PRICE FIVE CENTS

FIRST VENIRE IS EXHAUSTED

Last of Hundred and Twenty-five McNamara Talemens Examined

MUST SUMMON MORE

CHIEF CAUSE OF EXCUSING VENIREMEN IS OBJECTION TO CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25.—The last of the one hundred and twenty-five talemens summoned in the case of the State of California versus James B. McNamara, in which the defendant stands charged by indictment with murder in connection with the wrecking of the Los Angeles Times building, October 1, 1910, was under examination today when the court adjourned, and the next immediate step will be the summoning of more veniremen.

While the defense declined to state its position, it is declared that objection may be made to taking veniremen from other branches of the superior court. The alternative seems to be the summoning of a new venire, which will probably take many days.

The chief cause of excusing veniremen so far is the objection upon the part of the talemens to convict on circumstantial evidence. The record of today is as follows:

F. J. Mullen, real estate dealer, excused because the court doubted his ability to give an impartial trial.

A. C. Winter, contractor, challenged because he stated that he had a fixed opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused.

A. H. Dunlap, farmer, was excused when he stated that he believed the defendant is guilty.

F. J. Foley, retired real estate dealer, was excused by agreement because of ill health.

W. L. Coward, truckfarmer, was challenged by the state when he declared that he had a fixed opinion that McNamara is not guilty.

John D. Caldwell, a carshop foreman, was excused for non-belief in the imposition of the death penalty for crime.

Wallace Gregg, real estate dealer, was challenged when he declared that he believed McNamara guilty of the murder of A. C. Harvey Elder, managing editor of the Times, who was killed in the explosion, and who was a friend of Gregg's.

Rodgers Halted at Spofford By Wrecked Biplane

Special to Daily News.
Spofford, Tex., Oct. 25.—The biplane of Aviator C. P. Rodgers, the coast-to-coast flyer, was wrecked near here at 6:35 o'clock this morning, as the birdman attempted to take the air. It will require fully three days to repair the break. For over an hour this morning, members of the camp were engaged in cutting down brush and digging away obstacles from the road beside the Sunset tracks so that the aviator could have a clear take-off. Rodgers had himself carefully inspected the ground, and climbing into his seat, gave the signal to let go. The biplane sped over the ground at the rate of ten miles per hour, and just as the camp members expected to see the birdman lift the machine, the right propeller struck a mound of earth, the plane swerved and there was a crash and both propellers were in splinters. After the wrecking of his machine, Rodgers said: "I am going to the coast unless I am disabled, or worse, coast unless I am disabled, or worse. I want to be in Los Angeles in time for the rendezvous of the Pacific fleet. I hope to be in shape to resume my flight Sunday."

COTTON PICKER AT POST CITY

Machine Being Successfully Operated in Fields Near Garza Capital

Special to Daily News.
Post City, Tex., Oct. 25.—Keenest interest is manifested here and in surrounding localities in the operations of the "cotton picker" that is being demonstrated on the 5,000 acre farm of C. W. Post, ten miles west of this point. Numbers of parties have gone out to the farm and witnessed the demonstration under the direction of Mr. Fairbanks.

It is claimed that the machine is demonstrating under the most marked difficulties, but to good effect. This is true for the reason that the construction was planned for cotton that is taller, with fruitage higher from the ground. In this portion of the country the formation of bolls is near the ground, so that little additional improvised appliances had to be attached.

In its present shape, the machine will gather all cotton, except that which has fallen from the ground, covering about eight acres per day, regardless of the amount of the yield, acreage and not tonnage determining the capacity of the machine. C. W. Post is present on the ground watching and assisting with the experiments in gathering the fleecy staple. The actual gathering of the staple is accomplished by attracting the staple to rapidly whirling spindles, or "needles" as they are called. These are a quarter of an inch in diameter and, while having high velocity in the axis, they are pushed into the bush or stalk of cotton so easily that not even the tenderest growth is injured. The motion forward, of the motor propelled machinery is somewhat slower than a horse would walk. One row of cotton is gathered at a time, the contrivance "straddling" the stalks being gathered.

This machine, many parts of which are now made by hand, is constructed at a total cost over all of approximately $5000. Even the demonstrator admits that there are a number of minor changes that will be necessary to make it readily adaptable to the needs of the varying heights of cotton, but these difficulties, if indeed they may be so called, will be met and conquered before the coming of another season. It is also expected that in the meantime the parts now made by hand will be made by machinery, thus cutting down the cost of the picker, and placing it more nearly within the reach of the majority of farmers.

It is contemplated that with this machine, the crops of the medium-sized farm may be gathered much after the fashion of the reaping and binding of the present day, one man operating machinery with which he may gather the crops of his neighbors and patrons in a goodly proportioned area of the country, for a small consideration per acre.

The cotton, dumped as it is in a retainer attached to a machine, is ready for transportation to the gin without any period of seasoning or other expensive change.

PRaise DIAZ REGIME

EXCITED SPEECHES IN WHICH ADMINISTRATION IS ASSAILED LOUDLY APPLAUDED FROM GALLERIES.

By Associated Press.
Mexico City, Oct. 25.—Astounded by the news that Zapatistas entered the federal district, sacked a town and killed and wounded over half the government troops sent against them, the Chamber of Deputies today demanded that the acting Minister of War appear before it and submit full reports regarding the insurrection and the measures taken for suppression.

Excited denunciation of the government in which President Madero was included was a feature of the heated speeches, which the galleries applauded.

Complimentary references to the Diaz government met with shouts of approval from the galleries.

The battle occurred at Milpa Alta yesterday. Today another encounter was reported near Xochimilco, but it was declared not serious.

Federal troops today reoccupied Milpa Alta.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 25.—President Taft tonight bade farewell to Minnesota and departed for the real home of the enemy, Wisconsin.

His speech tonight on arbitration treaties was devoid of politics. In addition to the speech tonight, the President made two other important addresses, one on the Panama Canal before the Young Men's Republican Club of Minneapolis and the other to students of the University of Minnesota, to whom he gave a lot of homely advice, declaring among other things that the "young man who started life without any means was far better equipped than a rich man's son with an income sufficient to live upon."

Panther City in Partial Darkness A Mouse Did It

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 25.—A mouse and a piece of baling wire were responsible for the putting out of commission of a considerable part of Fort Worth's lighting for a part of two nights, and a portion of the North Side was in darkness as a consequence of this condition.

Investigation proved that a mouse in running across the back of the switchboard at the city power plant, made connection of the terminals, causing a short circuit. This made a flash and a roar like lightning, the short circuit resulting in a 4000 volt current that burned the mouse to a crisp, and was sufficient to go through the insulated wires, where the boys had thrown a piece of baling wire across the telephone lines, and another short circuit was created.

By Associated Press.
New York, Oct. 25.—By a great batting rally in the last half of the ninth with two men out, the New York Giants scored two runs, tying the score, and won by a score of 4 to 3 in the tenth inning, making the world's series stand, Philadelphia 3, New York 2.

Hard, clean hitting won for the Giants, though Umpire Klem of the Nationals who was behind the plate declared after the contest that the Athletics might have kept the score tied by a triple play if they had protested the winning run, Doyle not touching the plate.

Marquard and Coombs began the contest. In the third, after Oldring's home run had driven Lapp and Coombs in ahead of him, Marquard became unsteady and in the fourth Ames went in the box for New York.

Ames pitched scoreless ball until the seventh, when Crandall, who was sent in to bat for him took the mound. The turning point in the game may be reckoned from Crandall's appearance in the game. The husky twirler held Philadelphia scoreless in the eighth, ninth and tenth, and in the ninth came to time after two were out with a cracking double that scored Doyle with the tying run.

Coombs held New York scoreless until the seventh when Merkle, who had been given his base on balls and had gone to second on Baker's fumble, taking third when Fletcher's infield hit forced Herzog and scored from third on Meyer's sacrifice fly.

In the ninth with one out, Fletcher doubled. Meyers went out and Crandall cracked out a clean double, scoring Fletcher and coming home himself a moment later when Devore lined out a hot one to center.

Doyle opened New York's tenth with a rattling double, going to third on Snodgrass' bun and Murray's fly to Murphy, scoring the winning run a moment later when Merkle had another fly to Murphy.

The Score by Innings.

First Inning: Philadelphia—Devore made a wonderful shoestring catch of Lord's short liner. Oldring out. Doyle to Merkle. Marquard seemed a bit nervous and Meyers walked up and patted him on the back. Snodgrass took Collins' fly.

New York—Devore out. Barry to Davis. Baker took Doyle's foul. Snodgrass, who was bitted in Philadelphia yesterday for spiking Baker, was cheered as he stepped to the plate, but he was out by the Baker-Davis route.

Second Inning: Philadelphia—Baker fanned. Murphy singled to left. Davis fanned. Murphy out stealing. Meyers to Doyle.

New York: Murray fanned. So did Merkle. Herzog bunted safely, stole second and Fletcher fanned.

Third Inning: Philadelphia—Barry out. Herzog to Merkle. Lapp angled to center. Coombs hit a grounder to Herzog, but Doyle, in his eagerness to make a double play, dropped the throw. Lord sent a fly to Doyle. Lapp, Coombs and Oldring scored on Oldring's home run. It was a terrific wallop into left field stand. Marquard, unsteady by the disaster, walked Collins. Collins stole second. Ames went to warm.
