Double YOUR MONEY and Create an Annual Income Equal to Your Investment

55c Daily or $16.66 Monthly or $50.00 Quarterly or $200.00 Yearly for Five Years

Will Pay You Back $1230.00 and You Retain $1000.00 Interest in the Company Paying You $1000.00 Annual Income

This investment is based on a thriving, active enterprise that pays enormous profits. The product costs 25c f. o. b. destination and sells at $2.25 to $3.00. It is probably the most profitable large industry in the world today, and dividends of 300 per cent per annum are possible. Other similar companies paid 250 per cent last year and could not fully supply the demand.

Investors Take No Risk

This company offers no stock for sale, but on the contrary sells glittered gold bonds and gives its stock to the bond buyers as a bonus. The bonds are amply secured, pay 6 per cent interest and are redeemable July 1, 1915, at which time the net return, including interest and premium, will be 123 per cent.

At present 100 per cent of stock goes with the bonds as a bonus and will earn a small dividend of 3 to 6 per cent until the bonds are redeemed.

After the bonds are redeemed the stocks which were given with them should pay big dividends every year, and their owners receive an annual income equal to their total investment.

The men behind these bonds and stocks are well known, reliable Los Angeles and Southern California business men who thoroughly understand the business and have put their own money into the investment.

When you put your money to work in this enterprise you share equally in all the profits, but you are secured against loss by first mortgage gold bonds that will be redeemed anyhow, independent of any earnings of the company.

Immediate investors receive the full bonus of stock. Smallest first payment accepted $20. Denominations $100, $500, $1000. Payments amount to 20 per cent yearly, or may be made all cash.

Investigate at once, or write for Circular H3.

RIGHT MOTIVE MEANS SUCCESS

Right motive, Christian Science teaches, insures happiness and success. Happiness because it keeps its possessor at peace with all that is righteous and success because right is proved to be might when the law of God is understood. Right motive means practically the intention to be good and to do good. Mistake, owing in its purpose or direction, lacking frequently the good sense to guide or to temper its activity, mixed many times with conditions which will confuse its pure aim, or beset with circumstances that thwart its best endeavor, yet right motive is actually protective and progressive as well as fundamental, straightforward and true. More than right desire, inasmuch as it holds the direct intention to accomplish good, clear more the overall spirit of life in Christ; Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Paul understood the life work of Christ Jesus well enough to know that the good enemy heathen good can reduce to nothing the intention of evil in every mental conflict between the two. He knew sin to be an eternally conceived enemy because the law of God, operating in the life of his Master, had destroyed both sin and the fruit of sin—disease and death. So he had the good courage to urge all to hold to divine law and to expect because of it multiplying victories over every evil word and work; and his clear and valiant example has fostered the hopes and the faith of the ages.

THE CONFLICT
St. Paul saw the conflict between right desire and temptation when he declared in his letter to the Romans: "For the good that I would I do not; but the evil which I would not that I do." Yet the conviction that right purpose would win its way out, as asserted in his epistle: "Now we are delivered from the law, that being dead wherein we were held," and in his fearless cry, "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus, I hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Paul understood the life work of Christ Jesus well enough to know that the good enemy heathen good can reduce to nothing the intention of evil in every mental conflict between the two. He knew sin to be an eternally conceived enemy because the law of God, operating in the life of his Master, had destroyed both sin and the fruit of sin—disease and death. So he had the good courage to urge all to hold to divine law and to expect because of it multiplying victories over every evil word and work; and his clear and valiant example has fostered the hopes and the faith of the ages.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TEXT
Christian Scientists find in their textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 326, something which helps them still further to value right motive as a saving element. "The purpose and motive to live aright can be gained now. This point won, you have started as you should. You have begun at the numeration table of Christian Science, and nothing but wrong intention can hinder your advancement. Working and praying with true motives, your Father will open the way." A right motive certainly sets one's face in the right direction, and as the whole underlying purpose of our thoughts becomes more clearly impressed with the desire for good a better understanding of good and science teaches us. This understanding, Christian Science brings. And in its coming it purifies motive day by day and so leads thought and life into constantly improving conditions. And the good that is purely spiritual shall be understood and manifested. Christian Science is of practical value because it seeks out the best desire, the purest motive in every individual and by proper tending cultivates these good purposes until they shall give way entirely to the reflection of God's spirit. Its teaching makes over the thoughts of its honest adherent and in the measure that he obeys what he understands his point of view, he is spiritualized and he is divorced from whatever he detects in himself as undesirable and untrue.

SPIRITUAL POINT OF VIEW
Just here, in this matter of finding the spiritual point of view, lies the great value of Christian Science teaching. Christian Science declares any motive or purpose having elements of self within it to be material; it deprecates all materiality to be a counterfeit of divine living and its offspring. And so all personal motives, even though they may be in a degree less gross than the more depraved impulses, are at the best only human attempts to do good, and must give place, in the course of salvation, to the one aim which bases every wholly right motive—the desire to understand and to obey God. Let us examine motive critically. If it is for the temporal success of ourselves or of those we love, it compels a challenge. If for the greatest good of the greatest number, it is unfinanced by personal hostility or personal devotion; if clean and straight in its fundamental longing for the right, it is a possession of the right living—if for these good ends and of this good character, Christian Science maintains, then motive may be safely trusted to approach the God-likeness, and to lead its possessor into the knowledge of the divine Mind—its power, its laws, its government of men—which heals the ills and troubles of human making.

RIGHT MOTIVE
So, right motive is the mental attitude through which the law of God enters into the affairs of men. Even the least of it is to be cherished as our most precious possession. And though it be in any one of us as tiny as "the grain of mustard seed," it is that in us which responds to the law of God; and we have the promise that it shall grow because of its responsiveness to the full stature of spiritual understanding; that it will flourish until all living is redeemed. "The Science of Health with Key to the Scriptures," page 490 of Science and Health, "reveals Truth and Love as the motive powers of man." As this is understood and demonstrated, human motives, whether evil or good, will give place to God's government, which is always divinely good, and in this new order Christ's Christianity will be found, because of its depth of understanding that Christian Science is serving the world.—Christian Science Monitor.

Robert Montgomery, one half-acre on Greville street, $350.

L. A. RAILWAY CAR BARN
TO COST COMPANY $200,000

Plans have been prepared by the engineering department of the Los Angeles Railway company for a mammoth car barn to be erected by it on its property just south of Agricultural park. The building is estimated to cost in excess of $200,000. It will be 1000 feet in length, 177 feet in width and 18 feet in height. The entire ground area will be excavated to a depth of four feet and a concrete floor laid.

NEW TRACT IS OPEN

The Lawrence E. Burck company has subdivided and placed on the market the tract in Boyle Heights known as the "old Adams property." This comprises a tract 10 acres in area lying south of Stephenson avenue and west of Indiana street.

BOUGHT 25 ACRES

The C. W. Linfield land—twenty-five improved acres, two miles east of San Bernardino on the Highland car line—has been sold to John J. Shay for $11,000. Water is abundant on the property.

You can buy it, per acre at any place, but there's one BEST place to buy it—and that place advertises.
