

STEAMSHIP CO. TO BOGOS EXPOSITION

Hamburg-American Line to Send Ships Through Canal to San Diego

OFFER LOW RATE FROM N. Y.

Col. Collier Returns from Tour of East, Bringing Rosy Messages

Upon the opening of the San Diego exposition the Hamburg-American steamship line will put on a passenger service from New York to San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco, via the Panama canal, and with stopover privileges.

Admiral "Bob" Evans will act as commissioner of the exposition and will visit all the governments of South and Central America and Mexico as the accredited representative of the exposition company.

The transcontinental railroads probably will grant a single fare good to San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco at a uniform price and with stopover privileges.

These are the most important developments of Col. D. C. Collier's visit to the east. Col. Collier, who is director general of the San Diego exposition, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday noon and departed last night for San Diego.

During that time he accomplished much in the way of securing publicity for the San Diego fair and in making necessary business arrangements. He was accompanied on the trip by Robert E. Connolly, director of the fair, and who formerly was in charge of the Los Angeles office of the Associated Press.

Most of the time the two men put in to good advantage in Washington and New York, but brief stops also were made in Chicago, Boston and other eastern cities. Everywhere they went they found much interest in San Diego's plans for celebrating the opening of the great canal.

The most important accomplishment of the trip was an arrangement with the Hamburg-American line to install a first class and speedy passenger service between New York and San Francisco, via the Panama canal. Officials of the company assured Col. Collier that this will be done. They promise a low rate and ships of the first class, equal to any passenger craft now afloat, and they agreed to make a flat rate between New York and San Francisco, granting stopover privileges at both San Diego and Los Angeles without extra charges.

This, of course, will mean that practically all easterners coming by water to the San Francisco exposition will stop en route both here and at San Diego. "In all our plans," said Col. Collier yesterday, "we have aimed to include Los Angeles in the benefits San Diego expects to reap through the fair, and I think we have succeeded in this. All of the Hamburg-American liners will stop here as well as at San Diego and at San Francisco. You're going to be surprised when their rates are published. They expect to carry a lot of people and I guess they'll do it."

"I had several talks with Admiral Evans and made an arrangement with him under which he will act as commissioner to the foreign governments to the south. He will visit them all and will endeavor to interest them in the San Diego fair and from every nation in South and Central America, and I think the admiral is just the man to get them for us. He is an excellent health and is walking without a crutch for the first time in five years."

NO MONEY WANTED-WELCOME "In Washington, when they found we weren't going to ask congress for a penny, they welcomed us with open arms. Everywhere we went the newspapers printed columns about the San Diego fair plans and about Southern California generally. Many of our newspaper men had heard, of course, that San Diego and San Francisco were at swords' points over their exposition rights, and they were much surprised when I told them that all differences had disappeared and that California stood united in favor of a world's fair for San Francisco and of a great southwestern fair for San Diego. When they asked me what I meant by that I told them that we proposed to hold an exposition to demonstrate the possibilities of arid America and to show to the world that the best way to accomplish them was by irrigation. We expect to have big exhibits along these lines from Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah, and from the states also and from all of South and Central America and from Mexico."

"I told them, too, that all our buildings will be in the Middle Ages style of architecture and that applies to every structure on the grounds, if it is only a soda water kiosk—and that we shall hold the fair in the city park, using as much of the storey acres as we may need. The park is only fifteen minutes' walk from the center of the city. Then I said that we are going to spend more money to make our fair than we have spent for the Alaska-Yukon exposition, but that we are not going to ask congress for a cent. When I told them that they began to sit up and take notice."

SOUTHS AGREEABLE "I had a talk with John Philip Sousa and practically made arrangements with him to bring a big band to the fair. We shall have an amphitheater with a seating capacity of 25,000, and daily hand concerts will be a feature. I am planning to secure county buildings from each county in Southern California. That will be a novelty, and I believe it would appeal to easterners. Our counties, you know, are larger than many eastern states."

"I wish you would say that there is no truth in the story that I or any other loyal San Diegan, ever even thought of an alliance with New Orleans on the subject of a world's fair. We are for San Francisco, and we have been for San Francisco ever since the compromise agreement was reached. We are for it strong, too, because we believe that practically all of the tourists who will visit the San Francisco fair also will visit us."

"Should any new dispute arise in the future between our organization and that formed in the northern city it will be arbitrated, we appointing one conference committee and they another, but I do not anticipate any further trouble."

Colonel Collier's wife joined him here, and his two sons, David and Clifford Collier, now pupils at the Harvard Military academy in this city, passed yesterday afternoon with their parents in the Angelus hotel.

Club News

HIGHLAND PARK EBELL CLUB women are at variance concerning the value of keeping household accounts. Mrs. John Fremont Church says that she kept accounts of her household expenditures for twenty years, and then stopped, and she is happier than she has ever been in her life since freed of that responsibility.

Mrs. M. Hood, on the other hand, asserts that when she was married the first article which was bought for the new home was put down in the household account book. At that time she never bothered with such a thing, since then she has written down each expenditure and taken great satisfaction in doing it.

This discussion was caused by the paper of Mrs. M. Hood, "Time, Labor and Money in the Household." Miss Emma L. Hawks spoke on the subject, giving her views with all the double authority of theoretical and practical knowledge. At one point in her address she mentioned the proper division of financial affairs and suggested that in all families some similar arrangement should be made. This led to an informal discussion by the members of the club. One enthusiastic listener finally admitted that she kept her household accounts every month, and was happy to do so, but she always had to charge money up to carfare or something of the sort, she was heartily glad that she was not accountable to anyone else for her funds.

A rising vote of club members showed that at some time nearly everyone had kept household accounts, but that many had now given it up. Other discussions of money, club and household matters were very enlightening. A paper concerning the proportioning of the income. Her suggestion was: Food, 25 per cent; rent, 20 per cent; operating expenses, 15 per cent; clothes, 10 per cent; charity, savings, books and amusements, 20 per cent.

She did not urge this as an ideal division, but as one which was generally followed by many. The arrangement was offered, especially to the amount allowed for operating expenses and for clothes. The paper and its attendant topics caused very natural discussion by club members, and was productive of much interest.

Miss Hawks made many excellent suggestions concerning the ways in which women may improve the condition of their homes and house work, and is an enthusiastic advocate of the fireless cooker. Careful buying was a feature which she emphasized. "It is her to think and think and then buy," she said, "than to buy first and then think and think. The prevailing sentiment is opposed to careful spending. It is in the air to buy things only made to sell, things which have no real value."

Miss Hawks thinks it very poor economy, however, to buy large quantities of meat to cook and eat in several days. Meat to be resultant of highest vital power should be freshly cut and cooked. Neither are houses with old and defective plumbing a good economy, for the danger to health more than makes up for any saving in rent.

The program was introduced by a number of musical selections by Mrs. Florence M. Hotchkiss, whose flexible coloratura soprano voice showed to advantage in the "Merry Postillion," "A Lullaby," by Mendlinger, and a brilliant song of the modern Italian school.

The next meeting will be a musicale, the numbers to be given by Mrs. Estelle Hart Dreyfus, contralto, and Mrs. Hennion Robinson at the piano.

The installation in Los Angeles of visiting nurses, whose duty it shall be to look after convalescents when they leave the county hospital, was the subject for discussion at the charity conference held yesterday morning at the chamber of commerce. The meeting was largely attended, and with Dr. George W. Cress in the chair many brilliant speeches were made, each advocating the proposed innovation in the advance of sanitary conditions in Los Angeles.

Dr. C. H. Whitman of the county hospital spoke at length concerning this matter and said that many of the convalescents when discharged from the hospital return to their homes, and finding inadequate care, suffer from relapses, and soon become patients at the hospital again. He believes that by having possibly ten nurses, to teach hygienic care and the importance of sanitary conditions in the homes where chronic invalids and convalescents live, a radical improvement in the general health of the community would be evident.

Dr. Ross Moore gave many points concerning the work of the visiting nurses in Boston, where a well established system offers an admirable model for Los Angeles.

Dr. Walter Jarvis Barlow spoke particularly with reference to the tuberculous cases and the infection which is so frequent through ignorance of proper preventive precautions.

A committee of ten representatives of the various social organizations of the city was appointed to meet with the board of directors of the Associated Charities to confer concerning this plan. These persons will constitute the committee. Dr. G. H. Kress, H. W. Lewis, Mrs. N. E. Wilson, Mrs. Chalmers Smith, Isaac Norton, Dr. West Moore, Dr. C. H. Whitman, Dr. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Dr. Elliot Alden and Dr. Tittian J. Coffey.

Dr. Coffey made a telling address, urging the proper protection of the unmarried mother.

The W. S. Rosecrans social study class will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alice Anderson, 902 West First street. The subject to be studied is "Modern Drama."

The Teachers' club will meet this afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. building to listen to an address by Robert Watchorn on immigration and Experiences at Ellis Island.

The next meeting of the club will be a social meeting in June, which will be a farewell reception for Dr. E. C. Moore.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Norwood street school will give a musical for the benefit of the Utah West First street. The subject to be studied is "Modern Drama."

The following program has been arranged: Selection, Norwood street school orchestra; piano solo, Mrs. Judson Davis; vocal solo, Mrs. Mabe, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Bacon Reynolds; piano solo, Mrs. W. H. Jamison; reading, Mrs. B. B. Colborn, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Bacon Reynolds at the piano, and Miss Sadie Stanton, violin; vocal solo, James A. Poshay; "What is Life?" Mrs. E. B.
