

Los Angeles Fishermen and String of Trout They Caught

TOP ROW, LEFT TO RIGHT—ERNEST KLOKKE, GUS KNIGHT AND LEE GARNSEY
BOTTOM ROW—STRING OF TROUT THEY CAUGHT (ON LEFT), AND ADOLPH SCHWARTZ AND LEE GARNSEY

TROUT ANGLERS HAVE GOOD LUCK

Disciples of Izaak Walton Well Satisfied with Season of 1910

BIG FISH ON EXHIBITION

Local Casters Visit Bear Lake Country and Return with Full Creels

Trout is a word to conjure by. You may awaken an angler to tales galore for you but whisper the name of the much-sought-after denizen of the cooler pools and shady recesses of our mountain creeks. There is no more refreshing sport for the man of affairs or the man of leisure than the pursuit of the game of Izaak Walton. Expert fishermen you may be, or only a sorry amateur, with frequent trouble in guiding your flies away from the overhanging branches and casting them where they may do the most good, but amateur or past master of the sport, you will always remember the days spent in angling, the pursuit of the most elusive inhabitant of the water, a test of skill and a battle with a lively prize, and the homeward tramp with a full creel and a ravenous appetite.

The 1910 season, starting out with a rush, brought luck to many and disappointment to few. Barring some of the trout stations where the beaten path has walked down, the current month reports have been favorable from all the fishing quarters, and the game has grown in favor thereby. Many of the more easily discouraged anglers, having experienced their first curiosity pangs of the sport, have now repacked their rods and reels and taken up a recreation more dependable in its results. The home side of no long camping grounds, and the per capita baskets have therefore increased.

One of the most popular of the local trout resorts has been the Bear valley country, nestled among the San Bernardino range and fed from the cool springs of the highest of the western peaks. A party consisting of Ernest Klokke, Gus Knight, Adolf Schwartz, Lee Garnsey and the latter's puff-wagon set out shortly after the season was under way for the San Bernardino fish resorts and made a week of it around the big creek. The course followed was up the Cajon road, by way of Victorville, coming up on the other side of the San Bernardino range into the Bear Lake country. They stand for the first cast was about a half mile below the Bear Creek dam, and the nibbles soon become bites. One day's ending brought them the limit in weight, although they had a number to spare on the fifty limit. All were loud in the praise of the Walton game, and swore great oaths to forsake the sad sea waves hereafter for the open side of the season and follow the real side of the sport.

CAR WHEELS SEVER HOSE, AND FIRE DESTROYS HOME

Fire starting from an overturned lamp destroyed the house owned and occupied by Mrs. L. Smith, 5505 Long Beach avenue, at 9 o'clock last night. The contents, which included a trunk containing cash and papers valued at $500, also burned.

While fighting the fire a Whittier car, 310, crossed the tracks, cutting the hose, causing a delay to the firemen and giving the flames full headway.

The building was a one-story frame cottage. The loss on building and contents was estimated at $2000.

Betty Bray is coming to Los Angeles. Look for Betty Bray

CLAIMS BREWERS BACK M'DONALD'S CANDIDACY

Chairman of Democratic Committee Says Isadore Dockweiler Also Put Up Coin

It was stated by members of the Los Angeles county central committee that no Democratic organization in the city is supporting Henry M. McDonald in his candidacy for the state senate from the Thirty-eighth district.

Mr. McDonald's action in circulating the petition in Los Angeles, and especially his action in securing 1250 names to the petition when the maximum in the Thirty-eighth district is 450 names, also was severely criticized and condemned by members of the Jefferson club, who unhesitatingly stated that they believe Mr. McDonald is doing this to prevent any other candidate getting signatures in this district.

"This is Tammany trickery, and as members of the Jefferson club we do not sanction it," said a number of the members of the executive committee.

Albert M. Norton, chairman of the county central committee, in discussing the matter yesterday, said:

"I have proof that the money for this campaign is being provided by Isadore Dockweiler and by the brewers and liquor interests. They are paying 10 cents a name, while other candidates are not paying over 7 1/2 cents a name. Mr. Dockweiler, I am informed, is paying for the expense of circulating these petitions. Just what their object is can only be left to the public for inference."

"I am very much afraid that Mr. McDonald's action will cause us some difficulty in getting out a real Democratic candidate in the Thirty-eighth district. Of course, every one who knows anything about the Los Angeles county Democratic campaign, and has no right to claim the support of the predominant element of our party."

POLICE SERGEANT BROKE LEG WITH CLUB IS CHARGE

NEW YORK, May 21.—John O'Connor, a real estate broker living at 409 East Sixty-fourth street, charged yesterday with breaking the leg of a policeman, was held for trial in the west side court and charged that Police Sergeant Thomas Connolly, attached to the East Sixty-seventh street station house, had struck him with his club so his left leg was broken. After hearing several witnesses the case was put over until the sergeant was paroled.

According to the evidence the alleged assault by the policeman was eighteen months ago, when Connolly and another policeman were called into O'Connor's flat to quiet a family disturbance. O'Connor testified that he had resented the appearance of the policeman and that they had dragged him down three flights of stairs, and when he accidentally happened to kick Connolly, that the policeman had held him down on the pavement and struck him so hard that one leg was broken.

On cross-examination it was brought out that O'Connor had been twice sentenced to the island and has frequently been brought into court by his wife on charges of non-support and cruel treatment.

Mrs. O'Connor appeared as an unwilling witness in behalf of her husband in the assault charge against the policeman.

O'Connor stated that he had delayed bringing the case to trial because of special sessions had considered a charge brought against him for kicking the policeman. He stated that the court had found the kick was accidental.

DIDN'T BOTHER HIM

"Do you feel that draft?" the trust magnate asked his team mate.

"No," replied the other as he glanced at the bank balance which had just been handed to him by his secretary. "It was for only a million, you know."

CRUEL FASHION

"It says here that men are going to wear clothes to match their hair this winter."

"That's gonter make it kinder cold for 'til bald-headed fellers, ain't it?"

Life.

KISSES BRING $5 ON OMAHA STOCK MARKET

Red Lips Tempt Buyers When Busses are Auctioned Off

SOUTH OMAHA, Neb., May 21.—"Kisses steady to strong, with a tendency to higher prices on account of a shortage in the supply, is the quotation on the bulletin board in the live stock exchange trading room here.

"This quotation was put up a couple of days ago and will remain at least until there is a heavy run of the commodity.

Buying kisses at auction is likely to become a legitimate occupation with the members of the exchange. They have had a taste of it and they like it, regardless of the price paid.

The marketing of kisses was begun a day or two ago, when Miss Jeanette Childs and Miss May Morgan, chaperoning a bevy of young women, swooped down upon the exchange soliciting subscriptions for a charity bazaar that they believe Mr. McDonald is doing this to prevent any other candidate getting signatures in this district.

"Agreed," was the response of Miss Morgan, "and the purchaser is to have his choice and as many as he want, no reduction on account of number."

By this time the large exchange room was full of brokers, cattle, hog and sheep buyers and office men.

Franklin mounted a chair and announced that he was about to sell kisses, the buyer having the choice of kisses. Each kiss, he said, would be sold single, but the kisser would be entitled to any number, each to be paid for at the same rate as the first.

The bidding was lively. Jay Laverty started the bidding at $1. Bids of 50 cents and $1 were made until $4.50 was reached, when Auctioneer Franklin announced that he would pay $5 for the first kiss. This staggered the other bidders, who dropped out of the game.

Getting down off his chair, Franklin imparted a smacking kiss upon the lips of Miss Childs and followed it up with three more, after which he passed over a $20 bill.

The action of Franklin gave impetus to the game, and after that the sales were rapid, the highest price paid being $1 and the lowest $1.50. The session netted charity $121.

WRIGHT WILL LEAD U. S. TENNIS TEAM

Determined Effort to Be Made to Take International Cup from Holders

FIRST GAMES AT WIMBLEDON

Two Californians, McLoughlin and Long, May Be Included on American Squad

NEW YORK, May 21.—Americans have evinced early this season a keen and absorbing interest regarding the details of the United States National Lawn Tennis association's challenge for the Dwigth F. Davis international cup. There are several reasons for this desire to know conditions being accomplished in the way of sending a worthy team of representatives of this country in quest of the world-famous trophy. The widening circle of lawn tennis followers of the sport—and among this number are thousands who never will be recorded as members of clubs and organizations in alliance with the governing body in this country—are becoming more and more inclined to hold the officials responsible for any shortcomings that heretofore have been the case. They believe that no half-way measures should be taken to win all that is possible to return the cup to this country, and that anything short of real sportsmanlike proceedings in the accomplishment of this greatly desired result is to be frowned upon, and if possible taken into account at the annual election of other executive committees.

Under the conditions which have surrounded the cup since the two peerless Australians—Anthony F. Wilding and Norman E. Brookes—won the trophy at Wimbledon in 1907, it is a little early to determine the makeup of the challenging team, and all other important details for the actual cup matches appear any day at the tail end of the year, in the last of November or the first of December. It may therefore be taken as a fair indication of a determined effort to strike a winning blow for the return of the cup this year that it is now known that Beals C. Wright, an American of wide experience on the courts in both England and Australia, is to lead the American team. Furthermore, the historic courts at Wimbledon, London, are to be the scene of the preliminary ties between the Americans and the British Isles teams, and again the leading players of this nation have refused to compete abroad.

BITE OF A FISH COSTS THE LIFE OF LITTLE BOY

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Excitement over a "bite" was too much for little Adon Vosinski, who was fishing in a sluceway this afternoon at Delaware avenue and Toga street. The jinks at his improvised hook and line made his heart give big thumps of unexpected joy, but in his haste to "git 'im in" the line slipped from his little fingers and he lost his balance.

He fell into the sluceway and was drowned. With him at the time were his brother Tony, 6 years old, and Joseph Chaplicki, also 6 years old, who lives at 2333 Elkhardt street.

The two younger lads watched the boy in the water come to the surface and sink again, and then they ran off, thoroughly frightened. The body was recovered later.

A drowning in the Schuylkill river at Manayunk was prevented this afternoon by the quick work of John Barker and Policeman Harry Moore. Harry Schnaitman and Stanley Shirley, each about 25 years old, were rowing across the river at Manayunk when their boat struck a submerged rock and upset.

Neither man could swim, and they floundered about helplessly in the water crying for aid. Barker and Policeman Moore heard their cries and went to the rescue. They manned another boat and arrived in midstream not a second too soon, for the men were in bad shape.

They were hauled almost unconscious from the water, rowed ashore and hurried to the Manayunk police station, where they were revived.

WRIGHT WILL LEAD U. S. TENNIS TEAM

Determined Effort to Be Made to Take International Cup from Holders

FIRST GAMES AT WIMBLEDON

Two Californians, McLoughlin and Long, May Be Included on American Squad

NEW YORK, May 21.—Americans have evinced early this season a keen and absorbing interest regarding the details of the United States National Lawn Tennis association's challenge for the Dwigth F. Davis international cup. There are several reasons for this desire to know conditions being accomplished in the way of sending a worthy team of representatives of this country in quest of the world-famous trophy. The widening circle of lawn tennis followers of the sport—and among this number are thousands who never will be recorded as members of clubs and organizations in alliance with the governing body in this country—are becoming more and more inclined to hold the officials responsible for any shortcomings that heretofore have been the case. They believe that no half-way measures should be taken to win all that is possible to return the cup to this country, and that anything short of real sportsmanlike proceedings in the accomplishment of this greatly desired result is to be frowned upon, and if possible taken into account at the annual election of other executive committees.

Under the conditions which have surrounded the cup since the two peerless Australians—Anthony F. Wilding and Norman E. Brookes—won the trophy at Wimbledon in 1907, it is a little early to determine the makeup of the challenging team, and all other important details for the actual cup matches appear any day at the tail end of the year, in the last of November or the first of December. It may therefore be taken as a fair indication of a determined effort to strike a winning blow for the return of the cup this year that it is now known that Beals C. Wright, an American of wide experience on the courts in both England and Australia, is to lead the American team. Furthermore, the historic courts at Wimbledon, London, are to be the scene of the preliminary ties between the Americans and the British Isles teams, and again the leading players of this nation have refused to compete abroad.

WRIGHT WILL LEAD U. S. TENNIS TEAM

Determined Effort to Be Made to Take International Cup from Holders

FIRST GAMES AT WIMBLEDON

Two Californians, McLoughlin and Long, May Be Included on American Squad

NEW YORK, May 21.—Americans have evinced early this season a keen and absorbing interest regarding the details of the United States National Lawn Tennis association's challenge for the Dwigth F. Davis international cup. There are several reasons for this desire to know conditions being accomplished in the way of sending a worthy team of representatives of this country in quest of the world-famous trophy. The widening circle of lawn tennis followers of the sport—and among this number are thousands who never will be recorded as members of clubs and organizations in alliance with the governing body in this country—are becoming more and more inclined to hold the officials responsible for any shortcomings that heretofore have been the case. They believe that no half-way measures should be taken to win all that is possible to return the cup to this country, and that anything short of real sportsmanlike proceedings in the accomplishment of this greatly desired result is to be frowned upon, and if possible taken into account at the annual election of other executive committees.

Under the conditions which have surrounded the cup since the two peerless Australians—Anthony F. Wilding and Norman E. Brookes—won the trophy at Wimbledon in 1907, it is a little early to determine the makeup of the challenging team, and all other important details for the actual cup matches appear any day at the tail end of the year, in the last of November or the first of December. It may therefore be taken as a fair indication of a determined effort to strike a winning blow for the return of the cup this year that it is now known that Beals C. Wright, an American of wide experience on the courts in both England and Australia, is to lead the American team. Furthermore, the historic courts at Wimbledon, London, are to be the scene of the preliminary ties between the Americans and the British Isles teams, and again the leading players of this nation have refused to compete abroad.

BITE OF A FISH COSTS THE LIFE OF LITTLE BOY

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Excitement over a "bite" was too much for little Adon Vosinski, who was fishing in a sluceway this afternoon at Delaware avenue and Toga street. The jinks at his improvised hook and line made his heart give big thumps of unexpected joy, but in his haste to "git 'im in" the line slipped from his little fingers and he lost his balance.

He fell into the sluceway and was drowned. With him at the time were his brother Tony, 6 years old, and Joseph Chaplicki, also 6 years old, who lives at 2333 Elkhardt street.

The two younger lads watched the boy in the water come to the surface and sink again, and then they ran off, thoroughly frightened. The body was recovered later.

A drowning in the Schuylkill river at Manayunk was prevented this afternoon by the quick work of John Barker and Policeman Harry Moore. Harry Schnaitman and Stanley Shirley, each about 25 years old, were rowing across the river at Manayunk when their boat struck a submerged rock and upset.

Neither man could swim, and they floundered about helplessly in the water crying for aid. Barker and Policeman Moore heard their cries and went to the rescue. They manned another boat and arrived in midstream not a second too soon, for the men were in bad shape.

They were hauled almost unconscious from the water, rowed ashore and hurried to the Manayunk police station, where they were revived.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 21.—

Excitement over a "bite" was too much for little Adon Vosinski, who was fishing in a sluceway this afternoon at Delaware avenue and Toga street. The jinks at his improvised hook and line made his heart give big thumps of unexpected joy, but in his haste to "git 'im in" the line slipped from his little fingers and he lost his balance.

He fell into the sluceway and was drowned. With him at the time were his brother Tony, 6 years old, and Joseph Chaplicki, also 6 years old, who lives at 2333 Elkhardt street.

The two younger lads watched the boy in the water come to the surface and sink again, and then they ran off, thoroughly frightened. The body was recovered later.

A drowning in the Schuylkill river at Manayunk was prevented this afternoon by the quick work of John Barker and Policeman Harry Moore. Harry Schnaitman and Stanley Shirley, each about 25 years old, were rowing across the river at Manayunk when their boat struck a submerged rock and upset.

Neither man could swim, and they floundered about helplessly in the water crying for aid. Barker and Policeman Moore heard their cries and went to the rescue. They manned another boat and arrived in midstream not a second too soon, for the men were in bad shape.

They were hauled almost unconscious from the water, rowed ashore and hurried to the Manayunk police station, where they were revived.

Mail Orders

Filled with promptness and accuracy. Purchases amounting to $5 or more delivered free within 100 miles of Los Angeles.

VILLE DE PARIS

317 325 SO. BROADWAY 312 322 SO. HILL ST.

AFUSENOT CO

We are exclusive agents for Reynier Kid Gloves. Acknowledged by discriminating buyers to be the world's best make.

Special Sale American Pongees and Shantung

Regular Values 50c, 60c, 75c Monday at, yard . . . 35c

In our wash goods department Monday we will offer our complete stock of the above goods at one price—35c yard.

The lot comprises plain shantung in all shades and Diagonal Effects in medium wale, heavy texture, in all the desirable shades. New, up-to-date materials for smart summer dresses. Be early to secure first choice.

TWO EXTRA SPECIALS FOR MONDAY ONLY

25c Value Checked Nainsook—Very desirable for underwear and pajamas Choice at 16 3/4c Yard
Regular 30c Value Lingerie Linnette—For making dresses and fine underwear. Has the appearance of sheer linen. Limit of either material 12 yards

SAVE ON Handkerchiefs

Monday we offer the following splendid values in handkerchiefs:

Broken Line of Women's Initial Handkerchiefs

In all linen, with hand-embroidered initials in rustic style. Worth 20c Monday . . . 2 for 25c

Women's Handkerchiefs

Regularly Worth 25c and 35c Monday at, each 20c

These are broken lines in plain or cross-barred linen and shamrock, with hand-embroidered script or block initials; some with fancy corner design and dainty initial.

NEW Lingerie Waists

With Dutch Collars Special

$1.95

We have just received a large assortment of these cool and attractive looking waists for hot days. They are made with a large Dutch collar of allover embroidery, edged with Val. lace; three-quarter length tucked sleeves with cuffs trimmed in lace. Side opening, trimmed down front with a wide strip of embroidery edged with Val. lace. If you are expecting to purchase a new waist of any kind you should inspect our new line, which embraces the latest ideas of the best designers.

Bargain Basement

The oftener you visit this economy store the quicker your savings will accumulate. Come down Monday and participate in the following offerings:

Petticoats

$1.75 values in Hygrade taffeta or sateen; attractive models in black, blue, tan and wine, at, each $1.25

Muslin Petticoats

Made with a 17-inch flounce with hemstitched tucks and beautiful embroidery trimming. Splendid value; only $1.25

Muslin Gowns

75c values; low neck style, trimmed with embroidery; 50c

Muslin Drawers

75c values; lace or embroid- 50c 75c values; lace or embroid- 50c

Lingerie Waists

Excellent values at $1.25, $1.75, $2.45

Wash Goods

Standard Calicoes 3c

Pastel Percales

12 1/2c values at, yard 9c

Fine Percales

15c values at, yard 12 1/2c

Curtain Swisses

36 inches wide. In figured or dotted styles at, yard only 11c

the brilliant young expert of the University of Pennsylvania, who made a record that he received a ranking of third last year, was ill during the winter, and his condition is still so uncertain as to make it a matter of speculation as to whether or not he will be able to get into condition to be included in the challenging team. That he is entitled to place and preference is admitted on all sides; this more especially as he defeated Melville H. Long in the finals of the national intercollegiate championship singles last September in a great five-set match on the turf of the Merion Cricket club at Baverford, Pa.

LONG SHOWS MUCH TEMPER

In that contest the Californian displayed unpleasant attributes of temper which caused him to be severely criticized at the time and in one other tournament of the year Long manifested a disposition toward ill-considered actions that makes him an uncertain factor in a close and trying match. His conduct in this respect is in strong contrast to that of Johnson, who has well learned his lesson of holding himself under control even under the most exasperating circumstances.

Raymond D. Little has been considered as a member of the team with Wright, but among those who have watched Little closely for the last two seasons, the opinion is that the best course will be to try younger men, as Little is playing considerably below the form he once displayed. Indeed there is a generally expressed belief that a great mistake will be made if Little is included in the team, and that if he is selected it will be more because of past glory than upon his skill at the present time.

The American players eligible for the cup team therefore narrow to Maurice F. McLoughlin and Melville H. Long, the two youthful Californians, who a year ago did the heroes' part by journeying to Australia after Larned, Clothier, Hackett and Little had disposed of C. P. Dixon, W. C. Crawley and Capt. J. C. Parke, the British Isles team, on the turf of the Germantown Cricket club, Philadelphia.

The two Californians and Wright seem at the time to be the program, with the possible nomination also of Wallace F. Johnson or Raymond D. Little, as the rules allow of four men constituting the team that may represent a challenging nation. The two Californians under consideration will, in a short time, begin the round of championship and tournament play in the east, that leads up to the nationals at the Casino at Newport, R. I. From reports from the Pacific coast both have greatly improved since their sensational debut here a year ago.

Optimistic admirers predict that the foremost eastern welders of the racquet are to receive a rude shock and surprise which will end one of the Californians holding the all-comers national title. If either McLoughlin or Long can make good on such predictions, then the plans that are making for the American part of the Davis cup matches can not be improved upon in any way.

The important feature of the American preparations is that the team of players who go out to meet the British Isles teams on the Wimbledon courts know that they must be prepared to journey on to Australasia in the event of victory in the tie matches. There is to be no changing of teams this season, according to the statement of one member of the executive committee.

BRAVE POLICEMAN IS THIS; ARRESTS HIS OWN WIFE

NEW YORK, May 21.—Policeman Philip Oppenheim of the Newtown, Queens, precinct arrested his wife and daughter and sent them to the station house in the patrol wagon. Later he bailed out his daughter, but it was several hours before a friend appeared and bailed out Mrs. Oppenheim.

Oppenheim reached his home in the Woodside section about half past four o'clock in the afternoon to find his wife, Annie, and his daughter, Mrs. Annie Johnson, who lives in Richmond borough, fighting on the street. Mrs. Johnson is Oppenheim's daughter by his first wife. She had gone to Woodside to see her father and found that he was not at home. She and her stepmother quarreled and began to fight.

The policeman separated them, and as they would not be quiet, he called the patrol wagon.