SANTA MONICA IS GOOD NAME, BUT OVERWORKED

Street Bobs Up After Two Avenues, and the Sign Posts May Be Changed

Whenever there was any doubt about the proper name for a street in the early days the pioneers called it Santa Monica. This passion for hitching the name of Santa Monica to so many streets is causing trouble now that Los Angeles is spreading out and taking in any old street that happens to be in a district it wants to annex.

HURRAH! MISSOURIANS ARE GETTING TOGETHER

CITY WILL HAVE NEW CONGRESSMAN

Nation Now Districted with 170,000 Population to One Representative

MANY CHANGES FROM CENSUS Shifting of Lines Expected to Result from the Recent Enumeration

The city of Los Angeles is to have its own exclusive representative in congress. Such was the confident prediction made yesterday by a number of prominent attorneys, politicians and others who have investigated the congressional and legislative status of the city and county under the new census enumeration.

ONE FOR CITY Southern California, it is believed, will gain one and one-half congressmen. Los Angeles county will gain one congressman, and the city will procure one new congressman, in and for itself.

The constitution provides an apportionment for every 30,000 population, but congress at present makes apportionments in California on the basis of one congressman for every 170,000 population. On account of the similar increase in the population of Los Angeles county, which it is generally believed will prove to have averaged well with the rest of the state, it is not believed there will be any important change in the redistricting of the county; but some believe that unless the increase in the county averages at least 60 per cent of that of the city, the result may be that the Eighth district will be considerably changed, and its gerrymandered boundaries, which extend almost entirely around Los Angeles county, may be radically disturbed.

This might mean that Orange county or Ventura county would be embraced in the district outside of the city, now known as the Seventh district; or, it is believed, it might mean that the Seventh district will be changed to contain all of San Bernardino county, or portions of Kern and Riverside counties. The state census also may cause other unlooked for changes, but it is believed yesterday to venture predictions, although several stated that they would not be surprised if Tulare and Inyo counties, the only two counties in the Eighth district, which are not in Southern California, are placed in the Sixth, or in a new district, which it is predicted may result from the increase of population in Fresno, Kings and Monterey counties.

MANY CHANGES The city and county of Los Angeles, however, are vitally interested in the changes which are almost certain to result here from the new census. The formation of a new district, contained exclusively in the city of Los Angeles, will be urged and warmly welcomed by many citizens, and especially by certain politicians, who believe that they see a chance under the redistricting to materially revise the city's political affairs. It means, also, that Los Angeles county, which now has five state senators, would have ten senators, and under the redistricting of the state senatorial and assembly districts would have twenty assemblymen instead of nine.

ADMIRAL McCALLA EXPIRES SUDDENLY

Former Navy Chief Succumbs to Apoplexy at His Home in Santa Barbara

END FOLLOWS FAMILY TEA Lies Down to Rest, Relapse Noted, but Physicians Do No Good

SANTA BARBARA, May 6.—Flags displayed at halfmast were the outward signs of the city's mourning for its most distinguished citizen, Admiral Bowman H. McCalla, who died early today from a stroke of apoplexy.

(Special to The Herald.) SANTA BARBARA, May 6.—Rear Admiral Bowman H. McCalla, United States navy, retired, died of apoplexy at 3:30 o'clock this morning at his home on Upper Garden street. He has not been strong for several months, but he felt especially bright yesterday. He watched some workmen move a tree, and in the afternoon he left the grounds to attend a tea with his wife and his daughter, Miss Stella McCalla, and his sister, Miss McCalla. An hour or two before dinner he went from the library to the drawing room to lie down. Mrs. McCalla, noticing that the admiral was ill, called a physician.

HIGH NAVAL OFFICERS AT CAPITAL MOURN DEMISE McCalla's Record Marked by Heroic Acts

WASHINGTON, May 6.—High naval officers in Washington, when they learned today of the sudden death of Rear Admiral Bowman Henry McCalla at Santa Barbara, Cal., were unanimous in their expressions of sorrow and praise of the dead officer.

Rear Admiral McCalla was born at Camden, N. J., in 1844, entering the navy in 1861. His service during the almost thirty-nine years of active duty in all parts of the world was noted by conspicuous heroic acts. His most brilliant achievements were in connection with the war with Spain, and with the Peking relief column, for which he received special recognition in the form of a congressional medal for distinguished service in battle, and also international acknowledgement of his labor through the bestowal on him of the order of the Red Eagle by the German emperor, and of the Chinese war medal by the king of England. All of this was after his excellent record in the Civil War.

Admiral McCalla was made a member of the Loyal Legion, decorated in other orders and advanced in rank in the navy. His last active service in the army was as commander of the naval training station at Mare Island, Cal., and of the navy yard there, and he retired there in 1906. For some time he had been living in Southern California with his family.

$18,000 IS WANTED FOR 200,000 CEMENT SACKS

Bids for 200,000 cement sacks were opened by the board of public works yesterday. The lowest bid was about $18,000 for the lot. These cement sacks are to be used at the municipal cement plant at Monolith where cement is made for the aqueduct. The bid order for sacks illustrates something of the magnitude of the job of building the big ditch.

WATTS WOMAN THINKS FOWL WAS COOKED AFTER EXCITING SCENE AT FENCE

A little red hen that strayed away from home, got into the wrong coop and can't get back, and a broom that went to its rescue and stuck in the enemy's barbed wire fence would have formed the basis of a criminal complaint yesterday if Deputy District Attorney Blair had not devoted an entire day of his time to persuading Miss Mathilda Cornwall, 50 years old, pioneer and property owner of Watts, to get a writ of claim and delivery against her former friend and neighbor, Mrs. Freida Goldstein, instead of a warrant that would have haled the good woman into a justice's court, charged with theft.
