

PLANS TO ROUT WHITE SLAVERY

HOUSE OF CONGRESS TAKES DRASTIC ACTION PURPOSE IS TO BREAK UP THE TRAFFIC

Heavy Penalty Is Proposed for Providing Transportation from One State to Another

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Drastic action looking toward the suppression of the "white slave" traffic in the United States was taken by the house today. A bill was passed under which the purchaser liable to ten years imprisonment and a $5000 fine. Immoral alien women are to be deported whenever they are discovered and their procurers are to be excluded, deported or punished.

"It is the intention that this measure shall be drastic," declared Representative Bennett of New York, sponsor of the measure, and coauthor of it. "This infamous white slave traffic must be broken up, and the immigration committee believes the proposed measure will survive every constitutional test to which it may be subjected."

Motion to Recommit Lost

Chairman Mann of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, who said yesterday that he was not opposed to the bill, was surprised upon its defenders by moving to recommit the measure. The motion was lost by a vote of 36 to 174.

Whatever opposition there was to certain sections of the bill, few members seemed anxious to have themselves placed on record as voting against it and only an oral vote was taken on its passage.

The house could not agree on the senate's amendments to the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry resolution today, and sent that measure to conference.

The Bennett-Sabath "white slave" bill was passed in the house, in spite of the objections of Mr. Mann, father of a rival bill, to sidetrack the measure in the senate the greater part of the session was taken up by the introduction of new bills.

A resolution formally accepting the statue of General Lew Wallace, placed in Statuary hall yesterday, was adopted.

Another Message Coming

President Taft's special message on the conservation of natural resources has been completed and will be sent to congress Friday noon. The message will make about 3500 words and will refer generally to the conservation bills which have been prepared by Secretary Ballinger under the direction of the president and with the advice of the entire cabinet.

Republicans Caucus

The joint Republican caucuses of the senate and house tonight selected a new congressional committee and adjourned after a perfunctory session. None of the interesting issues that were expected came up.

31 LIVES LOST BY SHIPWRECK

STEAMER BEATEN TO PIECES OFF COOS BAY

COMPANY MANAGER SEES SON LEFT TO DROWN

Entire Crew of Craft Czarina and One Berkeley Student Probable Victims of Gale Off Oregon

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Jan. 12.—The Southern Pacific railroad's steamer Czarina, which left this port for San Francisco this afternoon, lies a total wreck on the north spit of the Coos bay bar, and thirty-one lives are believed to have been sacrificed to the elements.

Harry H. Kentzel, first assistant engineer, was washed up on the beach tonight, the sole survivor. He was unconscious and unable to speak when found, and it is feared he is internally injured. The watchers saw body little later, but the waves carried it out again before they could reach it.

There appears to be no hope that any of the crew will reach shore alive. Harold Mills, the 20-year-old son of C. J. Mills of this city, manager of the steamship company operating the Czarina, was the only passenger. He was returning to his studies at the University of California, Berkeley, after a week's vacation spent with his parents. Before the ship struck Mills was called and ran to the beach only to see the vessel drift on to the rocks with his son aboard. Scanning the water and racking his brains for some way to reach his son the father paced the beach with haggard face.

He soon realized that any effort to reach the vessel by tugs or lifeboats would be futile, and looked on while the life-saving crew tried to fire a line aboard the ship. Finally he gave up all hope, and tonight he is certain his son is dead.

The Czarina left port this afternoon during a gale. Tremendous seas were breaking outside the bar and heavy seas were washing over it as the steamer attempted to pass out.

Suddenly those on shore, gathered to watch the departure of the boat, were startled to see the Czarina sweeping toward the north spit. Her engines seemed to have become disabled. The heavy seas almost enveloped the steamer and she drifted rapidly on to the spit at a point about a mile above the jetty.

The disabled vessel pounded heavily, sawing from side to side with great waves breaking over her. It was too rough for tugs to approach her, and those on shore were compelled to stand idly by unable to succor the doomed crew.

Captain Duggan of the Czarina made an effort to stop the onward sweep of the vessel toward the rocks. He dropped anchors but they would not hold, and she soon grounded. The members of the crew crowded into the rigging and made frantic gestures of appeal.

The helpless onlookers watched as they were washed overboard to their death. The crew from the life saving station launched a boat and made effort after effort to fire a life line across the vessel from the shore. They were unsuccessful, as the distance was too great and the water too rough.

As darkness closed in a few men were seen on board the wrecked vessel, which heavily laden with coal as she was, had settled far into the water. The waves were washing over her at will. The night is a cold one and if the crew were alive on board at this time it is believed they cannot possibly survive.

Following is the list of the crew, all from San Francisco: James Hughes, first officer; J. McNicholas, second officer; M. Tilamor, third officer; B. F. Hodges, purser; William G. Bice, waiter; Henry Young, chief engineer; H. H. Kentzel, first assistant engineer; J. E. Robinson, second assistant engineer; C. Thompson, oiler; M. Quirege, cook; George Besate, steward; J. Joseph, third messman; coal passers, F. Sousa, A. Delladora, J. Sverlo; firemen, C. Silva, M. Silva, J. Martinen, F. Bilboa, Grunita B. Catara; sweeper, J. Anderson; A. B. Bolkka, C. Mastron, A. Aholted, C. Carren, M. Obon, A. Magner, S. A. Ellerson.

BOOKMAKERS LOSE HEAVILY

PITTSBURG, Jan. 12.—Four local bookmakers are reported to have lost between $20,000 and $60,000 today on a race in Jacksonville. A commissioner sent to the track by local bettors today sent the tip on Stoneman at 4 to 1 in the fifth race. Two of the bookmakers tonight said one man had cleaned up $18,000 from each of them.

PATROLMAN CORNWALL FINED

Patrolman D. Cornwall was fined fifteen days' pay and ordered suspended until the fine is paid, by the police commission last night. Cornwall was tried by the commission on charges preferred by S. H. Jappe. It was proven that Cornwall had arrested Jappe without just cause and had not been as considerate as the commission believes officers on the Los Angeles police force should be.

ETIWANDA RANCHER INJURED

H. Wilson, 45 years old, a rancher of Etiwanda, San Bernardino county, was treated at the receiving hospital last night for a laceration of the neck of which he was admitted from a moving First street car opposite the Santa Fe depot. He was sent later to his home.

RISES FROM STENOGRAPHER TO PLACE OF OIL QUEEN

In Kentucky there is a woman, Mrs. Ora Hood Russell, who in a little over a dozen years rose from a lawyer's stenographer at $13 a week to be one of the richest women in the state and perhaps "oil queen" of the world. It is a surprising twentieth century record, according to a story in the Bookkeeper. Miss Hood went to work thirteen years ago, at the age of 18, as the stenographer of a Chicago lawyer. Later she obtained a position as amanuensis to a minister who was editing a series of books. There she met H. Russell, an oil operator, and they were married. But they were separated some time later, and Mrs. Russell, with some money and a knowledge of oil, went traveling in South America.

Housekeeper's Suspicions

Prof. Frederick Howes, whose name is being prominently mentioned in connection with the planet Mars, is a man of infinite humor. "Several months went by, and no planets were discovered. The fact of the matter is, ma'am," confided the old woman at last to Mrs. Russell. "I do think the professor goes out at night and discovers planets on the sly."

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.
