting craft and it was seized by the two sailors, who made it fast. The Kentucky was the scene of several pleasant reunions during the afternoon, as many members of the Kentucky society going as could get away a second time after making a fruitless trip to Redondo the day before. One party included Mrs. Ethel Depot, formerly of San Francisco; Miss Lottie Handcock of Highland Park, and Miss Clara Dale, formerly of Nebraska. Another party included Mrs. J. Winters and Miss Helen Thompson and friends. During the day large quantities of flowers were sent to the Kentucky and the Illinois. A big dance in the evening at the Casino concluded the festivities.

DEATH OF CAT MAY UNRAVEL MYSTERY OF WOMAN'S DEATH

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, April 23.—"The cat is now in our possession and ready for analysis."

Such is the declaration in an affidavit Attorney John Francis Tyrell presented to Coroner Hoffman yesterday in an endeavor to have the body of Mrs. Mary Butler exhumed. On the examination of the dead cat will depend the necessity of making a chemical analysis of the woman's stomach, and before the matter is entirely disposed a $7000 estate may change hands.

Thomas Cunningham, an adopted son of the dead woman's former husband, John Cunningham, disappointed in finding that Mrs. Butler had bequeathed her estate to strangers, asserts that she was poisoned and offers the carcass of the cat to prove his suspicions. Mrs. Butler died February 28, Cunningham avers that a pet cat ate some of the same food Mrs. Butler had eaten and that it died in convulsions.

KENTUCKY BOAT LOSES ITS TOW

WOMEN BECOME HYSTERICAL AT REDONDO

Agile Sailors Quickly Make Drifting Craft Fast and No Damage Results Except to the Nerves

Redondo was the objective point for thousands of battleship visitors and dance seekers yesterday. Hundreds who failed to reach the battleship the day before are again hoping that the seas would be more favorable, and only a few were disappointed.

Towards evening, however, the waters became a bit stormy again and those inclined to mal de mar suffered the pangs of seasickness. A thrilling feature of the afternoon was the drifting away of a boatload of passengers who were towed ashore by a launch of the Kentucky.

The private boats were unable to take off the people as rapidly as necessary, and Captain Cowles ordered several of the boat's launches into service. One launch towed a boatload, and when a few hundred feet nearer inland, the sailor who held the rope around a cleat, playing it out now and then, slipping, and the rope quickly loosened itself from its holding place. The sailor grabbed for it, despite the slip and strain, but missed it.

Some of the women became hysterical, and the people on the warship and on shore looking on expected to see the smaller craft capsize. In a few minutes, however, another rope had been thrown to the drifting craft and it was seized by the two sailors, who made it fast. ### MARY GARDEN AS SALOME BILLED FOR MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, April 23.—A special cable dispatch from Berlin states that Oscar Hammerstein has decided to produce Richard Strauss' much-discussed opera, "Salome," at the Manhattan opera house in New York next season. Miss Mary Garden will sing the title role and Strauss himself will conduct the opera.

Mr. Hammerstein states that he has completed all arrangements for the production of the opera and has ordered the scenery and costumes for the production in Vienna.

Miss Garden, it is said, will not only sing the role but will also perform the dance of the seven veils, being the first singer to attempt this portion of the program. "Salome" was produced at the Metropolitan opera house season before last, but was closed after the first performance because of the storm of protest which it created among the box-holders and stockholders of the company.

Gumpe and overblouse frocks are very popular for small girls and an attractive one of recent design is here shown. Atlantic blue tannine was used for the dress, an embroidered galleon being chosen for trimming. The gumpe was of embroidered French batiste, though china silk or a fine challis would be appropriate for wear on cool days. The dress is suitable for making in almost any of the materials favored for children's frocks and will be found very becoming to the little wearer. The sleeves may be finished in elbow length as shown or extended to the wrist by means of a deep cuff. For the 10-year size 2 1/2 yards 20 inches wide are needed for the gumpe and 3 1/2 yards 24 inches wide for the dress. The price of this pattern is 10c.

Nosey, as he has been called, is the first tapir born in the zoo and is as well and happy as if he had made his debut in his native South American wilds instead of in a ten-foot pen.
