WILL INTRODUCE CURRENCY BILL

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON CURRENCY HAS ALREADY BEEN PRELIMINARY

PUBLIC OPINION IS GUIDE

After Bill Has Been Introduced Congress Will Await Expression of Opinion Through Newspapers

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—The president today finished writing a currency message of twelve hundred words. He will probably read it at a joint assembly of both houses of congress. It is expected a currency bill will be introduced by both houses Wednesday or Thursday, and the president's message read about June the twenty-third.

Public opinion must decide whether currency legislation is enacted at this session of congress. This is the view of Democratic Leader Underwood after a conference with President Wilson. With conflicting opinions among prominent democrats as to the necessity of currency reform at the present session, it is the purpose of the administration to launch a currency bill before Friday, accompanied or followed by a message expressing the president's belief in the necessity of banking reform. Congress will discuss the bill and await the expression of opinion by newspapers and business men. If the country makes insistent demand for action, the administration believes senators and representatives will submit to personal discomfort during the coming hot weather. The president believes strongly that the country will demand currency reform, preventative of a possible stringency following the passage of the tariff bill.

Celebrate Kaiser's Jubilee

BERLIN, June 16.—The fetes celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Kaiser's reign reached their climax today. At dawn the people of Berlin were awakened by the booming of cannon and the blaring of trumpets. An hour or so later found the masses of people converging on the Schloss, where 7,000 school children had gathered to surround his Majesty. The thousands of people who thronged the vicinity of the palace displayed the utmost enthusiasm when the Kaiser and his family appeared on the balcony.

Later in the day the Kaiser reviewed the troops on the Potsdam parade ground and then came the real affair of the day, the scene before the throne when the twenty-five rulers of German States, including the kings of Bavaria, Saxony, and Wurtemberg paid homage to the emperor. The formalities closed with the jubilee court, when the Kaiser and Kaiserin received the special ambassadors from numerous countries and the deputations bringing congratulations from the cities of the empire. A deputation headed by Andrew Carnegie presented a congratulatory address signed by many prominent Americans. The Kaiser displayed marked cordiality toward Mr. Carnegie and his two associates, Robert S. Brookings of St. Louis and Jacob G. Schindlapp of Cincinnati.

Charlton Must Return to Italy

NEW YORK, June 16.—Porter Charlton, the young man who threw the body of his wife into Lake Como in Italy three years ago, after he had killed her by throwing a small copper statue at her in anger, as he admitted here, may break down before he is deported to Italy in accord with the United States Supreme Court decision of Tuesday. Charlton has been a prisoner in the Hudson County, N. J., jail since he was captured when leaving the liner on which he arrived after his wife's death. He has been a model prisoner. His father, who was a lawyer in the office of the attorney general at Washington, has visited him frequently and has conducted the fight for him. It is possible an effort will be made to save the young man on the ground that he was insane at the time of the murder or is insane today.

VARIOUS CHANGES IN TARIFF BILL

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—The agricultural schedule of the Underwood bill has again been voted by a motion reconsidering the action of free listing livestock and wheat subject to a countervailing duty after this point was supposed to have been settled. The committee further enlarged the free list by adding flax, hemp and ramie. It also decided not to consider the Mitchell amendment of a graduated tax on the tobacco output. Bananas, never before taxed, were added to the dutiable list to encourage American growers. The house vote on citrus fruit rates were left unchanged despite many protests. The liquor schedule was unchanged but was left open for amendment.

Special to The News. CANYON, Texas, June 16.—Randall county has been recently rain favored—the latest down-pour exceeding an inch, here with from 1/2 to 1 inch reported from practically all portions of the county. The latest rain was immediately preceded by two days of heavy mist which probably equalled in moisture value 1/2 inch of actual rain precipitation. Farmers are jubilant and stockmen are cracking jovial jokes.

STATE RATE LAWS UPHeld BY COURT

SUPREME COURT FOLLOWED PRINCIPLES STATED IN MINNESOTA CASES

RY. EVIDENCE TOO GENERAL

Refused to Accept Valuation of Missouri Assessing Board and Did Not Sustain Claims of Railroads

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—Without varying from the principles stated in the Minnesota rate cases, the supreme court upheld the state rate legislation of Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon and West Virginia, including the two cent passenger laws of Missouri, Arkansas and West Virginia; also the maximum freight rate laws of Missouri and Arkansas, and the freight rates of Oregon.

Wherever the principle was raised of state laws which interfered with interstate commerce, Justice Hughes referred to his Minnesota decision, disapproving many who believed the court might modify that decision. The court refused to accept the valuation of the Missouri assessing board as a fair valuation, figuring whether the rates were confiscatory in the majority of Missouri and Arkansas cases, the court held that the railroad evidence was too general to warrant the claim that their property was taken without compensation.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—The Supreme Court upheld the decision of the Supreme Court of Arizona confirming the right of William Gilbelle, owner of agricultural lands, to irrigation water, free from contamination by the reducing plant of the Arizona Copper Company at Chilton. To Decide Fate of Sulzer Measure

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16.—Called together by Governor Sulzer to take action on a Direct Nomination bill, the members of the New York Legislature assembled in extraordinary session today. Since he issued the call for the session five weeks ago Governor Sulzer has attempted the entire State in behalf of the measure which he tried unsuccessfully to get through at the regular session. He now professes to feel certain of victory at the extra session. This opinion, however, is not shared by some of the Governor's friends. In order to get his bill through the Governor must convert eighteen Senators and twenty-eight assemblymen, who already have gone on record as against his plan.

He has served three terms in the state legislature, and was an important factor in helping get through the legislation which attracted the attention of the country to Governor Wilson. Mr. Ford was born in Hoboken in 1867. He graduated from the Hoboken High School and immediately entered the printing trade, and has had thirty years practical experience in that craft. He has a thorough knowledge of the mechanics of printing, and at the present time holds an executive position with the Hudson Observer, one of the largest papers in New Jersey.

LITTLE CHANGE IN COAL STRIKE

By Associated Press. CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 16.—Testimony before the coal strike committee was mostly routine and cumulative. Offers of mine workers declare the union has not called a new strike at Daily and Cabin Creeks, but cannot be sure of the men working in the field. They have tried to prevent further strike, they say, but operators have not seen the agreement drawn up by Governor Hefner. The miners' committee of Cabin Creek urges the officials to call a general strike according to instructions at a mass meeting of miners.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—Henry Oxnard, vice president of the American Beet Sugar Company, principal witness before the Senate lobby committee, was on the stand for several hours and proved an interesting witness. He told the committee how New York bankers in organizing a beet sugar company insisted on putting fifteen millions of water in a twenty million dollar corporation. He gave warning that the Underwood bill with a free sugar provision would result in the formation of a new trust now violating the law. Another witness, Aaron Gove, of Denver, testified he was employed by the Great Western Company eight years to be given to the study of the economic side of sugar and to convincing congressmen of the soundness of his views that a duty was necessary.

The government charges that the defendants employed threats and persuasion to prevent manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers from reducing prices. It is also charged that they have sought to coerce manufacturers and producers to market through the wholesaler, and have conspired to prevent transactions from producer to retailer or customer. Peculiar interest attaches to the contempt proceedings, as the action may be a forerunner of prosecution of other trusts, including Tobacco and Standard Oil.

Champion Speller of Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—Frank H. Willis, ex-schoolmaster, is the champion speller of Washington. Senators, correspondents, cabinet officers and other officials fall before him when he appears at the "spelling" box of the National Press Club. Senator Miles Polk of Washington, the only member of the upper branch of congress who puts himself down in the directory as a progressive, stood to the last, or almost the last, with the Ohio representative. Then the secretary of agriculture, the former president of a college, who acted as spelling master, put to him a hard word. He stumbled. "It's easy," said the Ohio man. "It's hydrocephalus." The charge has recently been made in New York that the school teachers there—there are some 17,000 of them—can't spell. Willis has proved it's different in Ohio.

MANY EX-TEXANS NOW OKLAHOMANS

SOONER STATE THICKLY POPULATED BY EMIGRANTS FROM THIS STATE

OVERCROWDING IS CAUSE

Stinnett Says Great Panhandle Fair Would Bring Stream of Immigration to This Section of Texas.

(A. S. STINNETT.) Did it ever occur to the people of the Panhandle that the quick settlement and development of the State of Oklahoma was mainly by and through the people emigrating thither from Texas? There is a large sprinkling of Texas people in the northern and northeastern section of Oklahoma, but most of the people of the old Indian Territory subdivision of Oklahoma are ex-Texas, and it is this division of the state that carries the heaviest population, and has the development and wealth, and such is largely true of Western Oklahoma.

Oklahoma has a population of something like two million people, and it would be no exaggeration to state that 500,000 of the said population are ex-Texas. There had never been a previous misrepresentation of the conditions and resources in Oklahoma as has been and is yet the case with reference to the Panhandle, and had the people of Texas known the Panhandle as it is, and as they should know, the Panhandle would have been settled and developed, as has been the case with Oklahoma, and if the people of Texas are made to know, as they must and will be, through the agency of an "All-Panhandle Fair" they will yet settle the Panhandle of Texas, and do it quickly and substantially.

There are at least 100 counties in the state of Texas that have every tillable acre, and in their entirety, many acres that are not tillable, under cultivation in a desperate effort to keep the rising generation at home, and the overflow from these counties is now growing and increasing each year, and this overflow is still seeking a resting place in Oklahoma in one direction, California, Washington, Oregon and other Northwestern states, in another direction, and there is a steady and increasing stream of Texans passing through the Panhandle to the Northwestern States, and this I know to be true, as I have met them with increasing numbers the past several years, and happened to know personally many of them, who related to me something of the thousands of others going just as they were.

Many other counties in the more populous districts of Texas, are getting into the condition of being completed and overcrowded, and are beginning to send forth their streams, and what sane-minded man is it who could deny the soundness of these statements and question the expediency of providing means at once to effectively divert these tides to the Panhandle, and what other means could there be excepting the "All-Panhandle Fair"?

In the first place, this Fair would have the enthusiastic and cordial support and cooperation of the great railroads, consisting of the Santa Fe, traversing a large section of the Panhandle, and most all sections of the State of Texas, and the Fort Worth & Denver, bisecting the Panhandle with its line, extended from Fort Worth to Galveston, and the Rock Island, traversing the Northeastern and Upper Panhandle, and the sections of Fort Worth and Dallas, and from Dallas to Galveston, and all people and intensely interested in the settlement and prosperity of the Panhandle.

These railroads would gladly afford every facility in the way of advertising the Fair and Exposition, and would also afford lowest possible passenger rates from all sections of Texas, and if need be other states, by rail to the fair, and in fact there is nothing conceivable that they could do that they would not do, and need more busily.

The plan would be get up and carry thoroughly and artistically, an Exhibit Car, representative of the products of every community of the Panhandle, and also to store this car with attractive literature, profusely illustrated, such to be descriptive of the products and of all the possibilities of the Panhandle, and send out this car in charge of capable and aggressive men, for the purpose of convincing many of the populous counties of Texas, just before and up to the opening of the "All-Panhandle Fair."

This car can be advertised in advance, and would be inspected by thousands. Competent lecturers could accompany the car, and invite an interested and eager public to the "All-Panhandle Fair and Exposition" and with glowing, yet truthful de-
