THIRD DAY OF SYNOD OF MARKED INTEREST

ADDRESSES BY NOTED DIVINES

J. E. McAfee of New York, Dr. Wadsworth of Denver and Others Speak

DISCUSS HOME MISSIONS

REPORT MADE WITH RECOMMENDATION FOR CHANGES AND EXTENSIONS TO ASSURE GREATER RESULTS

The third day's session of the Synod Texas was marked by addresses by noted divines, and an extended discussion following report of the home mission committee, with certain recommendations relative to changes in plans to further the growing need of Texas.

Prominent among the speakers yesterday were J. E. McAfee of New York City, associate secretary of the board of home missions, and Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, of Denver.

At the night session, Mr. McAfee delivered a forceful address on the theme of "Our Country and the Presbyterian Church."

He said in part that the Presbyterian church had been very much in evidence in the history of this Republic. He referred to Woodrow Wilson, the standard bearer of the Democratic party, is now a member of a Presbyterian church. It is not the object of the Presbyterian church to manufacture presidential material, but the purpose of the church is the salvation of the individual.

It is not true that good men and women always give rise to good society. From some of our best homes come those who do not add much to society. He referred to the awful tragedy in New York when a citizen of that most populous city of the continent, he sweltering in his own blood in front of the hotel in the heart of the city. Where were the police? not one was to be found. Where were they? They were conspicuously absent and absent because they had arranged in carrying out the plot. The tragedy was the result of a feeling of security in a great and popular city.

The speaker referred to Whitman, who stands true and tried. He is the product of the brick Presbyterian church. "Gyp the Blood" is the result of the neglect of the church to fully realize its tremendous task.

How shall the church contribute to the salvation of society? This can not be done by the sending out of emissaries. Indeed this may accomplish much. National ideals influence the society of the nation. Never before in the history of the world has the nation's ideals been more powerful in lifting the world. The world will be lifted back to its God when the nation's ideals on a part of the world's thought.

The spiritual life must permeate the whole life of the nation, governmental, social industrial and spiritual. The people must be prepared to rule themselves. The fact that they fail in many things is no reason.

1. The Presbyterian church must find itself by losing itself. It is now impossible that four or five churches to succeed in the same community.

2. There must be centralization of the Christian forces of the world.

3. It should be the joy of the whole church to see the receding of sectarianism.

4. The Presbyterian church must save the state. All the forces of the world, church, school and theatre must be made to be a source of moral and spiritual food to the nation.

5. The Presbyterian church must carry out these plans of the revelation of the gospel to all the world. Our program must be of such a character as to reach the whole society.

Night Session
The Synod met according to the previously arranged program with Moderator R. E. Joiner in the chair. The services were introduced with an organ prelude by Miss Rachael Kendall of Amarillo. The report of the committee on nominations reported. The report was not adopted but was carried over until Saturday morning.

The congregation sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

BATTLE RAGES ON MONTENEGRIN LINE

Montenegrin Headquarters, Podgoritz, Oct. 11.—The general battle along almost the entire Turko-Montenegrin frontier continued today.

The Turkish losses in the battle of Detchitch Mountain were six hundred men and those of the Montenegrins four hundred.

More than six thousand Malissori tribesmen revolted from the Turks and attacked the Turkish army in the rear.

DIPLOMATS STILL HOPE FOR PEACE.

London, Oct. 11.—No news was received in London tonight concerning the operations of Montenegrins in the direction of the Turkish town of Scutari, or of hostilities on other Balkan frontiers. The legations of the Balkan states in London were without advices.

The continued delay in declaring war by other states besides Montenegro has revived hopes in diplomatic circles that a general war in the Balkans may be averted. It is said that a much more hopeful view of the situation prevailed in the British foreign office today. The Bulgarian Government today denied reports of fights on the Turko-Bulgarian frontier.

PORTE TO REPLY TO POWERS' NOTE SUNDAY.

Constantinople, Oct. 11.—The Porte is not expected to reply to the note of the Powers' before Sunday. It is believed that this reply will acquiesce with the views of the Powers and accept the offer to submit the program of proposed reforms in Macedonia.

It is presumed that the Porte is not unwilling to gain time by prolonging the discussion, to add to military preparations for war.

Local newspapers hint at attempts made by Turkey to separate Greece from the Balkan coalition by offering Greece special advantages, but that the offer was refused by the Government, and it remains true to its allies in the Balkans.

AUSTRIA MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

Vienna, Oct. 11.—That Austria is making military preparations for the Balkan war was indicated today by the reply of the Minister of Finance in the Hungarian Diet to the criticism of a Socialist that the extraordinary credits asked by the Government implied warlike designs. The Minister said "International deliberations may ensue, and we would make our voice heard more successfully if well armed."

GOVERNOR WILSON SPEAKS AT CANTON

Developes His Argument Concerning Progressive Plans and Program

PERKINS BACKS MOVEMENT

JERSEY MAN NOT INTERESTED IN WHERE ROOSEVELT'S MONEY COMES FROM BUT THE SOURCE OF HIS IDEALS

By Associated Press

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Governor Wilson, in his speech at Canton tonight, developed his argument regarding the Steel Corporation and the Progressive program for regulation of trusts. "It is very significant," he said, "that George W. Perkins is back of this program. Mr. Perkins has disclosed his whole thought. When testifying before the senate committee, he said there ought to be an industrial commission before whom gentlemen desiring to combine should lay their plans. In other words, he wants a commission that will permit, under regulation, a process of combinations and monopoly. Therefore we take it for granted that this is the third party's program. I am interested not in where Col. Roosevelt's money comes from but his ideas come from.

"The vision of the Democratic party," which he declared had preserved it from alliance, with and domination by special privilege, was the burden of his address. He performed what he designated as a ceremony of introduction of the Democratic party to some of his hearers who "are not well acquainted with it," and after an explanation of what he contended were its principles, expressed the hope that the introduction had been successful.

"It has been here all along," he said, "but you weren't paying attention. You are just now beginning to take notice, because there was a solid phalanx, a solid organized rush line, between you and the horizon. The whole horizon was shut out from you by the towering figures of men who hold closely and firmly together in order to dominate the situation. But now their lines are broken, a little bit of the horizon can be glimpsed, and beyond this towering figure you see the great resurgent mass of the American people; and you see certain gentlemen, a few hours before, the Times exploiters for them saying:

"We have been waiting for your attention for a long time; now will you be kind enough to listen? Will you be kind enough to realize what our ideals are? Will you be kind enough to open your eyes to the vision which was led on through dark days for a whole generation?"

"For we would not have carried this burden of evil if we had not seen a vision. We could have traded; we could have got into the game; we could have surrendered and made terms; we could have played the role of patrons to the men who wanted to dominate the interest of the country—and here and there gentlemen who pretended to be Democrats did make those arrangements. I could mention some of them; I know some of them. They couldn't stand the privation. There was too little in it. And you never can stand it unless you have some imperishable food within you upon which to sustain life and courage, the food of those visions of the spirit where a table is set before you loaded with palatable fruits, the fruits of hope, the fruits of imagination—those invisible things of the spirit which are the only things upon which we can carry ourselves through this weary world without faltering.

"I want to introduce you to present Democratic party," he continued, "a party that has come through fire, has been purified has been shown such errors as it has committed in past years and is now absolutely and enthusiastically united upon a progressive program, a platform such as the whole country now desires to see carried out. That is the new Democratic party, now because it never grows old, now because the principles in which it is rooted and grounded never can grow old. This is the party which is now being questioned with regard to its purposes by the leaders of parties which are either breaking up or have not yet attained to the home and sinew of manhood.

"These gentlemen are saying: 'If you give power to the Democrats, you will run into all days. For one thing you will have free trade.' Ah, that anxious beggar. How long will

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 11.—The government in the "dynamite" trial here today indicated it would seek to solve the mystery of the disappearance of F. A. ## TWIRLING FOOLS GIANTS

TESREAU TAKEN OUT OF BOX IN EIGHT INNING AND RELIEVED BY AMES

By Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—The Boston Red Sox won their fourth victory in the series today by a three to one score. Thirty-six thousand people witnessed the game.

"Smoky Joe" Wood, the Boston twirler, was the star of today's contest. Clouds screened the sun, and in the murky air, Wood's speedy ball worked havoc with the Giant's batters.

Wood was in trouble for two innings, the sixth and seventh. In the sixth, Tesreau and Devore got hits, with no outs. The crowd tried to rattle Wood, but he was cool as an iceberg, putting out Doyle, Snodgrass and Murray in rapid succession.

Herzog singled and scored on Murray's double. Boston scored in the second, when Gardner tripled and Tesreau made a wild throw.

In the fourth Stahl reached first on a forced hit, stole second, went to third on an infield out, and home on Cady's drive.

Boston's third run was made in the ninth. Gardner singled, was sacrificed to second by Stahl, took third on an infield out, and scored on Wood's single.

Tesreau, who was in the box for New York, was relieved by Ames in the eighth. Tesreau made a good showing, but was taken out to allow McCormick to bat for him.
