YOUNG WIFE OF PIONEER SEEKS SECOND DIVORCE

Romance Begun Twenty Years Ago at Catalina Is Related in Court

James C. Johnston, a California "only-bred" and part owner of Catalina Island, a portion of which he secured through a Spanish grant, was the defendant in a divorce suit begun against him by his wife, Jessie E. Johnston, in Judge Davis' court yesterday, where it had been transferred by Judge Houser.

The plaintiff charged her husband with cruelty and failure to provide, and told her life with him in Cactus Flats, thirty-five miles from any neighbors out in the Mojave desert, where the defendant runs a store for the convenience of prospectors in the desert who seek supplies.

She grew tired of the lonely life away from all womankind, she said, and when her husband refused to accompany her to a distant church social it started quarrels, during which he threatened her with shotgun and rifle. On one occasion she said he presented a gun to her head and she grabbed it and took it away from him.

He married her over twenty years ago, following a romance which began on Catalina Island, where she met him when she separated from him for seventeen years. She married him again several years ago and is now seeking a second separation.

The defendant in the case is about 65 years old and his wife is quite a number of years his junior. She owns three acres of land in a good location in the Los Angeles harbor, which was deeded to her by her mother, her husband acting as a witness. He claims this as community property and Judge Davis took the case under advisement.

AWARDED SECOND VERDICT IN SUIT FOR AUTOMOBILE

Judge Again Makes Decision Reversed by Higher Court

Following a reversal of his decision in favor of the plaintiff by the state supreme court, Judge Bordwell yesterday again found a decision for the plaintiff in the suit of James J. Laur against H. H. Mills in a contest over an automobile valued at $450.

The first verdict for the plaintiff was rendered May 6, 1907. The findings were that the defendant sold the automobile to S. A. Thompson and J. S. Miller, who in turn sold it to Liver when they still had a payment of $132 to make on it. Mills instituted an action for the recovery of the auto for non-payment by the first parties, and pending the action took possession of the auto by a writ.

Liver tendered the $132 to Mills and demanded delivery of the auto, which was refused. He commenced an action for $450, the value of the auto. Judgment was entered in his favor by Judge Bordwell for the amount, less $132, the judgment being reversed by the supreme court.

The action was tried again before Bordwell recently, and in his findings the latter says that the evidence does not show Liver repudiated the contract, because there was none. As Miller and Thompson had originally agreed to pay the defendant, Miller, for the auto, that obligation continued, and the defendant had a right to commence action against Miller and Thompson for the balance.

Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in the sum of $327.85 with 7 per cent interest annually from October 1, 1906.

HUSBAND WHO FEARED QUAKE CALLED COWARD

Mrs. Morehouse Makes Counter Charges in Divorce Case

The trial of the divorce suit of Thomas Morehouse against his wife, Emma L. Morehouse, on the grounds of desertion and cruelty was resumed before Judge Houser yesterday and at the end of the day was taken under advisement.

Mrs. Morehouse was on the stand most of the day and she wept frequently as she told of her life with the plaintiff. She charged him with cowardice because he refused to go to San Francisco after the earthquake to see if her son and daughter-in-law had been left alive.

"I found out that while San Francisco was trembling that he was trembling also," she said, as she wiped her eyes. "I could get no person to go and was going myself."

Mrs. Morehouse charges her husband with deserting her. She is contesting the suit on the ground that there is $50,000 community property, which Morehouse denies.

Busse, an employe of the Los Angeles postoffice, filed suit against them for $25,000 damages in the superior court yesterday for injuries he alleges he received.

In his complaint the plaintiff states that according to the postal laws an employe of the local office is compelled to accompany the mail from the station to the postoffice. On June 30, 1909, he accompanied an employe of Ritzman in a vehicle carrying the mail.

He charges the employe with recklessly driving in front of a Los Angeles Railway company car in Central avenue, near Cross street, and that the vehicle was struck through the carelessness of the motorman, combined with the carelessness of the driver of the vehicle. He was thrown to the pavement. He alleges that one leg is partially paralyzed and he believes he has suffered permanent injuries.

The remainder consists of notes and cash both in Omaha and Los Angeles. Fifty-two heirs of the deceased, including the widow, Mrs. Polly D. Crowell, and sisters, brothers, relatives by marriage, nieces, nephews, grandchildren and others are named in the petition for the probating of the will.

SUES FOR $1800

Suit to recover $1800 he alleges is due him for commission in the transfer of property was commenced in Judge Conroy's court yesterday by R. J. Jaurman against Flora McKusick. The plaintiff alleges that he engineered a deal by which the defendant and a Los Angeles property owner were to exchange the ranch and stock in Imperial for the latter's house and lot in this city. Through a misunderstanding between the parties, it is alleged, the deal fell through and the plaintiff is now suing for his commission on the ground that he accomplished his part of the transaction.

Mary E. Tracy filed a petition in the superior court yesterday asking that her husband be forced to show cause why he should not support her and their three minor children. She married the defendant, Eliza C. Tracy, in Burlington, Ia., on November 24, 1883, and alleges that some months ago she deserted her and her children, although he is able to support them. She alleges he is employed by the California Industrial company of Los Angeles at a salary of $30 a week.

RESORT TO DECEPTION TO FIGHT LICENSE ACT

Opponents of New Ordinance Circulate Petitions and Willfully Misrepresent

Stooping to the most despicable lies according to the postal laws an employe of the local office is compelled to accompany the mail from the station to the postoffice. On June 30, 1909, he accompanied an employe of Ritzman in a vehicle carrying the mail.

The driver of a truck wagon went to the mayor's office yesterday morning and wanted to know if the new ordinance required drivers of trucks and other vehicles to take a physical examination. He said that a man with a referendum petition had told him that the new ordinance would put him out of a job unless he was able to stand a severe physical test. He signed the referendum petition, he said, not because he was not able to stand a physical test, but because "it would reduce the license fee he would have to pay."

That is another lie that the circulators of the petition are using with good effect. There is absolutely no change of any kind in the license fees for truckmen, draymen and others following similar occupations. The only change in the ordinance affecting this class is that teamsters who haul sand and gravel from the city dump are included in the ordinance, where they were left out of the old license law. The rate of fee is the same in both ordinances, and the new one is held up by referendum proceedings, the old one will be in effect and truckmen and others will have to pay as much as they do now.

PROTEST COST OF SUNSET BOULEVARD ASSESSMENT

Proposed Widening of Street is Likely to Be Abandoned

Bankruptcy is staring some of the owners of frontage on Sunset boulevard in the face if the proposed widening of that street from the Plaza to Marion avenue is carried to a conclusion, and a storm of protest is already gathering. Protestants will be heard by the council May 3, and it is expected that the proceedings will be ordered abandoned.

It is proposed to widen Sunset boulevard to 100 feet and the cost of the improvement is $32,925. This must be raised from the property owners in the assessment district. As the assessment is so heavy and it must be levied in a small area some of the affected property owners are expected to protest that their property is worth more than their property is worth. In several instances it amounts to the confiscation of property. While the improvement is desired it is not expected the council will continue the proceedings when it works such a hardship on the property owners.

WILL INVESTIGATE RIGHT OF RAILROAD TO STREETS

S. P. Tracks Not on Grade, Says City Official

Spurs and side tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad on Alameda street, between Fourth and Sixth streets, have been so constructed that they block the sidewalks and have become a serious factor in the calculations of the city engineer for paving Alameda street. In a report the engineer made to the board of public works he said he supposed the tracks could be constructed under franchises, but he wanted to be sure of it, and on his recommendation the board asked the city attorney to make a report on these tracks. In his report to the board the engineer said:

I wish to call the attention of your honorable body to the almost complete monopolization of Alameda street by the main line and spur tracks of the Southern Pacific company. Presumably these tracks are all constructed under franchise, but here seems to be no apparent effort to adapt the railroad work to the use of the street by the public. Between Fourth and Sixth streets, back of the Arcade station, a double track has been moved to the west far enough completely to close that side of the roadway. These tracks are used simply as sidings for empty passenger coaches and for unloading freight. Spur tracks have been so located that they cross the street at unpropitious angles, and in some cases three parallel tracks have been laid. Very few of these tracks meet the street grade.

MUST SUE RINDGE HEIRS FOR SEWER RIGHT OF WAY

In planning for the new Hollywood main sewer the city engineer has struck a small snag that will probably cause some delay in the work. He finds that to lay the sewer it will be necessary for the city to acquire several rights of way. One of these rights is across the Rindge estate, between Thirtieth and Crosswalk boulevards. As there are two minor heirs to this estate, consent cannot be obtained in the usual way, but it is necessary to sue to have the right and secure the right by condemnation.

BOARD GRANTS RIGHT TO GATHER HARBOR SHELLS

The grant, the dignified, the august board of public works yesterday graciously granted permission to A. B. Cook to gather sea shells on the newly made land in the west basin and on Terminal Island beach.

While the matter seemed most trivial, it was treated with the same grave ceremony that a matter involving millions of dollars would require. The application was first made to the city council, the council referred the matter to the board of public works, the board of public works referred it to the city engineer, the city engineer detailed one of his force to make an investigation
