CRITICISES ARGUMENT OF HARPER'S FRIENDS

Official Organ of Municipal League Denounces Reasons Imparted in Attempt to Show Mayor Should Be Retained

The imported argument, which is the chief stock in trade of the "business men's organization," is handled without gloves by the editor of Municipal Affairs in the March issue of that journal in the following ex-

"Of all the miserable by-products of the late panic and bad times, the doctrine that any effort for the betterment of political or social conditions must be cried down lest it hurt business is by far the most contemptible. It was raised against the president in his campaign for the control of law-breaking trusts. It was used frequently without effect in behalf of corporation senators seeking re-election. The National Association of Manufacturers, meeting in St. Louis about a year ago, passed resolutions condemning the agitation against child labor, which it said would interfere with vested rights and hurt business. Many merchants of San Francisco have opposed the work of Heney and Langdon, 'because it might injure the fair name' of that ity. And now the cry raised that the attempt to 'redeem the honor of this city by recalling the mayor may hurt business in Los An-Of all the miserable by-products of the honor of this city by recalling the mayor may hurt business in Los Angeles. This has led to the formulating of a new doctrine of political ethics at which posterity may gasp with amazement. Briefly stated, it is:

"That he who seeks to remedy an evil is more blameworthy than the evil-doer himself. "That is the true meaning of the attacks on the president, the bitter abuse of Mr. Heney which culminated in an attempt on his life, and the savage engleughts made by a newspare. age onslaughts made by a newspaper of Los Angeles against the Municipal League and other citizens who are advocating the recall of Mayor Harper.
"'Yes, Mr. Harper has made a bad mayor,' says the Times. 'He has permitted gambling and has not enforced laws against saloons and the redlight district. We cannot defend him. But those who are seeking to remove him are worse, because their agitation of the matter will hurt business.' "This doctrine has no kind of standing among the people at large, who, if they had been given a chance, would re-elected agitator-in-chief Roosehave re-elected agitator-in-chief Roose-velt by an enormous majority, who are backing Heney and Langdon in the campaign for the reformation of San Francisco and whose votes in Los Angeles on March 26 will show whether civic decency or a few dirty dollars are of most concern to them, Argument Is Ridiculed "Neither has the doctrine of 'it hurts business' any standing whatever am intelligent, thoughtful men of affairs, because in the long run efforts to make things cleaner and better do make things cleaner and NOT hurt business—they help business. To be sure, the business of the ness. To be sure, the business of the particular individual or corporation who happens to get a profit from the existing evil may be hurt. No doubt Standard Oil and the Tobacco trust think Mr. Roosevelt's activity against them hurts business; and the corpora-tions that were sewing San Francisco up in a bag found their business in-terfered with by Mr. Heney; and the givernment of a change of position with gambling dens, tough saloons and as-signation houses that have been 'let alone' by this administration will be out and injured by the recall. But that the general business interests of a city are injured by removing a bad official and substituting a good one—who says that? Anybody with an ounce

What hurts a city hurts business. What helps a city helps business.
"What is the chief stock in trade of "What is the chief stock in trade of Los Angeles as a city? Is it the tough saloons? Or gambling dens? Or houses of prostitution? Do these things give value to real estate and attract people of character and means to settle here? No! the real business of Los Angeles and the chief stock in trade of any modern city; is its homes Anything and the chief stock in trade of any modern city is its homes. Anything that makes Los Angeles less desirable as a location of a home, where a manrich or poor—may bring up his boys and girls decently, hurts business. And anything that makes it more desirable as a home center helps business.

"As to the 'fair name of the city' plea, is it better for the reputation of Los Angeles that it should continue in office a mayor who has proved him-self totally unfit, who has, according CRY OF HARM TO BUSINESS BY to the report of a grand jury, indulged in an 'orgy' at houses of prostitution, and whose appointments endanger the city's material interests, or that the right of recall should be exercised and another more trustworthy put in his

"As well might it be argued that one should never take a bath lest by that act he confess to his lack of

"But even if it did hurt business-are there not matters involved in this contest more sacred than business? We have had two years of a so-called 'liberal policy'—which is a pleasant way of saying non-enforcement of the law—and who knows what it may have cost the city, measured not in dollars but in human life and human honor? When a young man steals his employ-er's money with which to gamble, or when a young woman is tempted from her home into an evil life—how is that to be reckoned into dollars and cents?

"The world has made some progress toward decency and justice and enlightenment, but where would it be now if at every step forward the race had stopped to figure out whether busi-ness might not be injured? "The kind of business that will be hurt by putting the affairs of a city in good order, by enforcing the laws and by keeping politics out of public work may just as well get out of busi-ness one time as another, for it must be a menace to human progress. CITY EMPLOYES INSTITUTE CAMPAIGN ON STREET CARS

MEXICAN STABBED TWICE: TWO OTHERS INJURED

NOTORIOUS DIVE IS SCENE OF TRAGIC AFFRAY

Police Capture Alleged Knife Wielder, Fleeing for Life, and Arrest Twenty Inmates of Boarding 'House

One man was stabbed fatally, as it is believed, and two men were wounded painfully as the result of a drunken brawl in the notorious dive known as the International restaurant, 620 San Fernando street, yesterday afternoon.

Jacinto Guzmal, 55 years old, a laborer, living at 727 San Fernando street, was stabbed twice in the back; his son-in-law, M. Miller, was struck on the head with a blunt instrument, a deep cut being inflicted, and Jacinto Rodriguez, 45 years old, a slaughter-house laborer for the Maier Packing company, was struck on the forehead with a brick, which tore open the flesh and bared the skull. He is thought to be the man who stabbed Guzmal, and is locked up in a cell at the city jail, where he will be held pending further investigation. One man was stabbed fatally, as it is where he will be held pending further investigation.

The place where the cutting occurred has given the police much trouble. Most of the persons arrested in Los Angeles for being drunk are taken thence. Saturday nights and Sundays the patrolmen in that district are kept busy arresting intoxicated and quarreling laborers who throng the place reling laborers who throng the place soon after getting their wages Satur-day and remain there in a state of drunkenness until they are robbed of their money and kicked out or become engaged in brawls and are taken in by the police. Yesterday afternoon Patrolmen Wyckoff and McFadden were kept busy there trying to keep peace and arresting drunken men. As a result of their labors eleven drunks were sent to the central police station within cers then ordered the proprietors of the International restaurant to close. The order was compiled with, and the place probably will be closed perma-nently. The matter, it is thought, will be placed before the board of police commissioners and the liquor license of the place revoked.

Condition Is Critical

Late last night Guzmal was in a critical condition and he has only a slight chance for recovery. The wound which probably will result fatally was inflicted with a long blade. The steel entered just under the tenth rib at the back, passed downward, penetrated the diaphragm, passed through the spleen, missed the stomach and intestines and passed into the cavity. A semicircle had been cut in the spleen and indications are that the man who did the stabbing turned the knife in the wound.

A description of the second man implicated in the stabbing was given to the patrolmen when they went on duty last night and it is believed he will be in custody within a short time.

"BOSOM FRIEND" TRIES TO FIX UP "GRAFT" GAME

PLANNED TO WORK UNDER NEW CHARTER AMENDMENT

Borough Was to Be Established Inside City Which Would Be Under Control of Its Own Trustees

One of the "bosom friends," who is one of the bosom friends, who is grieved much at the necessity of closing the "redlight district," believed he had detected a brilliant method of reopening it through a "joker" in the new city charter amendments adopted at the last election. His plan was seri-ously considered by his friends with much chuckling over the dismay of the Municipal league at finding its charter revision perverted to make secure what the conceiver of the scheme believed would become the most notorious "wide open" district of any city in the United States. The scheme was based on the idea of utilizing the provision in the charter amendments, which covers the establishment of a borough, to make a borough along Commercial street or some-where near the river bed. This bor-ough was to be colonized with faithful voters. As a borough when established will elect its own board of trustees, who have the appointment and control of the marshal and police officers, and will have all the police powers of a city of the sixth class, it was figured that control would be an easy matter.

With the borough's control absoluteof Los Angeles, except in matter of le-gitimate taxes with which the promot-ers were not concerned, it was believed careful judgment in arranging the dis-trict and planting the voting crop would make certain a wonderful harvest.

The enthusiasm of the few men who were let into the secret was unbounded. They found they could designate the boundaries of the proposed borough, give it a name—which they did—and compel the city council to call the election to establish the borough with the boundaries and name they selected on a petition of 50 per cent of the voters living in the section. That it took time was evident, but they guessed the game was big enough and enough of a certainty to wait for.

To Establish Borough Their faith was pinned to the fol-lowing section, incorporated in the charter regulating the establishment of a borough: "A borough may be established in "A borough may be established in any territory hereafter annexed to the city of Los Angeles containing a population of not less than 500 inhabitants, whether such territory in whole or in part was or was not included within the limits of any incorporated city or town at or immediately prior to the time of such annexation in the manner with the powers and subject to the conditional limitations hereinafter provided."

None of the "bosom friends" was abl to see anything wrong in any of "the conditional limitations hereinafter pro-Vided," which they approved of unanimously. But one, a trifle finer-witted than the rest, stumbled on a word in the forepart of the section, and the whole house of cards tumbled to the ground. A "hereafter" spoiled their ground. A "hereafter" spoiled scheme and their "graft was gone. after annexed to the city of Los Angeles," but none of those interested had considered that the term "hereafter" cut much of a figure. One lawyer, in on the scheme, is said to have argued at length that because there was no provision expressly ex-empting the territory inside the presempting the territory inside the present city limits there was nothing that said "a borough may not be established in the city of Los Angeles." "The thing is in the city of the same than the city of the in the city of Los Angeles. The thing is in the city's charter and operative right now," was his opinion. The matter was submitted to older lawyers and he was overruled, and an effort was made to give the brilliant idea an unostentatious burial.

Mayor Harper himself told a reporter for the Los Angeles Hearst paper that lawyers had told him a borough might now be established inside the present city limits of Los Angeles.
