

Grand-Niece of James S. Sherman Is Appearing in Vaudeville

MISS SADIE SHERMAN, who is presenting her original sketch "At the Photographers" at the Orpheum this week, has so many distinguished relatives that she positively cannot count them. And now, beside all the others, her grand-uncle, James Schoolcraft Sherman, has been nominated for vice president of the United States.

cousin of James Whitcomb Riley. She is a Daughter of the America Revolution, for her great great grandfather crossed the Delaware with Washington. Her father was a cavalry officer under General Sherman and participated in the march to the sea.

MAKES OWN DEFENSE BUT IS CONVICTED

JOHN LAPIQUE FOUND GUILTY BY COURT

Conducts Trial Ably and Takes Many Exceptions to Rulings of Judge. Charge, Obtaining Money Fraudulently

John Lapique was found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses by a jury in Judge Jamison's department of the superior court yesterday and will appear for sentence next Friday.

Lapique acted as his own attorney and fought his case bravely. Though not a legal practitioner, Lapique conducted his case in a remarkably efficient manner. His knowledge of criminal law and court procedure, together with his shrewdness, have served him well.

He is accused of having sold a lot in Boyle Heights to Euphrosine Cameros. The property belonged to Richard Corcoran and his wife, Mary Corcoran. Lapique produced a document purporting to be an option on the property. The alleged option bore the names of Corcoran and his wife, who testified they never saw the document before and had never signed it.

Handwritten notes were called and their testimony conflicted, one claiming the signatures as appearing on the paper was a tracing from the names written on another which while the other expert declared the signatures were genuine.

Lapique is a peculiar character. He claims he was acquainted with Ruff in San Francisco several years ago, and they disagreed and Ruff attempted to place him in the penitentiary. Then, Lapique asserts, the tables were turned and Ruff was emmeshed in the toils of the law, as the result of the activity of friends of Lapique.

The convicted man will probably appeal his case, as he expressed intention of doing so if an adverse verdict was returned. Almost every time an objection made by him was overruled he took an exception to the ruling. The transcript of the case will no doubt show more exceptions than any transcript of a similar length which has been made for several years.
