

Think This Over

Did you ever consider that the money you spend most willingly and that which brings you the most satisfactory return, is the money out of which you get the greatest enjoyment? Think it over, and you'll agree. Then consider this—there is nothing in the musical line which returns so much unalloyed enjoyment for the investment of money as the Victor Player Piano that opens the production of music to all—and the Victor Talking Machine. Again we say, "Think it over."

CECILIAN PLAYER PIANOS

Cecilian Player Pianos are supreme in quality and in the musical enjoyment they bring to their owners. Whether it be the "Cecilian" at $650—the greatest player piano value obtainable at its price—or the wonderful Farrand-Cecilian, with metal action, at $850—every Cecilian is a source of infinite musical enjoyment. You can play the latest waltz or popular song, or the classic masterpieces. No musical training is required. Cecilians can be purchased on terms of $15 or more monthly.

SITE ABANDONED BY 'SOLD THREE'

TRIUMVIRATE GOES BACK ON ITS FIRST RESOLVE

REJECTS COUNTY-OWNED LAND FOR DETENTION HOME

Supervisors Vote to Purchase Property at Yale and College Streets, Although Estimated Cost of Improving Will Be Greater

Why did the "solid three" of the board of supervisors go back on their proposition, made some time ago, to use the county land adjoining the county hospital property for a detention home site? Why did they abandon the idea of using that land when the county surveyor estimated it would cost $1000 less to improve it than the site they have selected on 17th street? Why did they give up that same idea even after Supervisor Pridham stated the land could be used in its present condition, only a few improvements being necessary? Why did the "solid three" decline to make an investigation and determine whether or not Pridham was right? Why are they so anxious to purchase the site at College and Yale streets, and why has that site increased in value $12,000 within the past twelve months?

These are some of the pertinent questions that arose out of the discussion at the meeting of the board of supervisors yesterday, when the "solid three," Neils, Eldridge and McCabe, voted down Pridham's and Manning's motion to use land owned by the county, and favored Eldridge's motion to advertise for the purchase of the Yale and College street property, which has been offered for $25,000, and which may be regarded as already bought for detention home uses.

County Surveyor I. B. Noble, to whom the matter was submitted, stated that the cost of improvement a week ago, reported to the board yesterday, the county-owned property—all of it—could be improved for about $24,000.

Improvements Would Cost Little
The comparatively small portion that would be needed for the home could be improved, if necessary, for a great deal less money.

Pridham favored the use of the county property. If it could be used without going to the expense of making improvements in the way of filling and building ditches, he explained, so much the better; if improvements were made the property would enhance in value and thus the county would benefit.

When the "solid three" opposed this idea Pridham called attention to the fact that they themselves had proposed some time ago and wanted to know why they had faced about.

Speaking of the site at Yale and College streets, opposite the old French hospital, Neils, Eldridge and McCabe, who were present, said they were offered for sale a year ago at $13,000, had increased in value to $25,000, the price now asked of the county.

Eldridge said he told why the Yale and College street property was favored. "Because," he said, "a man named Thomas had been told to 'kick' the property out of the city. What reason can be found in this explanation is difficult to determine, as a large number of the numerous sites offered have been objected to by persons living in the vicinity of the property.

In any event the motion to advertise for the purchase of the Yale and College street property was carried by a two to one, and the county will, it is expected, will spend $25,000 that it is urged just as well could have been expended in other directions if the unused land near the hospital grounds was selected.

BOY ROBBER TRIES TO IMITATE BANDIT TRACY

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 15.—Earl Bullock was imitating Tracy the bandit and thought him the greatest hero that ever lived," was the statement made last night by Willie McKay, the 15-year-old companion of Bullock, who killed himself when about to be captured near Kansas, at a bank at Eudora, Kas.

"Bullock was always reading a book about 'Tracy the Bandit' and got his ideas from it. Just before we reached Memphis he was captured and taken to a bank at Eudora, Kas.

FOOTHILL CITY FAVORS UNION

CITIZENS ALMOST UNANIMOUS FOR CONSOLIDATION

Board of Trade and Hollywood Trustees Hear Report of Committee That Conferred with Los Angeles Bodies

(Special to The Herald.)
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—Hollywood is for consolidation with Los Angeles. At a meeting of the board of trade and the city trustees, which was attended by a large number of residents of the city this evening, a vote was taken on consolidation, and out of the fifty or more taxpayers present there was but one dissenting vote.

Hollywood is anxious for consolidation as soon as practicable, as was voiced in a motion that was passed almost unanimously also. It is understood that Los Angeles is ready, and nothing stands in the way in this city at the present time to prevent the step being taken as soon as it is possible.

Residents of this city understand that the city of Los Angeles is contemplating an election for the issuance of bonds for the Owens river power and the improvement of the San Pedro harbor, and they are willing to share their portion of the taxation for those purposes. They believe the future greatness of Los Angeles will affect the fortunes of Hollywood and are willing to do their part in working toward the ends that are to be attained by Greater Los Angeles.

Consolidation Body Meets
The report of the consolidation committee was given by members of the committee, and the work done by it met with the approval of those present. Mayor George H. Dunlop, Philo J. Beveridge, Judge A. E. Merrill and L. G. Somers spoke for the committee, telling about the meeting of the officers of the chamber of commerce, the city council, the highway commission and the board of public works, by whom they were given the greatest of courtesies. They reported that everything was favorable so far as Los Angeles is concerned and they believed the matter to be up to the citizens of Hollywood.

In order to bring the matter before the people of this city for a full expression on the matter, a public meeting has been called for Friday evening next at the city hall, at which it is expected a resolution will be passed calling for the setting of a date for a special election for consolidation. At that meeting the city will be open to every citizen of Hollywood who will be given an opportunity to express his sentiments on the proposition. As yet the one man, George M. Lashley, a member of the board of trade, has pressed himself as against consolidation, and he has promised to outline his reasons at that meeting.

It is expected that the consolidation will gain by the water from the Owens river aqueduct when it is completed. It is understood that the water commissioners have a plan whereby the city of Hollywood is connected with the outfall sewer by forming assessment districts for the laying of a sewer main through the business blocks of the city, and it is hoped that plan may be followed out. No water will be expected from the city of Los Angeles until the Owens river aqueduct is completed. It is expected that the Union Hollywood Water company will furnish water to the residents of this city until that time.

Suburb Highly Improved
In return for these two concessions the residents of this city offer to Los Angeles the most highly improved suburb in Southern California. Those residents are of the highest class, a large portion of the residents of this city are business and professional men who have their homes and business houses in Los Angeles. They are educated and highly refined class of people is shown in the efficiency of the schools of this city, the standard of which is on a par with the best in the United States. And that they are progressive is shown in the class of the public school buildings and business blocks second to none in Southern California.

There are now over 800 school children in the city in the grammar schools, with a daily average of 500. Two large city schools, which accommodate these children and a special election has been called for November 23 for the issuance of bonds to build a new school building, the Hollywood Union High school building is located in this city. The contract will be let in a few days for a $100,000 polytechnic high school. The immaculate Heart college, one of the strongest Catholic schools in Southern California, second only to St. Vincent's, is located here.

With all this to offer and with a willingness to share in the proposed bonds for the improvement of the Owens river power plant and the San Pedro harbor, the residents of this city feel that their wants will be filled by the city of Los Angeles.

CHINESE GAMBLING TOOLS GIVEN JUDGE

Sergeant Sebastian Presents Fredericksen with Complete Gaming Outfit Formerly Used in Chinatown

The walls of the "den" at the home of Police Judge William Fredericksen, 2097 West Twenty-eighth street, were decorated last night with complete and unique reminders of former days in Chinatown.

Judge Fredericksen made the remark he was proud to have the tools of the Police Sergeant Sebastian of the Chinatown squad, which he had seized from a gambling den, which he had recently made a complete set of Chinese gambling implements, which are rapidly becoming obsolete, would make an attractive addition to the room in which Judge Fredericksen sits and, he thought before him on the morrow.

Last night as the judge was closing his desk and preparing to leave his office at police headquarters, Sergeant Sebastian appeared with a complete set of Chinese gambling tools, which he had seized from a gambling den, which he had recently made a complete set of Chinese gambling implements, which are rapidly becoming obsolete, would make an attractive addition to the room in which Judge Fredericksen sits and, he thought before him on the morrow.

On the board is the name of Judge Fredericksen, who is rapidly becoming obsolete, would make an attractive addition to the room in which Judge Fredericksen sits and, he thought before him on the morrow.

ROY ALLEN OVERLOOKED IN APPOINTING SERGEANT

Patrolman Charles Johnson Selected to Take Place of Dead Officer by Commission.

Disregarding Roy Allen, who has been on the police department a number of years, Patrolman Charles Johnson was appointed by the police commission last night as sergeant to take the place of Sergeant J. I. Peterson, who died several days ago. Both Allen and Johnson were certified to the commission by the civil service boards and both had the same rating of 75.4. The name of Allen was written first, but it was skipped to select Johnson.

It is reported that Allen expects to resign from the force and that was the chief reason why the commission did not give his name more consideration.

Charles Norris was appointed patrolman to take the place of Johnson and T. F. O'Brien to replace Patrolman C. P. Sheehan. Sheehan was summarily dismissed from the force by the commission last night on charges preferred by Chief Dishman, who declared he had found drunk and asleep on his beat Sunday night. As Sheehan had not served six months it was not necessary to give him a trial before the commission.

TENT REVIVAL MEETINGS MARK DAILY INCREASE

Rev. G. W. Taylor Conducts Evening Evangelistic Services at Twenty-fourth and Central Avenue

The tent meetings conducted by Rev. George W. Taylor, corner of Twenty-fourth street and Central avenue, are increasing daily in interest and attendance. More than one hundred conversions have been reported.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, in his plain terms to the mothers regarding themselves and their children.

One of the attractive features of the meetings is the music under direction of T. F. Leonard, a well known musician from New York, who is organizing a large union chorus choir and invites all who sing to join it.

A singing class has been organized for the benefit of the children under 15 years old. These juvenile singers are attracting much attention at the services.

A song service is held each evening at 7:30 o'clock, preceding the preaching services beginning at 8 o'clock.

MAN UNDER SENTENCE OF 17 YEARS MAKES ESCAPE

WOODLAND, Cal., Nov. 15.—Isaac Davenport, under sentence of seventeen years in San Quentin for criminal assault, whose case is on appeal, escaped from jail last night.

He was allowed the liberty of the corridor, and during the night succeeded in sawing an opening through two doors.

At the time he was the only prisoner on the lower floor, and it is supposed he was aided by friends on the outside.

Auto Race Postponed
DENVER, Nov. 15.—The flag-to-flag endurance and reliability contest for automobiles from Denver to the City of Mexico will take place next summer instead of this month, as originally planned.

CHARACTERISTICS OF EDUCATION'S AIMS

TEACHERS TAUGHT POWERS AND LIMITATIONS

DR. KARR APPROVES SYSTEM ESTABLISHED HERE

Lecturer Declares Heredity Can Do Much and Environment Assist Development, but That There is Limit

"Moral character is the aim of education," was Dr. Karr's theme in his third lecture on the Principles of Education, delivered before a body of teachers at Olive street high school last night, on the subject of "Characteristics of Education." The speaker, who is a member of the board of education, discussed the relation of heredity and environment and the influence of each on the development of the individual.

Under organization he said: "The system which your superintendent has established here makes each individual the head of his own department. This idea permeates your whole system, reaching down even to pupils, as shown concretely in their self-government committees. The idea is the inspiration of the ungraded room, where each child is given a chance to expand along those lines under the leadership of the teacher, where, as Mr. Lickley says, 'School is made as much like life as possible,' all the interests of the child being met, and the child is not only school, but home, and where boys become so imbued with the idea of responsibility that bolts and bars are not necessary.

"In education, we figure on how much the power of heredity can do, and furnish it with environment for its development. The end aim of education is the emancipation of youth."

"Nevertheless there are certain limitations in education which must be kept constantly in mind. In the main they may be viewed under four heads:

"(a) Subjective limitations. This is the natural limit and possibility of his powers, and arises largely from heredity. This limit is to be seen in races, as well as individuals. This difference ranges from slight differences to the vast chasm which appears between the normal and the defective, and the various defects and weaknesses on the other. This difference is recognized in the establishment of special institutions for defectives, and it is said that Germany is thinking seriously of establishing a school for geniuses.

"(b) Objective limitations. This arises out of environment and the means that may be devoted to a person's development, as in the home, school, books, travel, companionship, etc.

"(c) Absolute or arbitrary limit. This arises from the maladjustment of the environment to the developing personality of the pupil. It comes into requisition most with regard to the promotion and graduation of pupils. As development is the dynamic principle of education as well as of all life, promotion and progress should mark the way toward the highest realization. To impose arbitrary limits upon the growing self-active mind is to prevent, not further, education. The way toward the highest realization of the pupil should be the environment—school, community—environment—which will contribute most to his development and welfare.

"(d) Formal limitations. It is inevitable that it would be impossible for the most highly endowed person under the most favorable circumstances to know all the facts to be known, acquire taste and skill, and attain the highest perfection. The actual content of education is very limited, but the form may be developed well nigh to perfection.

"A pupil cannot know all the facts of knowledge, but he can become master of the principles which those facts embody, and which may be applied to an unlimited number of facts. He can learn how to learn, acquire habits of observation, analysis and synthesis, induction and deduction, etc. In short, he can intelligently approach any given subject for himself, and hope to learn something about it. So also he cannot be taught all the refinements of taste, or he can be taught the principles of judgment, valuation and the methods of action, so that in his future development he may develop his own taste and skill.

"In like manner it is impossible to learn all possible moral precepts to fit every possible circumstance, but the pupil can be taught the highest principles of character, so as to be able to form his own character and disposition. In this way, the student will become expert in adapting himself to any and all circumstances. In this day and age, that man is considered the strongest who can most readily adjust himself to a new set of circumstances."

VICTIM ALLEGES FRAUD IS PRACTICED BY PALMIST

Wants Police Commission to Revoke Permit Held by Man Who Charged Him $50

Chief Dishman has been assigned by the police commission to find out if a sheet of cheap paper covered with handwriting is worth $50. The chief includes it is not a palmist who calls himself Prof. Mundo, and is located at 341 1-2 South Spring street, may be called before the commission to show why his permit to practice palmistry should not be revoked.

R. B. Bay, 531 South Main street, told the commission last night that he had paid Prof. Mundo $50 for the few typewritten lines he exhibited, and that the professor had represented, before the money was paid, that he would give him a complete course in reading palms.

The typewritten sheet is to be committed to memory and when by slip of paper to any one who would pay the purchase price, and that he was doing it with the intention to defraud. If it appears to be from the commission will revoke the permit.

THUMB PRESERVED IN ALCOHOL IS EXHIBIT A

Spondia Member Bitten Off by Chinese When Young Man Enters Store and Creates a Disturbance

A thumb, preserved in alcohol, figured as exhibit "A" in Police Judge Rose's court yesterday in the case of Burt Thornberg, who was arrested on a charge of battery to Yee Sam, a Chinese merchant, at the store of the latter at 415 North Main street. The charge later was reduced to battery, to which change Thornberg entered a plea of guilty yesterday and was given a suspended sentence of six months in the city jail.

According to the testimony of witnesses, Thornberg entered the store of the Chinese and made a violent attack on the proprietor. Yee resisted to the best of his ability and in the struggle seized the right thumb of Thornberg between his teeth and brought his jaws together with such force that the member was bitten off.

The struggle and cries of Yee brought a patrolman to his assistance and Thornberg was arrested. The injured man was treated at the receiving hospital and the severed thumb was preserved for evidence.

Owing to the fact that Thornberg did not steal anything and there being no evidence to show that robbery was the motive for his attack on Yee, Deputy District Attorney Arthur Veitch reduced the charge of burglary against Thornberg to that of battery and recommended that the accused be placed on probation.

Judge Rose gave the young man a severe lecture and placed him on probation, naming the brother of the accused, Guy E. Thornberg, as a special probation officer.

Thornberg thanked Attorney Veitch for the leniency shown him and left the court room with the bottle containing the severed thumb, which he was allowed to have.
