CHAPEL FILLED WITH LAITY AND CLERGY

Celebration of Beatification of Founder of Good Shepherd Order Duly Observed in Los Angeles

With a solemn high mass, celebrated coram episcopo, the solemn triduum of the beatification of the Blessed John Eudes, founder of the order, was opened yesterday by the local institution of the Good Shepherd, West Pico and Arlington streets.

The chapel was filled with friends of the order, the sisters and their charges, other religious orders of the city, Rev. J. J. Clifford, was celebrant of the mass; Rev. George McMahon, deacon; Rev. Joseph McManus, sub-deacon; and Rev. F. J. Conaty, master of ceremonies. Revs. D. Kavanaugh and J. Trudeau assisted the bishop.

Throughout the world, the order of the Good Shepherd, which is devoted to reclaiming fallen women and girls, is celebrating the beatification of the founder, and the three days' services opened yesterday by the local institution are in accord with the world-wide celebration of the order.

Early in the morning a small group of girls received first communion preparatory to the confirmation service which followed the solemn high mass. A class of thirteen girls received the sacrament at the hands of the prelates. Bishop Conaty preached an eloquent sermon on the life of the founder and the work accomplished by the white-robed sisters. He said in part:

"We are assembled under the roof-tree of this Good Shepherd convent today for the purpose of honoring John Eudes for what he has done in the organization and development of the work of redemption through the institute known as Our Lady of Charity of the Good Shepherd. The work of the Good Shepherd has spread from cloister to cloister until today it is found all over the world. The work was introduced into the United States in 1842, when the first convent was established in Louisville, Ky.

The music of the triduum was sung by members of the choir of the cathedral chapel of Our Lady of Guadalupe. Solos were sung by Mrs. Mary Schaller and the Misses Bell and McMott. Miss Katherine Bell presided at the organ.

Following the service the sisters served a luncheon to the bishop and assisting clergy.

No Caucus to Amend House Rules Is Taken, but Action on Floor Is Probable

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Republican "insurgents" in the house will support the administration program on the subjects of railroad legislation, conservation, postal savings banks and anti-injunction. Unanimous decision to do so was reached at a meeting held last night. Representatives Gardner of Massachusetts and Hayes of California were authorized to so inform the president.

The action was taken, it is stated, in order to give definite assurance to President Taft and to the country that the "insurgents" were unanimously in favor of all the administration legislation advocated by the president.

It is a conspicuous fact that the ship subsidy and federal incorporation recommendations of the list, and it was stated by one of the insurgents that there had been no endeavor to reach an agreement on these subjects.

The insurgents discussed the question of a Republican caucus on the proposition of amending the rules of the house and of depositing the speaker from the chairmanship of the rules committee, and it was stated there was practically a unanimous understanding that the insurgents would not caucus ready, however, to act whenever the matter is presented on the floor of the house.

ALL READY FOR BIG KIRMESS TONIGHT

DRESS REHEARSAL HELD AT TEMPLE AUDITORIUM

Gay Time Promised, and Proceeds Are to Be Handed Over to Los Angeles Orphans' Home

The real thing in a good time is due to arrive tonight, when the Kirmess, with four evening and one matinee performance, begins its merry reign at Temple auditorium.

And don't forget, please, that the object is to raise money for the Los Angeles Orphans' home and the assistance league, and go with your pockets well lined either with California gold or eastern "long green."

Dim, dusky shadows filled every corner of the big theater last night. Privileged friends and chaperons occupied the boxes and scattered in admiring groups through the house. Director Ahrend held the baton for the orchestra, an energetic little woman in the files issued imperative directions, the groups through the house, and the dress rehearsal was on.

Back of the footlights Indian braves and squaws smoked the pipe of peace with fluffy girls; Marsavian and dozen others in watching him coach one of the prettiest of the groups, the Four Seasons. Back and forth in the aisle danced Mr. Paul, of their teacher, "Hi! hi!" and "Bravo!" of their teacher, such as "Merry Widow" waltz, broadcast by Katherine Graves; May Dandhurst's "Sonia" song and the dancing of Lotatia Corolla.

Out in the foyer the tower booths were going up, and, in passing, a reporter was imperturbed by a couple of charming girls to stay and settle the question of the length of their blouses. Were they the same, the very same length, or was there the least bit of a difference. After careful consideration the verdict was gravely pronounced—the skirts were exactly of the same length.

By the way, the boxes are all sold. You cannot buy one even for a bonus of $50. I know, for I overheard some one trying to do that very thing last night at the rehearsal. The endeavor ended in failure.

TAFT PARDONS INDIAN WHO MURDERED CHILD'S DOCTOR

Administration Indirectly Recognizes Tribal Privilege of Killing Physician When Patient Dies

Columbia George, an Indian on the reservation, had an infant that became ill. He called in a woman spirit doctor and the child died. A life sentence was given him.

George apparently was most indifferently but somebody interested himself in the case and when an application came to Washington for George's pardon, President Taft decided to commute the sentence to expire immediately.

BEAN GROWERS ADOPT NEW MARKET STANDARDS

Oxnard Association States That Attempt to Ship Choice Re-cleaned Product Must Be Watched

OXNARD, Feb. 1.—The Lima Bean Growers' association has adopted two standards for the marketing of lima beans. In the past a considerable quantity of lima beans which have been shipped from California to eastern jobbers as "choice re-cleaned" had never been re-cleaned, and as a result trouble through rejections was at times experienced. To obviate the trouble the association has decided that, so far as that organization is concerned, it will not ship lima beans that have not been re-cleaned, no matter how good the beans may look beforehand.

The association also believes that there should be a differentiation in price between the first and second qualities of limas, a difference which has not heretofore been recognized. They now quote prices on two different qualities. The best fancy limas the association calls "Association choice re-cleaned limas." They estimate that 25 per cent of the crop will grade to the first class. The remainder of the crop is rated as "Standard choice re-cleaned limas."

HARMAN'S ODD WILL OPPOSED

DAUGHTER DECLINES TO FOLLOW LOW INSTRUCTIONS

ORDERS THAT BODY OF FATHER BE EMBALMED

Aged Eccentric, Who Feared Burial Alive, Asked That His Heart Be Pierced by a Dagger

Among the effects of Moses A. Harman, the eccentric advocate of the abolition of institutional marriage, whose fidelity for what he regarded as the sacred right of free expression resulted in two terms of incarceration in the state prisons, was found a request that his heart be pierced with a dagger three days after his death. He died Sunday at the home of Dr. Helen Hunter, 1319 Kellam street. He was 80 years of age.

He was 80 Years of Age

Fearing that he might be buried alive Harman requested that his body be kept for three days after death, and that a dagger should then be driven through his heart.

After the body had been dissected for the advancement of medical science Harman's request was that it be cremated, or if this method was too expensive, to place his body in a sheet and bury it in an ordinary grave.

A telegraphic message was forwarded to Harman's daughter, Miss Lillian Harman of Chicago, yesterday, and she telegraphed to have the body embalmed, and intimated that her father's physicians of similar medical faith and practice, and that it be used for the instruction of classes in anatomy, or in any other way that may be desired by the physicians in charge.

"After thus utilized, I direct and request that whatever remains of the dissected body be cremated in the least expensive manner possible, and that the ashes be scattered over lawns, flower beds, gardens, mowers or fields of growing grain, so that Mother Earth may again utilize in new organism the elements stored in what will then be my castoff physical body."

Alternative, Simple Burial

In case these directions were not carried out or would cause unnecessary expense, Harman stipulated that his body be placed in a cheap sheet and buried in an ordinary grave. The will was written in August, 1906, while Harman was serving a sentence in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., having been convicted of sending improper literature through the mails.

In her message from Chicago Miss Harman stated that she would do all in her power to prevent the disposition of her father's body as he requested.

In an interview at her Chicago residence Miss Harman said yesterday: "If my father made any such request, it will be my duty to see that it is carried out. I know nothing of it." In response to the question as to whether the body would be buried without a coffin Miss Harman said she thought the body would be cremated, as her father's desire to be buried otherwise was that his body might return as soon as possible to its original elements.

She stated her father was an advocate of cremation long before cremation became common, but she did not believe that his request to have his heart pierced with a dagger was true. Harman attained notoriety by his advocacy of free expression and the abolishment of institutional marriage. He came to Los Angeles from Chicago three years ago, and at the time of his death was engaged in writing his autobiography. While in Los Angeles he published a magazine called "Eugenics," and it is said he expected nearly all of a once comfortable fortune in this venture.

According to Dr. Hunter, worry over his finances brought on the fatal illness. Besides his daughter in Chicago Harman leaves a brother, Rev. Joseph Harman of San Fernando, and a son, George Harman of Valley Falls, Kas.

"God Bless You for What You Have Done for Me"

A Life Sufferer from Kidney Trouble

MRS. MAURING, Oakland

Last summer I read of the wonderful cures Dr. Glass, the great Electro-Magnetic Healer, was accomplishing, and my husband and I talked the matter over and decided to call and see if anything could be done to get a little relief. To our surprise he said he could not only relieve the pain at once, but could cure me, and was dumfounded at this statement, but we concluded to try. The office was filled with people, who said they had been treated of all kinds of troubles and had immediately been relieved, some saying it seemed almost a miracle in most cases. After ten minutes, without a dose of medicine, I could stand and touch the floor with my finger tips. I said, "Thank you, God, for what you have done for me, and now I am a well woman again, enjoying health once more. I do all my household work and find it a pleasure and not a task. All this I consider due to the wonderful magnetic treatment by Dr. Glass. If this testimonial will assist any poor sufferer to health and happiness I will consider that I have done a noble deed in allowing my name to be mentioned."
