WITNESSES TELL OF MRS. GOULD'S LOVE OF LIQUOR HUSBAND DID NOT TESTIFY AGAINST WIFE SERVANTS OF MISTRESS GIVE SPICY TESTIMONY Workmen and Others Say Former Actress Became So Intoxicated at Times She Could Control Neither Tongue Nor Body (By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, June 16.—Howard Gould did not go on the stand today to testify against his wife, Katherine Clemmouss Gould, whose suit for separation he is opposing. Instead there was a continuation of the servants' gossip, accounts by menials of their former mistress' eccentricities, humiliating details, as sworn to on the stand, of Mrs. Gould's alleged fondness for alcoholic beverages and her manner at such times, when what the witnesses said was influence of liquor, brought from her lips remarks ill-suited to a woman's position. When Katherine Clemmouss Gould heard today was but a reiteration and in some respects an amplification of yesterday's testimony, the basis of which was that at various times at Castle Gould she had been intoxicated and had abused the servants, had given arbitrary and unreasonable commands and had used rather severe language in altercations with her husband. An occasion when she would have fallen from her carriage but for the protecting hand of a coachman, her attempt to drive through a closed gate, a time when a footman saved her from a falling horse, and a time when she was again while intoxicated, as he testified, were among the things alleged. A carpenter, Herbert Trotter, was the last witness of the day. He said that while he was working in the servants' quarters, Mrs. Gould rushed in and swore at the servants. Her voice was shaky and incoherent, her hair disheveled and she was profane, as she was decidedly drunk," said the witness. "At another time she came into the stables while I was working there and swore at the grooms and was very drunk. She tried to go upstairs to the harness room but could not navigate the steps." Trotter said he was ordered to go to Blue Gap farm, the Gould place in Virginia. On several occasions during the first ten days he was there, he heard her swear a great deal at the workmen. "One night she came in from driving drunk," said the witness, "and I saw her abuse a man named 'Tony.' She said to me she wanted the big seven foot hall clock moved and I told her I would have to get help and she said 'Why, I can move it myself.' She was staggering drunk. She grabbed the heavy clock and both she and the girl fell against the wall together. "How many times do you think she was intoxicated during that ten days?" asked Mr. Shearn. "I was the reply. "Every other day," was the reply. Trotter said Mrs. Gould fell off a chair and lay on the floor helpless, Mr. Shearn asked: "Did you not put something in Mrs. Gould's coffee that night at Blue Gap?" "I certainly did not," replied the witness. "Did you not get Betty Foster, the colored girl in the kitchen, to put something in Mrs. Gould's coffee?" "No." "Don't you recall that Mrs. Gould accused you of poisoning her at Blue Gap farm?" "I certainly do not."

the proper attention as servants?" asked Mr. Shearn. "The witness said he did not remember that. "Don't you remember anything she said about not being allowed to use her horses and the coach and four?" asked Mr. Shearn. "No," replied the witness. William Wyson, a native of Point Washington, who did construction work on the Gould estate in 1902 and 1903, testified that he saw Mrs. Gould intoxicated once in the spring of 1902 or 1903. Mrs. Gould, he said, walked down the road near the basin and heard her call loudly to "Mile a Minute Murphy," who had charge of the automobiles, the witness said, and call Murphy an objectionable name. The witness said he thought she was intoxicated at the time. Gus Wright, a clerk with a pronounced English accent, said he had seen Mrs. Gould intoxicated on two occasions at Castle Gould, where he was employed. Reinhold Carlson, who was employed at Castle Gould in 1904 and 1905 as head coachman, told of many incidents when, in his opinion, Mrs. Gould was under the influence of liquor. In October, 1905, the witness said, she ordered out a carriage and had him drive her about the estate. "Could Not Sit Steady" "She could not sit steady in the seat," said Carlson. "Several times I took her out for a ride and she would fall off her seat and I would have to get her from falling out of the carriage. We drove about two miles and returned to the house. Her face was flushed and she was clearly intoxicated." Carlson said Mrs. Gould on one occasion tried to drive through a gate, although it was closed. The witness said he once asked the lodge keeper if he had a revolver. "He told her he had," said Carlson, "and she ordered him to go down to the gate and shoot any one who attempted to come in or go out. I could smell strong liquor on her breath and she was intoxicated." Carlson told of a coaching trip to Larchmont in July, 1905, when he saw Mrs. Gould acting as if intoxicated. "One afternoon Mrs. Gould hurriedly ordered a phaeton and a pair of horses and told Carlson she wanted to catch her attorney. When Mr. Gould entered he walked rapidly to a chair next to Delancy Nicoll, his counsel, and busied himself looking over some papers. Mrs. Gould was not at all recognized on the part of either the plaintiff or the defendant. Curiosity to hear the testimony of Howard Gould when he should take the witness stand in his own defense, brought a throng of people to the courtroom. A large number of women were present. Although Mrs. Gould kept her face veiled, she was seen to peer at the witnesses attentively. Florist Testifies Harry Turner, a florist at Castle Gould, was the first witness called and told of several occasions when he had seen Mrs. Gould at the estate decidedly intoxicated in his opinion. At one time in July, 1906, he said, she came out into the garden and upbraided him and appeared greatly excited and flushed. She read against an archway, he said, and was evidently under the influence of intoxicants. "At another time, the witness said, he was summoned to the office of the estate. Mrs. Gould was there and asked him if he was "the watchman," although he said she had seen him often and knew his position. She was repeating that she was Mrs. Howard Gould, he said, and appeared greatly excited and under the influence of liquor. Malloy, the manager of the estate, was there and the witness said Mrs. Gould turned upon Malloy and told him he was discharged and called him names which would not bear repeating. On cross-examination by Mr. Shearn the witness said he had never seen Mrs. Gould drink any liquor. There were several other employees of the estate in the office when he saw her there and she upbraided them all, the witness said. He did not remember what she said except that she was Mrs. Gould and some one would "get it quick." Disobeyed Mrs. Gould's Orders "When she kept repeating she was Mrs. Gould, don't you remember that she said it in connection with complaining that you all refused to obey her orders and were not affording her

CITY READY TO HONOR WRIGHTS DAYTON IS DECORATED WITH FLAGS AND PICTURES BROTHERS WILL BE PRESENTED MANY MEDALS Nation, State and Town Will Give Aviators Tokens of Appreciation for Triumphs of Aerial Navigation (By Associated Press.) DAYTON, O., June 16.—Gaily decorated in flags and allegorical representation of aerial flight, Dayton is ready to begin tomorrow its two days' celebration in honor of Wilbur and Orville Wright. As the home of the aviators and the scene of their early experiments with flying machines, the city will endeavor to show that its esteem of its distinguished citizens is on a par with the attention paid them by the rulers of Europe and the government at Washington. After firing a cannon tomorrow morning every whistle and bell in the city will unite in a salute. Following the opening ceremonies the state militia will parade through streets spanned by arches crowned with models of aeroplanes. In the evening the Wright brothers will be the guests at a reception.

WOMAN KILLED BY SAVAGE COW GORED TO DEATH BY ENRAGED ANIMAL HORN DEEPLY PENETRATES THE SIDE OF RANCHER'S WIFE While Mrs. Joseph Davis Holds Open Door of Corral Infuriated Bovine Makes Sudden Onslaught (Special to The Herald.) SANTA ANA, June 16.—While assisting a ranch hand in getting a calf from the corral at the Waters ranch in Santiago canyon Mrs. Joseph Davis was gored yesterday morning by an enraged cow and killed instantly. One of the horns of the cow penetrated the woman's left side just below the heart. Her husband, Mr. Joseph Davis, was on the Waters ranch. She took an interest in the operation of the ranch and was accustomed to render assistance whenever her services could be used. She was holding open the gate of the corral this morning while the ranch hand endeavored to drive a calf from the enclosure. With her eyes on the calf, which was endeavoring to elude the man, Mrs. Davis did not see the infuriated cow until too late to make her escape. The cow had been quietly watching the commotion in the corral, and without warning suddenly ran straight for the gate. Mrs. Davis attempted to shut the gate in the face of the animal, but her efforts were begun too late. The maddened animal caught the woman square in the side, one horn penetrating deeply just below the heart and causing instant death. The ranch hand hurried to the woman's assistance, but was too late to render any help other than to carry her to the ranch house. Mrs. Davis was dead when picked up. The body was brought to Santa Ana tonight and an inquest held by coronator's death. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

OFFICIAL ISSUES POSTERS TO KILL DANGEROUS FLIES Health Commissioner in Chicago Plans to Protect Infants from Poison in Food CHICAGO, June 16.—Health Commissioner Evans has issued a poster illustrating the agency of flies in spreading disease germs, and he has spread it throughout the city in an effort to lessen the number of cases of typhoid fever and other diseases having origin in food contaminated by flies. The protection of the health of babies is the prime object of the poster. It is the belief of the commissioner that mothers who do not understand the dangers of impure milk and other foods are responsible for the loss of many lives each year. "Speaking of flies" is the heading on the poster, and in it they are called "the most dangerous insect known to man."

PAST GRAND MASTER OF ARIZONA MASONS DEAD Noted Wearer of Square and Compass Dies at Holbrook, A. T., After Long Illness HOLBROOK, Ariz., June 16.—F. M. Zuck, an old, well known and highly respected citizen of this place, died here today after an illness of several weeks. The deceased was past grand master of the Masonic lodge of this territory and was held as one of the most active and enthusiastic members of that fraternity. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, due to a stroke of paralysis sustained some months ago. The body will be interred here with Masonic honors on the 18th inst., at which several of the lodges of the territory will be represented. The deceased is survived by the widow, two daughters and one son. One daughter, wife of Prof. Hough of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, arrived here two days before the end came.

COLLINS BEGINS HIS TERM IN PRISON AT SAN QUENTIN Man Convicted of Perjury Four Years Ago Finally Placed in the Penitentiary SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—George D. Collins, after four years of legal warfare, started on his trip to San Quentin today, to begin serving the fourteen years' sentence imposed upon him as a result of his conviction for perjury. With the placing of the order of commitment in the hands of the sheriff, Collins' long fight for freedom was brought to an end. His field of legal action was not limited to the local, state or federal courts, the courts of Canada, early in the battle having been appealed to by him in an effort to escape extradition. CHANCELLOR MAKES REPLY TO ATTACK BY CLERICALS Von Buelow Declares Differences of Political Opinion Should Not Operate Against Society Status BERLIN, June 16.—Chancellor von Buelow in a speech in the reichstag today on financial reform attacked the tactics employed by the clerical party against him. They had even dared, he said, to accuse him of disloyalty to the emperor and infidelity to the German-Austro allegiance, and they had considered it necessary to sever their relations with him. "It never occurred to me," said the chancellor, "to exclude any one from social relations because of differences of political opinions. It is to be hoped also that we will see the time when it will not be necessary to consider a man either stupid or a scoundrel who, on economic or political questions, does not think as we do."

BANKER MORSE IS FREED FROM JAIL Wife Secures Signatures to Bonds of $125,000 by Which Convicted Ice King is Released for Four Months NEW YORK, June 16.—Charles W. Morse, convicted banker, was released on bail today pending the taking up of his appeal in the federal circuit court of appeals next October. For nearly four months Morse will be free. At the end of that time the court of appeals either will order a new trial or affirm the sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment imposed upon the former ice king in November of last year. The bail bond for $125,000 was signed by twenty wealthy friends who gathered about him in the federal building to offer their congratulations. "And now I am going straight to my home and take care of myself and of my wife. There is a little planning to be done and we expect to go to the country for a short time until I can think it all out. Then I shall get back here and climb into the harness to pull all the tangled threads together again."

RECORDS OF TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS TO BE EXAMINED Proceedings in Financial Shortage Case Necessitate Examination of Thousands of Suits DETROIT, Mich., June 16.—Walter S. Harsha, former clerk of the federal circuit court for eastern Michigan, yesterday, through his attorney, Harrison Geer, notified the federal authorities here that he would not pay the shortage which Special Examiner Charles F. DeWolfe reported he had found in an examination of the books of the office. Some reports of the alleged shortage have placed it as high as $18,977. It had been understood when Mr. Harsha was permitted to resign recently that he would pay whatever shortage was found as soon as it was computed. The announcement yesterday, however, is said to necessitate extended court proceedings and an examination of the history of at least 2500 cases started in the federal circuit court during twenty-seven years.

NOT GUILTY IS PLEA OF HEINZE BROTHERS CHARGE IS CONSPIRACY TO OBSTRUCT JUSTICE Large Number of Books and Papers of United Copper Company Are Said to Be Missing NEW YORK, June 16.—Just what books and papers of the United Copper company, needed in the prosecution of F. Augustus Heinze, are missing was made public here today when Heinze, the president of the company, his brother, Arthur P. Heinze, and Charles Warfield, a former director, appeared before Judge Ray in the United States circuit court to plead to the indictment by the federal grand jury charging them with conspiracy to obstruct the administration of justice. As listed in the findings of the grand jury, the missing books and papers are: Ten books of accounts, fifty letters, five letter press copy books, five minute books and fifty other documents. The books are sought by the federal authorities in the investigation of the charges that Heinze misappropriated the funds of the Mercantile National bank, of which he was formerly president. The two Heinzes and Calvin O. Geer, one of Heinze's associates, also named in the indictment, are charged specifically with removing, May 19, forty pages from a ledger and sixteen pages from a journal, and eighteen pages from a cash book. Warfield is charged with abstracting the books and papers of the company from the offices of the company, while Arthur P. Heinze, individually, is accused of giving $100 to Tracy Buckingham, a clerk, at the time of his alleged flight to Canada, when he was wanted as a witness by the government. The brothers Heinze, and Warfield, today pleaded not guilty and have until Wednesday next to demur or take such action as their counsel may see fit. They each gave $2500 bail.

200 CHINESE LABORERS ARE DEPORTED AS UNDESIRABLE HONOLULU, June 16.—Dr. Thomas Greene, who has been in Japan investigating labor conditions in that country, has returned to Honolulu. He reported the deportation of 200 Chinese laborers and artisans from Yamaguchi, capital of a prefecture in southwestern Japan, for undermining Japanese workmen. The deportation, declared Dr. Greene, was made under a secret decree which gives provincial governors summary authority to expel undesirable persons from their provinces. "The action of the provincial government in deporting the Chinese workmen, stated the labor investigator, had established a precedent which was embarrassing the government at Tokyo in dealing with the American immigration question. No Appeal Received TOKIO, June 16.—The foreign office has not received any appeal from Hawaii in the matter of the alleged violation of treaty rights said to have been sustained by a Japanese subject and the Japanese consul at Honolulu reports that the strike situation in the islands is not serious.
