Democratic Candidate Who Runs Against Otto Bannard

WILLIAM JAY GAYNOR

WILLIAM JAY GAYNOR moved to Brooklyn in 1873 from Whitestown, Oneida county, N. Y., where he was born in 1851. While studying law he worked on a New York newspaper, being admitted to the bar in 1875. His first bid for national prominence was in breaking up political rings and in obtaining the conviction of John Y. McKane for election frauds. He became a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1883, having been nominated by Republicans and Independent Democrats. He was one of the first public men in the east to denounce favoritism in freight rates.

INDICT FIVE OFFICIALS OF DEFUNCT INSTITUTE

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30.—The grand jury, which has been investigating the affairs of the Oregon Trust and Savings bank, which closed its doors two years ago, returned indictments today against Walter H. Moore, president; W. Cooper Morris, cashier, and E. E. Lyttle, Leo Friede and Henry A. Moore, directors of the defunct institution. All five men are indicted on six counts for having accepted deposits after they knew the bank was insolvent, and W. H. Moore and W. Cooper Morris are indicted on additional counts charging embezzlement. On Wednesday of this week the five men were arrested on recommendation of the grand jury, charged with having received deposits after being aware of the unstable condition of the bank. Merchant Also Indicted

Gus Lowit, former manager of a department store in this city, also was indicted for his alleged connection with the officials of the bank who are said to have accepted secured notes and overdrafts from Lowit amounting at one time to $105,000. It was in connection with these actions of the store and the bank that the indictments were returned against Morris and W. H. Moore, for alleged mutilation of notes, the signatures on the notes having, it is asserted, been torn off. Events in December, 1906, when $58,000 and notes involving $65,000 were said to have disappeared, resulted in issuing indictments for Morris and W. H. Moore. The report of the grand jury relating to the affairs of the Oregon Trust and Savings bank says: "During the investigation of the Oregon Trust and Savings bank we find by the statements of numerous witnesses examined that at no time during the bank's existence was it ever in a solvent condition; that the bank's funds were used in investments in private enterprises of the officials of the bank; that while engaged in this reprehensible juggling with the squandering of depositors' funds the officers of the bank kept such inaccurate and incomplete records that even the accountants were puzzled in trying to determine the nature of the various transactions; that in their shameless larceny of money entrusted to their care in the local government laboratory, surprised the four men of Chicago last night by explaining in detail the various tests to which the government subjected their goods to detect bleaching and adulteration. He spoke before the Flour Men's club of Chicago at the Great Northern hotel, and by a number of chemicals and stereoscopic views convinced the dealers that it was well nigh impossible to practice deception under the regulations of the new pure food laws. "Don't insist on your products being nerve foods; most Americans have nerve enough. "Don't insist too much that they enrich the blood; all cereals do this, and I hope, enrich the manufacturers, especially the advertiser, especially for muscle properties; all breakfast cereals make muscle and perhaps more than we need in these days of trolley cars. "Don't insist on your products being product with bread to the disparagement of the latter, because cereals may come and cereals may go, but bread goes on forever."

PERVERT SETS FIRE TO ST. LOUIS JAIL

BOY IS RELEASED ON BONDS SUPPLIED BY MOTHER

PARENT DECLARES SON DID NOT KNOW DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RIGHT AND WRONG

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Eight-year-old Harry McDonald, who tried to burn the St. Louis county jail at Clayton after he had stolen a horse and buggy, driven sixteen miles into the country and put the horse in a stable and burned both the barn and the beast, was released today on a bond of $200, signed by his mother, Mrs. Mary McDonald. The mother told Judge Wurdeman the boy had taken the fire merely to get away from a doctor who operated on him recently for adenoids. Aliens have recommended the removal of the adenoids from the nasal passage of children as tending toward both moral and physical improvement. It is held also that such an operation develops the mental aptitude of school children. Mrs. McDonald said Harry was operated on successfully and has entertained a childish fear of the physician. She said her son did not know the difference between right and wrong and was not responsible for what he had done. Harry will appear next Friday before Judge Wurdeman in the juvenile court.

ADDRESSES CONVENTION IN HUMOROUS MOOD

Nation's Ruler Declares River Transportation Has Not Improved in Last 40 Years—Receives Much Applause

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—President Taft arrived in New Orleans today to renew many old acquaintances and to enjoy two days of the hospitality which he declared a few days ago he "both longed for and feared." From the moment of his arrival at 12:30 p. m. the president was kept on the go until past midnight tonight. President Taft ended his river trip with an address before the waterways convention this afternoon, in which he reiterated his favor of the issuance of bonds to carry forward every deep waterway project which shall be approved by a competent board of engineers as practicable and can be shown necessary to take care of growing commerce.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 30.—President Taft celebrated the successful termination of his trip down the Mississippi river today by addressing delegates to the convention of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterways association, which has as its object the improvement of the Mississippi river and its tributaries. On the arrival of the president, delegates and visitors sprang to their feet. Many mounted their chairs in order to get a better view of the bowing, smiling big man who was working his way through the double line of secret service men and police officers. He stood on the platform a moment and then bowed his appreciation of the applause. President W. K. Kavanaugh presented him with a handsome gold badge and then introduced Governor Sanders of Louisiana, who in turn introduced the president. The applause broke out again and was reinforced with some vigorous Yale yells.

Has a Little Fun

The president began his address by having a little fun regarding the trip down the river. He said that "dangers had all been run," and that the fleet had come through without the loss of a single man. Mr. Taft taunted the congressmen and governors for having resorted to the humiliating device of land transportation at one stage of the journey. The president declared no progress had been made in river navigation in this country in the last forty or forty-five years. Waterways of this country, he said, must be used to carry the bulk of heavy merchandise. The president's declaration that he favored the issuance of bonds for carrying out the Ohio river improvements favored one of the approved projects of inland waterways, called out a burst of applause.

Mississippi Beautiful

The Ohio river improvements will cost $63,000,000. Mr. Taft said he also favored bonds for all other improvements, including the Mississippi. Just as soon as a feasible project can be made in river navigation, he must be used to carry the bulk of heavy merchandise. The president's declaration that he favored the issuance of bonds for carrying out the Ohio river improvements favored one of the approved projects of inland waterways, called out a burst of applause.
