TARIFF LEADERS HURRY TO TAFT THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ENDS ITS LABORS ALL DETAILS FIRST SUBMITTED TO PRESIDENT TAFT Chief Executive Consulted at Fort Myer by Aldrich and Payne, Who Seemed Satisfied with Outcome (By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 28.—The majority members of the conference committee on the Payne-Aldrich bill brought their labors to a sudden close at 4 o'clock tonight. Without a moment's delay they hurried away by automobile to Fort Myer to submit their report to President Taft, who had gone to see the flight of the Wright aeroplane. All day the conferees struggled with the question of bringing down the house rates on gloves and the senate rates on lumber to figures they felt would meet with executive approval, but they failed. Lumber was made dutiable at rates only a little below those of the senate bill, and there was a slight shading from the house rates on gloves of good quality. Although it was not admitted by the conferees, the general impression was that Aldrich and Payne had been authorized by their colleagues to incorporate in the report such figures as could be agreed upon with the president in so far as they came within range of what the leaders believe will be acceptable in the house. Returning from the conference at Fort Myer, Messrs. Aldrich and Payne seemed satisfied with the outcome, although neither would discuss the conclusion reached. It was announced officially that the Democratic members of the conference committee would be called into session at 10 o'clock tomorrow. It was stated also the conference report would be presented to the house by noon Friday. It required a roll call to fix the rates on lumber which follow: Lumber: Rough, $1.40 per 1000 feet. The house rate was $1, and the senate rate was $1.50. The senate differentials were adopted, making lumber planned on one side dutiable at $1.30; two sides, $2.15; three sides, $2.52 1/2; four sides, $2.90. The senate rates on lath and shingles which were higher than the house rates, also were adopted. Glove Rates Advanced. Votes were taken on rough lumber at $1.25, and at $1.50, but no agreement could be reached. The senate rate for rough, with the senate differentials on finished lumber. Gloves were made dutiable at rates considerably in advance of the duties fixed by the senate. On the most part were the same as the Dingley rates. The conference rates follow. Women's and children's gloves, valued at not more than $4 a dozen pairs, $2.50 a dozen; valued at more than $4, but not more than $12 a dozen, $4 a dozen; valued not more than $12 a dozen 35 per cent ad valorem. The Schinners glove of sheep origin, which is the cheapest skin glove manufactured, was made dutiable at $1 a dozen pairs. This is a heavy rubbered glove, which makes a difference of $1 in the rate. The conferees adopted an amendment which puts in half the cumulative duties of 40 cents a dozen pairs, provided by the senate, on a certain stitching or when lined or finished in a manner adding to the ordinary value. Senators Elkins and Scott of West Virginia, and Clark of Wyoming, vainly endeavored to get the conferees to make the rate of 45 cents a ton on coal apply to the short ton, which it is said, would make a difference of only 5 cents a ton, and operate to advance the rate to the equivalent of 50 cents. The print paper rate was fixed at $2.75 a ton, which is only 25 cents less than the senate rate, and $1.75 more than the house rate. It is expected that this rate will arouse the ire of the special house committee which investigated the wood pulp and paper question. When the conferees met today they took up the glove schedule, but the action was taken on it only a matter of practically was agreed yesterday that the house increases should prevail. In both houses around the conference room and even in the senate chamber, the conferees and the press were busy with the question of the glove schedule. Northwest Members Active. Meantime the pot was boiling along the northwest border. Senators Nelson and Clapp in one end of the building and Representatives Tavney and the other were stirring it. They, as well as many other senators and representatives, were quite incensed over the change that has been made and many assertions were heard that no report for a higher rate on lumber than the house had fixed could be adopted by the house. It was believed to be difficult to get the senate to agree to the rate. The "insurgents" failing to count upon the free hide opponents, say their only hope is in the house and the low lumber men, therefore profess themselves as willing to accept the responsibility of defeating the bill if the $1.50 rate on lumber stands. Some of the house conferees have already weakened and the low lumber men believe they will have strength enough to cause the reopening of the question and to bring about a reduction in the rate. The low lumber advocates assert that when the president assented to a higher rate on lumber he was not in possession of all the facts. "Since the conference of last night he knows better," says some of them. President Taft is willing to stay in Washington as long as anybody else, provided he can get a satisfactory report in the end and the prospect of a delay in beginning his summer vacation is said to disturb him no longer. The list of senate callers today, the usually heavy, thirteen members of the upper house of congress paying their respects to the president.

SAVES WORKMAN FROM MACHINERY ELECTRIC DREDGER FOREMAN RISKS OWN LIFE LEAPS FIVE FEET OVER BELT TO RENDER AID Mechanic Becomes Entangled in Whirling Wheels and Is Rescued by Thrilling Work of William Stelzer (Special to The Herald.) PLAYA DEL REY, July 28.—Risking his life to save a fellow worker from death this morning, William Stelzer threw off the main switch on an electric dredger, seized a heavy belt, and at imminent peril of being drawn into the whirling wheels, brought the machinery to a standstill. Joseph Davidson, a mechanic employed on the electric dredger which is working in the lagoon, stepped into the pit where there were two rapidly revolving shafts. The man's foot slipped from the oily surface of a beam, his trousers were caught in the end of a shaft and in an instant he was drawn into the machinery. His cries for help brought Stelzer, who was in charge of the dredger, to the rescue. Leaping over the belt, the foreman threw off the power switch, and turning seized the big belt which drives the powerful pump. Stelzer was drawn toward the great flywheel, but he resisted with all his power. In the meantime Davidson had thrown his body backward with the hope of saving his life even if the leg was torn off. When the machinery was brought to a stop it was found that Davidson's clothing was wound so tightly around the shaft that it was necessary to cut it away. This proved difficult because of the narrow quarters in the pit where the man's body was drawn. Davidson was groaning with pain when Stelzer crawled into the pit and slashed with his knife at the man's clothing, which was released and lifted from his perilous position. Davidson's right leg was lacerated above the ankle and his foot was severely bruised. His injuries were attended by Mrs. Alice C. Thompson, a Los Angeles trained nurse, who was at a nearby hotel when the accident occurred. "You've got a good voice, Joe," said Stelzer, jocularly, when it was shown that his assistant was not severely injured. "If I trade it for your ability as a high jumper, Bill," replied Davidson, looking at the place where Stelzer had leaped nearly five feet from the deck over the driving belt to get to the power switch.

GIOVANNI ZARCONO FOUND DEAD WITH SHOT-RIDDLED HEAD New York Police Believe That Gang of Counterfeiters Are Slaying Men Who Might Be Informers (By Associated Press.) DANBURY, Conn., July 28.—Search is being carried on by the police for the men connected with the shooting last night of Giovanni Zarcone, who was found lying on his doorstep here by his son, his head riddled with shot. Beyond the theory that the shooting may have to do with Zarcone's alleged connection with the so-called "barrel murder" several years ago in New York, the police have as yet been unable to find a motive for the crime. BLOODY TRAIL HAS FOLLOWED ASSASSINATION OF BENDITTO NEW YORK, July 28.—Giovanni Zarcone, the Italian murderer yesterday near Danbury, was the fourth man connected with the mysterious "barrel murder" in this city in 1903 to meet a violent death. Following the discovery of the body of Adolph Benditto in a barrel here, Zarcone was one of those arrested on a charge of causing Benditto's death. Later he was discharged. Since then three men whose names were prominent in the "barrel murder" case have been slain. The first one was Lusiano Perino, known as "Petto the Ox," who was shot in Pennsylvania. Vito La Duce was murdered later in Sicily and Messina. Geneva was killed near Dayton, Ohio. The "barrel murder" is believed to have had its origin among a gang of counterfeiters and the police say they believe that the four who have since given up their lives were members of the gang. It is thought Benditto was aware of the counterfeiters' work and was put out of the way. Since then the real murderers of Benditto have been killing the men who knew the details of the crime and it is believed were in a position to make damaging revelations.

One of the victims is in the hospital, where the doctors say he will probably die. Another is seriously injured, and the third was able to go home after being attended by a surgeon. The automobile did not stop, but continued its flight down the street and escaped. Charles M. Hart of East Orange was passing the corner in his automobile, in which there were two women. The police placed the seriously injured man in Hart's car, and on the way to the hospital the two women tore bandages from their skirts and dressed the man's wounds. At the hospital this man said he was Frank McCabe, a street car conductor, who recently came here from Chicago.

MAY BE PROBED BY GRAND JURY (Continued from Page One) former employee gets considerable team and other work from the city, Mayor Walton controls the saloon licenses of San Pedro. Deputy Marshal in Jail When the grand jury probability was mentioned to several citizens of San Pedro they speculated on the possibility of a revival of rumors centering about the city marshal, Ben Baker. It is a rumor that the grand jury looked in warrants and minutes of the board of trustees connected with the appointment of Tom Nelson as a deputy marshal. Nelson was thrown into jail after he was found several hundred dollars short in collection accounts, but it is said that Baker drew a month for his deputy, while the only deputy which a broad and liberal construction might allow him was on the wrong side of prison bars. It cannot be definitely ascertained that the detectives have looked into this, but there are strong rumors among San Pedro business men to that effect. The Brevoort hotel, leading business man of San Pedro believe, a grand jury is to be called to investigate harbor city matters. It is believed that a decision will be reached within forty or fifty days.

GIRLS IN ARMS WHEN EMPLOYERS REFUSE TO ALLOW TALK AT LUNCH NEW YORK, July 28.—Two hundred girls employed in a shirt waist factory in East Tenth street have struck because the management posted a notice prohibiting conversation during lunch hour. It is the custom of the girls to eat their lunches in the work room and during that hour to talk and enjoy themselves. Rather than be denied the privilege they decided to go on a strike, and now propose to negotiate with the company for more wages and less work, together with the privilege of talking as much as they please while eating.
