

MAN HUNTERS ARE CLOSE TO QUARRY

Arizona Men, Accused of Double Murder, Are Trailed Across Desert

FIERCE BATTLE IS EXPECTED

Indians Join in the Chase and Fugitives Desert Their Tired Horses

[Associated Press] GLOBE, Ariz., Sept. 20.—Hiding near Holbrook, 125 miles north of here, and practically surrounded by a posse which has been on their trail since the murder of Frederick Kibbe and Albert F. Hillpot near Fort Apache last Thursday, the capture of James Steele and William Stewart, fugitives from justice on the charge of one of the most heinous murders ever committed in Gila county, seems assured.

The two men will apparently be captured within the next few hours, according to advices received here. The posse headed by Sheriff J. H. Thompson is so close on the heels of the outlaws that they have been forced to abandon their horses. They are practically without food and are traveling in an arid section of the country. It is not believed that even their expert knowledge of the country through which they are fleeing will save them, as expert Indian trail riders who have seen years of service in man-hunting form part of the posse.

Both Steele and Stewart are ex-soldiers and have the reputation of being "bad men." The murder of Kibbe and Hillpot, with which they are charged, was so utterly wanton in its nature that the people believe the fugitives will not give in without a death struggle.

Late advices from Holbrook state that the posse arrived there at 4 o'clock this afternoon, secured fresh horses and doubled back toward the open country, with the intention of heading off the fugitives before they reach the railroad. Dispatchers along the Santa Fe railroad have been notified to inform all trainmen and railway officials of the men's movements, if seen, and it is not believed they can escape.

Kibbe and Hillpot were murdered in an abandoned stage station, where they were riding in the day. The sheriff's evidence secured by the coroner shows that Kibbe was killed instantly and Hillpot shot and killed after a struggle before they were unaccountably slain. The coroner's jury lays the crime to Steele and Stewart.

BLOODHOUNDS AND INDIANS ARE CLOSE TO FUGITIVES

Pursued Men Seek Refuge in the Mountain Fastnesses

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Sept. 20.—In the mountain wilds about Snowflake, twenty miles from the White Hills, James Steele and William Stewart, former cavalymen of Fort Apache, are making their final attempt tonight to escape the posse and Indian trail riders who are hunting them for the murder of Fred Kibbe and Albert F. Hillpot, business men of Globe, last Thursday. So closely were the fugitives pursued today that they abandoned their horses and on foot sought refuge in the fastnesses where four-footed beasts could not go.

Sheriff J. H. Thompson of Globe, with several of the deputies in his posse, came here today and left tonight with fresh horses. Thompson said his hounds and Indians were only ten miles behind the fugitives, whose abandoned horses were found by the posse earlier in the day. The sheriff expects a battle with the former soldiers, who after slaying Kibbe and Hillpot robbed them of their valuables, weapons and other hunting paraphernalia.

PASTOR SUED FOR SLANDER BY WOMAN IS TRANSFERRED

Rev. W. E. Crawford Will Take Charge of Omaha Church

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Rev. W. E. Crawford, pastor of the Woodlawn Park Methodist church, received a telegram yesterday notifying him of his transfer from the Rock River conference to the Northeastern Nebraska conference. He will be made pastor of the Hanscom park church in Omaha.

Dr. Crawford was brought prominently before the public recently in connection with charges he preferred against the Rev. W. J. Leek, former pastor of the Woodlawn Park M. E. church, and Mrs. Mary A. Lavender, once a member of that congregation.

Mrs. Lavender brought suit for damages against the preacher; and after a trial in the civil courts Crawford was declared by a jury to be guilty of slander and the court assessed damages to the amount of $4000. The case was appealed and now is awaiting a hearing before the appellate court.

CLAIM FINGER PRINTS CORRESPOND TO SUSPECT'S

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Police Captain M. Evans, chief of the bureau of identification, announced late today that thumb and finger prints found on the window sash of the Hiller home corresponded to those of those of Thomas Jennings, the negro under arrest charged with the murder of Clarence J. Hiller at Washington Heights early Monday morning.

The finger prints are the only direct evidence which police now hold against Jennings, although he has been identified as an ex-convict and was found with a revolver near the Hiller home shortly after the murder occurred.

Washington Society Awaits Arrival of Wives of U. S. Senator and Judge

MRS. CHARLES E. HUGHES AT LEFT OF MRS. CLAUDE A. SWANSON

SOCIAL SEASON ABSORBS GOSSIPS OF WASHINGTON

Mrs. Charles E. Hughes and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson Recognized as Leaders

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Amid all the absorbing speculation in which Washington is indulging ament the coming social season there is the pleasant certainty that the capital city will be able to claim as its own for the coming winter at least two distinguished women in whom society is now much interested. Of these Mrs. Charles E. Hughes is comparatively a stranger here, while the other, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, whose husband succeeds the late Senator Daniel of Virginia, has already a large acquaintance and many friends here.

As the wife of a supreme court justice Mrs. Hughes will, it is believed, find herself amid congenial surroundings. The "court" families have their own distinct place, an enviable one, be it said, in the many cliques and sets which go to form Washington's simple society, and in which they are acknowledged leaders. One of the four state receptions at the White House, the second in the series, is annually given in honor of the justices of the supreme court and their families, and by an old and honored Washington tradition Monday is set aside as the "at home" day of the justices' wives.

Following the reception in their honor at the White House there is a dinner at which they are also the guests of honor.

Mrs. Swanson's social triumphs have been many in Washington. As Miss Lizzie Lyons, the handsome Virginia girl was a great belle here. Miss Lyons' eyes were big and blue, her hair was golden and her figure irreplaceable. Added to these charms she had plenty of vivacity and delightful southern manners. Thus equipped she dealt with many masculine hearts both in Washington and Richmond before she bestowed her own on young Representative Claude A. Swanson, the congressional "baby" of 15 years ago.

She was married in Washington and a representative southern gathering congratulated the happy couple.

COURAGE OF SHERIFF'S WIFE PREVENTS JAIL DELIVERY

FREDONIA, Kan., Sept. 20.—Courage on the part of Mrs. C. H. Lopeman, wife of Deputy Sheriff Lopeman, prevented a jail delivery here today. Mrs. Lopeman, from her home near the jail, saw two negro prisoners climb through a cell window, the bars of which had been sawed. She rushed into the house, got a gun, and running toward the jail fired one shot. A prisoner in the window changed his mind and crawled back. The sound of the shot aroused neighbors, who pursued and captured the two who had run away.

Graves and other leaders of the conservation movement of national reputation have accepted invitations to address the first southern conservation congress to be held in this city October 7 and 8.

PLANS TO PLEAD GUILTY TO SAVE WIFE FROM JAIL

Husband Anxious to Avert Disgrace from Young Son

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—To save his wife from prison, Isaac R. Warren plans to plead guilty to a charge of having used the mails to defraud through a "fake" matrimonial bureau and accept sentence without making a defense.

Warren and his wife, Kate Warren, were indicted more than a year ago. Shortly after his indictment, Warren fled from the city, going to Buffalo, where he operated a similar scheme. He was arrested by the New York state authorities and was given a year's sentence.

On his release from prison a week ago, a deputy United States marshal arrested him on a fugitive warrant, and brought him to Chicago.

"For the sake of our 4-year-old boy, I don't want my wife to face the disgrace of a criminal trial," Warren declared yesterday in the United States marshal's office "I am willing to plead guilty if it will save her from punishment."

Warren and his wife will be arraigned in Judge Landis' court today.

Sophomores and Freshmen Meet in Three-Hour Contest

APPLETON, Wis., Sept. 20.—One hundred freshmen and sophomores of Lawrence college, fought for three hours on the college campus yesterday, the efforts of President Plantz and members of the faculty to stop the fight being in vain.

The sophomores had determined to dislodge the freshmen colors, suspended from wires, extending from University to Science hall, and to throw the freshmen colors from the big stone in front of the college.

President Plantz succeeded in stopping one contest between freshmen and sophomores on the third-story porch of Ormsby hall, where the first year colors had been unfurled.

The contest was in violation of an agreement that the students made last week to wait until today and fight out their differences on the river bank.

According to Commissioner Ahle, China is rapidly modernizing her prison system and now has four up-to-date prisons located at Tien Tsin, Hankow, Mukden and Canton.

The commissioner, who received his education in Cambridge, was born in Honolulu and admitted to the bar there before he returned to the home of his fathers.

ARCTIC MEN EAT SHOESTRING DIET

Leather Meals a Luxury to Starving Explorers Engaged in Scientific Work

WHALE'S TONGUE A DELICACY

Feathers, Seal Oil, Blubber and Skins Prevent Party Becoming Food Faddists

(Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Even shoestrings look good to hungry men in the arctic, especially if their food caches have been raided and ruined by polar bears and wolverines.

Advises received by Herman C. Bumpus, a director of the Museum of Natural History, from Dr. Rudolph Anderson and Vilhjalm Stefansson, who left New York for the frozen north in May, 1908, show that the two scientists have suffered privations which made meals of leather and oil seem luxuries.

The Anderson-Stefansson party, which is making extended ethnological and biological collections on the shores of North America for the museum, has traveled 400 miles east of MacKenzie river, through regions hitherto untraversed by explorers.

In the advices just received, the explorers tell of a trying journey up the Horton river. Six prongs were in the party, and they carried provisions for two days. The trip took fifteen days and the hunting was bad. The party ate whale tongue, which owing to its fibrous nature and to the presence of sea salt was very sickening.

HAD LEATHER DIET When the tongue was gone they ate seal skins, deerskins, sole leather and the tough skin laces used on their snowshoes. Then there was seal oil, about a teaspoonful a day for each man, consumed to keep away the ravages of hunger. It was taken with deerskin or feathers, as few of the men could stand it straight.

Finally, somebody found a partly eaten carcass of a caribou, which supplied them meat for three or four meals. When it was gone, the men lived on "whitedish" blubber, taken from the blubber of the caribou, eaten with oil at each meal. The stomach contained a peck of well-masticated moss and grass. It was found of little nutritive value, but did wonders in helping the members of the expedition to eat the oil.

The party reports that the scientific results of their work thus far have been satisfactory.
