HEWITT SURE TO WIN NOMINATION

McCartney in Race to Prevent Sanders from Getting a Place on Ticket

RECORD AGAINST 'PUSH' MAN

Bill on Municipal Light Plants is Cause of Bitter Opposition to Renomination

The campaign for the state senate in the Thirty-eighth district, which so far as the Republican nomination is concerned seems to have become a direct fight between George L. Sanders and Leslie R. Hewitt, is daily becoming more interesting.

The interest which now attaches to the fight lies in the amusing efforts of the machine to get H. S. G. McCartney out of the contest.

George L. Sanders, the other regular on whom the machine leaders have united, has never before aspired for senatorial honors, and therefore will have little difficulty in winning over the support which once went to McCartney.

"TO GET EVEN"

McCartney, according to his friends, seems to be remaining in the race more because of his desire to get even with Sanders than because of any real hope that he can get the nomination.

The fact that even the machine Republicans refuse to get back of McCartney, because of his record in the senate, is significant, and the efforts of the machine to induce McCartney to seek out of the race constitute about the only good politics the machine has done in the present campaign.

The Story of the Last Session of the California Legislature," by Franklin Hitchborn, exposes McCartney in an unenviable light.

McCartney is the man, it will be remembered, who tried to defeat the Los Angeles plan to own and operate its own power and lighting plant.

The fight between Transue and Lyon undoubtedly will so divide the machine vote that it should be an easy matter for Saunders to win the nomination.

A close study of conditions in the Seventy-third district indicates, therefore, that the fight already is between Saunders and Lyon, Transue being eliminated, and the Good Government organization and Lincoln-Roosevelt league are now facing the necessity of educating the voters of the seventh ward as to the principles and issues at stake in the present struggle.

Mr. Saunders is well known throughout the city, and has resided here for many years, as one of the most enthusiastic workers in the cause of better government and of a cleaner and greater Los Angeles.

It is in these precincts in the Seventy-third district that Transue has his only following, as he is practically without strength in the seventh ward, and therefore cannot hope to defeat Lyon.

purchasing all existing privately-owned lighting plants." This bill, on the face of it, appeared to be fair and reasonable, but it first provided that for the purchase of the various privately-owned lighting plants a board of arbitration should be appointed whose duty it would be to decide the valuation of the properties to be acquired by the city.

The bill was so drafted and worded that it would be an easy matter for the lighting companies to place their own men on the arbitration board, and thus place the valuation at a holdup figure, and incidentally to delay the completion of the project indefinitely.

Such a protest was raised throughout the state that McCartney withdrew his name, and the bill of course eventually went to the waste basket, where it belonged. McCartney, however, did all he could to secure its adoption.

The Lincoln-Roosevelt league, seeing that McCartney was again out for reelection, and realizing that George L. Sanders would receive the united support of the voters, persuaded City Attorney Hewitt to enter the race, and accordingly Hewitt has gone to bat with the determination to win, so it is safe to claim that the Thirty-eighth district will not again be represented in the state senate by men of McCartney's caliber, for the nomination unquestionably will go to Hewitt.

"When in my boyhood days," continued the speaker, "I read of the government of California in the district which was a village committee of government in vogue—one by the people and the other by special interests.

"Back in the early days, before the iron horse came, the Pacific Mail Steamship company and the Pacific Steam Navigation company controlled California in much the same fashion as it was later controlled by the railroad interests. The steamship companies named the legislative bodies and even the judiciary of the state.

"In the '50s the condition became so bad that a vigilance committee was formed, and it took bullet and rope to drive out these monsters that had got their tentacles around the throat of California.

"The legislature came the great uncrowned king, Leland Stanford, who named the nominees of the Republican party and controlled the state as though it were his private property.

"At that time the proposition came up to bond California in the sum of $5,000,000 to subsidize the railroad. The legislature passed the bill, but it was vetoed by Governor Haight. Then came the fight to pass the bill over the governor's veto.

"I can well remember how Senator Burnett of Sonoma county was carried in his blankets to the floor of the senate chamber, that he, a dying man, might register his vote against railroad rates. Ten days later he died.

"Where is the monument to this hero? It is not yet built. But go to Palo Alto, and you will see the monument of the great uncrowned king.

"During the regime of Governor Stanford, the first attempt of the state board of equalization to assess the property of the railroad was made. The railroad set up a hue and cry, threatening to go to the federal government for redress.

"About this time anti-railroad legislation came before the legislature. The railroad interests bought up enough votes to bring about a deadlock on the anti-railroad bills. At this point I want to warn you to be careful as to the man you elect to the office of lieutenant governor, for I saw Lieutenant Governor Daggett cast the vote that broke the deadlock and killed the bills which the railroad had so bitterly opposed.

"Just as the system has acted before, it will continue to act. King William F. Herrin is just as powerful as were his two predecessors. He and his agents go about through the state, lining up the railroad attorneys and endeavoring to control the nominations for the legislature.

"The chances are this year that San Francisco's representatives to the legislature will be named by the sheriff of San Francisco, who is a holdover state senator and elected to his present office on the Union Labor ticket.

"It is vitally necessary that you put good men in the state board of equalization. Think of a railroad being assessed at $23,000 a mile, while it is capitalized at $240,000 in this state, while Nevada assesses at a rate of $35,000 a mile.

"So far as the railroad commission is concerned, that is in the condition described by the French as hors du combat.

Democratic Leader Urges Great Care in Choice of Lieutenant Governor

"I have seen three kings during my connection with California politics," King William B. Carr, King William D. Stone, King William F.
