

140 STUDENTS SAY GOODBY TO U. S. C.

Eight Colleges of University Participate in Brilliant Commencement Exercises

DR. SCHERER MAKES ADDRESS

Day Is Replete with Luncheons, Receptions and Formalities. Decorations Elaborate

With 140 graduates from the eight colleges in line, together with the president and faculties, as well as the trustees of the University of Southern California, the academic procession preceding the commencement exercises yesterday morning was very impressive.

Dean William Skeels of the college of music played as the processional the "Triumphal March" from "Nauman," which was followed by the singing of "America," with the stanzas as written by Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

The commencement exercises, the largest held in Southern California, opened at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour the auditorium was completely filled with interested spectators.

ART COLLEGE LUNCHEONS

Immediately following the commencement exercises the Alumni association of the college of fine arts gave its annual commencement luncheon in the banquet room at Christopher's.

The table was elaborately decorated with Cecil Bremer roses and men's hair ferns, the lights being shaded in pink. Corsage bouquets of roses and ferns and place cards, the work of the members, marked each plate.

Dr. Healy, president of the board of trustees of the university, spoke in behalf of that body, bringing the Fine Arts alumni greetings from the university.

The subject of the luncheon was the subject of Mrs. Neil Danely Brooker, a member of the faculty, who spoke of the studies of the art student.

Prof. William Lees Judson, dean of the college, made a short address on the work and aims of an art school, and was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Ruth Fletcher Woodward, accompanied by Miss Florence Winter.

Miss Vesta Smith spoke for the graduating class, and Miss Emma Bridges represented the student body of the college.

Miss Arley Gordon Tottenham, vice president, spoke on "What Alumni Members are Doing, the closing address of the afternoon being by Hector Allott, who spoke on "A Sans Art."

Mr. Allott spoke in an enthusiastic manner of the work of the art student and the application of art principles to everyday life.

One of the principal events of the luncheon were the inscribing of clay tablets with the name of each guest. The tablets will be baked and placed in the walls of the college building, each alumni luncheon to be commemorated in this manner in the college building.

Following the program a short business session was held. Miss Jessie Downey Jones was elected president to succeed Miss Cook, who had served the time limit and who was elected vice president of the association.

Miss Arley Gordon Tottenham was elected secretary, but being unable to serve Miss Bess Edwards, a member of the graduating class, was elected to that office. Miss Marion Blumwe was elected treasurer.

The same hour the alumni of the college of oratory held a luncheon in an adjoining room at Christopher's, and the two associations exchanged greetings. Decorations for this luncheon were in gold and white, the college colors. Miss Edna Addison acted as toastmistress. Other speakers were Misses Helen Pitner, Edith Romig, Goldie Zumwalt, Alma Swain, the 1910 graduate, and Miss Beulah Wright, dean of the college.

The alumni of the college of music held a luncheon and reunion at the Hotel Mount Washington, where an informal program was rendered.

Last evening the alumni of the college of liberal arts held its twenty-sixth annual commencement reunion at the Hotel Hayward, at which Lee C. Gates made the principal address of the evening on "The College of Life." Dr. Bovard was present and made a few remarks. He is a member of this association, being a graduate of the college.

In addition to the banquets and luncheons of the alumni of the college the faculty of law entertained the graduating class yesterday morning at breakfast, and the law alumni will hold a banquet the first of the week.

The Union Hollywood Water company, controlling 145 miles of pipe line with a system and plant estimated to be worth $319,218.91, filed an injunction suit against the city officials of Los Angeles yesterday to prevent the enforcement of the water rate fixed by a recent ordinance passed by this city.

When Mrs. A. Morris Lowe, a tourist from Washington, D. C., entered her apartments in the fashionable Stratford Inn, Sixth and Burlington streets, late yesterday afternoon, she found a man ransacking the place.

Mrs. Lowe refused the intruder and aroused other occupants of the house. The man was chased for several blocks and finally was overtaken by Leon Godschall, 618 South Burlington avenue. The prisoner later was identified as Hoyt Brown, who has served four terms in California penitentiaries.

Mrs. Lowe had been visiting friends for several hours yesterday afternoon and when she reached her apartments she found the door unlocked. She thought something was wrong and stepped softly into the room. As she did so a man jumped from behind a bed and attempted to rush out the door.

Mrs. Lowe blocked the passage and the intruder begged for mercy. He told the woman that he had been in trouble before and asked her to allow him to go before his presence was discovered.

Mrs. Lowe refused and when he thrust her aside roughly she screamed for help and Brown dashed down the hall and into the street.

CLUNE COMPANY TO SPEND $100,000 FOR NEW THEATER

Amusement Concern Plans to Re-open Old Walker House Saturday

Clune's Grand avenue theater, formerly the Walker theater, will be opened Saturday afternoon as a high class moving picture house. Musical numbers by a seven-piece orchestra and several well-known singers will intersperse the program.

The payments for loss and damage to freight, as passed on by the adjusters, averages $33,000,000 annually. The adjusters have been trying to discover the cause of this enormous loss and damage, also the commodities mainly affected by reason of the damage and loss.

The head of the department of commerce and labor at Washington, D. C., issued a statement recently, according to President Tustin, that the American shippers are the most careless among the shipping countries of the world in sending packages.

Last evening the claim agents and their wives held a ball in the banquet hall of the Alexandria. This morning the delegates will be passengers on the Balloon route excursion and tomorrow they will travel over the Santa Fe track in a special train.

They will return to the city over the Salt Lake line.

A piano selection was given by Miss Wicent, St. Mary's academy, and Morris gave several selections on the violin. Judge C. J. Noyes talked on "Pythianism" and was followed by Miss Hillery, who gave a vocal solo.

The program was brought to a close with a song by Miss Donaldson.

Dancing was indulged in till midnight. The members of the uniform rank led the grand march.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Conaty, D. D., will have charge of the dedication of St. John's church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The church, which was built in a district in which only a few families lived when work on it began, now promises to be in the center of the city's future growth.

It adjoins the magnificent St. Mary's academy, and is near some of the popular subdivisions of the southwest. The public is invited. Take Inglewood cars at Second and Spring streets at 8:40 and 9:20 a. m.

One of Thursday's boats for San Francisco carried two couples—Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gratz of Los Angeles and C. W. Bennett and bride of Florencia Park. The "wits of Watts" decorated the latter couple's trunk with mottoes reading: "Another man gone astray from Watts to Klamath Falls, Oregon." "Beat all your troubles be little ones." "May it, mother-in-law." "We are from Watts, a little town in U. S. A. Cal." A baby's shoe and small wood shirt nailed on the trunk was labeled "For Clarence the First." The state-rooms of the bridal couples were "elaborately decorated."

Hoyt Brown, Four Times in Penitentiary, Again in Toils of the Law

When Mrs. A. Morris Lowe, a tourist from Washington, D. C., entered her apartments in the fashionable Stratford Inn, Sixth and Burlington streets, late yesterday afternoon, she found a man ransacking the place.

Mrs. Lowe refused the intruder and aroused other occupants of the house. The man was chased for several blocks and finally was overtaken by Leon Godschall, 618 South Burlington avenue. The prisoner later was identified as Hoyt Brown, who has served four terms in California penitentiaries.

Mrs. Lowe had been visiting friends for several hours yesterday afternoon and when she reached her apartments she found the door unlocked. She thought something was wrong and stepped softly into the room. As she did so a man jumped from behind a bed and attempted to rush out the door.

Mrs. Lowe blocked the passage and the intruder begged for mercy. He told the woman that he had been in trouble before and asked her to allow him to go before his presence was discovered.

Mrs. Lowe refused and when he thrust her aside roughly she screamed for help and Brown dashed down the hall and into the street.

Charles J. Asplund, a janitor at the apartment house, heard the cry for help and saw Brown rush out of the building. Asplund ran after the fugitive and met young Godschall and Wells Elias of 622 Bonnie Brae street. The three men started to capture Brown and after a chase across vacant lots and over fences Godschall, who is quite a sprinter, overtook the man and held him until the others arrived.

Brown then was taken back to the Stratford Inn, where he was identified by Mrs. Lowe as the man who was in her room. The police were notified and Detective Harry McKenzie were detailed on the case. The officers began investigations and found Brown's hat in the bath room, near Mrs. Lowe's apartment where he had hidden while watching an opportunity to enter the rooms. Other roomers said Brown answers the description of a man who has been loitering about that neighborhood for the past several days.

The police records show Brown was sent to the reform school at Whittier eight years ago for burglary committed at the Hotel Lillie. After the accused was released from Whittier he served two terms in Folsom prison and one at San Quentin prison for burglaries committed at San Diego and at San Jose. Brown is 24 years old.
