

Broadhead Indicted on Charge of Bribery

CAPTAIN OF POLICE ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING $1000 FROM OSWALD

Grand Jury Declares Others Are Guilty but Believes Convictions Would Be Impossible on Evidence Available.

BROADHEAD UNDER ARREST, GIVES BAIL

Harper, Kern, Attorney Appel and Dr. Quint Furnish Cash Bonds and Defendant Is Not Subjected to Ordeal of Being Placed in Jail. Makes No Comment

AFTER indicting Captain of Police Thomas Broadhead yesterday on a charge of bribery, and with the official announcement that it had failed to procure the evidence necessary to carry criminal charges against public and former public officials of Los Angeles to a successful conclusion in the courts, the special grand jury, called one month ago to investigate charges of protected vice in this city, filed its final report in Presiding Judge James' court yesterday.

The indictment returned charges Thomas H. Broadhead, former chief of police, with receiving from Nicholas D. Oswald, former tenderloin ruler, bribes aggregating $1000 while holding the position of police captain.

The jury was discharged and a bench warrant for Broadhead's arrest was immediately issued and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Martin Aguirre, but service was forestalled by the voluntary appearance of the accused man. He was released later on the deposit in Judge Davis' court of a cash bail of $2500, and will be arraigned in that court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

An hour later Broadhead was relieved of his duties as captain of police by Chief of Police Dishman, this step being taken in accordance with the requirements of the law, which provides for the immediate removal of any person holding an official position against whom an indictment has been returned.

HARPER AND KERN WAITING

Accompanying Broadhead to the court house, and later to the hall of justice, where Judge Davis holds court, were his attorney, H. H. Appel; Police Surgeon Sumner J. Quint, A. C. Harper, former mayor, and Ed Kern, former chief of police. The quintette had been waiting at the attorney's office for the results of the grand jury's work, and when they reached the county building had no information of the number of indictments returned or the names of the person or persons accused, but owing to the fact that the names of Harper, Kern and Broadhead were so prominently mentioned in connection with the investigation, they were prepared to furnish bail for the release of one or all.

But, notwithstanding that a true bill was returned against only one person, the jury in its final report declared its unanimous belief that large sums of money had been paid to certain officials and former officials of the city for the protection of vice, and much of the blame for inability to procure evidence sufficient to indict is laid at the doors of members of the police force, who would not furnish the information they possessed.

When the grand jury met at 10 o'clock yesterday, it was generally known that its work would be concluded before the usual time for adjourning, 5 o'clock. No witnesses were called, the members of the investigating body spending the time in preparing their final report and the lone indictment. This work was completed at 2:30 o'clock, a half hour after the jury gathered for the afternoon session, and ten minutes later the nineteen men, accompanied by District Attorney Fredericks and Deputies Paul J. McCormick, W. J. Ford and G. Ray Horton, made their way in a body to the court house and to Judge James' court room.

JURY FINISHES ITS WORK

A few moments later Judge James entered and took his seat on the bench. The roll of the jury was called by Clerk P. J. Wheeler, no absences being reported. In response to Judge James' query, whether the jury had anything to report, Foreman J. E. Fishburn responded that an indictment had been found and that the final report of the jury's work had also been prepared.

"I want to say, gentlemen," said Judge James, after glancing over the report, "that you have performed your duty fully and in accordance with the instructions given by the court. Although you have gone beyond the limit of time in those instructions, I believe the delay was necessary and excusable on account of the absence of witnesses. You have the thanks of the court and are discharged from further service."

Judge James then placed the bail bond of the indicted person at $5000 and issued a bench warrant for his arrest. This was given to Deputy Sheriff Martin Aguirre, whose first call was made at the police station, where he was told by Chief of Police Dishman that Broadhead was at the office of his attorney, H. H. Appel, in the Bullard block.

The fact that the grand jury had completed its labors and filed charges was in the meantime communicated to the attorney's office, where Harper, Kern and Broadhead were in waiting to respond to a call from the court house. Police Surgeon Quint, with a generous supply of money on his person, to be deposited as bail, was also in Attorney Appel's office, and the five men went immediately to the county building. There they were told that the indictments had been sent to Judge Davis' court in the hall of justice, adjoining the county jail. Thither the five men repaired and seated themselves.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION HOLD CONGRESS

Report Shows Healthy Growth—6000 members Enrolled During Year. 223 Real Daughters Still Living

WASHINGTON, April 20.—With the political clouds almost ready to break into a storm, the Daughters of the American Revolution today held their second year session of their eighteenth continental congress.

The first open manifestation of any partisanship regarding the presidential general came when Mrs. William Cummings Story, the anti-administration candidate, received a generous ovation when, as regent of New York, she announced that the delegation would cast 126 votes.

Mrs. Matthew L. Scott, the "administration" candidate, sat in one of the upper boxes and observed the demonstration. Having concluded the preliminaries of their eighteenth congress the daughters of the American Revolution entered on real work. Almost the entire day was taken up with the reading of the reports of the standing committees.

GALLAGHER ONCE MORE TELLS OF CORRUPT DOINGS

SHOWS TO CALHOUN'S JURY RESULT OF GRAFT

HENEY AND ROGERS OFFER EACH OTHER PERSONAL VIOLENCE

Court Has Frequent Occasion to Remand Opposing Lawyers for Their Belligerent Attitude During Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—For the tenth time since his confession was recorded, in the early part of 1907, James L. Gallagher, at one time chairman of the board of supervisors, was summoned to the witness stand in the trial of Patrick Calhoun today and repeated the story of official corruption which brought about the downfall of the Ruef-Schmitz administration and the indictment of a score of prominent business men associated with public service and other corporations.

Gallagher was called after Ferdinand P. Nicholas, who is alleged to have received a bribe from the defendant, and who had been subjected to an examination extending over three days. With Francis J. Heney conducting the examination, Gallagher was led through the story of his appointment to the board of supervisors, his subsequent election in the fall of 1905 and the various meetings with Abraham Ruef, wherein the latter is alleged to have dictated the committee selections.

Gallagher declared that he had talked with Ruef about the application of the United Railroads for an overhead trolley permit before the fire and that the former boss had requested him to ascertain if the permit would be granted by the board. Within a week after the fire, according to Gallagher's testimony, Ruef revived the project and on this occasion the witness said, Ruef asked him to find out what it would cost to pass such a privilege.

"I talked with several members of the board," said Gallagher, "and I re-boarded." Gallagher expressed a belief that there should be a large payment. He mentioned $10,000 for each member of the board. I reported to Ruef that the money could be put through and at this meeting it was understood that I was to receive $10,000, Wilson was to get $4000 and the others $4000 each. I objected to doing business with Supervisor Rea, because I believed he was in the habit of talking too much about what he would do with the money, and he would personally attend to Rea in the matter."

Gallagher Tells in Detail One by one, Gallagher was asked to relate the circumstances under which he, as he alleged, had paid each member of the board. The money had been received by him from Ruef and divided between two safe deposit boxes maintained by the witness at different times. Gallagher testified he had received an aggregate of $85,000 in three payments, but he had disbursed it to other members of the board in two equal installments.

Judge William P. Lawlor found frequent occasion to reprimand the opposing attorneys and on one occasion F. J. Heney and Earl Rogers threatened each other with personal violence.

In an effort to discredit the testimony of former Supervisor Ferdinand P. Nicholas, the attorneys for Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, have constructed a leading issue out of a discrepancy between the statements made by Nicholas last week and the utterances of the same witness a half a dozen previous occasions when he was called to the stand to testify for the prosecution.

ANOTHER HEIRESS OF THAW MILLIONS WILL BE WEDDED TO TITLE

RELATIVE OF SLAYER OF STANFORD WHITE TO MARRY NOBLEMAN

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—Notice of the engagement of Miss Beatrice Thaw to an Italian marquis was publicly made today and has proven the sensation of the season in ultra social circles.

The engagement has been a more or less open secret for some time, but it is believed that the two families purposely have avoided the notoriety that would naturally attend its public announcement as a result of the unfavorable publicity which the Thaw name has already received in connection with the slaying of Stanford White by Harry K. Thaw.

Miss Thaw's fiance is the Marquis Francesco Theodoli, a member of an old Roman family, whom she met at a foreign court. The bride-to-be will some day be possessed of a fortune of many millions which she inherits as a portion of the estate of her grandfather, the late William Thaw of this city, her father, Dr. Alexander Blair Thaw, being the second son of that multi-millionaire and his brother of Stanford White's slayer and of the Countess of Yarmouth.

CONSTANTINOPLE SURROUNDED BY INVADING ARMY

SULTAN IS SAID TO BE STAYING IN HIS PALACE

CITIZENS OF CAPITAL FRIENDLY TO TROOPS OF SALONIKA

Merchants and Wealthy Men of the City Send Provisions to Enemy. Abdul Hamid Seems Not Afraid

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 20.—Sultan Abdul Hamid is waiting in his palace for whatever may befall.

His grand vizier, Tewfik Pasha, has announced that without fear the sultan will remain in his palace and accept the fate prepared for him and his country. Tewfik Pasha and the minister of war, Edhem Pasha, who sent their resignations late last night, decided to withdraw them today, and the grand vizier is passing most of the time with the sultan.

Nazim Pasha still is in command of the garrison, but no preparations have been made to resist the advance of the Saloniki troops. The constitutionalist lines now envelop this city, but the commander in chief, Gen. Husni Pasha, is still at Hademok, and it is not likely the invaders will enter the city before tomorrow night or the next day. It is understood the Salonikians have submitted to the government a list of persons whose punishment is demanded for complicity in the recent mutiny. This list includes deputies, journalists and theologians. But apparently there is the utmost good feeling between the invaders and the residents of the city, many of whom visited the camps of the Saloniki troops today, and were received hospitably.

Proclamation Issued Two proclamations signed by the commanding general of the army respectively investment, and addressed to the citizens of Constantinople and to the garrison, were issued today. They have had a reassuring effect.

To Re-establish Constitution The proclamation to the population explains the object of the investing army is the re-establishment of the constitution, which is in accordance with the sultan's and the punishment of the traitors. It assures complete safety to the innocent and oppressed population, and to foreigners.
