Ice Bound Ruins May Hold the Bodies of More Victims.

Forty Injured

BLAZE IS CHARGED TO ARSON

William Glazier, Held Prisoner in Debris for 13 Hours, Is Saved

[Associated Press]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—Fourteen firemen and policemen, according to the latest count, are known to have been killed and more than forty injured so severely that they are in hospitals as the result of the collapse of the five-story factory of David Friedlander, dealer in leather remnants at 1116 to 1120 Bodine street.

The identified dead: PATRICK CARROLL, truck No. 7, GEORGE MACKINSKY, truck No. 7, WILLIAM BELMUR, truck No. 1, JOHN F. CARROLL, engine company No. 6, FRED KALBERGER, engine No. 6, THOMAS ENTWISTLE, engine No. 21.

HARRY BERTOLETTI, engine No. 29, ROBERT STUART, fireman, died in hospital. CHARLES EDLEMAN, engine No. 6, WILLIAM MCCONNELL, engine No. 29.

The number of firemen and policemen injured totals nearly fifty, of whom several may die.

The icebound ruins still contain the body of Charles Edleman, who is known to be dead, and possibly the bodies of several other firemen who are reported missing.

William Glazier, who was held fast in the ruins for more than thirteen hours, is in a hospital suffering from pneumonia, but physicians have hopes of saving his life.

Pinched beneath an immense iron girder, Glazier exhibited great fortitude and endurance. When he was found alive, held down by tons of debris, physicians wanted to amputate his legs to remove him. He protested, saying "I'll get out all right and plenty of time. What good would I be without my legs? I would rather trust to the boys getting this junk away."

It is reported that the police are convinced that the fire was of incendiary origin and expect to make an arrest. The firemen say the flames seemed to spring up all over the building at the same time. There was nothing stored in the structure of an inflammable character, the floors being filled with both machinery and leather.

The mass of debris is frozen solid and it may be several days before any additional bodies are taken from the ruins. Four fire companies lost more than half their crews in dead and injured, while others suffered half severely.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS COST $90,000,000 IN AMERICA

Only About Half of Population is Playing Santa This Year

[Special to The Herald]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Chief Victor of the bureau of statistics unofficially estimated today that the Christmas "giving" cost the American people $90,000,000 this year. He added that not more than half the people are giving presents, costing money. Of the remaining 45,000,000 a few are opposed to Christmas giving and a vast number do not give because they have no money.

Of the givers several billion will be children whose expenditures range from 10 cents to $1, estimated. The greatest givers are clerks whose expenditures average between $3 and $5.

FOUR INDICTED IN THEFT OF $50,000 BULLION CASE

Prisoners Accused of Bringing Stolen Property in State

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Indictments were returned today before Presiding Judge Van Nostrand, charging E. L. Smith, Margaret Henry, G. W. Woodson and J. T. Woodson with having brought stolen goods into the state in connection with the theft of $50,000 in bullion from the steamship Humboldt.

Judge Van Nostrand fixed the bail of the four defendants at $50,000 bonds or $25,000 cash each.

The charge of grand larceny preferred against the quartet in the police court will be dismissed, when the case is called tomorrow, and the accused will be rearrested immediately on grand jury bench warrants.

STEAMER BELIEVED LOST

HAMBURG, Dec. 22.—The French steamer Savona, owned by Slesman & Co. of this city, is believed to have been lost with her crew of twenty-one men, while bound from this port for Naples. The Savona is a sister ship of the Palermo, which was recently lost.

TWO MANILA EDITORS ARE SENTENCED FOR LIBEL

Imprisonment for Men Who Attacked Worcester

MANILA, Dec. 22.—The supreme court disposed today of the Manila libel case by sentencing Theodore Kalaw, formerly editor of the paper and now a member of the Philippine assembly, to one year imprisonment and a fine of $500, and Martin Canbino, former chief manager, six months imprisonment and a fine of $100 for having criminally libeled Commissioner Dean C. Worcester.

The case has been in the course a long time. Canbino was convicted in December, 1908, and sentenced in the following month. Kalaw was found guilty and sentenced in the spring of 1909. In January, 1910, Mr. Worcester was awarded $50,000 damages against the paper. Delays and appeals to the higher court stayed execution of the sentences of the two men to the present time.

ROW PROMISED ON MEMBERSHIP BILL

Threat of Gerrymandering with Reapportionment Under New Census

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A house membership of 440 is the smallest number under the census bureau method of reapportionment that will result in not decreasing the present number of representatives from any state. This is announced in a detailed statistical statement submitted to the house committee on census today by the census bureau.

The statement was arranged to show the exact effect under any particular plan printed, with other data showing whether on such a calculation any state representation would be diminished, increased or unchanged.

Chairman Crumpacker will have the tables printed, with other data necessary along the same line, and will call a meeting of his committee immediately after the reassembling of congress. He expects the committee will be able to report a reapportionment bill at this session.

Minority Leader Champ Clark of Missouri and other Democratic leaders will be consulted for the readjustments always bring the threat of gerrymandering and a merry political fight is in prospect when the bill emerges from committee.

SIX NEW DESTROYERS ARE NAMED FOR NAVAL SERVICES

Acting Secretary Winthrop Christens Little Sea Fighters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Acting Secretary Winthrop bestowed names today on six torpedo boat destroyers, Nos. 37 to 42, now building, choosing those of naval officers who had distinguished themselves in time of war. The boats are christened as follows:

Beale, after Edward Fitzgerald Beale, 1822-1893, served in the war with Mexico and the Civil War; minister to Austria in 1870.

Jouett, after Admiral James E. Jouett, 1828-1902, served in the Civil War with Farragut at Mobile Bay.

Fanning, after Admiral Nathaniel Fanning, a native of New York, killed in the victory over the British ship Serapis, Fanning died in 1805.

Jarvis, after Midshipman James C. Jarvis, a native of New York, killed in the engagement between the Constellation and the Vengeance, February 1, 1800.

Honley, after Robert Honley of Virginia, 1823-1878, served with the same battle with Jarvis and leader of the American line in the battle of Lake Champlain.

ERUPTION OF VOLCANO CAUSES TERROR IN JAPAN

Huge Rents Torn in Mountains and Lava Flows in Streams

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 22.—Advises were brought by the steamer Kanaka today of the eruption early this month of Asama, a volcano in Japan, which 300 years ago buried thirty villages. As far as can be learned, there was little loss of life on this occasion, but the countryside for forty miles was sprinkled with ashes and lava flowed near Kio.

Two tremendous explosions were felt at Tokyo, eight miles away, where the populace fled from buildings during the accompanying earthquake.

BOARD FINDS COAL GAS EXPLODED U. S. BATTLESHIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Coal gas ignited by a match struck by the victim was the cause of the explosion of the battleship North Dakota at Portsmouth, England, December 4, according to the findings of a board of inquiry headed by Capt. Albert Gleaves.

Paul Fessenden H. Evans, who died of burns suffered in the explosion, entered the coal bunkers to take a nap, finding that he needed a light in order to enter his improvised bed he struck a match which ignited gas accumulated in the bunker.

Mrs. Turnbull Denies Authorship of New Consignment of Billets Doux

WOMAN STILL ON THE GRILL

Relentless Cross-Examination Concerning 'Widow's' Past

Life Occupies Entire Day

"I don't know just why, but I wanted it." "Did you ever ask an attorney how to read a will?" "I wrote to John D. Long, ex-governor of Massachusetts, about it, and I mentioned the contract to James H. Wood, the detective, Mr. Marjorie Holmes of Monrovia, and Dr. John W. Trueworthy, my physician, when my child was born in Los Angeles."

"Did you ever tell Judge Wellborn, who was your attorney in the seduction case?" "My conversation with Judge Wellborn was very slight along that line. Did he ask you where the paper was?" "I don't remember."

"What did you tell him about your marriage?" "I told him it was null and void." "Mrs. Turnbull, you said yesterday that you never had studied law, yet you have used that phrase, 'null and void,' frequently."

"Well, I have been around lawyers so often that I think I could almost be one myself." At this point the opposing attorneys entered into a brief discussion regarding the defense, demanding categorical answers to categorical questions when the witness was unable to give them.

When the judge asked Mrs. Turnbull to sign a brief discussion regarding the defense, demanding categorical answers to categorical questions when the witness was unable to give them.

"Did you tell Judge Wellborn that you had been married by a written contract?" "Yes, I told him about it." "Did he ask if you had it?" "I don't remember."

"Yes, he said that if it were not for the article practiced upon me, he could bring a suit for breach of promise of marriage. I told him there had been no breach of promise because Mr. Baldwin had married me."

NEVER WAS ON THE STAGE Suddenly McNab changed his line of interrogation. "Were you ever on the stage, Mrs. Turnbull?" he asked.

"Were you not at one time a performer upon the stage of the Wigwam in San Francisco?" "I never even heard of the place before."

"You have used names other than your own?" "Yes." "Where were they?" "Alma Belmont and Mabel Garrison."

"Why?" "Because I did not wish people to know of my shame because I wanted Beatrice, my daughter, never to know who she was, and also because I thought perhaps the change would aid me in some way." "Another change in the subject of the questions followed."

"After your trouble with Col. Albert A. Pope in Boston did you ever tell your friends, the Thompsons, with whom you lived, about it?" "I think I told Mrs. Thompson."

"If you were an innocent girl then and had been wronged by Col. Pope, why did you not tell your best friends about it?" "Perhaps I did."

TELLS OF PRESENT MARRIAGE "Did you tell her that you had accepted Pope's apology and sorrow in the form of so much cash a month?" "I don't remember."

Mrs. Turnbull then was asked about her marriage to her present husband which she married April 4, 1905. "Did you make any attempt to annul your marriage with Baldwin?" she was asked.

"Why?" "Because it was a fake." The cross-examiners then veered to Arcadia and the "celebrated dinner," Mrs. Turnbull testified that there were in use silver napkin rings with holders attached for flowers and that Mrs. Stocker had inserted a fly in hers.

She also asserted that while the dinner was in progress Mrs. Stocker wrapped Mrs. Turnbull's and Baldwin's heads together, at the same time whispering something which sounded like "mother" in Mrs. Turnbull's ear.

"Did anybody whisper anything in the other ear?" queried McNab, with irony. "Do you want the jury to believe that Mrs. Stocker, knowing her father had a legal wife living, called you 'mother'?" "I do," affirmed Mrs. Turnbull.

Women Get Hats on Trial; Wear 'Em, Then Return 'Em

St. Louis Milliners Unite and Call Halt on Finery Borrowing Habit

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 22.—You may have noticed your friend, Mrs. Snobrox, has not displayed as great a variety of millinery upon her coiffured head this season as she did last, and maybe you wondered whether she was getting economical and forswearing the vanities of life. But that's not why.

Millinery probably is as vain as ever, but the millinery shops have curbed her vanity in proportion to her allowance. They have inaugurated a rule whereby she cannot have hats sent home upon approval, and after wearing them to functions and making guests envy her, return them the next morning.

Twenty-two of the most prominent millinery shops and stores with millinery departments entered into an agreement not to accept hats, sent on approval, which, on their return, showed evidences of wear. They also agreed to stipulate to all women wanting hats sent out conditionally that they must be notified at once should they wish to return them. Nor will these stern emperors of the millinery world accept hats which have been trimmed or made to order.

EFFECT OF RULE IS FELT

"Women are living up to the new ruling beautifully," said a dealer whose name is a synonym among women for the highest class hats. "They return hats at once if they are not satisfactory. We don't credit one-seventh of the hats we used to."

Milliners had little idea their customers, who are the smartest women in St. Louis, whose credit they do not limit, would get the hats sent out on approval to wear for an occasion and then return them. They received an inkling of the truth when they met these ladies on the boulevards proudly wearing the confections they had not paid for. The evil practice grew so large last year that all the dealers decided to call a halt on it.

But if women are prohibited from wearing twelve hats a season that don't belong to them, they still have Turkish rugs, cut glassware and household furnishings out to decorate their homes for a reception.

JUST FOR THE OCCASION

Furniture dealers say that when Mrs. Ace of Hearts gives a card party she orders a few thousand dollars' worth of rugs sent out to the house, goes into the jewelry house and sends home the necessary glassware for her service tables, uses them and orders them returned, on the plea that they are not satisfactory, the day following the gathering.

This can be done with rugs and furniture very easily, according to dealers, because such articles will not show wear in the space of a day.

The new rule has worked so successfully among milliners that it is thought some scheme will be put into practice whereby madam cannot refurbish her home free of charge for one day.

2 WOMEN STARVE IN SUICIDE PACT

Mother and Daughter Are Found Dying Near Pantry Stocked Well with Food

CHICO, Cal., Dec. 22.—In the fulfillment of a pact that meant slow, torturous death, their bodies, emaciated, their lips puffed and swollen and their eyes staring wildly at the ceiling, Mrs. William Whitelie and her daughter, Miss Lavina Corey, were found dying today by policemen who broke into their home at the request of anxious neighbors.

In the find of the officers was the explanation of the means that issued from the darkened little cottage during the past three days. While the wasted condition of the women's bodies and the fixed gaze of their eyes told the story of starvation, the unmistakable evidence that they had agreed to starve themselves was found in the well stocked condition of the pantry.

The discolored condition of the lips had been taken, but no trace of a drug could be found in the house. The physicians say the women starved to death. Mrs. Whitelie and her daughter were spiritualists. After several days of seclusion Mrs. Whitelie appeared last Monday and planned the suicide pact with her daughter.

The report accompanying the measure is a remarkable document. It quoted the declaration of the rights of man to prove that public services have been instituted for the public good, not for the benefit of those to whom they have been conferred, from which it deduced the conclusion that the interruption of public service is a crime. At the same time it admits that public service employees, like other workers, have a right to amelioration of situations, and in conclusion and arbitration it is proposed to give a weapon "as powerful as the strike."

The companies must accede, the report declares, "because it is now conceded as a principle of jurisprudence that the state, in conceding public service concessions, does not waive its right to interfere with peaceful settlement of international disputes, and it argues that the twentieth century marks the dawn of arbitration as the solution of both international and social war."

FRENCH MAKE PLAN TO STOP STRIKES

Government Measure Formulated for Ending Trouble in Public Service

PARIS, Dec. 22.—The text of the government measure formulated for the purpose of preventing general strikes with particular reference to the employees of public service corporations was made public today.

The measure contemplates a comprehensive plan for ending the strike evil on the railroads and in other public service by means of an organized public commission, composed of representatives of the men and the companies.

The commission will meet at regular intervals, and when conciliation fails compulsory arbitration is provided, the principle being introduced that where the arbitral sentence imposes an additional charge the corporation can indicate the method whereby the railroad or other service can secure compensation, either by raising the rates or by other means.

QUOTES RIGHTS OF MAN

The report accompanying the measure is a remarkable document. It quoted the declaration of the rights of man to prove that public services have been instituted for the public good, not for the benefit of those to whom they have been conferred, from which it deduced the conclusion that the interruption of public service is a crime. At the same time it admits that public service employees, like other workers, have a right to amelioration of situations, and in conclusion and arbitration it is proposed to give a weapon "as powerful as the strike."

RAWHIDE MINING COMPANY ORDERED TO PAY CHECKS

Court Upholds Sixty-Eight Claims for Services

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—The Rawhide Mining company must pay John C. Davis $174,690, representative amounts by the mining company, according to a decision handed down by Judge Chipman in the court of appeals today, in the "Bullion county superior court."

Originally the mining company had issued checks to its employees for labor, making them payable to one Charles Zany. It was agreed that when Zany had paid out checks amounting to $500 the company would reimburse him.

After he had paid checks amounting to $2000 and was unable to collect, he assigned his claim to Davis, who brought suit and was awarded $174,690 and costs by the lower court.
