QUESTIONS DATE OF GLAVIS' SUMMARY

Attorney Brandeis Throws Out a Broad Suggestion Regarding Letter

BRIBERY REPORT IS DENIED

John W. Dudley Explodes Story Magazine Offered Him Money to Testify

WASHINGTON, April 22.—After attacking certain statements in Attorney General Wickereham's summary of the Glavis case during cross-examination of a witness before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation today, Attorney Brandeis, counsel for Glavis, threw out a broad suggestion that it had been prepared several months after President Taft's letter of vindication of Secretary Ballinger appeared, although the president's letter was supposed to be based upon alleged facts it contained.

At the White House and the department of justice it was said that neither the president nor the attorney general would comment on Mr. Brandeis' intimations. Comparatively little progress was made with the inquiry today, despite the apparently growing impatience of the committee to bring the hearing to a close.

The committee probably will decide tomorrow whether to hold hearings three days each week. E. C. Finney, assistant to the secretary of the interior, was under cross-examination almost the whole day. He admitted, saying the suggestion that his statements were inaccurate, but insisted that the inaccuracies were unimportant.

BRANDEIS SPRINGS SURPRISE

It was near the end of Finney's examination that Mr. Brandeis sprang his surprise. Mr. Wickereham, in his summary, based on section 19 of the revised statutes, and he cites authorities to show that Mr. Ballinger had not violated that law.

Mr. Brandeis asked if he did not know Glavis' accused Ballinger of violating that law for the first time in a statement published in a November number of Collier's Weekly. Mr. Finney was not certain on that point, whereupon Mr. Brandeis demanded to know if it was a fact that the statement, which purports to have been made on September 11, 1909, was not made until more than two months after that time.

Mr. Finney responded that he did not know it to be a fact, and did not believe it was. DUDLEY DENIES STORY

Having come all the way here from Alaska at the behest of the committee to tell whether he had made the statement to Marshal H. K. Love that an agent of Collier's had told him he would be worth $2500 for his help to come to Washington to testify, John W. Dudley, the dismissed registrar of the land office at Juneau, Alaska, took the stand and said Mr. Love had misunderstood him.

Mr. Dudley said Editor Russell of a Juneau paper had sought to act as intermediary between him and Collier's. Russell wanted him to prepare an article supplementing the Glavis charges, for which he was to receive the sum mentioned. He had told Love of this offer from Russell, and supposed Love had not understood. He said he did not understand, and the weekly would not agree to do more than pay Dudley's expenses to New York to talk to many over.

He said Russell had not posed as Collier's agent, and there was nothing said about his testifying before the investigating committee. Members of the committee and attorneys on both sides questioned Mr. Dudley at length and apparently satisfied themselves that there had been no

TRACE TRAIN BANDITS BY CLOTHING CLEWS. Mutilated Apparel Found in Shack Near Scene of Benicia Holdup.

MARTINEZ, Cal., April 22.—With the discovery of several articles of clothing in the deserted house near here occupied by the two men suspected of having robbed the mail and baggage cars of the China-Japan mail train, near Benicia, Saturday night last, Pinkerton detectives have renewed the hunt for the first two suspects.

The clothing, which consisted of a very heavy overcoat of fair quality and several shirts and neckties, had been secreted in the attic, by removing part of the ceiling. Part of the lining of the overcoat had been cut and it is believed this cloth was used for masks for the two men, as just enough had been taken to make two masks.

The shirts, which had been laundered several times, bore the laundry mark "S25 M." The neckties bore the name of the maker, Mike Plaut & Co., Illinois, strengthening the story that the robbery was the work of outlaws from the east.

Some of the shirts were of size 14 and would have fitted the smaller of the two men who occupied the cabin. Sheriff Vesle and members of his posse here express little hope of connecting the two Oakland suspects with the robbery.

HUGHES LIKELY TO BE SUCCESSOR TO BREWER. WASHINGTON, April 22.—In administration circles the belief appears to be growing stronger every day that Governor Hughes of New York may be the late Justice Brewer's successor on the supreme court bench. Reports today were that President Taft had communicated with Governor Hughes for the purpose of ascertaining his views on the proposed nomination.

THINK SUSPECTED TRAIN ROBBER IS SAFE BLOWER. OAKLAND, April 22.—That James Franklin, the older of the two suspected train robbers, is, in reality, Frank H. Smith, arrested in Sacramento a year ago on a charge of robbing the postoffice in that county, was the information conveyed to Captain of Detectives Peterson today by Chief of Police Ahern of Sacramento. He recognized the alleged bandit from pictures printed in the newspapers.

Petersen is now certain he has the two train robbers in custody. He is awaiting information from Chief Postal Inspector Hall which he thinks will tend to prove that Fred Hanson, the younger of the pair, is Charles McDonald, a fugitive from Butte, Mont., on a train robbery charge.

HIGHWAYMEN GET $500 IN UTAH SALOON HOLDUP. Occupants Are Lined Up at Point of a Gun.

PARK CITY, Utah, April 22.—Two armed, unmasked highwaymen, boldly entered a saloon here early this morning and lined the twenty occupants of the place up in the back room, fastened the faro bank and roulette game, from which they procured $500 in gold and silver, and made good their escape.

Entering the saloon, one of the holdups went into the adjoining restaurant, and getting the waiter brought him into the saloon, while his partner stood guard over the saloon occupants. The other man then brought the bartender from behind the bar, and the two bandits marched the twenty men into the room in the rear, in which were the faro bank and roulette game.

While one of the holdups stood guard, the other raked the money from the gaming tables into a sack which he carried. "My name is Kid Parker," said the man with the sack as he quit taking the money from the games, and, backing through the door to the street, the holdups then fled.

A posse formed quickly and is now scouring the hills in pursuit. AMATEUR PILOT ESCAPES WHEN AIRSHIP IS BROKEN.
