

Two Groups of Children Who Participated in Historical Pageant at McKinley Avenue School Yesterday Afternoon

CHILDREN DEPICT HISTORY OF CITY

McKinley Avenue School Tots Produce Tableaux, Drills and Marches in Costume
TEACHERS ARRANGE SONGS
Events in Los Angeles Shown from Indian Days to the Present Time

Children always love to "have a show," and whether it be in the attic or the barn, whether admission be by payment of ten pins or by presenting a green paper ticket at the door, the childish enjoyment in the spectacle, and particularly in participation in this spectacle, is unbounded.

Teachers of the McKinley Avenue school have played upon this spirit of childhood and have arranged a series of tableaux, songs, marches, drills and dialogues which depicts in splendid fashion the history of Los Angeles from its time of savagery and Indians to the cosmopolitanism of the present day.

The writing and arranging of this play has been done entirely by the various sources of historical works, reliable fiction and many reminiscences of Spanish early settlers have been utilized in the work. The entire production is clear and leaves a fixed impression upon the minds of every child in that school of the series of events which led to the building up of the beautiful city they know.

MANY SONGS
Many songs were introduced, and the childish voices rang out clear and true in choruses and groups of four and six. There were fancy dances in which graceful girls posed and marched in proud consciousness of their pretty fanciful costumes, while boys of all ages figured in the proceedings as monks, cowboys, Indians, shepherds, sailors and soldiers, both Spanish and American.

The girls were in these tableaux, too. One group was picturesque in the makeup of Indian maids, Spanish dancers, with their bright colors, scarfs, spangled jackets and tambourines were a pretty picture on the stage, and shepherds with crooks and felling little hats danced their tuxed-up frocks through a graceful dance.

The Fluffy Ruffles girls, Japanese damsels and many others all fitted into the picture with easy grace, and about 150 boys and girls participated in the matinee performance yesterday.

The affair was arranged under the auspices of the McKinley Avenue Parent-Teachers' association for the benefit of the piano fund. Two more performances will be given on Thursday and Friday evenings, and the demand for tickets already threatens to make a third performance necessary.

THOSE WHO DID IT
The teachers who have been interested in arranging this affair and teaching the children their parts are the principal, Arthur Brown, and the Misses Alice Ball, Roxie Stevens, Lil-

Miss Graham played the violin throughout the afternoon whenever an accompaniment for the children's voices was needed, and several of the pupils alternated at the piano. Jamie Engle, dressed in herald's costume, announced each scene in poetic language, and the dialogue included many long speeches, all of which were given with excellent effect by the juvenile speakers.

Vorle Connor, one of the smallest of the boys, appeared as an envoy from the Indians and bewailed the usurpation of the land by the mission fathers, demanding that the Indians receive their rights in this respect. His speech was a long one and was given with excellent rhetorical effect. The mission priests, chanting slow religious songs, enacted their parts with great success. The stage pictures were all effective and skill had been shown in the painting of the scenery which represented the walls of the mission over which the Spanish flag hung its glowing colors.

Boys and girls in the Spanish dances wore Genevieve Coleman, Grace Taylor,

Ruth Hockman, Eva Leavitt, Elizabeth Bloom, Ailxena McEwen, Mary Trinit, Vesta Tumbleson, Lillie Needham, Elizabeth Bachellor, Anna Nelson, Meta Hunnath, Lester Putney, Warland Smith, Edward Elmore, Lawrence Blodgett and Eliza McNary, who was cast for the part of the Spanish governor and carried it off with dash and winning grace.

Suggestions for much of the music was made by Charles Farwell Edson, and Charles F. Lummis offered the compilers of the play valuable information concerning the Indian and early Spanish life.

NEGRESS: JEALOUS, SHOTS HUSBAND IN THE FACE

Woman Tells Police Domestic Partner Was Unfaithful

After accusing her husband, George Trammels, a negro cook, of paying attention to other women, Lillie Trammels, a negress, drew a revolver from her shirtwaist yesterday morning and shot him in the face, seriously wounding him.

Trammels was walking on Ceres avenue, near Eighth street, on his way home, having just returned from a run on a Southern Pacific train, where he is employed as cook in the dining car. He was taken to the hospital, where the wound was pronounced dangerous but not necessarily fatal.

Mrs. Trammels was arrested and taken to central police headquarters, where she told the detectives that she shot her husband because she was jealous of other women. She is being detained in the jail pending the outcome of Trammels' injuries.

DITCH DIGGER SUES
Nick Bleu, a laborer, filed civil proceedings in Justice Pierce's court yesterday to secure damages in the sum of $250 from A. Brogden, a contractor.

Bleu alleges that while in the employ of Brogden, digging a ditch, he received severe injuries, owing to the sides of the ditch collapsing and burying him. He claims that the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant in not properly bracing the sides of the ditch and therefore seeks damages.

WIFE'S TESTIMONY NOT CONVINCING TO JUDGE

Charles E. Dosta, Charged with Threats, Not Held

Because of the unconvincing testimony offered, Charles E. Dosta was dismissed from a charge of threats to kill, preferred against him by his wife and daughter, yesterday by Police Judge Rose, following his hearing.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Dosta, his wife, Dosta came to their home at 160 West Thirty-sixth place, May 23, and after quarreling with her, threatened to kill her and their daughter. She also testified that he had threatened to kill her several times before.

Mrs. John P. Steele, the daughter, wife of John P. Steele, secretary to Chief of Police Galloway, testified that she restrained her father until her mother had left the house and then she left, too. She also stated that her father picked up a shotgun and upon discovering it was empty threw it on the floor. Mrs. Dosta and her daughter have been living with friends, fearing to return to their home.

PAYS FEES; IS FREED
Mrs. V. E. Ferlason, who was adjudged in contempt of court by Justice Pierce last Tuesday, through her failure to obey the supplementary proceedings was brought before the court yesterday by Constable Price. Justice Pierce dismissed the charge after Mrs. Ferlason had agreed to pay the constable's fees. W. H. Holmes brought suit against her in Justice Pierce's court to secure judgment for $90 on a note. Mrs. Ferlason did not appear and when the matter was brought to trial therefore Holmes secured judgment.

ORMSBY DISCHARGED
John Ormsby, arrested last week on complaint of Emma G. La Belle, who charged him with forging her name to an order for a diamond ring, was discharged from custody yesterday afternoon by Justice Summerfield. The district attorney requested that the case be dismissed, owing to there not being sufficient evidence warranting the holding of a preliminary examination.

Annual June Undermuslin Sale Unequaled in Years

Looking back over the extraordinary value-giving of the Broadway's past Annual Undermuslin Sale, the event which opened with the store yesterday certainly is unapproached in the low prices on high grade undergarments. But even more important than the prices we have considered that none of these garments should be skimpy in their proportions, but instead they should be extra full, as is especially desirable during the warm months. Certainly with these prices (such as we quote below), there will not be one woman out of a hundred in Los Angeles who will want to go to the trouble of designing and making their own undermuslins. Economy is manifest in this sale.

MAY INDICT ALTORRE'S MOTHER FOR PERJURY

Mrs. White on Stand for Defense in Case of Accused Post-office Clerk

Indictments for perjury, directed against Mrs. J. White, mother of Orlando Altorre, and Charles Erist, a close friend of Altorre, may be the sequence of proceedings in the United States district court yesterday. All three are charged with committing perjury to secure a civil service position in the postal service. The testimony given by his mother and friend yesterday is to be investigated, and also may become the basis of perjury charges.

From the time that court opened yesterday the case turned a lively turn. Mrs. White was put on the stand by the attorneys for the defense. Assistant United States Attorney Horton examined the witness. She testified that she had been divorced from the defendant's father she married White.

ALTORRE ANGERED
When Attorney Horton asked Mrs. White how many months elapsed from the time of her marriage to Altorre until the birth of the defendant, the accused man created a scene by arising quickly and in a dramatic manner exclaiming: "I don't want Attorney Horton to question my mother in this way, for it makes my blood boil to hear those questions put to her. I would rather plead guilty a thousand times than have her humiliated."

The court ordered him to be seated and then the defendant's attorney entered a strenuous objection to the mode of cross-examination. Upon being told to answer the question Mrs. White testified that she was wedded during the month of April, 1886, and that Altorre was born in the July following.

Mrs. White also testified that her son was in California during the time that several witnesses testified he was in the east.

Charles Erist, a cement tester, said by the prosecution to be a close friend of Altorre, testified that he was present in Notary Gluch's office an hour until the birth of the defendant when he presented the document to the notary. Erist further testified that the notary did not administer any oath to Altorre.

Postmaster Harrison was then recalled to the stand and after informing the court and jury that a record was kept of each trip made by postal employees during working hours, he testified that his record showed that on July 7, 1907, the day upon which the prosecution charges Altorre with having perjured himself by swearing falsely before Notary Gluch, witness Erist and Altorre were not together for more than seven minutes. Altorre and Erist were working in a substitution on that date and the prosecution showed that Erist could not have been in Notary Gluch's office at the time he testified to being there.

Attorney J. Stewart will open the argument for the government this morning and will be followed by Altorre, Thompson and Johnson of the defense. Attorney Horton will close the argument for the government.

HIGH COST OF LIVING IS CHARGED TO LIVING HIGH

Merchants' Exchange Secretary Says World Can Afford Prices

"I am an optimist. I think we can better afford to pay higher prices for everything now than those could the low prices twenty years ago," said J. F. Paulding, secretary of the Merchants' exchange, yesterday noon, at the federation club luncheon.

"The high cost of living," said Mr. Paulding, "is chargeable largely to the cost of living high. It is in the air that we are all to blame for the high prices of living. The corporations are responsible to a large extent, and yet not too much can be laid to their doors.

"The extreme low prices of products twenty years ago forced corresponding low prices of farm lands and wages. The natural consequence is that the increased value of land raises the cost of living the same as higher rents are demanded by the increase in the price of lots and houses.

"We are now paying the highest prices for commodities known in the history of the United States, but when there is money to meet these prices, it is better than twenty years ago, when they were much lower and not sufficient money to pay for them by the consumers.

"When we see the conditions in Europe with the wages of $8 a week and other low status of things, we ought to thank our stars that we live here with our high prices for everybody and with the money in circulation to pay the bills."

GOOD COTTON WEATHER; BAD ON CORN AND WHEAT

National Bulletin Report for Week Shows Farm Work Is Backward

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Unfavorable for corn, too cool and dry for spring wheat, and generally favorable for cotton was the weather for the past week, according to the National Weekly weather bulletin issued today; it says:

"The weather of the week as a whole was unfavorable over the great corn growing states, being generally too cold for the best development of that cereal. "Farm work is much delayed and the season generally backward. Over the spring wheat growing states the weather was too cool and dry, especially over the more eastern portions. Over the more western portions, however, warmer weather prevailed and conditions were generally more favorable.

"West of the Rockies the weather was favorable in most districts. Good showers occurred in Washington and Oregon, but rain is needed in southern Idaho, and it is becoming very dry in portions of New Mexico, Arizona and Utah."

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgment.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.
